

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 651 You Are Bad

After the kiss ended, Nina finally realized that she was not in her dream.

But she really didn't have the strength to ask him why he was here, and only leaned in his arms and said weakly, "I'm so tired.

Help me with the shower."

She can give herself to him with confidence and can rely on him without distractions.

Cameron was naturally very willing to help. Of course, he also knew how hard she was working tonight, so even if he wanted, he still held back the urge and didn't touch her. He gently helped her take a shower and dried her hair, put her on the bed, and let her fall asleep.

Nina was exhausted. When Cameron was drying her hair, she fell into a deep sleep and slept until ten o'clock in the morning.

Because the night shooting was too late the night before, work started almost in the afternoon the next day. After Cameron asked Sylvie, he didn't wake Nina up, letting her have enough sleep.

When Nina woke up, Cameron was gone, and there was no one in the room, so she rubbed her forehead and tried to recall everything last night. She suspected that she was having a dream.

An extremely beautiful dream, so beautiful that her beloved man came to her side.

Just when she was thinking, the door of the room was opened, and a tall, handsome man walked in with a bunch of things in his hands.

Seeing the bewildered beauty on the bed, he put down the things in his hand and walked over with a low smile, "Are you awake?"

He's actually there!

Nina was instantly happy, she got off the bed and threw herself into his arms. She seemed to feel that this way was not enough to express her emotions, so she simply stood on tiptoe, held his face, and kissed him.

Although it seems a little unpretending, it is indeed her style, enthusiastic and desperate.

Cameron wrapped around her slender waist, and the two kissed passionately.

Just when both of them were losing themselves, Cameron loosened her and said in a hoarse voice, "I don't have enough time. I have to go." "Hm?" Nina was shocked.

She thought that he had traveled all the way to see her in the middle of the night. She was very moved and had to treat him well, but who would have thought that he would stop halfway.

Cameron explained, "I have an important meeting this afternoon, and I have to catch a flight later."

Nina didn't know that he was so rushed, and she felt distressed and annoyed for a while. After staring at him for a while, she said, "Then why are you still coming?"

Was he made of iron? Did he know that her heart ached for him?

Cameron warmly coaxed her in his arms, "I miss you all of a sudden and my heart hurts to see you working so hard.

Thinking that you might be happier when you see me, the exhaustion disappeared."

Nina's eyes turned red, she raised her finger and poked at his chest, "Cameron, you are too bad." Cameron said to her in a hushed voice with a smile, "Why?"

Nina snorted, "Because you made me cry and laugh."

"Okay, it's my fault." Cameron hugged her tightly; his tone was full of indulgence towards her.

No matter what she said, whether what she said made sense or not, she was right.

They hugged for a while, and Cameron remembered what he bought, and quickly said, "While you were sleeping, I went out and bought some of your favorite food. Eat something, in case you'll have stomach troubles again."

Then he planned to sort out the food he bought, but Nina pulled him back, put her whole body on him, and said reluctantly, "But I just want to eat you."

Cameron, "..."

Before he could react, Nina already leaned in to kiss him. It wasn't that he didn't want to, but he was afraid that the two of them would not have enough fun in a hurry.

But at this moment, they put all the worries behind. Let desire, love and passion lead the way.

Turned out, they had more fun than they had expected. Since he knew that they would be separated soon, they became more enthusiastic and both of them were very devoted in sex.

When they finally recovered from the excitement just now, Cameron's cell phone rang, and the car he had called to take him to the airport arrived.

He could only get up and prepare to leave. Nina knew the importance of his afternoon meeting, so even if she was reluctant, she had to let him go.

Cameron held her in his arms and said apologetically, "I'll be very busy and I may not be able to see you for a while." Originally, he shouldn't have come this time, but because he insisted on seeing her, he came.

"It's okay." Nina had already made a decision when she said these words, that is, she would find a special time to meet him and give him a surprise.

He can't always travel all the way to see her, and he can't always be the one who goes for this love. She should do something as well.

After Cameron left, Nina called Sylvie to have dinner together. Cameron bought a lot of food including some she liked to eat.

Sylvie sighed while eating, "Your man is so perfect. He is the man that girls in all those romantic stories would dream of." Nina smiled and said, "Don't be envious, maybe he will have a bald and a beer belly in a few years."

Sylvie didn't know what to reply to that.

Did Nina just say that about her husband

Besides, she felt that Cameron would never become a man who gave up image management anyway. He seemed to be the kind of person who was extremely self-disciplined and had high demands on himself.

Besides, Nina is also someone who has high requirements for image management. How could such two people get out of control of each other's image when they are together?

Nina could tell what Sylvie was thinking at a glance. She put down the tableware in her hand and said softly, "A writer once said, if you only talk about love, but you don't talk about money, basic needs, cohabitation and sex, your marriage can't last long.

"When people are falling in love, both parties will pretend, hoping to show the best side to each other. Whereas in marriage, as passion recedes, the couple still need to deal with their real life, and there will arise a lot of problems.

"So how can there be any perfect relationship? Two people who are in love should accommodate each other."

"Actually, I want to say that no matter what he'll become in the future, I'll always love him." Nina looked at Sylvie and said this gently and firmly.

Sylvie immediately gave her a thumb up, "Nice!"

Many people said that Nina only has beauty but no substance, but in fact, they didn't know her. She saw things very clearly.

Sylvie felt that she had benefited a lot from her.

Facing her praise, Nina just smiled and said nothing, lowered her head, and continued to eat.

Sylvie added, "By the way, Sherlyn told me this morning that the singing variety show you participated in will be broadcast next weekend. It's really good and everyone can appreciate your singing."

However, Nina couldn't be happy, because when she participated in this variety show, it was the time when she was sad and desperate about her relationship with Cameron, so almost every song she chose was sad.

This would make her embarrassed.

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 652 Change or Leave

Seeing that she was not happy at all, Sylvie couldn't help but ask, "What's the matter? The show is about to air, and everyone will be completely convinced by you, so you should be happy."

Nina sighed, "Do you remember the songs I sang?"

Sylvie nodded, "I remember that. Every song made me cry. I wanted to come on stage and hug you. I wanted to be a man and love you with all my heart."

When Nina recorded that singing variety show, Sylvie was by her side the whole time. In each episode, Nina sang and she cried under the stage.

When Nina practiced in private, she thought it was fine, but when she got on stage, Nina seemed to have changed her personality. She sang sadly and emotionally, and the lighting and dance were beautiful, which broke Sylvie's heart and she cried.

It was heart-breaking.

The more Sylvie described it, the more worried Nina became, "These songs will be broadcast at that time, which would make me so embarrassed in front of Cameron."

At that time, she thought it was impossible to be with Cameron, and she also wanted to say goodbye to this relationship with these sad love songs, so when she sang at that time, she was almost immersed in the performance, and she cried for every song.

She still remembers that the first song she sang was called "Who's Not". At first, the director and music director felt that her appearance and temperament were not suitable for this sad song, and they agreed that she should sing a cooler song.

But as soon as Nina sang, they immediately got goosebumps all over, and they felt like they were brought into that kind of desolate atmosphere, and the two no longer objected to her song selection.

Nina still remembers the most heartbreaking lyrics of this song to this day: Who doesn't drink till they throw up

Who is not in love till they cry

Who is not really it from there to nothing

But the memory cannot be erased

Who is not afraid of night return

But he was out all night

Who is not silly to protect him

Considerate people always lose

Have been let down by love

These few lyrics are a true portrayal of her mood at the time, so she was very committed to it.

"It's okay, after all, you didn't know at the time that you would be so happy now." Sylvie comforted her.

Nina can only resign and nod, "Yeah, that's true."

Sylvie added, "Maybe Cameron will feel sorrier for you after listening to those songs you sing."

Nina laughed, "You sweet talker!"

Sylvie shook her head happily, the two continued to eat, and then packed up and rushed to the crew.

Cameron appeared at the seminar in time in the afternoon and spent the entire afternoon there.

After the meeting was over and everyone else had left, Lucien immediately announced to Cameron, "I'll go to Jamelaton tomorrow and you need to stay in the company."

Cameron sneered, "Ha, you thought I was crazy. I think some people are crazier than me." Lucien defended himself, "Am I crazy? I just had some free time, so I went there to see her." "But you?"

"You took your break time to go there, who's crazy now?" Lucien said.

Cameron raised his hand and rubbed his forehead. He was too lazy to argue with him.

Lucien explained again, "By the way, I hired a new assistant for you, a boy, who just finished his master degree this year."

Lucien had arranged for Melanie to be Cameron's assistant before, but Cameron refused. And Lucien quickly recruited a new assistant for him.

And because he knew the current relationship between Cameron and Nina, Lucien simply found a male assistant for him this time, so as to save the plot of the female assistant developing feelings for him in the future.

Cameron said, "Thank you."

"I'll let him come in and meet you later." Lucien explained again, "That's settled then. I'll go to Jamelaton tomorrow." Cameron replied coolly, "May you succeed."

Lucien snorted, turned around, and walked out.

Not long after, there was a knock on the door outside the office, and it was the new assistant.

Cameron took his time to let the new assistant come in. The new assistant seemed to be pleasing to the eye, and his delicate features gave him a refreshing feeling. Cameron was quite satisfied.

The new assistant introduced himself nervously, "Hello, Mr. Dauster, I'm the new assistant. My name is Steven Emerson. You can call me Steve as well."

"Okay," Cameron asked him a few questions about biology at random, and the new assistant answered them fluently and proficiently.

Cameron's biotechnology work is highly specialized, so he has high requirements for assistants. The assistant must be a person with the same major as him, and he is an important figure in the research and development of Camcien Lifetech. Not any ordinary people can be his assistant.

Lucien didn't choose Steven randomly. He must have undergone rigorous interviews and selections in various aspects.

After asking some questions, Cameron finally approved the new assistant.

He was thinking that the two would cooperate happily in the future when he saw that there seemed to be a message coming in from Steven's phone, the screen of the mobile phone lit up, and there was a picture of Nina on the screensaver.

Cameron instantly felt a headache.

The new assistant is a fan of his wife, and looks like a fanatic, what should he do?

Glancing at his phone, Cameron instructed him in a cold voice, "Change your screensaver." Steven was surprised, "Huh?"

Then he explained, "This is my goddess. I like her very much."

Before he could finish his words, he found that Cameron's eyes suddenly became cold. Steven recalled the recent rumors on the Internet, saying that his boss and Nina were in a relationship before, but since they already broke up, it is okay for him to use Nina's photo as a screensaver, right?

They broke up; is it really necessary for him to do this?

And now many people use the photos of their favorite male stars or female stars as screensavers. It's normal. This photo was without any exposure and it's just a normal one.

And his computer screen is also a photo of Nina...

"Pack up and leave or change screensavers, your choice." Cameron made a decisive decision without any explanation.

Steven was speechless.

Even ex-boyfriends are so officious now?

Although he was complaining in his heart, he immediately said, "I'll change it right away."

This job is more important to him for sure, otherwise, he will become the first employee to be fired just after going to work.

Moreover, in Camcien Lifetech, he works by Cameron's side, which has unlimited potential. So, he chose to keep his job.

Then he opened his phone and quickly changed the screensaver, and said, "I'll change my computer screensaver too..."

Cameron gave him a ferocious look and motioned him to get out and change it right away.

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 653 Different Identities

Steven deleted all the photos of Nina as wallpapers and put all the magazines with Nina as their cover lady back to his drawer.

Then he finally realized that his new boss had already got married.

How could he mind the fans of his ex-girlfriend?

But he had to compromise for his work. He must hide his secret love for his idol.

In Tymers Entertainment.

Jillian and Rebecca entered Viggo's office to ask him why Jillian was driven out of the shooting site by Viggo. They thought they were not Viggo's enemies. They had no idea why Viggo would set Jillian as his target.

But they didn't expect Sherlyn to be here too.

Nina and Jillian were a pair of rivals and so were the agents behind them.

Rebecca was actually a more experienced agent than Sherlyn. But she didn't make any actress she responsible for famous. She thought after she signed Melanie Blanchard, she could get some financial support from Lucien Fowler. But she didn't expect that Lucien would break with Melanie after she did so. She was even scolded by her boss for her stupidity.

Now seeing Sherlyn, Rebecca was instantly possessed by anger. Now she even wanted to have Sherlyn killed.

But before she could say anything, Sherlyn said first, "Oh, you still don't know what manner is after so many years." Rebecca sneered and fought back, "Who you think you are?"

Sherlyn replied smilingly, "Who I am? I'm the agent of the most popular star in this country."

Her voice almost made Rebecca fall into coma in rage. When Sherlyn first started her career as an agent, Rebecca had played a few dirty tricks on her.

Before Nina made her name, Rebecca had already slandered Sherlyn and Nina on some shows.

Now as Nina had become famous, Sherlyn was confident to fight back with those words.

But Sherlyn didn't want to talk much with Rebecca. She had something to discuss with Viggo. Now as Rebecca and Jillian came to find Viggo, she didn't want to stay with them in the same room. It was so disgusting.

She turned to Viggo and said, "I'm leaving now." Sherlyn turned away and planned to leave. But Viggo stopped her in a low voice, "Wait, we haven't finished here." Sherlyn stopped and looked at him surprisedly.

Viggo walked over to her and stood shoulder-to-shoulder with her and replied to Rebecca and Jillian, "I don't want to talk with them."

Hearing his words, the two women felt quite embarrassed. Viggo was always a gentleman in their eyes. They had no idea why he was so rude to them today.

Sherlyn was also shocked by his attitude. She was also surprised that Viggo would say something in such an impolite voice.

Jillian got angry first and she took a step forward to threaten Viggo, "Why did you eliminate me from the crew? Did I do anything wrong to you?"

Now it was hard for Jillian to get even a small character in any TV series. But Viggo simply eliminate her from the crew.

As Jillian took a step forward, Viggo also took a step backward and pulled Sherlyn behind him.

Looking at the man's hand which was grabbing her arm, Sherlyn raised her eyebrows.

Viggo replied Jillian expressionlessly, "Ask my partner."

"Your partner?" Jillian said confusedly, "I've never seen him before. How could I have anything to do with him? Viggo Johansen, stop bullshitting!"

Rebecca also said aggressively, "I know you have a partner. But he has never shown up in public. I think you need to tell us who he is before you use him to threaten us."

Viggo still said expressionlessly, "You've met him before. And you have already become the biggest enemies of him." Jillian and Rebecca looked into each other's eyes and a name flashed in their mind. Cameron Dauster.

Nina and Cameron were their biggest enemies right now.

So, Cameron Dauster was Viggo's secret business partner?

As the co-owner of Camcien Lifetech, Cameron was already a big trouble for them. Now as the co-owner of Tymers Entertainment, Cameron could even control their career.

Now they knew they couldn't win this game against Nina anymore.

Jillian almost collapsed onto the floor. She felt as if she were about to fall into coma as she was already outraged, Jillian and Rebecca were now possessed by anger and Sherlyn was also shocked.

She knew the Mr. N was actually Cameron. Cameron was the partner of Viggo!

She had been working in this company for years and had even attended a few meetings together with Mr. N. By then she merely thought the partner was mysterious.

As Sherlyn was still stunned, Viggo took her hand and led her outside, "We can continue our talk outside the office." They walked out of the office and left Jillian and Rebecca here. Then, Viggo's assistant got in and asked them to leave.

Jillian and Rebecca then were driven out of the company ashamed. Just after she got into her car, Jillian began to kick the seat in front of her in anger.

"How is that possible? Cameron is the co-owner of Tymers Entertainment?" "Shit! Why would Nina be so lucky to marry such a perfect man?"

Indeed, now Cameron was a perfect man in Jillian's eyes. Now he owned both Camcien Lifetech and Tymers Entertainment.

Tymers had already become a leading player in the entertainment circle. Now Jillian's fate was already controlled by the company.

In other words, if Tymers informed other companies not to employ her, then no other company dared to give her a role in any production.

Last time when Cameron used the power of his company to block her social media account, she only lost her freedom of speech online. But now he could even let her lose her job.

Jillian burst into tears as she thought of this.

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 654 Last Chance

Rebecca was still in shock. What had just happened had made her lose her sanity. Now as Camcien Lifetech and Tymers Entertainment had both taken side, there was no chance for Jillian, Rebecca, or even Allstar behind them, to win.

In other words, they've already lost the game.

Rebecca patted her chest and took a deep breathe. Then she turned to Jillian, "Did you notice that Viggo got out with Sherlyn hand in hand?"

"I didn't. Why do you ask me that?" by then Jillian was so possessed by envy that she didn't notice how they left.

Rebecca shook her head confusedly, "Why would he hold Sherlyn's hand in hand? I remember Viggo always keeps social distance with anyone."

"Are they in a relationship now?" Rebecca guessed.

Jillian said instantly, "If you are right, then we can inform the media. Sherlyn would be overwhelmed by the cursing of Viggo's fans. Then we can

Rebecca shook her head and said, "Given his age and his power, what we are going to do couldn't harm Viggo. His fans might even expect him to get married soon."

Rebecca indeed wanted to slander Viggo and Sherlyn. But her experience told her that Viggo wouldn't get affected by her slander. And Sherlyn was also an excellent woman.

She was a famous agent in this circle, a perfect example for superwoman. And Sherlyn was also a beautiful lady. Viggo's fans wouldn't consider it appropriate for Viggo to marry Sherlyn.

Though there was no evidence to prove Viggo was now in a relationship with Sherlyn. All the actors Rebecca was responsible for couldn't be compared with Nina. And now even Sherlyn herself could shit on her.

"No, we couldn't just sit here," Rebecca said word by word.

Then she turned to Jillian, "Have you contacted Nina's parents? We can change our target to Nina. If she is ruined, Cameron would certainly be affected."

Jillian said in rage, "I've contacted her parents. But they were too greedy. They asked for a price that I couldn't afford. And they said that if they work with me to frame Nina up this time, Nina will definitely break with them. They need money from me to make a living."

Jillian thought she could easily seek help from Nina's parents as they were greedy. But she didn't expect them to be so greedy. She just couldn't afford the price they asked.

Rebecca said, "What they want is just money. If Nina is ruined as we planned, you can replace her. Then we don't have to care about money."

Jillian still said reluctantly, "I saved the money for my retire life. If we fail, I won't be able to make a living."

"Unable to make a living?" Rebecca whispered to her, "No man would refuse such a pretty girl. And I've signed Melanie Blanchard. I can ask her to sleep with several men and I can use the money to make up for you."

"Really?" Jillian was a bit convinced. To ruin Nina was exactly what she wanted right now.

Rebecca promised, "Have I ever lied to you all these years?"

Jillian snorted in her mind. She knew what a good liar Rebecca was. She might have lied to her for more than one hundred times these years.

But she didn't show her thoughts on her face. She just said, "Fine, I'll talk to Nina's parents."

What the two women failed to know was all that they said was known by Cameron through eavesdropping.

Soon, Cameron knew Jillian's plan from his men. Hearing the word "drugs", Cameron was blushing in anger.

He didn't expect the woman to be that evil. For a movie star as famous as Nina, her reputation would be ruined by Jillian's slander even if the police could prove her innocence in the end.

Cameron knew better than anyone else how a malicious slander could ruin an actress' career.

Luckily, now he knew what they were planning. If their plan worked, it would be a heavy blow to Nina.

Nina was indeed popular right now. But her popularity also brought her great stress.

That was the cost of being famous. The more famous she was, the more likely she would be ruined easily.

That's why Cameron promised to himself that he would help her no matter how hard it would be.

He held back his anger and called his men, "Bring Dominic Sanchez to me."

And he mentioned a place on the phone. It was a warehouse in a seldom frequented area. Then he drove there after hanging up the phone.

Meanwhile, Dominic was passing the time away in a card room. As he received Jillian's call, he got to a secluded lane to discuss in a low voice the price to betray his daughter with Jillian.

He was quite satisfied with the price Jillian offered.

Now Nina wouldn't bother to care about them. Now what he wanted was just to make more money even if it would cost the rest life of his daughter.

He hung up the phone and planned to get back to card room to play. But then he was forced to put on a hood and then thrown into a car. He didn't even have to time to call for help.

After a while, Dominic was taken down. As the hood was taken off his head, he saw Cameron, who was standing before him. The fact that he had just agreed to cooperate with Jillian made him so nervous that he dared not look into Cameron's eyes.

But then could Cameron monitor what he was doing all day long? He just couldn't believe that Cameron had known the agreement between he and Jillian.

Dominic failed to know that after they had become enemies, Cameron had hired a few detectives to monitor them 24 hours/day. All their moves could not escape Cameron's eyes.

But this time Cameron didn't beat him but asked Dominic with an inexplicable smile on his face, "Are you planning to ruin Nina by framing her up?"

Dominic trembled all over before he looked at Cameron in fear. How could Cameron know that? He had just phoned Jillian!

Was Cameron really monitoring him all day long?

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 655 Vengeance

Though Cameron had nailed his lie, Dominic still tried to defend himself, "I have no idea what you're talking about."

He wouldn't confess in Cameron's face. He was quite adept at lying and denying. He wouldn't tell the truth even Cameron beat him again.

But to his surprise, this time Cameron didn't choose to resort to violence. He just curled up his lips and said, "I don't need you to admit it. My request for you is simple."

Dominic thought Cameron would torture him. But now hearing his words, he became quite confused and asked, "What's your request?"

Cameron still said with a gentle smile, "My request is that you treat your son and your daughter equally. What you did to Nina, you did it to Cory as well. You framed your daughter for drug addiction and I just want you do to the same to your son."

Dominic instantly shouted, "What are you saying? That's my son!"

He definitely knew what his son would face if he touched drugs. He might be sent to jail. His son was his dearest person and he would never do that to his son!

It was quite cruel and ridiculous for Dominic to hold such double standard. Cameron instantly put on a cold face as he felt sorry and sympathetic for Nina.

He glared at Dominic with his bloodshot eyes and anger was written all over on his face, "You won't do that to your son but you have already done that to your daughter for money!"

"I haven't! Did you get any evidence?" Dominic denied. But his discussion with Cameron had already betrayed him.

Cameron didn't want to talk with him anymore. He said directly, "And it couldn't be called slander if I say Cory is involved with drugs. I will be just telling the truth."

Dominic avoided to look at him.

Indeed, Cory was a drug addict. Dominic had just known the fact after the creditor found him. He had no idea why Cory would owe such a big amount of money. And then he knew the reason.

He chose to jump into the abyss.

Dominic did try to rid him of drug addiction. But every time he saw how miserable Cory was when he suffered from drug addiction, he had no choice but to give him more money to buy drugs.

But Dominic didn't expect that Cameron would know it. He looked at Cameron worriedly since he was afraid that Cameron would inform the police about it.

Cameron knew what Dominic had in mind and he sneered, "Just see how pathetic you are right now. Tell me, do you dare to hurt Nina anymore?"

Dominic kneeled on the floor with his hand holding Cameron's pants and begged, "Please, don't let the police know. I won't do that anymore. Please, don't inform the police. I won't do anything harmful to Nina anymore. I'll be kind to her. I promise!"

Cameron snorted and kicked Dominic off.

"It's too late," he said to Dominic word by word in a cold voice.

If he didn't use Cory to threaten Dominic, the terrible father might have already framed his daughter up according to Jillian Harrison's plan.

He wouldn't let them go easily.

He didn't want to have a talk with Dominic. What he wanted was to torture him, to see how the cruel father's heart was torn apart by him.

That's what the Sanchez family did to Nina. Today, he decided to take his wife's vengeance.

Cameron then took out his phone and texted, "Inform the police of Cory Sanchez's position. And tell them that he is a drug addict."

Anger surged through his mind and Dominic fell into coma and collapsed onto the floor in Cameron's face.

Cameron took a step backward and asked his men to splash some cold water on him to wake him up.

When he woke up, he felt as if his world had collapsed right in front of him. His son was sent to prison by Cameron. His son was the only one he cared about in this world.

Dominic leaned back against the wall with his eyes fixed on the man looking down at him.

Now in Dominic's eyes, Cameron was a devil. It had never occurred to him that the handsome and gentle boy could be so cruel." Over this, he couldn't help but felt heartache.

Cameron looked down at Dominic and said expressionlessly, "Do you want to resist me anymore? Or do you want to do anything wrong to Nina anymore? Do you think you can simply ignore my warning? If you do, then I think I have to resort to violence."

His voice was so overwhelming that Dominic felt as if he could not breathe.

"If you continue to resist me, then I'm afraid that you'll be the next one who's going to jail," Cameron threatened his father-in-law directly, "And I'm afraid that Cory won't live a comfortable life in prison."

Dominic gave up instantly, "No, I won't do that anymore."

Then he closed his eyes and murmured in pain, "I won't provoke you or Nina anymore. Just let us go, please. Don't torture us anymore, please."

Actually, what Dominic wanted to do was let Cameron know how crazy he was right now.

It was quite terrifying. Last time, Cameron went to his house and smashed his treasures. This time, he sent Cory to the police office. Now Dominic was afraid that he would lose his life if he continued to resist Cameron.

But Cameron put an inexplicable smile on face and said, "Not that simple." Dominic almost lost his sanity, "Then what do you want from me?"

"I don't trust your promise so I asked my lawyer to write an agreement for us. I just need your signature." Cameron then asked his men to place a file in front of Dominic.

Something was listed on it. One of them was that from the moment Dominic signed the file, he should leave Nina alone. Nina would no longer be their daughter, so they weren't allowed to turn to her for help if anything happened in the future.

And if Dominic violated what was stipulated in this file and do anything wrong to Nina, then Nina would take back the houses where Dominic and his wife were living in.

It was Nina who bought the properties. If they didn't provoke Nina anymore, they could keep them. But if they still choose to trap their daughter, Cameron didn't have to show mercy to them.

Dominic signed the file instantly. Now the only thought in his mind was to let his son live more comfortably in jail and to get rid of Cameron.

After he signed the file, Cameron asked his men to take Dominic away and then he torn the file apart.

Actually, the file had no force of law. It was just a prop to threaten Dominic.

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 656 Cameron's Revenge

After dealing with Dominic, Cameron made a few phone calls. Jillian Harrison must pay her debt.

These days Nina had been indulged in her work. Now it was the time for Cameron to handle those rats in case that they would make trouble for Nina.

Jillian and Rebecca didn't get the so-called justice from Viggo and then they left to have lunch in a restaurant nearby.

She picked a popular restaurant and chose a seat in the middle of the restaurant to attract public attention. She hoped that she could be recognized by someone so that she could enjoy the feeling of being a celebrity. But recently seldom did she have such a feeling.

If she continued to get no role in any TV series, she might be soon forgotten by the public.

But it had never occurred to her that before they finished their meal, a woman showed up and slapped her. Then she even picked up the juice Jillian ordered and splashed it on her face.

Jillian screamed and the restaurant was in chaos.

“What are you doing?” Rebecca finally realized what had just happened and pushed the woman away.

But the woman then slapped her too, which made her fall back to her seat. Rebecca screamed in great pain and then burst out crying.

Someone that sat next table stood up and stopped the woman from beating them again, “Wait, miss. I think you’d better stop the violence. You can have a talk with them if you think they’ve done something wrong to you.”

The woman shook his hand off and sneered, “She’s my husband’s mistress! I just want to beat them and let all other people know what a bitch she is!”

The woman’s words made the one who stopped her take a step backward.

He knew how terrible a person Jillian was if she ruined the woman’s marriage. Suddenly, someone in the restaurant shouted, “Beat the shit out of her!” “What a shameless bitch!”

“A homewrecker at such a young age!”

Hearing the cursing of the crowd, Jillian bent over on her seat with her hand covering her face. Luckily, now her face was veiled by her hair so no one could figure out who she was.

Jillian didn’t expect that it would be such a bad day for her. She had been in a relationship with a lot of men in the entertainment circle, several of them already married. She was warned by someone’s wife but it was the first time for her to be slapped in the face of so many people.

The majority of the women who were betrayed by their men dared not reveal the truth to public because they considered it as a shame in their life or because they were afraid that it would ruin their husbands' career.

Jillian could tell who the woman was by her voice. The woman was also among those women who dared not tell the truth. But today she even dared to slap on her face!

But in the presence of so many people, Jillian didn't dare to say anything to the woman.

But the woman didn't stop and even held her hair in hand and pulled her up from her seat. Then she shouted to the crowd, "She had sex with my husband and send obscene messages to my husband at night!"

Jillian couldn't help but screamed, "Stop!"

Then her face appeared again before the crowd.

Someone shouted, "Is that Jillian Harrison?" "Oh, yes, she is! I thought it was her when she first entered the restaurant. But I didn't say it."

Jillian felt as if her face were burning. She didn't know whether it was because she was slapped by the woman or because she felt ashamed. A few minutes earlier she hoped someone could recognize her but now that thought vanished completely from her mind.

But the woman still held her hair in hand and she could not get rid of her. She had no choice but to cover her scalp with her hand. Otherwise, her hair might have been pulled off from her head by the woman.

"She is Jillian Harrison! My husband was not the only man seduced by her. She could get the roles she played only because she had had sex with a lot of men in the entertainment circle!" the woman continued, which attracted another round of cursing from the crowd.

Rebecca knew she couldn't let the woman to reveal Jillian's scandals anymore. She quickly stood up to help Jillian but then got kicked by the woman. Then she covered her abdomen and groaned in pain.

The woman was a famous athlete in the past. After she retired, she knew her husband and became a housewife. They were indeed a happy couple.

But several years later after her husband had made a few achievements, he became an unfaithful husband.

That's why the woman was throwing every punch with mighty force now. Rebecca and Jillian had no chance to fight back.

The woman kicked Rebecca back to her seat before she said to the crowd, "Her agent is also a bitch! She's a well-known bawd in this circle and it was her who seduced my husband to meet that bitch Jillian Harrison!"

Then another round of cursing rose in the crowd. Rebecca couldn't even raise her head to face them.

Now Jillian and Rebecca had become completely notorious. They couldn't show up in public anymore.

They couldn't even be accepted by the society. Now someone had already recorded what happened here today and posted the video online.

Now as Jillian had already suffered what she deserved, the woman threw her back to her seat and shouted at her, "Now you can continue to get involved with my husband. That's true. And I will beat you to death if you do that. That's also true."

Jillian trembled all over in rage. But how could she defend herself?

She had no choice but to pick up her purse and left the restaurant hurriedly. The other customers were still cursing them from behind.

As they got into their car, Jillian burst into tears again. She was ruined. She couldn't get back to her heyday anymore.

But that's not the worst thing happened to her today. That evening, the police suddenly broke into her house and found some heroin in her house. Then "Jillian Harrison Drug Addict" had become a heated topic on all social media.

Jillian fell into coma as the police told her she was arrested due to drug. She had got romantically involved with many married men. But she didn't touch any drugs.

She was trapped.

But she could not defend herself anymore. Now the picture of how she was arrested by the police had already gone viral online.

But the moment she fell into coma, it occurred to her that all she suffered today was what she was about to do to Nina.

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 657 All the Luck

Jillian planned to ask Dominic to frame Nina up. Now Nina and Cameron were watchful as they all knew Jillian was their enemy.

Dominic was Nina's father after all. If he could manage to meet Nina and put the bag of drugs into Nina's purse, in her house, then Jillian's plan would work.

Even if urinalysis could prove that Nina wasn't an addict, her career would be ruin by a small bag of white powder.

But Jillian didn't expect that the tragedy would happen to her.

To make it worse, just before she was arrested, she was beaten in public as a mistress. Now no matte how hard she tried to prove she was not an addict, no one would believe her.

Now for the public, she was already a promiscuous woman. It was not surprising that she was also a drug addict.

Now as she was arrested, Allstar Entertainment terminated its contract with Jillian immediately. And all the commercial endorsements backfired. The companies asked her to pay the penalty for breaking the contract. Jillian almost fell into coma in the police office.

Jillian knew exactly why those things would happen to her.
It must be Cameron who was behind it. He did this to take his wife's vengeance.

Cameron must have known her plan to frame Nina up together with Dominic. Then he quickly took actions before her according to her own plan.

She was quite confused why the woman who was beating her dared to reveal the truth in public. Now she knew why. Cameron must be behind the woman.

With those thoughts in mind, Jillian wiped off the tears on her face and called Nina. She knew the call was a humiliation for her. But what she cared now was only to beg Nina for forgiveness, to let Cameron forgive her.

Nina didn't know why Jillian would call her. But as a big fan of social media, Nina had already known that Jillian was arrested.

But she also loved to watch her enemy suffer. So, she decided to answer the call. After all, it was good to hear Jillian sobbing.

As Nina answered the phone, Jillian cried, "Help me, please, Nina."

Nina was quite confused, "What do you mean?"

Nina didn't know it was Cameron who sent Jillian to jail. Cameron didn't tell her how to deal with Cory before so Nina thought Cameron had nothing to do with their problem.

Jillian said while sobbing, "Please, Nina, tell Cameron to forgive me. I won't harm you anymore. I won't find fault with you anymore. Please, Nina."

Jillian cried in great sorrow. It was the first time for Nina to see the woman beg her like a crybaby.

But Nina could feel no sympathy for her. Now the scenes of how Jillian trapped her were surging through her mind. When she hadn't become a famous actress, she was often bullied by Jillian, who even made her suffer from cyber violence.

And Nina knew why Cameron would do such a cruel thing to Jillian. It must be due to her evil plan again.

And then she asked Jillian instantly, "So tell me, what do you plan to do to me? Why would Cameron do this to you?"

Jillian was speechless.

Nina continued, "You asked Andrew Sonfield to drug me before. What do you want to do to me this time?" Jillian had no idea whether she should tell her the truth or not.

After a while, she finally told Nina about how she planned to frame her up with the help of Dominic.

Hearing her words, Nina fell into silence.

After a long while, Nina said word by word, "I won't help you. Instead, I'll ask Cameron to continue."

Jillian bawled, "Nina Sanchez!"

Nina sneered, "Thanks to Cameron, I wasn't ruined by you. Tell me, Jillian, why should I save you? And I think you know what type of person I am. If it were me, I'll get back at you at any cost. I didn't expect you to be so dumb that you ask me to save you."

Nina couldn't help but curse her. Now even her hand was quivering with anger.

Last time Jillian tried to poison her and Nina had already forgiven her. But this time she even tried to frame her up.

She planned to tell the police Nina was a drug addict. That was totally different from last time.

And Nina didn't expect her own parents would do such an evil thing.

There was also an actress who was framed up by her own mother. Her career was then ruined and she couldn't get back to her heyday anymore.

So, how could she save Jillian?

She hoped Jillian could live in tragedy and chaos throughout her life. Someone as evil as she was didn't deserve happiness.

Nina hung up the phone and then she blocked Jillian.

"What happened, Ms. Sanchez?" Sylvie saw how Nina shivered after she hung up the phone and asked worriedly.

Nina held Sylvie in arms tightly and pressed her head on Sylvie's shoulder, "Why are there so many evil people in this world?"

Nina was indeed hurt by her parents.

Though she knew Dominic and Marisa weren't good parents, she didn't expect them to trap her like this.

This time what they did had made Nina loathe her own parents.

"They are just jealous of you." Sylvie tried to console Nina. Now her mind was filled with sympathy for Nina.

In her mind, Nina was always a superwoman who never got overwhelmed. She had never expected such a superwoman would say those words.

Nina was indeed adept at controlling her own emotions. She leaned on Sylvie's shoulders only for a while before she held back her sorrow. Then she patted Sylvie's shoulder and said, "Then I'll let them see how powerful I am."

Then Nina texted Cameron, "I've known what you've done for me. Thank you." Then she sent another message, "I think all the luck I got in my life was used to meet you."

After she sent the message, tears welled up in her eyes.

She didn't know what she should say to show her gratefulness to Cameron. Now the only thing she could do was to promise him that she would never leave him in her whole life.

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 658 My Luck

Nina didn't ask how Cameron dealt with her father, nor did she ask what would happen to Cory after he was taken away by the police. It didn't matter to her. From now on Dominic and Cory were only strangers to her.

And she didn't have to envy others who had a happy family. Now she also had a family, a family given by Cameron Dauster.

And she finally got rid of her evil parents and younger brother.

Cameron soon replied, "It's my luck to fall in love with you."

Tears welled up in Nina's eyes when she smiled happily and sweetly as she saw those words on the screen.

Love might be the only thing in this world that could make one smile and cry at the same time.

Nina then received a call from Marisa Midgarden. Though Dominic had told her not to bother Nina or Cameron, she still phoned Marisa.

Cory was her sweetheart. Marisa felt as if she would end up dying alone since her son had been arrested.

And Dominic couldn't stop her from calling Nina.

Marisa begged Nina on the phone, "Please, Nina, please, tell Cameron to let Cory go."

Nina sneered, "Sorry, but that's not what Cameron and I could help. The police have got the evidence." Marisa said again, "Then could you tell Cameron to ask the police to reduce his prison sentences?"

"No," Nina declined without hesitation, "Why didn't you think how your son would suffer when you conspired with Jillian Harrison against me?"

“He deserves it. Hell is the only destiny for a drug addict.” “Nina!” Marisa cried and Nina hung up the phone instantly.

It was quite funny. Why would Marisa think any problem could be solved by money or relationship?

She didn't know how terrible her son was!

Cory was not only a drug addict but also a possible drug dealer. This was not as simple as sending him to rehab.

In Nina's mind, sending him to prison could at least prevent him from hurting other people.

It was said that the society would play to role to educate one's child if he failed to do so. Jillian would also suffer the same.

She sold everything she could sell from her house, her car to her purses, to pay for the penalties. After all those ended, she couldn't afford a meal.

Jillian found Rebecca for help, but Rebecca didn't let her enter her house.

“I want to help you. But just see what you can do right now?” Rebecca's situation was a bit better than Jillian's. After all, she didn't live on her fame and face.

But she was blamed by her boss, who ordered her to make Melanie Blanchard a famous actress, otherwise, he would fire her.

Jillian said worriedly, “I can do anything you want. I don't even have a house to live...”

After a while, Rebecca replied smilingly, “Okay. Then do me a favor and I can lend my empty house to you.”

“What favor?”

“You know, now Melanie is the only hope of mine. You get her to sleep with Mr. Fletcher, whatever method you use, and thereby I can get his investment.”

“No problem,” Jillian said instantly.

“Give me what I need. I will ask Melanie out.” Jillian said.

The smile on Rebecca became wider, “Thank you so much, dear. I’ll introduce you to someone wealthy later.”

Now Jillian could only use her body to earn money. Luckily, she didn’t despise herself for being a whore.

Rebecca gave her the key of the empty house and a small bottle filled with some unknown liquid. It was Melanie’s fault to refuse to sleep with the man. Now she deserved what she was going to suffer.

After all, now Jillian was totally ruined and she could only use Melanie right now.

Now the new TV show of Allstar needed Mr. Fletcher’s funds. And Mr. Fletcher agreed to offer his money only when Melanie agreed to have sex with him.

And she didn’t care whether Melanie’s thought.

Sylvie received a call from Lucien this afternoon. Lucien said to her, “I’m in Jamelaton now. Are you available for a dinner this evening?”

Sylvie said in shock, “Why are you here?”

Jamelaton was not a metropolis and there wouldn’t be any commercial meetings held here. She had no idea why Lucien would come here.

Lucien said honestly, “I came here to thank you.”

“You don’t have to...” Sylvie murmured.

She didn’t expect Lucien to actually invite her to dinner as he promised.

She thought he would invite her to a dinner after Nina finished her work. But now he even got to Jamelaton to thank her.

Lucien continued, “I’m here now after all. Well, it’s up to you after all.”

Hearing his polite voice, Sylvie finally agreed.

And then she added, "Can I ask Nina to join us?"

Lucien replied smilingly after a while, "Of course, if she agreed."

But now in his mind, Lucien hoped Nina was clever enough to let Sylvie come here alone. Otherwise, he wouldn't do any favor for Cameron anymore.

Sylvie turned to Nina and asked, "Nina, Mr. Fowler is here in Jamelaton. He said he wants to invite us to dinner this evening."

Lucien felt quite awkward as he heard what Sylvie said. He didn't invite Nina to dinner.

She was the only one he invited.

The little girl was also good at lying.

Nina instantly knew what Lucien had in mind and said, "You are the only one he invited, right? It is you who he wants to thank. I'll pass."

Before Sylvie could say anything, Nina continued, "You know, it's a terrible day for me. I just want to stay alone this evening."

Hearing her words, Sylvie didn't say anything anymore.

She had no idea why she was reluctant to have a dinner with Lucien. It was a bit weird.

Lucien didn't do anything wrong to her after all.

But now Lucien had already been in this city. So, she had no choice but to accept his invitation.

Nina and Sylvie got back to the hotel and Nina followed her to her room directly. Sylvie asked in confusion, "Why did you come to my room?"

Nina smiled, "I just want to pick the outfit for you for tonight." Sylvie said confusedly, "It's not a date after all."

It was just a thank-you dinner, wasn't it?

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 659 Boyfriend

Nina was amused by Sylvie's answer. Nina knew that she had watched a lot of rom-coms and read loads of love stories? She gave such good relationship advice and pinpointed the problem between Cameron and Nina. Lucien's intention couldn't be clearer, but why wasn't Sylvie able to see through it now?

"Two sexually active single people having dinner in a romantic restaurant. I don't know. Sounds like a date to me," Nina teased, stroking her perfectly-shaped chin.

Sylvie snapped, "No, it's not! He wants to treat me to dinner because I helped him last time. It's purely a thank-you dinner. Nothing else."

They were people from different worlds. If it weren't for Nina and Cameron, she wouldn't even have a chance to sit at the same table with him last time they were in Hazelton.

Nina could tell what Sylvie was thinking.

Sylvie was this conservative girl who had never thought about marrying off to a wealthy family. She probably felt like she didn't deserve someone like Lucien.

Nina felt for Sylvie. After all, she had been through the same thing before. She tried to distract Sylvie from this topic. "Okay. Let's just end it there. Come and pick an outfit."

Sylvie sighed. "I don't have anything for an occasion like this. I only have sweat shirts and casual wears."

Being an assistant meant that she had to be running around on set all day. She had to make sure what she was wearing was comfortable enough.

"How do you know? I'm sure we can find something." With that, Nina smiled and turned to Sylvie's closet.

She picked out a pair of black trousers and a casual white button-up for Sylvie and made her put them on.

Then, she helped Sylvie tuck the shirt in and untied the top two buttons. Nina had never noticed that Sylvie's skin was so fair and smooth.

Before Nina could see how it looked on her, Sylvie covered the collar and said, "No, no. I'm not used to showing so much skin."

She had only worn this shirt on the set a few times to protect herself from the searing sun rays. Even if she felt too hot, she had only unbuttoned the top one.

Nina suggested, "You have a good shape. You should show it off some time." Why didn't Sylvie know how to make good use of her natural gift?

Sylvie shook her head, scurried to the closet, and put on an oversize crew neck shirt, covering herself up.

Nina said helplessly, "Alright. Just wear what you want to wear. You look just fine."

"I know, right?" Sylvie looked at herself in the mirror and tidied up. "I've already ordered dinner for you. Be sure to eat it before it gets cold," she said.

"Okay," Nina replied as she walked Sylvie to the elevator.

Sylvie had planned to take a taxi to the restaurant. But when she got down to the hotel lobby, Lucien was standing right there waiting for her.

To avert any possible scandals, Lucien didn't stay in the same hotel with Sylvie and Nina as Cameron did.

Instead, he checked into the hotel next door.

"What are you doing here? I thought you are going to wait for me at the restaurant." Sylvie blushed.

Lucien chuckled. "I'm just dropping by to pick you up."

The two were just about to leave when they bumped into Andrew.

Ever since Andrew decided to side with Nina, he had been keeping a safe distance from her. Now that he wasn't coerced into approaching Nina, he felt much more relieved.

He also replaced the assistant that Jillian had bought off.

Seeing Sylvie and Lucien standing side by side, Andrew was a little surprised. However, he soon collected himself and greeted Lucien, “Mr. Fowler? What are you doing here...”

Lucien didn’t want anything to do with Andrew. If it weren’t for the fact that Nina and Cameron got embroiled in the mess that Andrew and Jillian had made, he would not have known that Andrew existed at all.

He ignored the hand Andrew extended and said indifferently, “I’m eating out with my friend.”

Andrew glanced at Sylvie in shock. Wasn’t she Nina’s assistant? Lucien Fowler literally just called her his “friend”? Shouldn’t his friend be rich tycoons like Julian and Cameron? Or at least superstars like Nina? Andrew chaffed, “Oh, I know. Mr. Fowler here is your boyfriend, isn’t he?”

Sylvie wanted to roll her eyes. What was wrong with this Andrew Sonfield? Last time, when he saw Cameron and her standing next to each other, he also asked her if Cameron was her boyfriend. Now, Lucien? What’s his deal? Couldn’t a girl just hang out with her friend who happens to be a man? There’s just no pure friendship between the opposite gender in his eyes? Did he know how inappropriate it was to say something like that? He was embarrassing her in front of Lucien!

Sylvie had always found Andrew annoying. That didn’t change even if Andrew had clearly said that he was going to side with Nina.

She rolled her eyes at him and said, “Mr. Sonfield, I think you should watch your mouth a little. You are lucky that Mr. Fowler doesn’t care about such a mindless remark. Just think about what if he does take the offense.”

Before Andrew could react, Sylvie turned to Lucien and smiled. “Mr. Fowler, let’s go.”

With that, Sylvie walked away. Lucien glanced at Andrew coldly and quickly caught up with the girl.

Lucien couldn’t care less about Andrew’s comment. After all, he really did wish he was Sylvie’s boyfriend.

What Lucien didn't like was the way Andrew stared at Sylvie as if he had feelings for her.

After the two left, Andrew's new assistant growled, "Mr. Sonfield, isn't she Nina's assistant? How arrogant of her to speak to you like that!"

"Well, gatta get used to it," said Andrew, looking at the two leaving. Thinking back, Sylvie had never given him a smile since he came into contact with Nina on the set.

Even so, her attitude towards him was never as cold as today.

There He Is Again, My Ex-Husband - Chapter 660 Drenched

Sylvie was still angry even after she got in the car with Lucien. Lucien turned to look at the mad little girl and said after much pondering, "It's okay. He is not wrong. Aren't we boyfriend and girlfriend now?"

Seeing that she looked unpleasantly shocked, Lucien added, "Faked, of course."

Sylvie heaved a sigh of relief. She thought the fake dating trope was over after she helped him get rid of Melanie's pestering. That was why what Lucien just said kind of startled her.

Then, she started complaining, "But Andrew is so annoying! I just hate seeing him."

Sylvie was telling the truth. Somehow, she just disliked Andrew from the first day she joined the crew with Nina. However, she couldn't show her feelings that much due to her work.

This time, he really drove her mad.

Lucien recalled Andrew's malicious stare and thought that Sylvie didn't feel that way about Andrew for no reason.

However, he didn't tell Sylvie about that for the time being. "If you don't like him, stay away from him. Or, you can do what you did just now."

Sylvie sighed, "Easy for you to say. What if he fires me from the crew? I still have to earn a living."

Although Nina would protect her if anything happened, Sylvie didn't want to trouble Nina. After all, Nina and Andrew still had to work on the TV series together. She couldn't sour their relationship just because she didn't like Andrew.

Lucien stared at her and said solemnly, "Don't worry. I won't let anything happen to you. I'm your nominal boyfriend, remember?"

Sylvie glanced at him in surprise, then casually brushed it off. "Forget about it. It's not him. I'm fine. He didn't do anything out of line" Lucien pursed his lips, then turned to the driver and told him to start the car.

He really wanted to help her out. He wanted Sylvie to do whatever she felt like without thinking about the consequences.

He wanted Sylvie to know that she didn't hate Andrew for no reason. She felt that way because Andrew had been leering at her.

The second they arrived at the restaurant, Lucien received a message from Nina, "Sylvie probably never thought about the possibility of being together with you because she thinks there is a huge gap between you two. You have to convince her that you are not that different from her."

Lucien had also realized that Sylvie merely treated him as a friend and didn't see him as a potential date.

Even if he had already proposed to fake date with her, she still had no clue.

"Thanks." Lucien typed back, then put his phone away.

Sylvie was in a simple and clean T-shirt, wearing light makeup. She stared at the menu and smiled, obviously delighted after seeing all those delicious foods.

He gazed at the girl and his feelings for her grew even stronger. He could have all the money in the world.

But, deep down, he knew he just want to be with someone who soothed him and made him feel belonged.

There was just something magical about this girl.

Taking Nina's advice, Lucien focused on talking about his experience growing up, including how poor his family was, how he got into a work-study program in college, and how he juggled a couple of part-time jobs when he was studying abroad.

Then, he went on to talk about how he founded Camcien Lifetech with Cameron. They had a hard time at the very beginning. Cameron chose not to rely on his family's connections in the academic community. So, the two literally started from scratch.

They were turned down countless times. Numerous people had given them cold shoulders. But it didn't stop them from working tirelessly to establish the company.

Sylvie was shocked. She never thought that there was such a dark past behind their glory.

Lucien continued, "I'm just an ordinary man who happens to be slightly better at something."

Sylvie replied, "Are you humble-bragging? Slightly better? Do you have some misunderstanding about the definition of 'slightly'? You outshine 90% of people in this world."

With that, Sylvie gave him a depressed stare.

Lucien chuckled and said, "Your job must be interesting. Running around on the set every day and witnessing the production of a TV series."

Sylvie nodded as she ate. "Yeah. And I get to see so many handsome actors and gorgeous actresses every day. That's a plus."

Lucien didn't respond.

“Well, they say seeing beautiful things can make one feel good. People’s mood is a determining factor in their health. I think I might be the healthiest person in this world.”

Sylvie laughed, trying to smooth things out.

Lucien was amused by her clever remark.

He then chatted about his parents, saying that they didn’t care about the family background of his future spouse.

Sylvie said in surprise, “You are one of the most eligible bachelors in Riverside City. Your parents will want you to marry a beautiful and outstanding girl, won’t they? The kind that attracts everyone’s attention? “

They would be a perfect match. Just like Nina and Cameron.

“Everyone has different definitions of beauty and excellence. The girl I like is the most beautiful and excellent in my eyes,”

Lucien stared at Sylvie as he said. Sylvie blushed.

Why did she feel like he was saying that to her?

She smiled and averted his gaze to hide her embarrassment.

Sylvie knocked on Nina’s door at around 9 p.m.

Nina opened the door to see Sylvie wrapped in a thin blanket. Nina let her in and asked in puzzlement, “What happened? What’s with this blanket?”

Sylvie said in chagrin, “Don’t even get me started. When we were at the parking lot, a guy accidentally bumped into me. The water in his hand spilled all over me. Lucien grabbed the blanket and wrapped it around me.”

It was mid-summer. Lucien only wore a shirt and didn’t bring a coat for Sylvie to put on. Sylvie’s white shirt was drenched by the water. The area around her chest almost became transparent. That was why he insisted on giving her the blanket.

At the thought of that, Sylvie blushed.

Nina lifted the blanket and burst out laughing. "This is no better than the button-up I wanted you to wear." Lucien must have seen everything. The drenched shirt veiling over her bare skin only added an extra layer of allure to it.

Sylvie stamped her feet in embarrassment, "Why is this happening to me! Is that guy blind? It's so awkward!"
