

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 631 A Wonderful Bond

When Jillian saw that Andrew hadn't said anything for a while, she wrapped her arms around him and sneered, "What? You don't want to do this?"

"I'm telling you, Andrew, if you don't help me destroy Nina this time, you'll see how I'll destroy you!"

Being threatened, Andrew looked up at Jillian and said calmly, "Jillian, you talk about destroying this and that all the time, aren't you afraid that you'll be the one who gets destroyed in the end?"

Jillian's expression froze. She stared at Andrew and asked, "What do you mean? You're going to ruin me?"

Jillian had always thought that she had Andrew in her grasp, never expected Andrew to say that she was the one who would be ruined, and she almost blew a gasket.

Andrew did not continue this topic, put away the glass bottle in his hand and turned to leave; his attitude was not apparent; Jillian was so angry and could not do anything to react.

When she did, Andrew had already left and was going to the restaurant Nina had just changed to for the appointment.

Jillian sat down in a chair, gritted her teeth and cursed, "Nina! How dare you trick me like this? I'm not done with you!"

Nina used a relapse of stomach ache as an excuse to change restaurants on the spur of the moment, probably because she had found out about Andrew's foul play with her.

Jillian did not expect her relationship with Andrew to be so well hidden but was still discovered by Nina. The sudden turn of events was frustrating.

Nina has changed restaurants so suddenly that it's too late for her to make other arrangements, so she could only hope that Andrew would follow her plan and set Nina up.

Of course, Jillian didn't trust Andrew completely, so she took her mobile phone and called Andrew's assistant, whom she had bribed, and told him that if Andrew didn't follow her plan, he should take some photos of Andrew with Nina so that she could use them afterwards.

The impromptu restaurant change was a plan that Nina and Cameron had worked out together. They had learned about Andrew's relationship with Jillian and that Jillian was in Hazelton today, so they deduced that the dinner with Andrew tonight was gonna be Walder Frey's Red Wedding.

Cameron definitely would not let Nina under Jillian's threat, so he decided to change the restaurant, which he had sent away all the irrelevant people so that no one would know what was going on in the restaurant tonight.

Cameron was naturally with Nina as she went back to the hotel to remove her make-up and change, so Sylvie retreated to her room to tidy up.

Cameron told Nina what Lucien thought of Sylvie, and Nina laughed her head off, "So the blind date we tried to set up for them didn't work out, but they met privately on their own?"

"Maybe that's called fate?" Before wrapping his arms around Nina from behind, Cameron said as she looked in the mirror to remove her make-up.

Nina was overjoyed, "So after we're done with Andrew, we'll ask them to join us for dinner?" "Yeah." Cameron lamented, "I was planning to have dinner with you alone tonight." It had been a long time since they had seen each other, and he had wanted nothing more than to give her all of his time.

But now, because he had to match Lucien and Sylvie, he and Nina couldn't just leave Lucien alone with Sylvie; it was a bit awkward, so the two of them had to keep company.

Nina gave him an eye roll, "We have plenty of time to be alone. Just give them both the opportunity first."

After the introductions, there was nothing more for her and Cameron to do; it was up to Sylvie and Lucien, or rather Lucien, as he was the one who was showing interest.

After collecting themselves, Nina and Sylvie left in the car for their new restaurant appointment, while Cameron and Lucien followed behind secretly.

Andrew and his assistant noticed that the restaurant had been cleared out as soon as they arrived. Andrew looked calm, but his assistant frowned slightly.

Andrew and his assistant could see that Nina had sensed their intentions, and that was why they had changed the restaurant on short notice, and now they were just trying to prevent their plan from succeeding.

Somehow, Andrew was relieved.

The two arrived at the private room door Nina had told them about, and Sylvie was waiting outside.

Upon seeing them, Sylvie said, "Mr. Sonfield, you can go in alone."

Then Sylvie dragged Andrew's assistant away and pushed him into another room at the end of the corridor with two tough black-clad men inside. Andrew's assistant was pinned down in a chair without even resisting.

He was so angry that he complained, "Sylvie, what are you doing? I'm going to report you for kidnapping!"

Sylvie sat down in the chair next to him with her arms wrapped around her and said, "Who's kidnapping you? Our bosses are having dinner over there, and we came to this room to wait for them so as not to disturb them?"

“It’s not as if you’re going in to eat with Mr. Sonfield, is it?” Sylvie’s words were contemptuous, despising Andrew’s assistant for not being polite enough to interfere with the bosses’ dinner.

Andrew’s assistant choked on her eloquent words, and Sylvie threw the menu at him again, saying impatiently, “All right, all right, order now; we’re starving.”

Andrew’s assistant was in no mood to eat. He thought he had to help Jillian if Andrew’s plan didn’t work out, so he didn’t even look at the menu and said, “I’m not hungry.”

“I’m going to the washroom.” He said and tried to get up from the chair, but two bulky men behind him had one hand on his shoulder, pinning him to the chair.

Sylvie didn’t show much expression, just stared at him slyly and asked, “Are you sure you’re not hungry? Are you sure you have to go to the washroom?”

Andrew’s assistant had been furious and wanted to leave the room, but somehow, after Sylvie had asked him a couple of sly questions, he instantly lost his nerve, especially when he thought two tough men were standing behind him.

He met Sylvie’s calm gaze for a few seconds before wimping out and stopping struggling to get up, opting to order his food and eat.

Sylvie saw that he had the sense to read the room, then gave a wink to the two brawny men, who let go of Andrew’s assistant and stepped aside while Andrew’s assistant took the menu and came over to order.

But he had just ordered two dishes when Sylvie jerked the menu away, saying nonchalantly, “You’re not being too gentlemanly. Are you going to order a table for yourself? Can’t you see that I’m still here? Don’t you know how to care for a lady’s preferences?”

Sylvie had always been annoyed by Andrew’s assistant, who was too calculating to be a man. Now seeing that he only ordered food for himself, Sylvie blew her stacks directly.

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 632 Win-win Collaboration

Andrew's assistant was dissed by Sylvie again, and he was so angry that he was about to go crazy.

He doesn't understand how Sylvie could be so arrogant when they were both assistants. Previously on the set, because Andrew and Nina are a couple in the drama, he and Sylvie also have much contact at work; she'd already been picking on him and despising him strangely all day long.

This time he ordered a dish. She was like this again; it's really...
He didn't know what to say.

Sylvie ignored Andrew's assistant's glare, took the menu and ordered a bunch of spicy dishes in one breath, making the assistant scowl at her, because he can't eat spicy, which Sylvie knew from her time on set.

She just did it on purpose.

Of course, Sylvie only ordered spicy food because she knew they would not be able to eat this meal, so she did not call for him but for herself.

In the other room, Nina was waiting for Andrew.

Cameron and Lucien were in the next booth, and when Andrew entered, Nina rose with a smile and said, "Sorry, Mr. Sonfield, for the change of restaurant."

Andrew didn't answer but stared intensely at her for a long time.
Nina asked, slightly puzzled and innocent, "What's wrong?"

Andrew turned around and sat down in his seat, pulled out the glass bottle Jillian had slipped to him and handed it to Nina, who took it, glanced at its name, and raised her eyebrows slightly.

“Jillian gave you this?” Nina knew what was in it as soon as she saw its mark, something that would make people yearn for sex; this kind of nasty thing is bound to be Jillian’s style.

And since Andrew did not hide it, there was no need for her to beat around the bush and directly say Jillian’s name.

Andrew looked at her slyly and said, “You know everything.”

Nina responded, “Well, knowing yourself and your enemy ensures victory.”

Nina played with the glass bottle in her hand and asked, “Since you gave this to me, it seems that you want a collaboration?”

This glass bottle is Jillian’s deadly trick; Andrew gave it to her straight away, and his position is pretty straightforward.

Andrew looked staggered, “To be honest, I didn’t think she would go this far.”

Nina gave a contemptuous laugh, “Then you’ve been fooled by her, and I’m afraid this has been a common occurrence for her for a long time.”

Nina has been targeted by Jillian for so many years and has known Jillian’s character for a long time, but Andrew said he did not expect Jillian to do so; it seems that Jillian did a lot of gentle and kind good woman posture in front of Andrew.

The expression on Andrew’s face was embarrassed; he was indeed created by Jillian a lot.

“So, what is your original plan against me?” Nina asked directly.

Andrew then told her about Jillian’s purpose of sending him into this drama at all costs and Jillian’s plan for this dinner tonight. Nina stretched her hands after hearing it, nothing special from what she guessed.

Jillian was brainless. If only she could have spent the time in honing her acting skills or fighting for a good script for herself, instead of racking her brain to plot against Nina!

Now she had gone to the trouble of getting Andrew into the show, and Andrew had turned on her.

Nina has no sympathy for Jillian and feels that Jillian deserves it. Andrew confessed, "I don't want to get involved with her anymore, nor live this kind of life anymore; it's too tiring."

"I also regret getting entangled with her, and I blame myself for not resisting the temptation, as I thought that she was a big name at that time, both in terms of resources and fame she could help me."

"But she didn't want to expose our relationship; in other words, she just wanted to have some fun." Andrew had also analysed his relationship with Jillian during this time. Turned out it was more like mutual use.

He tried to use Jillian's popularity and resources to give himself more opportunities in the acting world, while Jillian was interested in his face and body as a man in the entertainment industry. However, he hadn't really risen to stardom, but that didn't mean that his look and body are not good enough.

But now that Jillian is getting more outrageous, he chooses to give up Jillian without hesitation.

Nina gazed at him idly and asked, "Aren't you afraid she'll drag you down with her if she finds out you betrayed her?"

Jillian has been dating Andrew for a long time and is likely to have something of him, even if there isn't, just the fact that the two of them are lovers is exposed; it is enough for Andrew to be overwhelmed by Jillian's fans.

Jillian is slowly fading away, but she used to be a big celebrity, and there are still a lot of loyal fans. On the other hand, Andrew wasn't that famous, and his meagre fanbase couldn't compete with those of Jillian's.

Andrew looked solemn and said to Nina, "So I need your help; to be precise, I need the help of the capital behind you."

"Cameron and the Camcien Lifetech behind him certainly can suppress this negative news, and you don't want me to be involved in anything to affect our show either, do you?"

There was no need for Andrew to cover up; he already had a clue about Nina's relationship with Cameron.

Nina hooked her lips and laughed, "You are quite calculating."

Andrew added, "If you had no intention to protect me, you would have revealed Jillian and me directly; there is no need to temporarily change the restaurant to ask me out alone."

On his way to coming over, Andrew also considered a lot according to his time with Nina; he sensed that Nina should not want their stuff to affect the whole crew. She is a very affectionate and righteous person.

Nina hummed, "For you being so frank with me, I accept your request for collaboration, but you have to clear your relationship with Jillian from now on."

"About your past with Jillian, whatever you have with her, if she wants to expose you, I will manage to suppress it, but if you are still involved with her tonight and spail our plan, then don't blame me for not being polite."

"Of course," Andrew responded decisively.

He couldn't wait to be done with Jillian, he wouldn't even see her again once he left the door, and as for his things in the hotel, he could leave them all behind; he hadn't brought anything with him, just a few items of clothing.

Nina thought about it and added, "Since Jillian wants to use our meeting tonight as an excuse to create an affair between you and me, I'll take the initiative to tweet about our meeting and see what she can say."

When dealing with someone like Jillian who is trying to start a rumour, the best way to fight back is to be open and honest.

Andrew agreed with her suggestion, so the pair asked Sylvie to take a photo of them together after the food was served, but of course, they sat at appropriate distances on either side of the table, each giving a yay to the camera.

Nina captioned the photo, "A chance meeting with Mr. Sonfield in Hazelton and a successful calorie recharge."

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 633 That's Quite Something

Andrew also retweeted Nina's tweet, and their interaction created a wave of buzz on the internet. Still, the word was generated by Nina, a famous actress, not Andrew, who is at best a couple with Nina in the drama.

The threads praised Nina's beauty without makeup and her relationship with Andrew's colleagues. Of course, some are curious about whether there is any male/female affair between Nina and Andrew.

Nina is a famous actress, and any man she's seen with will be a source of interest.

But with their open and generous gestures, it is unlikely that there is anything at all.

If she and Andrew were having an affair, Nina would never have released such a photo or would have jumped to explain herself.

When Nina saw this, she couldn't help but be dumbfounding.

She hadn't planned to take a photo with Andrew and tweet about it, but she quickly decided to prove that she and Andrew were open and honest.

She didn't wear any makeup because she was having dinner with Cameron and Sylvie after dealing with Andrew, not with anyone else, so there was no need to wear any makeup.

Jillian was furious after the buzz, as Nina and Andrew's actions had led her to conclude that Andrew had turned on her, and she was so angry that she kept calling Andrew, but Andrew had blacked out all her contact details so that she couldn't contact Andrew herself.

She called Andrew's assistant but was still unable to get through.

In the name of dinner, Andrew's assistant was trapped in a private room by Sylvie, with two brawny men not far behind him, so how could he dare to answer Jillian's call?

So, Jillian ended up with no one to call, so angry that her lungs were like to explode, and she smashed everything she spotted in the hotel room.

Nina Sanchez!

After Nina's temporary restaurant change, she had planned to bribe a marketing agency to start a rumour that Nina and Andrew were having an affair. Still, to her surprise, Nina posted a photo of her and Andrew together before she could.

Jillian's plan was aborted before she could carry it out because of her openness.

And then there's Andrew. Jillian didn't think Andrew would cooperate with Nina; for Jillian, there's nothing to be sad about losing Andrew; she has plenty of male companionships.

But she was annoyed that Nina was in partnership with Andrew, and she wouldn't have cared if it had been any other woman, but it was Nina, and she had lost out to Nina again, which made it difficult for her to take it.

Jillian's first thing was to call the show's producer, Andrew and Nina were currently working on it, stating that she wanted Andrew replaced.

Indeed, her relationship with that producer was unusual. Whenever she was in the same city as the producer, he was usually in her bed.

After hearing her request, Jillian didn't expect that; the producer simply said, "Jillian, why are you so ignorant? The drama has been filmed for so many days; how can you just change people at will?"

“Besides, don’t you know the subject of this drama? The relevant departments above are following up the progress of this project as well. Now you’re making a fuss about it! Changing the actors? Do you want me to be banned by the industry in the future?”

This was the first time this person had scolded Jillian, and she was confused at first.

She then said, aggrieved, “What’s that big a deal? Haven’t we changed actors on short notice before? How come it’s not working this time?”

Not to mention that Jillian had used the same trick twice with this man for her own benefit.

Now it’s just the same old thing again, and Jillian was not convinced. Of course, she knew that Nina’s show was a military drama, but that was no reason for this producer not to replace Andrew.

“I’m warning you, don’t give me any trouble, you were the one who insisted I use Andrew in the first place, and now you want to replace him; do you think the earth revolves around you?”

The person on the other end yelled in annoyance and then hung up the phone. Jillian was dumbfounded by this manipulation and was completely confused about how she had been treated like this.

Of course, she didn’t understand as Cameron had informed Viggo as soon as he had agreed with Nina to protect Andrew and had asked Viggo to covertly operate the matter to ensure that Andrew was not replaced.

After all, he didn’t interfere through Camcien Lifetech, a technology company, and it’s not good to be involved in showbiz.

So, he was glad that he had started Tymers Entertainment with Viggo, which he had been using to protect Nina from troubles for all these years.

Jillian’s affair with the producer was not a secret in the entertainment industry, and Viggo knew about it as soon as he asked around.

Jillian's status and position in the entertainment industry are incomparable to Viggo's, so naturally, the producer knew what was more important, and that's why he was angry at Jillian.

Jillian had barely recovered from this wave of anger when her manager called her, "Twitter called me just now. Your account has been complained about, and you have to be temporarily suspended."

Jillian was stunned, "What?"

But the next second, she realised and immediately gritted her teeth, "I finally understand; I dare say that... they are trying to block me and stifle all my moves through capitalisation."

No wonder that producer was so mean to her just now, forbidding her to replace Andrew.

As well, as they blocked her account to prevent her from blowing up anything adverse related to Andrew, Andrew has had the best of luck with Nina, freeing himself from her.

And Nina has been rich and bold.

But there was nothing she could do about Nina neither did she have any capital to fight against her now. Realising this, Jillian was so angry that she almost blacked out before she squeezed her forehead, trying to calm herself down in this way.

Her manager asked on the other end, "Did Nina do this?"

Jillian grunted through clenched teeth; her manager was the same as her; both had terrible intentions; otherwise, how could they have worked with each other for so many years? That must be a surprising consistency in their total views, uniformly evil.

"Sa, it's Cameron and Camcien Lifetech behind her?" said Jillian's agent, "What a surprise, She's got a real knack for hooking up with a handsome guy like Cameron."

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 634 Backlash

What she said about Nina being such a catch that even the rich and handsome Cameron Dauster fell for her, this really exasperated Jillian

After yelling, Jillian added, "Who knows if she's hooked up with Cameron? Maybe Cameron is talking about someone else as the Mrs. Dauster."

They knew that Cameron was married, but they had no substantive proof that Mrs. Dauster was Nina.

Jillian deluded herself into thinking that as long as there was no proof that it was Nina, it wasn't Nina.

Her manager had to say, "I've asked many people to look into Cameron's marriage but find nothing. My instinct tells me that it's probably Nina, and if it weren't, Cameron wouldn't have made such a fuss about the relationship."

If Cameron's wife were an ordinary person, he wouldn't have had to make such a big deal out of the secrecy.

"Besides, if Nina hadn't gotten on with Cameron, do you think she would have had the power suppress you?" Now everyone knows that Cameron is the owner of Camcien Lifetech and that the power of money is formidable.

The manager's words made it tangible proof that Nina was Mrs. Dauster. Jillian cried out in anger when thinking of how the producer had scolded her, "Why? Why! In what ways am I not better than her?"

"When I was a big star, she was still an extra in whatever low-budget production, so how come I'm not as good as her now?" The more Jillian thought about it, the more resentful she became and the more she cried.

She and Nina were actresses that debuted at about the same time, and she had gotten a good role right from the start because she had taken a shortcut with her body, and then she had played many leading roles and was once in the limelight.

She didn't take Nina a serious back then, but now...

Now Nina was way out of her league.

"All right, don't make a fuss, flowers withered, no one will be popular all the time, if you are over the hill, Nina will be the same sooner or later; the only thing we can do now is to get her out of the limelight as soon as possible," said the manager on the other end of the line.

Jillian was annoyed, "How do I make her flop when she's using money to drive me out of the game?" The agent sneered, "Have you forgotten about her fantastic parents?" Jillian's eyes instantly lit up.

The agent continued, "Her parents were out of this world! They value money over their life and don't love Nina at all. Let's start from them.

"I also heard that she broke up with Cameron back then because Cameron's mother didn't like her. We can also use that to make her some trouble and let the whole Internet know that the Dausters do not like her."

Jillian's gloomy mood was instantly lifted, just short of clapping her hands and shouting, "If you hadn't mentioned it, I would have forgotten she had parents like that. What could make her fall from the clouds to hell overnight for a public figure?"

Her manager laughed wryly, "Getting addicted to things that she shouldn't." Jillian couldn't stop laughing, "You are the one who knows me."

"We'll just goad her parents into saying that Nina was a drug addict." Jillian's manager's tone was casual, "We have seen plenty of celebrities whose career were ruined by parents, right? She's not the first, and certainly not gonna be the last."

The two laughed gleefully over the phone at the idea they had come up with to deal with Nina.

On Nina's side, Andrew left the restaurant once the deal was struck and returned to the set overnight with his assistant. Of course, he was reminded that his assistant was in cahoots with Jillian and fired him when he returned.

Nina and Sylvie went to the box beside to meet Cameron and Lucien, and start the dinner.

Nina smiled and introduced Sylvie to Lucien. Sylvie gave Nina a puzzled look, politely shook Lucien's hand, and exchanged pleasantries, but she wondered why Nina was smiling like that, feeling like something was wrong.

In the lift that day, Sylvie was so focused on resisting Nina's offer to set her up on a blind date that she overlooked Lucien in a rush, but she did know Lucien.

He was one of Riverside City's newest businessmen and, like Cameron and Julian, a very eligible bachelor.

Sylvie instinctively felt that this kind of man was far away from her, so she didn't think anything of it and just sat down next to Nina, not noticing the smile Lucien gave her across the table.

After the four were seated, Nina took out the glass bottle Andrew had given her and handed it to Cameron, who instantly turned sullen. Nina stroke his back, "Don't be mad. It wasn't used on me. Just throw it away and destroy it."

"Not enough." Cameron smiled coldly and withdrew his palm, holding the tiny glass bottle.

Nina wondered, "What's wrong?" Cameron's tone was sultry, "Since she'd found something 'good' like this, how can she not have to feel it on herself?"

The implication was that he would do the same thing to Jillian and make her reap the consequences herself.

The tricks Jillian wanted to use on Nina; he would double back on Jillian.

He's never been a soft-hearted person, and if someone messes with him a bit, he's bound to retaliate, not to mention that the person Jillian wants to hurt is Nina.

Nina understood Cameron's meaning immediately, and she hesitated.

Although she hated Jillian immensely, she had never thought of torturing her with such a thing. Cameron saw through her hesitation right away and then said thoughtfully, "Don't hesitate, or you will still be the one who gets hurt."

With Jillian, it was essential to hit the nail on the head. Otherwise, they would still be a pain in the ass later.

"Then do as you wish." Nina knew by the look on Cameron's face that he wouldn't change his mind on this matter, so she didn't say much.

Jillian was asking for it too since she could use such disgusting methods against others, so others could fight back too, couldn't they?

Sylvie wanted Jillian to disappear from the entertainment industry so that Jillian wouldn't have to make things difficult for Nina.

Her movement elicited a chuckle from Lucien next to her, her expression a little embarrassed for a moment when Sylvie looked over.

She had forgotten that Lucien, an outsider, was there and that... he wouldn't think she was a vicious person, would he? It didn't matter; she didn't have a persona anyway.

She put away the embarrassment and looked down to drink the beverage with that in mind.

Lucien hurriedly explained, "I didn't mean anything else; I just thought... what you did just now was quite cute."

Sylvie took a sip of her juice and almost choked to death when she suddenly heard him call herself cute. I I

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 635 I Did Put It into Action

Nina handed Sylvie a tissue in time, giving Lucien a despised look at the same time.

That's it?

That's Lucien's way of flirting with girls?

Was he trying to choke her assistant to death?

Lucien was full of innocence and hastily apologised to Sylvie, "Sorry..."

Sylvie also hurriedly owed a polite smile and said, "Nah, I was being careless."

Is there something wrong with this person's fundamental values?

She had just thrown up her hands to approve Cameron's revenge on Jillian, and he was calling her cute? Nina tugged at Cameron, "Come with me to the bathroom."

Cameron immediately understood that she wanted to give the two of them a chance to be alone, so he got up with her, just as he wanted to be alone with Nina.

Sylvie was not expecting Nina and Cameron to suddenly go to the bathroom in pairs and leave her in a room with Lucien, whom she didn't know at all.

It's so awkward that she's tempted to use the bathroom as an excuse to disappear. And something didn't feel right; when she thought about it, wasn't this precisely like a blind date?

Wasn't it possible that the boyfriend Nina had told her she'd been introduced to was the same Lucien in front of her?

Sylvie was shocked by her thoughts and looked up at Lucien.

Lucien was thinking of an excuse to talk to Sylvie when he saw her suddenly glaring at him, he was startled, and after a few seconds of staring at her, he raised his hand to his face and asked in confusion, "What's wrong? Do I have something on my face?"

"Na." Sylvie shook her head and withdrew her gaze.

This was outrageous.

Sylvie quickly dismissed her suspicions because she didn't think she and Lucien were a good match; she must be overthinking it.

Lucien was now one of Riverside City's most sought-after bachelors, rich and powerful, while she was just a minor assistant.

In the few seconds, she had taken a good look at Lucien's face, which was angular, bright and elegant; even someone like her, who was used to seeing all kinds of handsome men in the entertainment industry, though he was good-looking. It's the kind of good look that one finds approachable, unlike Cameron's cool and aloof face.

As for herself, she thought she was not bad, but since she spent her days working next to such a gorgeous woman, she had given up on herself and thought she was pretty standard.

She tapered off again and kept her head down as she ate, thinking of her ordinary.

After a while, she noticed Lucien not moving his chopsticks and wondered, "Why aren't you eating?" It was getting late after Andrew's matter. Wasn't Lucien hungry? She was already hungry.

Lucien smiled, "I'm not really hungry."

Lucien was watching her eat; he thought she looked so adorable when she was eating. He had no time caring about his food!

But after the experience of scaring her by saying she was cute, he was much more reserved this time and just said he wasn't hungry.

If he had only found her attractive in the lift earlier, after a few seconds of eye-to-eye, he confirmed his feelings that he liked her, wanted to pursue her, get her, and live with her.

He had previously laughed at Cameron for falling in love with Nina at first sight, which he used to think didn't exist in this world; how could anyone fall in love at first sight?

Now he, too, is caught up in such a haunted state of mind, and the words to describe his state of mind at the moment are like a real slap in the face.

Sylvie didn't say anything else and kept her head down and ate her food after Lucien said he was not really hungry.

After realising that she and Lucien were incompatible, she calmed down and treated him as someone she didn't know very well, not looking at him or speaking to him purposely.

But Lucien, a man of many facets, would not let things get cold between them. He took his chopsticks and ate slowly, starting the conversation with the usual questions about what time her flight with Nina was tomorrow.

Having confirmed his intentions, Lucien was in no hurry. Now that he had his prey, all he needed was to plan how to get her firmly into his territory.

Sylvie was not averse to Lucien. She has already discarded the infinite possibilities between her and Lucien and thinking that he was Nina and Cameron's best friend, she answered whatever he asked.

They had a cheerful conversation, but she didn't know that Lucien already knew almost everything about her from these chit- chats.

For example, she likes food, and her family is ordinary, her parents are ordinary people, not yet retired, and still struggling with their jobs.

She doesn't have any ambition and just wants to do her job well as Nina's assistant.

For example, she likes to read novels and catch up on all kinds of dramas, likes handsome men and women, and likes small animals, but because of the nature of her work, she has to go everywhere with Nina, so she cannot keep her pets.

However, when she has time, she volunteers to rescue stray animals, which makes Lucien's heart incredibly soft; such a girl must be kind and gentle at heart.

Lucien lifted a hand to his hair, feeling the need to primp his hair and dress appropriately; Sylvie and Nina met handsome men and women from the showbiz everyday. He needed to be more stylish.

He'd never paid much attention to this before; his dress style was mainly business-like and modest, not overly concerned with type and pattern, wondering if she would find him a bit old-fashioned.

Nina sat on Cameron's lap with his arm around her waist in the next booth.

She hadn't gone to the bathroom, and as soon as they left, they went next door; they had the whole restaurant to themselves for the night anyway, and they wouldn't be seen anywhere.

Nina leaned into Cameron's arms and said with some concern, "I wonder how the two of them are getting on?"

"Don't worry, Lucien and I are both people who will act on our goals as soon as we set them, and since he's interested in Sylvie, he'll take control of the situation." Cameron knew Lucien well enough.

Nina grunted, "How come I didn't see anyone take any action back then? Wasn't it always me who did it?" He talks all day about how he liked her too, but she was the one who took the initiative?

Cameron laughed at her sultry look, hugged her tightly and whispered, "When Manny Bowers stopped me and tried to beat me up, I was gonna kick his ass, but I caught a glimpse of you, so I pretended ta be helpless."

Cameron leaned in close to her and asked with a smile, "Does that count as me taking action?"

If he hadn't pretended to be weak, she wouldn't have come forward to beat up Manny and save him, and they wouldn't have interacted with each other in that case.

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 636 He Would Accompany Her All the Time

Nina was so shocked that she jumped down from Cameron's legs.

This was the first time she knew that there was such a big secret behind this matter. Cameron had never told her about it. Until now, she thought that Cameron had no ability to fight back.

No wonder he could go to her house and beat up her brother and Dominic with his bare hands a while ago. It turned out that he did have some martial arts skills.

He was really...

He was really cunning.

He had always been an old fox since he was young, and he was still the same now.

Cameron once again pulled her onto his lap and held her slender waist with one hand. He lowered his head and said, "This is a rare time that belongs to us. Of course, we have to do something that belongs to us."

After Cameron finished speaking, he lowered his head and kissed the girl's red lips. Although they still had one night to stay together, she would have to return to the set early tomorrow morning. It would be a while before they could see each other again.

He was very reluctant.

However, he also understood her profession. It was inevitable for her to enter the set. He could only wait until their relationship was made public before going to the set to accompany her.

In the future, wherever she was filming, he would look for her. At most, he would buy a house near the big film studio. He did not like the feeling of always staying in a hotel, especially when he was with her.

Living in a hotel, the property of the house was not obvious at all. He did not like it.

Thinking of this, Cameron could not help but recall the time when Julian spent a lot of money to build a film studio in Riverside City. Now, it seemed that Julian was the most sensible one. Once the film studio was built, it could at least reduce half of the time that Emelia and Nina were stationed on the crew.

In the future, they could go home every day for the scenes that were filmed in Riverside City's film studio, and it was much more convenient for them to visit them at any time.

When Nina and Cameron returned to the private room, Lucien had already gotten Sylvie's WhatsApp contact.

The reason he used was to ask Sylvie to introduce him to a good stylist. He wanted to change his hairstyle and improve his temperament.

Sylvie recommended the stylist that Nina often used. The stylist had his own large studio in Riverside City, which was affordable for elite people like Lucien. The two of them added each other on WhatsApp. Sylvie forwarded the stylist's name card to Lucien.

Although Sylvie introduced the stylist to Lucien, she still sincerely suggested to Lucien after putting down her phone, "I think your current style is good enough."

In Sylvie's opinion, although she did not know why Lucien suddenly said that he wanted to change himself, she felt that Lucien's current appearance was very consistent with his identity and temperament, and he also gave people a very comfortable feeling.

Lucien was originally worried that his image was too rigid and did not meet the standards of the handsome men in her mind, so he wanted to change it. He did not expect to hear her praise, and his mood suddenly became extremely beautiful.

At the very least, this meant that she was satisfied with his current appearance and temperament, and all he had left to do was to try to show his inner self for her to see.

However, he still pretended to listen carefully and asked her, "Really?" Sylvie smiled. "Of course, this is just my opinion. You can also not pay attention to it."

Being stared at by him like this, Sylvie realized that she might have said a little too much, so she quickly stopped commenting.

Sigh, she was just like this. She always seemed to be a little simple-minded. In fact, she had only just met Lucien tonight.

Why did she have to talk so much and point fingers at his style?

Nina just happened to come in with Cameron. The dining environment suddenly became four people. This was no longer Sylvie's home ground, so she lowered her head and ate.

After dinner, Nina naturally could not leave the restaurant with Cameron, so she left with Sylvie first. Cameron and Lucien dealt with the aftermath.

On the way back to the hotel, Cameron asked Lucien, "How do you feel?"

Lucien did not directly answer his question. Instead, he smiled at him and said, "Recently, Nina has been filming on set. It's not good for you to visit her. Why don't you stay in the company and I can find an excuse to go to Jamelaton?"

In other words, he was going to Jamelaton to chase after Sylvie.
Cameron was speechless.

It seemed that he should not introduce a girlfriend to Lucien now. This person was now in love. His heart had flown to the little girl and he was going to throw the company to him.

"It's decided then." Lucien decided for him.

Cameron had no choice but to stop him. "We can't be distracted during this period of time. The new product is going to be on the market. We have a lot of work to do."

He wanted to keep an eye on the final development of the product, while Lucien had to do an all-round propaganda.

"While they are not here, we have to hurry up."

This way, when Nina finished her filming and she and Sylvie returned to Riverside City, they would be able to bill and coo.

Lucien was extremely depressed. "If I had known earlier, I wouldn't have come here with you."

If he didn't come, he wouldn't have to meet the girl he liked, and he wouldn't have to keep thinking about her like he was now.

What kind of stupid thing was this? He was clearly here to accompany Cameron to date, but he didn't expect that he would also be involved.

Cameron glared at him. "This is called fate. You should cherish it. Why are you complaining about it?"

Lucien rolled his eyes.

Before he could say anything else, his phone rang.

The call was from Melanie Blanchard. Lucien frowned slightly.

Since the last time Melanie insisted on entering the entertainment industry and having a bad time with him, he had not contacted Melanie.

He was also very tired. After reporting to his mentor about Melanie, he did not want to bother about Melanie anymore.

Therefore, when Lucien picked up the call, his tone was very indifferent, "What is it?"

Melanie did not hear his indifference and continued to report to him, "Lucien, I have successfully signed a contract with a film Company, Allstar Entertainment."

"Allstar Entertainment?" Lucien felt that this name was a little familiar, so he turned to look at Cameron.

Cameron's face darkened. Melanie knew how to choose. She just so happened to choose the entertainment company that was going against Tymers, which was also Jillian's company.

On the other end of the line, Melanie proudly showed off. "Do you know why I chose Allstar? Because they and Nina are opposing each other. I want to choose such a company and compete with her."

Melanie did not know that Cameron was with Lucien at the moment, so she did not hide her voice and tone.

Cameron heard what she said from the receiver. He only sneered coldly. Not to mention one Allstar Entertainment, he could take down ten companies like this with his power.

Lucien also did not like to hear Melanie say such things, so he said indifferently, °I wish you a bright future.”

Then he was about to hang up when Melanie stopped him and said with dissatisfaction, “Lucien, why are you so indifferent? It seems that you are not happy for me at all. I still want you to treat me to a big meal.”

“I’ll go to you now. We can have supper. I love Riverside City’s street food the most.”

Lucien refused immediately, “I’m not in Riverside City right now.”

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 637

Unimportant People

“Ah? You’re not at Riverside City? Where did you go?” Melanie was obviously very hurt. She knew that Lucien always agreed to whatever she asked. In the past, no matter what she asked, Lucien would satisfy her.

When she insisted on coming to China to chase after Cameron, Lucien asked her to come over without saying anything.

“I’m outside the city. If there’s nothing else, I’ll hang up.” After Lucien finished speaking, he hung up the phone. Melanie seemed to want to say something, but Lucien had already ended the call.

Cameron reminded Lucien, “You have a girl you like now. It’s best for you to keep a distance from Melanie. Otherwise, people will misunderstand that there is something between you and Melanie.”

Lucien nodded. “I know.”

He took care of Melanie purely out of gratitude for his mentor. Now that he had told his mentor that he would no longer care about Melanie, he really would not care about her anymore.

He used to have no interest in women, so he didn’t feel anything when he took care of Melanie.

But now that he had a girl he liked in his heart, his heart was only on that girl. Whether it was Melanie or anyone else, they could not get any attention from him, not to mention that Melanie was still insisting on standing on the opposite side of him and Cameron.

Thinking of this, Lucien said to Cameron, "Did you hear what she said just now? I think we still need to tell the mentor. She is so willful. What if we really attack her in the future?"

Lucien said again, "In order to help the mentor do research, you delayed it for two years before returning to the country. The mentor should not allow her to stay and disturb you like this."

Cameron originally wanted to return to the country normally after graduation, but his mentor encountered some trouble at that time. It was Cameron who stayed behind to help his mentor through the difficulties, causing Cameron to postpone returning to the country for two years.

Otherwise, Cameron would have already been with Nina, so Lucien felt that their mentor should hurry up and get Melanie back because of Cameron's favor.

Cameron lowered his eyes and said coldly, "We did our best. If she insists on stirring up troubles, it is not our fault."

All along, Lucien had been communicating with his mentor about Melanie. Cameron had never mentioned anything to his mentor, because he did not want to get to the point where he'd have to take advantage of his mentor's gratitude towards his previous help and let his mentor take Melanie away.

In other words, he did not want to blackmail him for the favor.

Lucien said thoughtfully, "Actually, there is something I have always wanted to say. If the mentor does not ask Melanie to go back, it is equivalent to indirectly agreeing with her to pester you. You know, the mentor has always liked you. You are so outstanding. He must want his daughter to be with you and be the final winner."

Cameron had already seen this point. People were selfish. Although their mentor treated him and Lucien very well, compared to Melanie, his biological daughter, they were still secondary.

Their mentor was more inclined to let Melanie achieve what she wanted. Whether it was the person she wanted or what she wanted to do, he would satisfy her.

“Sa we’ll go our own ways and make our own choices,” Cameron said.

Lucien had already told their mentor about him and Nina, but their mentor still did not summon Melanie back, which meant that their mentor had made a choice.

Since they had chosen different paths, they could only go their own ways.

This was the so-called “there is little common ground for understanding between persons of differing principles”. He wanted to protect Nina and his family the most. As for the others, it was best if they be at peace with each other. If they couldn’t be at peace with each other, then he would have to fight to the end.

Nina and Sylvie also learned from Sherlyn that Cameron’s fellow student Melanie had join Jillian’s company. Sherlyn complained over the phone, “Melanie is clearly going against you, right? She is really sick in the head. Doesn’t she know what kind of person Jillian’s agent is? Rebecca Young, that bitch. She’s like the procuress of Allstar Entertainment!”

“Also, Allstar Entertainment makes it sounds very nice, saying they want to gather the most brilliant stars in the entertainment industry. But in my opinion, they just gather the rats in the entertainment industry.”

Sherlyn was very mean when she was angry. Sylvie covered her mouth and laughed, but it could also be seen how much Sherlyn hated Jillian and the Allstar Entertainment behind her.

It was not only Sherlyn who hated it. All the people in the entertainment industry probably did not have a good impression of the artists of Allstar Entertainment. One by one, they either put on airs or stirred up trouble, or they would play tricks against people behind their backs.

Nina did not have too many emotional ups and downs. She only said lightly, "This is the so-called 'birds of a feather flock together'. Melanie must also be this kind of person. That's why she can join Allstar Entertainment."

Nina had experienced many things in this industry. She had defeated Jillian. Why would she be afraid of Melanie? Melanie was at most a chess piece used by Allstar Entertainment or Jillian to deal with her. There was nothing to be afraid of.

However, even though she said this, after returning to the hotel and meeting Cameron in his room, Nina snorted coldly and pushed Cameron against the wall behind him.

After all, Nina's martial arts were not bad. In addition, Cameron was not on guard against her now. It could also be said that he was very indulgent towards her, so he obediently leaned against the wall behind him, allowing her to put her arm against his chest to restrain him.

However, before Nina could say anything, Cameron raised his eyebrows and asked Nina with a charming tone, "What? Do you want to play something different?"

Nina rolled her eyes at him.

This man's got a head full of erotic ideas!

She was planning to interrogate him!

She glared at him and gritted her teeth as she asked, "What happened to you and that sweet girl Melanie Blanchard?" Nina deliberately stressed on the words 'sweet girl' and her tone was full of ridicule towards Cameron.

Cameron looked at her jealous face and could not help but laugh softly.

As Nina gave him an annoyed punch, he took the opportunity to grab on her waist and said, "To me, she is just an insignificant person. What sweet girl? I only know one sweet girl in my life."

Nina snorted, "She chased you all the way here to Riverside City. Are you so heartless?"

Cameron took her arm off his chest and explained to her, "I rejected her the moment I noticed her feelings for me. You are the only one in my heart."

"I also know that she has joined Allstar Entertainment. If she wants to target you, then she is my enemy." Cameron did not have the slightest sympathy or soft-heartedness for Melanie.

Nina was very satisfied with his attitude. Just as her expression eased, she was carried up by Cameron.

"Every minute is precious. Go take a shower first." Cameron carried her to the bathroom.

Nina struggled to jump off his body. She stared at him and said seriously, "I want to know everything about you abroad."

Nina had always wanted to talk to Cameron about this topic. She wanted to know why he had spent so many years abroad since he had her in his heart and never contacted her.

Cameron had a headache. "Now?"

"Yes." Nina nodded heavily. | | |

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 638 Never Forgotten

Cameron was so angry that he laughed. He stared at the beauty in front of him for a long time before helplessly saying, "Do you really want to chat with me under a quilt and listen to my foreign affairs tonight?"

Nina continued to nod. "Yes." Cameron didn't know how to respond to that. They had only seen each other after half a month, and she actually wanted to lie in bed and... just chat with him?

Because he was angry, he simply picked her up and threw her on the bed. He turned over and gritted his teeth, "It's not impossible to talk like this."

This time, it was Nina who was speechless. However, the next second, she had the thought of playing a prank. She raised her hand to hook the man's neck and provoked him. "Mr. Dauster, your physical strength is not bad. And you can multitask."

How could Cameron hold back from her flirtation? He leaned over and kissed her hard.

Nina naturally could not continue to talk to the man. She did not know what was wrong with her. As soon as Cameron approached her, she felt that she also longed for him. In the end, she was tired and tired and fell asleep in the man's arms.

The next morning, Sylvie waited for Nina downstairs for more than half an hour. During this time, she kept sending messages to Nina. Nina did not reply. She looked at the time and almost went to Cameron's room to call for her.

Just when she was about to collapse, Lucien went downstairs to the restaurant to eat breakfast.

The man sat down opposite her with food. He glanced at her worried face and asked, "Nina hasn't come down yet?"

"Yes. It must've been intense last night, you know? They aren't even up now!" Sylvie complained gloomily.

After saying that, Sylvie suddenly realized what she had said and her face turned red.

She was used to being up-front around Nina, but now she actually said such words in front of a man. This was really awkward.

She didn't want to live anymore.

Lucien was also stunned when he heard the girl's complaint. However, he couldn't help but laugh when he saw Sylvie's flushed face and her head that was about to hang down on the table.

Of course, in order to save her face, he didn't laugh out loud. He just curved his lips and secretly smiled in a place where she couldn't see.

Perhaps it was beauty in the eyes of lovers. He didn't feel that her frankness was inappropriate. Instead, he felt that she was very cute and funny. Moreover, she wasn't pretentious at all.

Unlike some women who would speak softly every time they came in front of him, their whines would make him feel goosebumps all over his body, unable to stay for even a second.

In order to ease the little girl's embarrassment, Lucien took the initiative to say, "I forgot to bring coffee."

Then he glanced at her with a smile, got up and left his seat to get coffee, intending to give the girl some time to ease the embarrassment.

Hearing him pull out the chair and get up, Sylvie raised her head.

She raised her hand and patted her hot cheek. She took the phone in embarrassment and urged Nina to go downstairs, then rushed out of the restaurant.

If it was possible, she would never want to see Lucien again in this life.
It was too awkward.

Lucien had just walked a few steps when he heard movement behind him. He turned around and saw that the girl had run away. He immediately stood in the same place, depressed. He deliberately left to give her some time to relieve herself. He did not want her to leave.

However, after thinking about it, he felt that leaving might be a good way to ease the embarrassment. He did not chase after her. Anyway, no need to hurry. There would be plenty of time and opportunities for him to see her in the future.

He did not know that Sylvie was thinking that she would never see him again in the future.

Sylvie ran out of the restaurant just in time to see Nina coming out of the elevator. She suddenly seemed to be saved. She went forward and took Nina's suitcase and pushed it. "You finally came down. We will miss the plane."

“I am coming. Why is your face so red? Is it so hot?” Nina asked curiously.

Sylvie quickly turned her face away. “Because I was too anxious when I was waiting for you.”

Nina didn’t believe her. They had been working together for so long, how could she not know Sylvie’s character?

Although she loved to be anxious when she encountered some things, she was not so blushed that even her neck was red.

Nina faintly looked in the direction of the restaurant and said, “Did you see Lucien in the restaurant? Cameron is looking for him.”

In fact, Cameron did not look for Lucien. Nina deliberately probed Sylvie. In the end, Sylvie stammered and replied, “He just entered the restaurant when I got out.”

After saying that, Sylvie pushed Nina’s small suitcase and turned to run away. Nina pursed her lips and smiled. It turned out that the person who made her blush like this was really Lucien.

Because it was too late, Nina did not eat breakfast. She planned to go to the airport to check the time before eating, so she directly went out with Sylvie and sat in the car that went to the airport.

She had not come down just now because Cameron had been holding her and not letting her go.

She was also about to die of anxiety.

However, she did not expect that Cameron would hug her and explain in a gentle voice, “Actually, I could have come back two years earlier, but later I helped my mentor with some research and my plan of return was delayed.”

“That research... is quite dangerous. My mentor was threatened by an organization, so I did not dare to contact you. During that time, I did not dare to contact my family. I was afraid of bringing danger to you.”

As high-level scientific talents, they actually had all kinds of troubles.

Nina did not expect that he would encounter such a thing. For a moment, she did not know what to say.

After a while, she stroked his face and asked softly, "Did you suffer anything?"

Cameron smiled and shook his head. "No, they have to use me. If they destroy me, there will be nothing left."

Nina heaved a sigh of relief. Cameron continued, "I haven't contacted you in the past few years. Firstly, I am angry with you. Secondly, I also feel that if we were to contact each other at that time, we would definitely not have the heart to study and work."

"I know very well that if I didn't have a decent career and outstanding ability, I wouldn't have been able to protect you properly, nor would I have been able to get the approval of my parents."

To love a person, one must first have the ability to love her.

Those few years were the process of each of them developing themselves and enriching their own strength. They could work hard without disturbing each other. That would be pretty good.

The knot in Nina's heart was finally untied. She stared at him for a long time before suddenly burying her head into his embrace, her eyes red.

She had always resented him because he did not care about her, but now she felt that his explanation was reasonable.

In the past few years, not only had he become stronger, but she had also become stronger. Now that she stood at the peak of her career, she could no longer fear the pressure from his parents. She was also more confident.

Cameron gently kissed her forehead. "I have never forgotten you, and I am not willing to forget you." He had never been indifferent to her. Tymers Entertainment was the best proof of that.

In his arms, Nina broke into a smile and took the initiative to hook her arms around his neck to kiss his lips.

She had also never forgotten him.

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 639 Waiting for Revenge

Nina and Sylvie returned to the crew smoothly, but Cameron and Lucien were a little disappointed because they met Jillian at the airport. She went back to Riverside City on the same plane as them.

The moment Cameron saw Jillian, his lips curled into a sneer, and his eyes hidden under the sunglasses were full of coldness.

The small glass bottle that Jillian tried to frame Nina was still in his hands. It would be strange if he could treat Jillian well.

As soon as Nina left, Cameron appeared at the airport. Wasn't this equivalent to confirming that Cameron had come to Hazelton for a private date with Nina?

Others might not have noticed these details, but Jillian was extremely concerned about Nina and was extremely sensitive.

However, she was only shocked for a moment. The next second, she was scared by the coldness exuded from Cameron's body and involuntarily took a step back. Why did she feel like Cameron was going to kill her?

Before she could react, she found that Cameron was walking toward her.

She was inexplicably nervous. She saw Cameron standing beside her, and his tone was cold and mocking. "Miss Harrison, how does it feel to lose a role?"

Jillian was frozen in place. She had just been kicked out of a crew by Viggo the day before yesterday. She was about to rush back to Riverside City to settle accounts with Viggo.

How did Cameron know about this? Was it his doing behind the scenes?

Thinking of this, Jillian couldn't help but be shocked, because according to Cameron's wealth, it was very easy for the crew to kick her away, and she had used many tricks like using money to kick others away.

However, she didn't expect that one day she would be the one kicked away. Jillian gnashed her teeth in fury.

Cameron enjoyed Jillian's frightened and angry look at this moment. He slightly curled his lips and said, "Are you afraid now? The show has just begun."

Jillian's legs softened, and her arrogance weakened.

She raised her hand and pointed at Cameron, her voice trembling as she said, "Cameron, you, you are threatening me!"

"No, no, no." Cameron smiled and denied her words. Then, he told her word by word, "I am reminding you to be prepared for my revenge."

Jillian was stunned.

She did not expect that Cameron would be so direct, nor did she expect that a man who looked so decent and handsome on the outside would be so ruthless and direct to take revenge on her.

And this meant that Cameron had tacitly approved of his relationship with Nina. Otherwise, why would he do this to her? After saying these harsh words, Cameron stepped away, not wanting to stay with Jillian for even a second.

However, Jillian suddenly shouted from behind him, "Cameron, you haven't seen Nina for so many years. Do you think she is still the same Nina as before?"

"Do you know how many men she has behind her?" Jillian also went out of her way to start slandering Nina.

It wasn't exactly slandering either. What she said could be considered the truth.

Cameron and Nina had been separated for so many years. One of them was abroad while the other was at home. One was pure-hearted and had no desire to do research. The other was in the bustling entertainment industry. No matter how one thought of it, it was impossible for them to continue to be together. They were clearly two people from two completely different worlds.

They had lost so many years of contact, so they definitely did not understand each other.

Cameron did not react. Lucien, who walked past Jillian, sneered first. He looked at Jillian as if he was looking at a fool.

Jillian definitely did not know that over the years Nina in the country, Cameron knew all the big and small things related to her like the back of his hand. If not for protecting her from being controlled by those so-called big shots in the entertainment industry, why would he partner with Viggo to set up Tymers Entertainment?

If there was a financial backer behind Nina, that person could only be Cameron. However, Jillian said that Nina had a lot of men behind her. Was Jillian talking about herself?

Cameron knew better than Nina what Nina had experienced along the way, because there were many people who harbored ill intentions toward Nina, and they did many things that might harm Nina, but all of them were handled by Cameron behind her back.

Jillian was extremely annoyed by Lucien's gaze. She only felt that the look in Lucien's eyes was not very harmful, but it was extremely insulting. He seemed to be looking at a fool.

On one hand, Jillian was moved by Lucien's identity and status. On the other hand, she found that Lucien was extremely pleasing to the eye. To describe him as handsome and elegant was the most appropriate.

Jillian immediately suppressed her negative emotions and squeezed out a smile at Lucien. "Hello, Mr. Fowler." If it was possible, how good would it be if she could get together with Lucien?

That way, she could incite Lucien and Cameron to turn against each other and burn Camcien Lifetech into ashes, thus causing Nina and Cameron to lose their current wealth and power. At that time, she would see how they would still be arrogant in front of her.

Lucien was extremely disgusted by Jillian's change in expression. He simply took a step back with a cold face and turned to leave.

This woman's eyes contained a scheme that made him want to beat her up. He also did not want to stay here for a second longer.

Unexpectedly, Jillian actually followed him and said with a smile, "Mr. Fowler, I heard from my agent that she just signed your friend into our company..."

"Stop." Lucien stopped in his tracks and rudely stopped Jillian. Then, he frowned and unhappily explained, "The moment Melanie chose to enter the entertainment industry, she had no relationship with me at all. We were not on the same boat anymore."

Jillian was a little surprised. "Are you trying to cut off your relationship with her?"

Lucien was straightforward. "Yes."

"Ah, but..." Before Jillian could say anything more, Lucien had already turned around and strode away again with long legs.

Jillian was a little puzzled because she had heard from her agent, Rebecca Young, that she and the boss of Allstar Entertainment signed Melanie because Melanie was the classmate of the two people in charge of Camcien Lifetech.

Because this way, they could use Melanie to let Camcien Lifetech invest in them.

Shouldn't the two of them, as senior brothers, provide some funds for the drama or movie that their classmate was going to shoot?

But just now, Lucien had tried his best to ignore his relationship with Melanie, so what was the point of them signing Melanie?

Jillian came back to her senses and quickly took out her mobile phone to call Rebecca, telling her about Lucien's cold attitude.

Rebecca did not take her words to heart at all. She said proudly on the phone, “No, Melanie said that Lucien doted on her and would do anything for her. It was almost to the point that Lucien would think of a way to obtain the stars from the sky if she wanted them.”

“She also said that as long as we support her as the female lead. It would be no problem for her to find Lucien to invest. Lucien would definitely spend a lot of money.”

After listening to Rebecca’s words, Jillian felt quite upset.

She had just thought of dating Lucien, but she didn’t expect that Lucien would indulge Melanie like this. She was one step too late.

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 640 Help Out

However, Jillian’s mood became better in the next second. Because she felt that Melanie was not her match at all. How much did she know about men? All these years, there were no men that she couldn’t hook up with. Melanie was just a girl. There was nothing to be afraid of.

Originally, Jillian had only wanted to hook up with Lucien. However, after she heard that Lucien was so fond of Melanie, she immediately became interested in Lucien. It was the kind of mentality that the more people fought over, the more attractive it was. It made her decide to get close to Lucien in an instant.

However, she did not reveal her thoughts to her manager. After all, her manager now regarded Melanie as a treasure so that she could get an investment from Lucien or Cameron.

“Right, there is another good news to tell you.” Rebecca said on the other side of the line, “I had a long talk with Melanie again, and only then did I know that she has actually fallen in love with Cameron. She insisted on entering the entertainment industry just to go against Nina Sanchez!”

“Do you think this is great news? This way, we will have another helper to deal with Nina.” Jillian was quite surprised by this news. She did not expect Melanie to have such a thought.

She was worried that no one would disgust Nina. It seemed that Melanie appeared just in time. Cameron and Melanie had a relationship as they had the same mentor. She did not believe that Cameron could do anything to Melanie.

What Jillian did not know was that Cameron was already prepared to attack Melanie once she provoked Nina. Jillian really overestimated Melanie’s importance in Cameron’s heart.

After Cameron and Lucien landed on the ground, Lucien received a call. After the call, he asked Cameron, “There is a banquet tonight. Do you want to join me?”

Cameron was about to refuse when he heard Lucien say again, “Your love rival is also participating.” Cameron pursed his lips and looked at him. Lucien smiled and said, “Douglas Cleveland.”

Nina was now very popular. She was the goddess in the hearts of many men and women. If he wanted to talk about love rivals, many men were his love rivals. However, the only one who had a scandal with Nina was Douglas. After all, he had been photographed having dinner with Nina.

“I’ll go.” Cameron replied in a bad mood.

He needed to meet Douglas and warn him not to get near Nina again, because she already had a boyfriend.

As for why he did this, it was because during the time he and Nina were in Hazelton, Douglas had sent Nina several messages. Although Nina’s replies were very ordinary, he was still annoyed with Douglas.

He had clearly deleted Douglas’ contact information last time. He wondered why the two of them had added each other again.

Lucien smiled and patted him on the shoulder. "In the future, you have to participate in more activities like this. This way, I can relax a little. At that time, I will have time to date."

Cameron glared at him. "Who gave you the confidence that you can win her heart?"

Lucien wanted to kick his ass.

Was he still his bro?

A friend would discourage him like that?

Before Cameron could reply, he received a call from Melanie.

Lucien frowned, his face full of impatience.

However, he still picked up the call and heard Melanie happily invite him over. "Lucien, I have a banquet to attend tonight.

Can you be my partner?"

"Sorry, I have my own arrangements tonight." Lucien refused without thinking.

His refusal made Melanie completely stunned. For so many years, this was the first time that Lucien had rejected her request. Moreover, his attitude was so cold that there was no room for negotiation.

Melanie suddenly choked up with grievance, "Lucien, what happened to you? Why do you look like a different person?"

As Melanie spoke, she began to cry with grievance, "Tonight is my first time attending a banquet in the entertainment industry. I don't know anyone. My agent said that if I am nervous and afraid, it is best to find a familiar person to take me. I thought of you immediately..."

If the person who said such cold words to her today was Cameron, Melanie might not be so sad because she was used to Cameron's cold face and indifference.

But Lucien had always been conniving with her, so she could not stand Lucien's sudden indifference.

This fall from heaven to hell made her cry with sadness.

Lucien took his phone away from his ear and said seriously, "You have your choice. Of course, I also have my own choice." "When our choice runs in the opposite direction, there is no need for us to get too close."

In other words, he would firmly stand on Cameron's side. As for Melanie, he should not contact her anymore.

Melanie asked in disbelief, "What do you mean? Do you mean to break off all ties with me?"

Lucien expressed his answer in silence. Melanie suddenly burst into tears, crying and complaining to Lucien, "Lucien, are you worthy of all the support and care my father had given you back then?"

Lucien came from an ordinary family. When he went abroad to study, he took the school's public fee quota. He could not pay the tuition fees, and he had to earn all kinds of expenses for studying. Many of his work opportunities abroad were provided by Melanie's father.

Lucien felt a headache after being disturbed by Melanie like this.

However, this time, Cameron, who had always been against him, took his phone and mercilessly said to Melanie, "I think his care for you all these years is enough to repay your father's care for him."

"Also, according to what you said, I spent two years helping your father do research. I also want to ask you, Melanie, why did you do this to me? You entered the entertainment industry and planned to go against my woman in every way. Is this worthy of the two years I've sacrificed for your father?"

Melanie, who was crying fiercely, suddenly stopped crying after hearing Cameron's words. She did not know what to say at all.

The words she used to accuse Lucien were thrown back by Cameron to her. He did not give her any face at all. At this moment, her agent, Rebecca, was still by her side. Melanie was so angry that she could only use her tears to cover up her loss of face.

However, she had just cried when Cameron said impatiently, "Stop."

Melanie was shushed.

Cameron continued, "Melanie, you are no longer a child. You have to bear the consequences of your choice!" After Cameron finished speaking, he no longer gave Melanie a chance to pester him and hung up the phone.

He was too lazy to listen to Melanie cry. He also did not want to be kidnapped by Melanie's words. After he made their attitudes toward Melanie clear, he did not want to have any relationship with Melanie anymore.

Lucien took over his phone and gave him a thumbs up. "You are the only one who can deal with her." Then he said to Cameron emotionally, "Thank you."

Because he had indeed been taken care of by Melanie's father a lot, he really could not say those unpleasant words to Melanie. It was Cameron who helped him out. ns
