Chapter 910 Marry Me

Benjamin's thin lips curled up slightly. Lifting his glass, he aimed it at Arissa in a toast. "Let's drink!" Arissa picked up the glass in front of her with a smile. There wasn't much red wine in it, which one could finish in no time.

Edwin knew she couldn't have too much wine, so he only poured a little more for her to lift the atmosphere.

When the six children saw that, they also quickly raised their glasses.

Waves of laughter sounded. "Cheers!"

"Cheers!" Arissa smiled and shouted, "Cheers!"

"Bottoms up!" Benjamin's thin lips curved upward.

They clinked glasses. The atmosphere became even more cheerful.

"Don't drink too much." Benjamin reminded Arissa.

With a nod, she took a sip of wine and ate the steak.

When Edwin noticed Benjamin had finished his glass of wine, he immediately poured the latter another glass of wine. After that, he delivered Arissa a cup of juice.

Suddenly, the music started and Arissa was shocked.

After looking around, she realized a music band had come out of nowhere at the small square.

“There’s a performance!” Gavin asked his siblings to have a look. All the six children looked over. Arissa was surprised to see the performance. “Graham, are there any other activities?”

She gazed at the handsome Benjamin with a smile.

With his thin lips curled up slightly, Benjamin answered, “There will be more later.” Anticipation filled Arissa. Why did Benjamin suddenly prepare all these?

“Is it a special occasion today?”

She gave it some thought. Hmm... Today isn’t an important occasion, though.

Benjamin looked at her. “Have some food first.”

Arissa smiled in response. She enjoyed the steak while listening to the music happily.

The six children also turned around to watch the music band as they took a bite of the food.

After they finished the steak, the other dishes were served subsequently.

Arissa’s gaze fell on the exceptionally handsome Benjamin sitting opposite her.

The way he dug into his food was elegant, causing her to fix her eyes on him as she enjoyed every second of watching him.

Benjamin lifted his gaze to her and stared at her intently.

Meanwhile, Edwin pushed a cart with roses and a small cake over.

There was even an embroidered box on it.

At the sight of the scene, Arissa's heartbeat accelerated.

Could it be what I've been thinking?

She had a hunch when she was at the office that day.

Thus, Arissa didn't dare to overthink.

Although she remained in her seat and enjoyed the food quietly, her eyes were fixated on Benjamin to check on his actions.

At the same time, the children also noticed that, and they exchanged glances with each other.

Gavin questioned, "Daddy, are you going to propose to Mommy?"

Clearing his throat, Benjamin swept a gaze at the children and stood up.

He took the embroidered box before walking over to Arissa. All six children cheered.

"Daddy is proposing to Mommy!" Some shouted, "Mr. Graham is proposing to Mommy!"

The others looked in the direction of the duo with a smile.

As Benjamin got closer, Arissa's heartbeat started racing, and she could even feel her hands sweating.

While fixing his eyes on her, Benjamin knelt on one knee before her and opened the embroidered box.

"Arissa York, marry me!"

Arissa covered her mouth with surprise because she couldn't believe he had indeed proposed to her.

She was touched as she didn't expect Benjamin would deign to propose to her. Oh, how sweet of him!

Benjamin's tone was assertive but sincere.

Benjamin stared at her fixedly. He began to panic when she did not respond to him for a long time.

Arissa could feel the warmth in her eyes.

"Mommy, what do you say? Do you accept or not?"

Zachary reminded.

As Arissa stared at Benjamin, she suddenly became a little embarrassed.

Since she was in a daze, Benjamin pulled her hand over directly and put on the ring for her.

"Wear it!" Benjamin appeared domineering, but his action was very gentle.

With her heart racing, Arissa looked at Benjamin before mumbling, "I haven't agreed, yet you put on the ring for me?"

Upon hearing her words, Benjamin raised his gaze. "I don't care if you agree or not. You will be my wife!"

The corner of Arissa's lips twitched. How domineering! Bang!

At that moment, fireworks could be seen not far away. Jesse uttered, "Wow! It is so beautiful!"
