Chapter 885

Chapter 885 Going To Aaron Will Not Help

Kingsley became nosy and asked, “Say, Danna and Aaron are also somewhat related. Why didn’t they seek Aaron’s help?”

Benjamin glanced at him. “Maybe they haven’t asked.”
“Boss, are you saying that they haven’t gone to Aaron?”

Kingsley was curious.

With an unreadable expression on his face, Benjamin played with the wine glass in his hand.

“Going to Aaron won’t help either!” he commented.

Kingsley frowned, his voice filled with righteous indignation as he spoke. “Yeah, we can’t let off people like this, or it’ll be too unfair for Arissa and the kids!”

Jonathan and Shaun nodded in agreement. “To be kind to your enemy is to be cruel to yourself!”

Benjamin grunted in agreement and then had a few drinks with them.

After finishing the medicine, Arissa walked over, and the kids ran forward to pull her away.

“Mommy, play with us!”

“Sure!”

Thus, she went over and played with the kids for a while.

Benjamin and the others continued to drink wine.

At ten o'clock, Arissa asked Darius, "Dad, do you want to go up and take a shower?"

Darius looked at her and replied with a smile, "I'll bring the kids upstairs for their bath."

"Mmh." Arissa nodded. "Sweethearts, go take your bath with Grandpa!"

"Okay!" the children chorused, then followed Darius upstairs to take a bath.

Smiling, Arissa walked over to inform Kingsley and the others before following the six little ones upstairs.

"I'm taking Gavin and the rest upstairs for their bath. Enjoy yourselves!" she said.

"Don't worry about us, Arissa," Kingsley replied, grinning.

"Yeah, Arissa. We'll just drink with Benjamin!" Shaun responded with a smile.

Jonathan chimed in, "Arissa, you should go to rest too. We don't know how long we will drink."

Nodding, Arissa turned around and said to Benjamin, "Remember to eat something."

"Mmh!" The man nodded, crinkling his eyes in a smile. His response evoked a chuckle from her. "I won't disturb you guys anymore. I'm going upstairs now."

Benjamin's gaze remained fixated on her figure. Even after she headed upstairs and disappeared from his sight, he was still reluctant to look away.

Kingsley, Jonathan, and Shaun exchanged gazes and revealed teasing smiles.

"What are you looking at, Boss? Arissa has gone upstairs!" Kingsley made fun of Benjamin.

After retracting his gaze, Benjamin met their eyes that spoke of tease and said, "Let's drink!"

They all burst out laughing.

A hint of faint blush appeared on Benjamin's cheeks briefly.

Ethen and Jack brought the food prepared by Edwin, then joined them in drinking.

Meanwhile, Arissa was upstairs, making the bed for the kids.

At the same time, Darius was bathing the kids inside the bathroom.

Hearing the voices of the elderly man and the kids, Arissa felt that her life was great.

Once the bed was made, she took out the children's clothes and went to the bathroom to urge them.

"Are you done with the bath, Sweethearts?"

"Yeah, Mommy!" the kids replied, grinning.

Jesse wore a pair of pants and had a towel wrapped around her head. The little girl looked absolutely adorable with her ruddy complexion.

As for her brothers, they were all wrapped in towels. Arissa carried Jesse and instructed the other kids to leave the bathroom and get dressed.

“Dad, you should take a shower too. Your clothes are wet,” she said to Darius.

“It’s okay.” The old man beamed. He had never been so happy. “It’s fun to bathe them!”

Arissa smiled. “Go take a shower, or you’ll catch a cold.”

She went out with Jesse in her arms and dressed her.

Darius, too, straightened the boys’ clothes.

Gavin said, “Grandpa, hurry up and take a shower. Your clothes are all wet.”

Zachary echoed, “That’s right, Grandpa. Go take a shower now, or you’ll catch a cold!”

“Grandpa, go shower. I want you to read us a story,” Tim urged.

“All right!” Darius responded.

Grinning from ear to ear, he stroked their heads.

“I’m going to take a shower now. After that, I’ll come over and read stories for you all!” he promised.
