

The Boss Behind The Game Chapter 628

The appearance of the revival token and its high selling price had become a hot topic among players at this stage.

What the players were most concerned about was the cost of making the 'resurrection coins'.

In their opinion, if the cost was very low and the price was so high, it was definitely a profiteer.

However, only mo Xiaoxin and a few others knew that it was not expensive.

After all, the cost was there.

750,000 soul coins could only be used to brew two batches. Even if each batch was calculated according to the highest output of 15 bottles, the price of each bottle would be about 25000 soul coins.

This was the lowest cost achieved without accounting for failure. Not to mention, it was impossible to create an upper limit of 15 bottles each time.

Therefore, even if the price of a bottle of soul praying wine was doubled with an additional 10000 soul coins, he and qu Zui were actually at risk of making a loss.

However, mo Xiaoxin was thinking that the technology could slowly mature, and the price of the soul prayer wine would easily scare off potential customers. It was better to first open up the market at an appropriate price, making a small Profit first, then a big one.

However, what made mo Xiaoxin the happiest was that his plan could finally be implemented.

It was time to move the treasure!

On the fourth day after the first batch of soul praying wine was sold, there was another failure during the period, and the second batch of soul praying wine was fresh out of the oven.

This time, after a discussion with qu Zui, mo Xiaoxin took two bottles for himself. The reason was to try the taste.

Qu Zui naturally did not have any objections to this.

From qu Zui's point of view, he had only provided technical support. In reality, mo Xiaoxin was the one who had been busy all this time, and he had put in more effort than qu Zui.

After obtaining the soul praying wine, mo Xiaoxin couldn't help but want to go treasure hunting.

He often saw players livestreaming in unknown areas or certain ruins on the forum, and then they would receive very generous rewards. It was impossible for him not to be envious. However, this was his first time trying it out personally. He was filled with anticipation.

That day, he took the "brick-moving boat" that he had raised for three years and set sail to the sea, heading to the area marked on the map.

During the two-day voyage, mo Xiaoxin spent the entire time reading on the forum. He also complained about the expensive 'resurrection coins' on the forum. Trash seller, won't your conscience hurt at such a high price?

This was naturally mo Xiaoxin's cover for himself.

Although the possibility of being discovered was very low, he still felt that it was better to have a layer of insurance.

This was also the reason why he was still alive and well even though he had been living a carefree life for the past three years. He had erased all possible unfavorable factors, even if the degree of danger was very small.

As for whether his conscience would hurt if the price was too high, mo Xiaoxin could give an answer without hesitation.

Not only did it not hurt, but it was also alive and kicking, so good!

He had always understood that there was a huge difference in earning money between those who were skilled and those who carried bricks. For example, The Alchemist players might need to work for a week or even a month to earn as much money as the brick-carrying players.

In the past, he had also complained on the forum about the high prices of the items sold by the technical players as a brick-moving player.

However, now that he had truly joined them, mo Xiaoxin only wanted to say, " It was so fragrant!

At this stage of the game, the most profitable ways to earn money were:

劫掠>贸易>各类生活职业>搬砖。

Even though there were more ways to earn soul coins.

There were also various ways to earn soul coins, such as exploring, treasure hunting, breeding, and so on. However, among the most popular ways to earn soul coins, players who carried bricks such as fishing, cutting trees, mining, and moving corpses would always be at the bottom.

Not only was it the most difficult, but it also earned the least.

Mo Xiaoxin had a deep understanding of this. He always felt that those technical bastards got money too quickly and didn't understand the feelings of the brick-moving party at all.

However, now that he had risen from a low-level player to a player who made money with his skills, mo Xiaoxin's stance had changed.

Who can you blame for the weaklings' brick-moving gang's inability?

The law of true fragrance was one of the basic laws of the universe, and no one could escape from it.

Although every brick-moving player cursed and said that the technical players were black-hearted, in reality, they all wanted to join and become one.

It was the same for mo Xiaoxin. After being poor for three years, he had always fantasized about getting rich.

Moreover, he was sure that when qu Zui was able to master brewing the soul praying wine, the cost would be reduced and their income would be no less than the players who engaged in plundering and trading. If they could form a scale, it would definitely be one of the most profitable ways at this stage.

Although he could only get about 10% of the income from the soul praying wine because there were too many investors, mo Xiaoxin was very satisfied. He felt that he had finally made it.

Holding the fishing rod, mo Xiaoxin's face was filled with joy as he fantasized about his beautiful future.

Along the way, mo Xiaoxin arrived at the location marked on the map, which was the border between the sea of vanity and the kui Dragon Sea.

After opening the map and confirming the coordinates, mo Xiaoxin put away his fishing rod and jumped into the water.

After putting specter ship into the storage space, he began to dive to the bottom of the sea.

As he dived, the water pressure continued to increase, and the light became dimmer and dimmer, until his vision was completely covered by darkness.

However, with the map on the top right corner, mo Xiaoxin was not worried about getting lost.

However, when they dove deeper, the water pressure became extremely high, and undercurrents began to appear around them. Mo Xiaoxin found it a little difficult to hold on.

Therefore, he decisively activated the ability of the negative emotions: Void-ification.

At this moment, a gray mist gradually emerged on the surface of his body until his body completely turned into mist.

Mo Xiaoxin was not supposed to be able to withstand such a harsh underwater environment. However, after activating his invisibility, the water pressure and the suction force from the whirlpool instantly dissipated, allowing him to continue diving without any hindrance.

After diving for another thousand meters or so, mo Xiaoxin stopped and turned to his left.

Although it was dark in his vision, the coordinates on the map showed that he was here.

He didn't hesitate and dashed to the left.

After advancing for about ten meters, his vision suddenly brightened. He had once again arrived at the area where he had obtained the drawing of the soul praying wine.

The place was still very quiet. Other than the two rusty Dragon-headed pillars in the middle, there was nothing else.

At this moment, mo Xiaoxin dispelled his ethereal state and walked to the Dragon head pillar.

Although he found out from the information that the soul praying wine might be the key to opening the dragon's head pillar, he didn't know how to use it.

After circling around the two Dragon-headed pillars and observing them carefully, mo Xiaoxin took out a bottle of soul praying wine and sprinkled some on the pillars.

When the wine came into contact with the Dragon-headed pillar, the originally rusty pillar suddenly began to emit a black light, and the copper rust also fell off.

Upon seeing this, mo Xiaoxin was filled with joy. He knew that he had used the right method.

However, this process only lasted for a short while before it ended again. The black light emitted by the dragon's head pillar was retracted and disappeared.

Seeing this, mo Xiaoxin immediately sprinkled some more wine on the dragon's head.

Sure enough, the effect appeared again. As the rust fell off, the patterns on the dragon's head pillar became clearer.

These patterns seemed to be formed by paintings.

However, because the diagram was too twisted, mo Xiaoxin couldn't understand it, and he couldn't be bothered to.

He was here to dig for treasure, not to do archeology, so he had no interest in understanding the life story of the tomb owner.

The only thing he knew was that the owner of the tomb who was buried in this way must have been very rich.

While he was waiting, the Dragon head pillar was completely awakened. The dark light it emitted never faded.

Seeing this, mo Xiaoxin smiled and immediately poured the remaining wine in the bottle onto the other Dragon-head pillar.

Even though he had only seen the effect, mo Xiaoxin's heart ached when he poured the wine down.

This wasn't wine, it was actually All Soul coins. Scattering coins like this was completely burning money. It was f*cking extravagant!

Soon, the first bottle of soul praying wine was used up. Fortunately, he brought two bottles of soul praying wine this time. If he only had one bottle, it would obviously not be enough.

Mo Xiaoxin had also considered this point and had chosen to bring two bottles with him.

The moment the two Dragon-head pillars were completely awakened, the entire space started to tremble.

A faint Dragon's Roar could be heard coming from underground. Following that, two Dragon-headed pillars retracted into the ground, and a formation appeared beneath mo Xiaoxin's feet. The energy nodes on the formation lit up one by one, finally converging at the center to form a teleportation gate.

Above the teleportation gate, two black Dragon heads were on the left and right. The energy from their mouths gathered at the center to form a spatial channel.

At this moment, he also saw the ingenuity of the design of this tomb.

Obviously, if he had been hot-headed back then and had chosen to dig three feet into the ground to open the tomb, he would probably not have found the specific location of the tomb even on the day the war closed.

The moment he saw the teleportation portal, mo Xiaoxin knew that the tomb wasn’t even under his feet. It was somewhere else. If he didn’t pass through the two Dragon-head pillars, he wouldn’t be able to use brute force to open the tomb.

Even though he had spent more than a month on this, mo Xiaoxin knew that his efforts had finally paid off.

The treasure, I’m coming, it’s all mine!

Mo Xiaoxin could only use one word to describe this feeling of hoardsman: Cool!

However, he didn’t enter it directly. Instead, he drank the rest of the soul praying wine in his hand to prevent any accidents from happening inside. After all, he would have to return to Beiqi after he died. It would take him several days to come back, which was a waste of time.

When the wine entered his throat, it had no taste at all. However, the pores on his body opened up, making mo Xiaoxin feel extremely comfortable.

The game prompt also sounded at this time.

[Game prompt: after drinking the soul praying wine, you will have a chance to revive on the spot. Twice (38 days)]

With two chances to resurrect, mo Xiaoxin was more confident. A smile appeared on his face as he strode forward, ready to enjoy the treasure alone.

At this moment, mo Xiaoxin suddenly noticed several figures appearing in the upper right corner.

“F * ck, there’s really such a thing! The copper pendant didn’t lie to us!”

” 666, I’m here to dig for treasure!”

“How! Happy, the few brothers who were killed by the vortex on the way didn’t die in vain, but it’s a pity that they won’t be able to see the treasure!”

.....

Looking at Gu Yu, Gou ‘Zi, Chen Ziyu, and the other familiar figures who had suddenly appeared, mo Xiaoxin was dumbfounded.

He turned to look at the portal, then at Gu Yu and the others, his face full of question marks.

They said that they would enjoy the treasure alone ... However, at this moment, there seemed to be some unknown changes.

Also, how did they know that there was a tomb here?

At this moment, the smile on mo Xiaoxin’s face gradually disappeared.
