

The More The Merrier

Chapter 899

□ □ □

Chapter 899 Misleading Everyone To See Arissa As A Mistress

Kingsley was stunned before he said in confusion, “There is! What’s going on that I don’t know about?” Seeing that he did not know, Benjamin decided to tell him. “What? Does Rosetta not have any sense of shame? Why did they drag you guys into their fight?”

A glint flashed past Benjamin’s eyes as he asked, “Do you think she hired ghostwriters?”

Kingsley mocked, “Of course! I’ve experienced these often to know that she’s using the same tactic as those in the entertainment industry. She’s using netizens to scold Arissa! I wouldn’t believe it if Rosetta didn’t use this matter to cause a commotion!”

When Ethen came and saw Kingsley, he paused for a moment.

“Speak!” Benjamin instructed Ethen to report, and the latter quickly told him everything he had investigated. “Mr. Graham, this feels like something Rosetta would do. When the media first found her, they probably wanted money. Then, she asked them to make the topic trending and found ghostwriters to cause all that fuss. She wanted to use this to frame Mrs.

Graham as the mistress.”

Benjamin lowered his gaze, and no one could tell what he was thinking. “I already said Rosetta is not a pushover.”

Kingsley scoffed coldly. Indeed, she’s shameless. When Arissa came and heard Kingsley’s words, she decided to knock on the door as she realized what they were discussing.

Everyone turned toward the direction of the sound. She smiled. “Is it okay for me to come in?”

“Of course!” Kingsley grinned widely. Benjamin replied softly, “Come in!” Arissa smiled and walked in. “Let’s go and eat!” Benjamin gestured to Ethen, and the latter nodded. He bade Kingsley and Arissa farewell before leaving.

Kingsley immediately followed him with the lunchbox and took the dishes out to place them nicely on the table.

“Come and eat! We can discuss after we are done!”

Benjamin stood up and grabbed Arissa’s hand before walking over.

“Let’s dig in!” Arissa looked at him and asked, “Have you dealt with the thing online?”

A glint flashed across Benjamin's expression. "You found out about it?"

She nodded. "I saw it and wanted to handle it.

However, the website suddenly got hacked!"

Benjamin was surprised and raised his brow. "You're good at this kind of thing too?"

"Well, this is nothing."

Arissa smiled. "It wasn't me who did it," Benjamin replied in a low voice. Arissa froze and looked at him in surprise. "If it wasn't you, who was it then?"

Benjamin's lips curved upward, and he pulled her to sit down. Arissa looked at Kingsley, and her eyes lit up.

"Was it Mr. Watts?"

Kingsley smiled. "I only found out about it just now!"

Benjamin cast a glance at him and asked, "Why are you still here?"

The corners of Kingsley's mouth twitched, and he felt slightly depressed. "I have been here all this while!"

Benjamin glared at him before replying Arissa, "It was Gavin!"

"Gavin?" Arissa was surprised. Her eyes lit up with pride. "Gavin knows how to do this?"

"Boss taught him!" Kingsley grinned. Benjamin glared at him, and Kingsley immediately quietened down.

Arissa smiled. "Gavin is amazing!"

If Gavin knew about it, Zachary and the others probably found out about it too. I see. My children handled it. Benjamin passed a bowl of soup to her. “Don’t mind what the Internet says...”

“I don’t mind it. I’m just amazed by the wild imaginations of those who don’t know anything!”

Arissa took the bowl and drank the soup happily.

After looking at her for a while, Benjamin said carefully, “Do you really not mind?”

“Why would I care about it? I’m not a mistress!”

Arissa looked at him with her bright eyes. Benjamin’s thin lips curled up slightly, and he patted her head.

Kingsley was drinking his soup and could not help but say, “Isn’t it easy to settle this? Boss can just make an official announcement about your relationship.”

Benjamin glanced at him. Finally, he said something I like.

□ □ □