There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband

Chapter 179 Overwhelmed with Happiness

In the evening, Emelia accompanied Vincent and Naomi to the old house of the Longerich family to attend the banquet. The Longerich family was a great family, and the scene was very grand.

Perhaps it was because as Vincent said, he had introduced her to his family in advance, so everyone was very friendly to Emelia. Emelia's tension was eased a lot.

What she didn't know was that Vincent also told them about her real identity. Everyone was happy for Vincent and felt sorry for Emelia, who had been out for so many years.

The old Mrs. Longerich held Emelia's hand and kept crying. Even though Emelia did not understand why the Longerich family was so excited when they saw her, she was willing to think it as their kindness.

The old Mrs. Longerich even insisted on giving her a set of emerald jewelry, from earrings to necklaces and rings.

At a glance at the color of the jade, she knew that it was priceless. How could she dare to accept it?

However, the old lady and the people around her persuaded her to accept it. Emelia was too kind to refuse, so she had to take it first. She thought that she would put it in Vincent and Naomi's place and let them keep it for her.

Vincent and Naomi also prepared a gift for her. It was a house in Riverside City, so she did not need to rent a house.

Emelia was so surprised that she couldn't speak. Naomi said to her in a gentle voice, 'You live alone in Riverside City. Only by having your own home can you have a sense of belonging and a sense of security.'

Vincent continued, 'We heard that your best friend, Nina, lives here, so we also bought you one. In this way, you can get close to her, and the two of you can take care of each other.'

Emelia's eyes instantly turned red. Vincent and Naomi's meticulous and thoughtful care made her feel moved.

She didn't need much requirement, but considering that they had arranged her and her best friend together, she was touched by the softest part in her heart.

In the past, Oliver's parents, who were Emelia's so-called grandparents, were not good to her at all.

Chapter 180 Take Responsibility for Him

In consideration of the injury to Julian's hand, on the way to the hospital, Emelia was driving his car.

Because she was in a hurry, she drove so fast that it was completely different from her usual steady driving style. It was too late at night. There were no cars on the road, so it was unimpeded along the way.

Different from Emelia's nervousness, Julian leisurely sat in the passenger seat. While waiting for the red light, he asked Emelia with other intentions, 'Are you so worried about me?'

Emelia felt that he was really insane. This was a matter of life and death. How could she not be nervous?

'Don't be such a narcissist. It's a matter of life and death. Even if Fluffball has scratched someone else, I would also send him to the hospital as soon as possible.' Emelia said to him grumpily, then stepped on the accelerator and continued to speed toward the hospital.

Julian was rendered speechless by the word 'narcissist'.

When was he ever like that?

However, Julian calmed down again. Because now, whenever Emelia showed him a bit of kindness, he felt flattered, even moved. He would agree to any request she made to him, but she didn't mention it.

They went all the way to the hospital and hung up the emergency room. After the doctor's examination, he said that not only did he have to had rabies vaccine injection, but also the immunoglobulin injection.

Emelia wanted to pay the bill. Julian stopped her. 'I'll pay for it myself.'

Emelia disagreed. 'The cat is mine. I have to be responsible for you.'

Hearing her say that she was responsible for him, Julian immediately laughed angrily. 'Emelia, if you want to say that you are responsible for me, you should be responsible for what happened at the hotel that morning.'

In the beginning, Emelia hadn't realized what he was trying to say. He gritted his teeth and said in a low voice, 'Why are you hanging on to me like this? If something goes wrong with my abilities in the future, you'll have to be responsible for the rest of my life.'

Emelia's face turned red. She had been trying hard to forget what had happened that morning. When he found her at night and said that he wanted to see the cat, she kept avoiding talking about it. Unexpectedly, he brought it up now.

He didn't even look at the current situation. How could he be in the mood to act like a hooligan?

Feeling ashamed and annoyed, Emelia turned to pay the bill. She didn't want to say a word to Julian anymore.

Chapter 181 Missing You

Chapter 181 Missing You

‘Emelia...’ Julian whispered her name. ‘Are you sure you can’t give me another chance?’

‘It’s getting late, go get some rest,’ said Emelia, before rising to leave without answering his question.

Julian slumped into the couch.

Failed again.

But then he stood up and stopped her, ‘It’s not safe for you to go back alone at this time of night.’

‘I’ll have the driver come by and take you home.’

While waiting for the driver to arrive, Julian asked Emelia, ‘How much do you trust Vincent? Aren’t you afraid he’s up to something?’

Julian was still upset about Vincent’s decision to make Emelia his adopted daughter.

Because he didn’t understand why Vincent would do such a thing, he only met Emelia once and asked her to be his adopted daughter?

That doesn’t make sense, at least for someone as thoughtful as Julian.

It's not that it doesn't make sense. He has a reasonable explanation, which is that Vincent was up to something with Emelia, and that explanation made Julian even more uncomfortable.

To Julian's suggestion that Vincent was up to something, Emelia asks, 'What does he want from me?'

Julian did not hesitate to say, 'You are young and beautiful.'

'Julian, why is your mind in the gutter?' Emelia fumed

Julian hummed, 'It's not that I'm dirty-minded, it's just that older men like Vincent are attracted to young, beautiful girls like you.'

Chapter 182 Meet the New Neighbor

Chapter 182 Meet the New Neighbor

So Emelia didn't explain much to Julian, saying simply, 'I believe Mr. Longerich is an honest and decent person.'

And then she took Nina's hand and left.

Julian took a deep breath to calm him, and he felt the need to investigate Vincent, especially since Vincent was so close to Emelia and he was being so nice to her.

He then stepped up to catch up with Emelia and asked casually, 'Which one is your house?'

Emelia answered truthfully, 'Building 28, House B, why?'

Valerian Bay was a villa complex, where there were detached villas, semi-detached house and stacked house.

The house that Vincent gave Emelia was one of the villas of the semi-detached building.

Julian raised an eyebrow. 'Building 28? Are you sure?'

'Of course,' asked Emelia, puzzled. 'Is there a problem?'

'No problem,' said Julian, he took off after that, leaving Emelia and Nina in the dark.

'I don't really want to move here,' Emelia told Nina as she drove her to Valerian Bay. 'It's too big of a house for one person. It feels empty.'

'Don't I live on my own? You will get used to it,' Nina urges her, 'and it's generally safer here than in your current apartment.'

'Anyway, let's go and have a look. You may fall in love with the house at first sight.'

It turns out that Nina was right, and Emelia was drawn to the house as soon as she entered, the first floor had huge floor-to-ceiling windows, and the second-floor study has a wall of bookcases.

Sitting on the carpet in the Sunshine, reading a book, listening to a song, and boiling a pot of tea, was simply the life of Emelia's dream.

The whole house was decorated in a style that Emelia liked and was comfortable and simple. Vincent had told her that he and Naomi had picked this Emelia's reaction was obvious, and Julian had guessed it, and he was satisfied.

Emelia had been trying to distance herself from him, and now here they were, he lived next door to the house that Vincent gave her.

Julian kept a smile on his face and continued, 'We will be neighbors from now on.'

Valerian Bay was a project of the Hughes, so he naturally kept a house for himself.

It's just that he and Emelia have been living in their home since they were married, and after hearing from Emelia said that she was Building 28, he was surprised himself, and when he asked the house management, they said Emelia moved in yesterday afternoon, so he also asked the moving company to move his things over overnight.

When Emelia finally came to her senses, she asked Julian in disbelief, ‘How do you happen to live next door?’”

‘Don’t worry, it wasn’t bought yesterday, and it wouldn’t have been too late, would it?’ Julian confessed. ‘I had the property right here, next door.’

‘It must have been a special connection that made us neighbors,’ Julian said slowly, as Emelia’s face darkened with frustration

He was clearly teasing her, so Emelia closed the door and shut him out.

What a special connection! It’s a bad connection!

At first, Emelia loved the house, but now that Julian was her new neighbor, all of her joy of moving to a new house had vanished. If she had known that, she might as well not have moved.

She had lived in a run-of-the-mill old apartment, while Julian lived in a luxury mansion on the beach. They were so far apart that Julian had to drive half an hour to get to her.

Well, now they live next door, and if he’s trying to find her, it’s just a matter of a few steps.

As soon as Emelia got home, Julian texted her on her cell phone, Let’s have dinner tonight to celebrate the fact that we’ve all moved into our new home.

Chapter 184 I Promise

Chapter 184 I Promise

As she spoke, Emelia poked her pale index finger into Julian's abs. Julian's face suddenly grew hard. He couldn't take it.

How can any man survive that?

So he took a deep breath and said, 'Yes, I promise you.'

'Thank you then, Goodbye.' As soon as he agreed, Emelia quickly thanked him and ran away.

Having had the awkward experience of that morning at the hotel, Emelia now learned to run when it is dangerous and ambiguous, so as not to cause any further embarrassment.

Why did she become this way?

She took off as soon as he said yes?

Gritting his teeth, he closed the door and turned into the bathroom.

Emelia took a deep breath when she returned to her home, and the lesson was clear, if someone is shameless in front of you, you could only be more shameless than he is in order to defeat him.

Emelia then called Vincent to tell him about her move, and he was glad she accepted the gift quickly.

Vincent asked her again on the phone, 'Has Yvonne contacted you?'

Emelia shakes her head. 'No.'

Chapter 185 Candlelit Dinner

Chapter 185 Candlelit Dinner

Yvonne was immediately taken in by her father's suggestion that Emelia was Vincent's mistress.

Randolph added, 'You apologize only for now, but with the rumor on her and Vincent, we're going to have a chance to destroy them later.'

'When Emelia's reputation is ruined, will Julian still want her?'

Randolph's last words convinced Yvonne to compromise on this one, and when she got evidence that Emelia was having an affair with Vincent, she was going to show Emelia who's the boss!

Thinking of this, Yvonne put a smile on her face and said kindly to Emelia, 'I'm sorry.'

Yvonne thought that Emelia would be satisfied with her humble apology.

But Emelia shook her head and chuckled. 'Miss Sullivan, that doesn't seem to be the way to apologize.'

Yvonne said angrily, 'What do you want?'

Emelia said slowly, ‘to apologize to someone, you should first say what you did wrong, then apologize, and finally make a promise that you will never do it again.’”

‘In my opinion, this is the correct and sincere way to apologize,’ said Emelia, with the same kind smile on her face, but her request was anything but kind.

Yvonne was so angry that she wanted to get up and leave, but eventually, she put up with it.

She took a deep breath, gritted her teeth, and said quickly, ‘the last time Vincent tried to draft a new book; I shouldn’t have hired a computer hacker to attack your computer and steal your manuscript for myself.’”

‘I’m sorry. I promise I’ll never do that to you again.’”

Yvonne said it all at once, as if the faster she spoke, the less guilty she would feel.

Emelia didn’t argue with her, and she knew Yvonne wasn’t sincere; she just needed what Yvonne had said.

After being set up by Yvonne so many times, Emelia kept an eye open.

She turned on her cell phone recorder before she came in; just to record Yvonne apologizing to her, just in case.

Chapter 186 Making trouble for Julian Hughes together

Ezra's move made Emelia even more embarrassed. After struggling for a long time, Julian still wouldn't let her go. She was so pissed that she lowered her head and took a bite on his arm.

She and her cat were being too arrogant, weren't they?

Her cat scratched the back of his hand. Before his wound recovered, and now she come to bite his arm again?

But he instinctively let go of her because of the pain. Emelia then hurried to the door and opened it. It was at this moment that Ezra walked down the steps of the porch.

Julian's arms didn't hurt much, but he was furious since Ezra's uninvited arrival completely ruined his plan and the specially prepared candlelight dinner.

Even before Ezra's arrival, when the atmosphere was just right, he might be able to successfully kiss Emelia.

But Emelia had already opened the door for Ezra. He had no choice but to walk over, glaring at Ezra, gritting his teeth with displeasure. He then asked,

‘What are you doing here?’”

With a smile on his face, Ezra raised the wine in his hand at Julian, ‘I’m just thinking that when you move in here, you might be lonely. So, | come here and want to have a drink with you. | didn’t expect you to have a date with a gorgeous.’”

Julian responded directly, ‘Who the fuck is lonely? Don’t talk about this crap.’”

Ezra said again and again, ‘Okay, fine, | am terribly sorry... I’m unbearably lonely... | am leaving and won’t bother you. Do enjoy yourselves.’

Emelia hurriedly said, “Please don’t, Mr. Cantillo. Now that you have already come here, let’s dine together.’

Emelia didn’t want to dine with Julian alone. She really would love to have Ezra dine with them since he had already here.

Julian glared at her, but Emelia didn’t care. She directly went down the steps and pulled Ezra up.

Ezra smiled at Julian and said, ‘ | couldn’t reject such kindness.’”

Chapter 187 Let’s Party

Chapter 187 Let’s Party

Ezra said to Harry half-jokingly, ‘Young man, don’t be so reckless. Be careful that Mr. Hughes may blacklist you in the industry.’”

Harry said solemnly, ‘Love has neither status restrictions, nor age restrictions. | won’t give up my right to pursue my love just because of younger age or more inferior social status compared to Mr. Hughes.”

After Harry finished speaking, he looked at Julian defiantly, ‘If Mr. Hughes blacklist me because | was also pursuing Emelia, he would be so mean.’” Emelia was really upset because of this. Harry and Julian were so tit-for-tat, there’s no way of having a happy and harmony dinner together...

Nina, on the other hand, looked like she was watching a good show. She was having fun with Ezra together on the side.

Fortunately, Julian did not continue to argue with Harry, but said to Harry lightly, “| won’t blacklist you.’

The only thing he want to do was to show Harry how weak and arrogant he was. If Harry wanted to snatch his beloved woman from him, he must fully consider his strength and power.

Ezra changed the topic in order to ease the atmosphere, ‘Emelia, | heard that the Dr. Hilgard who helped you with psychotherapy last time also likes Mr. Zink very much. Why don’t you ask her to come over too?’”

Ezra said excitedly after mentioning about Dr. Hilgard, ‘I’ll invite Arthur Hudgens too.’”

Before Emelia could answer, Julian who was standing by their side was displeased, ‘Are you trying to have a Party tonight?’

Besides ruining his candlelight dinner, Ezra now tried to turn his place into a Party scene ?

Ezra exclaimed, ‘ | wouldn’t had thought about it without your kind reminder. Why don’t we have a Party?’”

Having said that, Ezra added regretfully, ‘In my memories, we haven’t had a decent party for many years. Some of us completely quit our world of entertainment after they got married.’”

“Actually, he is still a traditional man deep in his heart.” Ezra said to Emelia like indicating something else, as if he was praising Julian that he was a peerless and outstanding man.

Nina picked it up and snorted coldly, ‘Wow, why didn’t we know that Mr. Hughes is such a good man who loves his family and his virginity?’”

Chapter 188 So Open

Thinking of this, Arthur turned and hurried into the house.

He was going to stay by Jean’s side tonight, not giving her a chance to flirt with Harry.

As soon as Arthur entered the house, Ezra said to him, ‘You’re the last one to arrive here. You’re late, and you’ll be fined three shots.’

Arthur raised his head and drank three glasses of alcohol without hesitation.

Ezra couldn't react to what had happened. He was just saying this to make a joke. He didn't intend to make Arthur actually drink three shots in a row.

Julian standing by their side frowned slightly and reminded Arthur, 'Are you sure you can handle these three drinks?'

Arthur hadn't drunk or smoked because of his profession, especially alcohol. Because he had to be prepared for being called up for emergency surgery at any time.

So Julian and the others thought that Arthur couldn't drink that much drink. Besides, drinking alcohol was something that needs practice. He and Ezra have been in the business all the year round, and they have taken part in all kinds of parties a lot. Even though they couldn't drink that much alcohol, they had made much progress after all these drinking.

Sure enough, everyone could see Arthur raised his hand and pinched his forehead like a drunkard. But he still said bravely, 'I'm fine.'

Arthur was indeed an average drinker, but he was just a little impulsive thanks to his anger towards Jean.

Arthur drank three glasses of alcohol in a row, but Jean, who was standing aside, didn't even look at him. Instead, she smiled and said to Emelia, 'Come on, introduce me to the handsome guy.'

Arthur was speechless.

What should he do if he wants three more shots?

Emelia knew that something must have happened between Jean and Arthur. But when she asked Arthur last time if he was interested in Jean, Arthur denied it.

So Emelia ignored Arthur's feelings and introduced Jean to Harry, 'This is Jean, a psychologist from the Psychology Department of the Riverside City Hospital.'

'Hello Dr. Hilgard, I'm Harry Zink.' Harry looked very charming when he smiled. He lived to the expectation of an idol graduated from a boy group, with amazing appearance and personality.

Chapter 189 How Envious!

Nina glanced at Arthur as if she was longing for a show. And then she went on complimenting Harry, 'As a partner who has cooperated with Harry, I completely agree with what Dr. Hilgard said. Harry is outstanding and very capable.'

'Wasn't he, Emelia?' Nina stroke Emelia, and then continued, 'By the way, the character of the young and manly guy I collaborated with Harry in this scene was also chosen by Emelia.'

After Nina finished her word, Julian looked at Emelia without any expression. He didn't expect that she still had the kindness of promoting Harry. Well, well...

Also, the reason why she chose Harry to play this role must be that she has admired Harry very much at that time.

Thinking of this, Julian's heart suddenly felt sad for himself.

Harry also looked at Emelia, with his eyes filled with affection, 'Yes, Emelia is my savor.'

'No, no.' Emelia hurriedly denied, 'I just consider that you are very suitable for it from the perspective of screenwriter. As for what you have achieved now, that's the bonus of your struggle.'

Emelia heard that when Harry got the role, he even went to a teacher to learn acting, and when filming, every eye language and every little movement was designed after careful consideration.

Ezra turned to Maisie on the opposite side, with a lazy and casual smile, 'Mays, are you a fan girl?'

Maisie replied without any hesitation, 'Yes.'

Oh?

She seemed to be cold and clam, instead of being ignorant and irrational.

Maisie said lightly, 'My idol is Mr. Hughes.'

The expression on Ezra's face instantly turned into something impossible to describe. What on earth would he ask her the question? Isn't this turning himself into a joker?

Chapter 190 My Dream Lover

Ezra is still willing to help with this kind of effort.

‘I have something to tell you.’ Harry got up, pulled Nina aside and said sternly, ‘I want to add something else in my clarification myself.’

Nina whispered, ‘Aren’t you going to take the opportunity to confess your love to Emelia?’

Before Harry could say anything, Nina said kindly, ‘If you do this, firstly, your agent and the boss of the company will strangle you; and secondly, Julian will kill you.’

Not to mention that Emelia now has a titular boyfriend, Viggo Johansen.

Harry pursed his lips, then lowered his eyes and said sadly, ‘I really want to do this, but I also need to consider her feelings.’

‘Since she returned to homeland, she has been on the trending again and again. I don’t want to push her into the spotlight again.’

He could ignore all the money in the entertainment industry, but he couldn’t ignore Emelia’s feelings.

Emelia has just taken off in the screenwriting industry and has a bright future ahead. He couldn’t destroy her.

But he didn't want to suppress his emotions like this. He needed an outlet. If he couldn't express it explicitly, he may do it indirectly, as long as she could understand him.

Nina glanced at him meaningfully, and teased, 'Yo, I didn't know that you are so considerate.'

Harry looked at her seriously and asked, 'Do you also think that I'm too young to get into that relationship at all?'

'That's not true.' Nina denied his words. 'I just think that, you and Viggo would still have a chance without Julian.'
