

Timeless Love 41

CHAPTER 41 ENCOUNTER IN PARKING LO

As a result, after Barry finished speaking, Hathaway fell into silence and then said lazily, "It seems that I will be out of favor soon."

Barry wanted to say something, but Hathaway continued to say again, "Barry, first of all, I want to remind you that I was not with Leon, and he haven't admitted that I was his girlfriend. So I am not qualified to mind his relationship with other women. Secondly, I have never thought that I would be Mrs. Davis. I don't care if Bella wants to marry him."

Barry, "....."

So, she didn't care about it at all after he told her anxiously?

God knew what kind of mood he had when he got the news that Bella who had been studying abroad for more than half a year had returned to China today. He wished that Hathaway would run to meet Leon every day.

"Okay, don't talk about it for a while. I still have something to discuss." Hathaway said and hung up directly. Barry took a few deep breaths before depressing his discontent.

Ten minutes later, in Nick's office.

After Hathaway sat in front of him with her head tilted and looked at him mysteriously for a long time without saying a word, Nick, who had always ignored her, finally opened his mouth, "What's the matter?"

Hathaway said directly, "Are you the man who slept with my sister a year ago?"

Nick answered her directly, "No comment."

Nick was very angry now. He was angry with Ashley.

Because he put out feeler to see if Ashley remembered that night during this time, but she didn't want to mention it at all. And she even had a feeling of avoiding the men with her that night, not to mention the thought to have something to do with him.

Nick was so angry. Did he make her shameless? What's more, she announced that she was engaged to another man after sleeping with him. He hadn't asked her to explain to him yet.

Hathaway saw through his disguise directly, "Come on, don't pretend. I saw your gloomy face just now."

Nick was angry inexplicably when Ashley said that she would apologize to Charles. Then he was gratified when Ashley mentioned that night. In addition, he was extremely happy when Charles said Ashley didn't want to have sex with him. Hathaway looked at Nick's expression clearly.

Nick was speechless. Hathaway asked him with a smile, "What are you going to do now? Do you want to be responsible for my sister?"

Nick said to her angrily, "Do you think she wants me to be responsible for her?"

Hathaway thought for a while, "It seems that she doesn't need you to be responsible."

If Ashley wanted him to be responsible, she wouldn't run away that morning.

Hathaway sighed casually, "After being snatched back from the jaws of death, my sister understands a lot, and she said she would enter the entertainment industry."

"What?" Nick couldn't keep calm at all now. Everyone knew how dark and confused the entertainment industry was. She was so tender that she would certainly be bullied after entering the entertainment industry.

Moreover, no one would give her resources at this age if she wanted to be involved in the entertainment industry. And couldn't she think of how difficult it would be if she had no resources?

Nick did not understand that Ashley, who almost died, didn't care about how difficult the road will be. She cared about living happily, and she wouldn't feel difficult no matter how difficult it would be if she could do something she liked.

Nick still thought about Ashley's decision. Hathaway said unkindly, "I just told you a secret of my sister. In exchange, you should tell me a secret of Leon?"

Nick, "..."

Who promised to exchange with her?

How did Leon endure such a cheeky person who didn't follow rules every day?

Hathaway comforted Nick, "Don't worry. I don't want any earth-shattering secrets. Just tell me what he is the worst at."

Nick glared at her angrily, and wanted to tell her nothing, but thought he would need Hathaway's help if he wanted to get in touch with Ashley in the future, so he had to compromise to sell Leon, "Dancing, singing and painting, he is not good at these arts, especially painting."

As a purely science and engineering student, Leon was not good at all arts.

But the strange thing was that Leon could play the piano, and he also played very well.

Leon once said that playing the piano was purely forced by his mother Adeline when he was a child. This was the way he was. If he wanted to learn something, he must learn the best. But it didn't mean that he liked it.

Hathaway tweeted, "I found that I really have no common language with him. I paint so well, he can't draw pictures at all..."

Nick looked at Hathaway, and his expression was hard to describe.

He would like to know how Leon would feel if he knew Hathaway describe their relationship in this way. He was afraid Leon would be mad.

Nick wanted to say that this couple of sisters really knew how to make others angry.

Hathaway was always so. Ashley seemed so tender and good-tempered. But how could she still make him so angry?

After a long morning, Hathaway found that it was not too early when she left the hospital. It was almost lunch time. She decided to go to the mall to buy something, and then go to the company in the afternoon.

Hathaway was going to the mall to buy underwear, because her underwear had been torn over by Leon. She needed to prepare a few more. If all men are so anxious in bed? Can't they be patient? She thought.

After choosing a few of underwear she liked for a long time in the shop, Hathaway left after checking out.

While walking towards the car in the parking lot, she happened to see Leon walking over with a woman. The aisle of the parking lot was fairly spacious, but Hathaway inevitably came face to face with them.

Hathaway was certain that the woman with Leon was Bella who was called her rival in love by Barry according to the phone call in the morning.

Alas, Bella looked really good and outstanding, because her figure was very slim and perfect for dancing, especially her long legs in Hathaway's view.

Hathaway thought that Leon showed the deepest affection to her legs when they were in bed, then she couldn't help but sigh. Judging by the length of the legs, Bella had already defeated her.

And Bella was also of classy beauty, which was much more pleasing than the plastic face of Abby.

Looking at Bella's generous smile and soft eyes, Hathaway raised her hand and touched her face, thinking of her false smile in front of Leon, then she suddenly gave up herself completely.

No wonder Barry was so nervous. It seemed that she would lose.

In order not to cause any trouble between Leon and the future Mrs. Davis, Hathaway pretended she didn't know Leon when they meet and left with her bag.

CHAPTER 42 COULDN'T SHE ATTRACT HIM

"Was it Hathaway just now, Leon?" Bella turned to glance at Hathaway's dashing figure, and then whispered to Leon next to her with a trace of imperceptible inquiry in her seemingly casual eyes.

Leon continued walking forward, "Do you know her?"

Bella closed her lips lightly and smiled, "She is very famous in South City, isn't she? I heard lots of gossip about her although I have been abroad for half a year."

Leon glanced at Bella and smiled lightly without saying anything.

Compared with Hathaway's previous eagerness to talk to him about the gossip of Mrs. Feyrer, Bella's mood obviously converged a lot at this time, which was not for her own image, but because she didn't really want to talk about the gossip.

All she wanted was to test his attitude towards Hathaway.

Bella also said that Hathaway was a popular figure in South City now. Then she should know that Hathaway joined the old city reconstruction project of Davis Group. And she should also know that he gave Hathaway the right, but she still pretended to know nothing about it.

Leon was inexplicably tired.

He preferred the way of Hathaway to go straight to the point with a strong purpose, and he didn't want to cope with Bella when she talked in a roundabout way.

Inexplicably, Leon compared Bella with Hathaway in his heart.

Hathaway didn't drive away immediately after sitting in her car. Instead, she sat lazily with white, long fingers tapping on the steering wheel, not knowing what to do.

Over time, she opened the bag next to her, placed several newly purchased underwear on the passenger seat one by one and took lots of photos of various angles carefully, and then sent all of them to Leon's mobile phone.

Then she sent a voice message to Leon with a sweet and crisp voice, "Leon, Leon, Leon..."

Hathaway heard Bella calling "Leon" with soft and delicate voice when they were passing by, then Hathaway couldn't hear what they talked, but this intimate name made Hathaway sneer scornfully.

The name of Leon was really taken carelessly by his parents. Was it because he was born in South City, so he was simply named Leon? Hathaway thought.

Hathaway heard that Paul took long time to choose the name for Ashley and her. Most of the time, Hathaway felt that her beauty and temperament was from her good name.

Leon was quite the opposite, because he was handsome, so his name could be whatever he wanted.

"I bought them today, and do you like them?" Hathaway sent a voice to Leon in a soft voice, and then she threw the phone aside, waiting for the reply of Leon.

After about twenty minutes, there was no reply on her phone.

Hathaway took her mobile phone angrily. Couldn't she attract him?

Was Leon really attracted by Bella's long legs?

Hathaway was very dissatisfied. Was she so unattractive? Leon was tired of her only having sex two or three times with her, which was so ashamed.

Hathaway re-held the phone and edited a more ambiguous message sent to Leon: I will wear it for you at night, okay?

After sending it, Hathaway threw the phone aside again, then she sat there coldly.

After a few minutes, her mobile phone finally rang. Leon replied to her: I have a social event tonight and it will end at nine.

Hathaway, "..."

Did he want to see her only with underwear or not?

Hathaway speculated that Leon meant he wanted to see. If he didn't want to see it, he would continue to give her an indifference, and he wouldn't said it would end at nine o'clock.

At nine o'clock, he would go back to take a shower and then they would sleep together.

So Hathaway directly sent him another message: Then you for picking me up at my house.

She didn't have the key to his family, and he couldn't keep her waiting downstairs anyway. What's more, men were more satisfied than women when they did such kind of thing. She didn't want to take the initiative to wait for him downstairs.

The reason why Hathaway said this was to force Leon to give a specific answer. Whether he wanted to see her or not.

Wasn't he fond of ambiguity? But she must get the clear answer.

After a while, Leon sent her another word: OK.

Hathaway put away her mobile phone with satisfaction, and then drove away, humming a song.

It was a very interesting contest between men and women.

And it was even more interesting when she won the contest.

After Leon ordered food with Bella, he received a message on his mobile phone. After glancing at the message, he apologized to Bella and then got up to go to the bathroom.

Hathaway sent a voice, and Leon couldn't listen to it in front of Bella. Who knows what Hathaway would send. After listening to Hathaway's first voice, Leon felt that his body was instantly crunched to the tail vertebrae.

Hathaway has never called him Leon. At first, she called him President Davis. Now she almost called his full name Leon Davis, even when they were in bed. If he got her a little heavily, she would say that you hurt me, Leon Davis, or please be gentle, Leon Davis.

Now a great desire rose in his heart when she called his name Leon again and again, with the photos she sent, and asked him if he liked them.

Leon closed his cell phone in an instant, and did not want to care about her at all.

Then he returned to the restaurant and continued to dine with Bella as if nothing had happened.

After a while, he received the message again. After reading it, Leon took a sip of the water in his hand. He didn't want to admit that he had been given a physiological response by Hathaway's words of "I will wear it for you at night".

Leon tried hard to have lunch with Bella without thinking of Hathaway, but he uncontrollably thought about what Hathaway would look like when she put on it. It seemed like he was devastated.

Seeing him drink another glass of ice water, Bella took the initiative to concern and asked, "Is the dish too salty?"

"I am okay." Leon persuaded Bella in this way, and took his mobile phone, and then finally replied to Hathaway that the social engagement would end at nine o'clock this evening.

Hathaway quickly replied and asked him to pick her up at her house.

Leon was a little smirked by her. Obviously, she was the one to titillate him, but he had to pick her up in person. If he had changed to another woman, she would diligently say that she would wait for him downstairs.

He was so ambiguous, but she must force him to admit that he was moved by her.

In the end he could only chose to compromise and gritted his teeth to reply the word of OK to her.

See how he would give her a lesson at night.

She really owed it.

CHAPTER 43 SHE DISAPPEARED

Before 9 pm, Leon left the banquet and drove to the villa of Hathaway. He took the mobile phone to send a message to Hathaway: I'm coming, come out.

Hathaway didn't reply anymore, and the door of the villa didn't open. Leon frowned slightly and directly dialed Hathaway's phone. However, it was heard that her cell phone was turned off.

Leon tried to dial several times, but still couldn't get through.

Apparently, they agreed to have fun at night, but now Hathaway couldn't get in touch, so Leon was in a very bad mood. Then he narrowed his eyes dangerously, and thought that he might have been fooled by Hathaway.

According to Hathaway's personality, she was likely to shut down the phone and kept herself at home to avoid seeing him deliberately.

Thinking of this, Leon took a few deep breaths in the car before he pressed down his urge to rush into the villa of Hathaway. Paul also lived here after all, so it was definitely inappropriate for him to break in. There was no certain relationship between him and Hathaway...

Hathaway!

The cold face of Leon seemed to be covered with frost.

The door of the villa just opened at this time. It was the housekeeper in Taylor family who came out to send garbage.

After getting off the car, Leon walked over to ask politely, "Is Hathaway there?"

The housekeeper shook her head. "No, she went out with the luggage after supper."

Leon just felt that his heart was burning again, "Did she go out with the luggage?"

"Yeah, she said she would go out. I don't know exactly where she went." The housekeeper turned around and walked in again, leaving Leon standing alone with body and heart burning.

If Hathaway just hid at home, he wouldn't be so angry.

Now she left with her luggage, which meant that she flicked him and ran away deliberately.

The word of angry couldn't describe the mood of Leon at this time. After getting back into the car, he called Barry again and asked coldly, "Where did Hathaway go?"

Barry was very innocent. "Why do you all ask me for Hathaway?"

Leon asked back, "Who is looking for her either?"

Barry chuckled and said, "Ah, ha ha, no one. I mean I don't know the whereabouts of my boss. She was in the company before work, but it was private time after work, and I can't follow her all the time."

Not long ago, Andrew also called him to ask where Hathaway went. Then Barry knew that Hathaway was not at home. Barry also called Hathaway, but her phone was shut down.

Leon couldn't know the whereabouts of Hathaway from Barry, he gritted his teeth and hung up the phone.

Leon took out the cigarette from his pocket, lit one and bit it in the corner of his mouth and then drove calmly away from the villa. Hathaway had better not let him find her now, otherwise he would have swallowed her alive.

After returning to his residence, Leon took a shower and then dialed Hathaway's cell phone again, but it was still shut down.

This time he switched to Albert's mobile phone. As soon as the phone was connected, he heard a clear voice with an angry girl shouting, "Albert! Why did you have long hair on your shirt? What's going on? Get out now!"

Then Leon heard a heavy knock on the door, and Albert said in a hurry, "You have heard it too, so just hang up if there is nothing serious."

The implication was that he was going to coax his wife.

Leon felt that his business was a big deal, "Help me find where Hathaway is."

Albert raised her voice angrily, "I am still suffering now. Do you still let me look for her?"

"Frankly speaking, I have no time to help you find your woman." Then Albert hung up his phone without a word. Leaning on the sofa, Leon felt a little better.

At least he wasn't scolded loudly and pushed out like Albert.

Hathaway was missing not only for one night, but for a week.

Leon couldn't get through to Hathaway and got nothing about Hathaway from Barry, so he was so angry that he didn't want to contact her. A few days later, it was the second group meeting of Davis Group about the old city reconstruction project. He would definitely remove her and Taylor Group from the project team if she didn't appear that day.

Leon was not worried about the safety of Hathaway, because the woman like her would be long-lived.

In addition, Paul had issued several announcements for Hathaway in the past few days. Paul was not anxious as her father, so he didn't need to worry about her. It seemed that only Paul knew her whereabouts, but Leon had no way to ask Paul.

Andrew came to Hathaway's office to ask Barry where she went almost every day, but Barry really didn't know where Hathaway went. He couldn't get through Hathaway's phone either and all kinds of social application of Hathaway was not online.

Finally, Andrew went to Taylor family to look for Paul again the day after Hathaway disappeared, "Uncle, Hathaway disappeared for almost a week. Shouldn't you call the police?"

"Oh?" Paul smiled faintly. "Are you still worried about her whereabouts? Shouldn't you expect her to disappear and never return home? Then you can take over Taylor Group."

Andrew were silent for a while, and then he said slowly. "I never thought of hurting her. Do you know how worried I am in the past few days she disappeared?"

He spent hours at a time daydreaming about Hathaway, and even anxiously wanted to find her by all means.

He found that she bought a ticket to Birmingham, but how could he find her in such a big city?

Paul glanced at him and explained calmly, "I know where she is, so there is no need to call the police."

Seeing that Andrew desperately want to know Hathaway's whereabouts, Paul said again, "Andrew, I thought that a smart person like you should understand how stupid it is to love someone who can never be with you."

Andrew was a little out of control, "What do you mean? There is obviously no blood relationship between us!"

Paul looked at the obsessions in Andrew's eyes and couldn't help but sigh slightly, 'I said she will never be with you, not referring to your blood relationship, but ... she doesn't love you.'

"If she also loves you deeply, I will not prevent you from being with her. I will make her identity public so that you can stay together without any gossip."

"But she doesn't love you. I know you want to say that she used to say that she admired you in her diary, but that's just a youthful admiration."

In fact, Paul had long wanted to say these words to Andrew. Paul always thought that Andrew should be able to see through these things shrewdly, but he never knew that Andrew was so obsessed with emotion.

CHAPTER 44 EASY TO START AND HARD TO END

Andrew stood there without a word. Obviously, Paul's words stabbed him sorely.

In fact, Andrew knew that Hathaway did not love him, but he always refused to admit it.

Because he loved Hathaway deeply, so he let himself fall into the abyss of love after her diary was exposed by Abby.

Hathaway's eyes could represent everything, which had nothing in her eyes when she looked at him.

His eyes were full of affection because he loved her.

He always looked forward to seeing her because he loved her.

He felt sweet, painful and bitter because he loved her.

He didn't want anyone else to get her because he loved her.

Paul stared at Andrew for some time, and then sighed, "Andrew, my family have been broken up. My three children have their own sufferings. As a father, I also feel distressed. You can take over the company if you have the ability."

"I have been fighting your dad for half my life. I admit that I am not a good person. I always control the company tightly. Part of the reason is to follow your grandfather's will, and part of it is to suppress your dad selfishly. I have also seen many things these days, so I don't care any fame or fortune now. After all, at birth we bring nothing. I just want my children to live happily now."

What Paul said to Andrew really came from his heart. It was also the most real thought in Paul's heart since this time. He didn't want to fight, and he was tired.

Strictly speaking, he was not a good father, except for being indulgent to his little daughter.

In order to allow his son Kenny to take over the company, he demanded that his son must be excellent at all ages. In order to consolidate his power, he forced his elder daughter to marry the son of the Robinson family. This time his son was put into prison and his elder daughter was caught in a car accident, which was a fatal blow to him.

Especially his younger daughter Hathaway approached Leon in that way. He had brought so much pain to his three children.

Paul knew better than anyone. Everything that the three children suffered today was due to Taylor Group. It seemed that he had been ten years older and had been exhausted for more than a month.

"So, you can take Taylor Group over and let go of Hathaway, please." Paul finally said to Andrew, and then he leaned weakly on the sofa.

Andrew's hands clasped tightly on his side, and finally turned away from Taylor family.

Some things were easy to start, but difficult to end.

On the third day of Hathaway's disappearance, Ashley, the elder daughter of the Taylor family, who had been gentle and kind, filed a lawsuit against his second aunt, Barbara Taylor on charges of attempted murder without warning.

Barbara rushed to the hospital as soon as she heard it and asked Ashley, "What are you doing, Ash? You had a crash because you didn't drive your car well. Why did you frame me?"

The Taylor family used to call her Ash, which was more intimate. And instead of Hathaway, they called Hathee. But Barbara always hated Hathaway, so she always called Hathaway directly and called her bitch in private.

Barbara believed that she didn't even make a mistake. Ashley was irritated by the pregnant woman. Then she was emotionally out of control and caught by a big truck. This explanation was perfect and reasonable. The driver of the big truck was sent away by her after the accident. As for the surveillance video from the police station, Barbara had arranged perfectly. According to Hathaway's status, she was not qualified to check the footage.

However, Barbara didn't expect that Hathaway would use a desperate way of chopping off a little finger to ask Albert to help find evidence.

Facing Barbara's fierce question, Ashley just smiled softly, "Did I really frame you, Auntie? I have enough evidence to prove it in the courthouse. Take it easy."

Ashley was not angry, nor did she argue with Barbara.

Looking at Ashley who was calm and indifferent, Barbara was gripped by a feeling of panic.

Ashley won't really hold any evidence, right? How is this possible! She thought.

Ashley just recovered, and Hathaway was notorious, and Kenny was in prison. Nobody would help them in South City.

Thinking of this, Barbara felt confident, so she said to Ashley quite discontentedly, "I didn't do such a wicked thing. But you want to prosecute me and discredit my reputation. You've gone too far!"

Ashley still said lightly, "You planned to kill me, auntie. Don't you allow me to discredit your reputation?"

"What's more, I don't think it is smearing. I think you will be convicted of your vicious and cruel crime this time."

Compared with Hathaway's trickiness, Ashley's calmness and indifference are even more powerful. Barbara stared at Ashley, who seemed to be delicate but actually invulnerable.

She was so angry.

No matter what, Ashley had no intention of withdrawing the complaint. In the end, Barbara could only turn away in anger and find a lawyer for Ashley's prosecution as soon as possible.

The night before the second group meeting of the old city reconstruction project, Barry suffered from severe insomnia because Hathaway had not yet returned.

Thinking of how Leon abused him with his eyes when Hathaway left during the last meeting, Barry couldn't help but want to resign. If Hathaway didn't appear at the meeting tomorrow, Leon would not only kick Taylor Group out of the project, but also strangle him.

Barry didn't want to face Leon's eyes any more. If Hathaway didn't come back tomorrow morning, he wouldn't attend the meeting. Anyway, Taylor Group would go broke without the project. He heard rumors that Andrew decided to be independent from Taylor Group with his people in the company this week.

Barry barely fell asleep one night. The next morning, he refreshed himself with two cups of espresso, and then prepared to go out with the dark circles around his eyes. Just sitting in the car, the name that disappeared on the phone for a whole week suddenly appeared on the screen, which made Barry startled.

He answered the phone, and then listened to the familiar voice of Hathaway full of strength, saying, "Dear Barry, come to my house to pick me up. I will attend the meeting of Davis Group."

"Boss, you--" Barry couldn't say anything at all for a moment. He was about to cry.

Hathaway comforted him there. "I just came back by plane this morning, and now I will take a bath at home and change my clothes and then put on makeup. I know you are suffering this week and you are working hard. I will invite you to eat anything you like."

Barry was very speechless.

Every time she coaxed him by asking him to eat something delicious. Was he like a foodie? The delicacies he had eaten might be more than her.

However, he drove to her house without any complaint after hanging up the phone.

Thank goodness she came back, otherwise he would lose his job.

CHAPTER 45 GO TO MY LOUNGE TO GET MORE SLEEP

Leon entered the meeting room five minutes before the meeting started. At a glance, he saw Hathaway in a white suit sitting with Barry. She wore her hair in a bun, which made her look more mature and calmer.

Her pearl-like earlobe wore delicate pearl earrings. The roundness and white color of the pearl made her makeup more charming. When Leon looked over, she was talking to Barry, tilting her head. Her eyes were charming and her smile was touching. And she didn't realize that her disappearance for a week inspired heated back-and-forth in his heart.

Then Leon didn't see Hathaway any more. He sat down indifferently in the first place, and his special assistant Warren announced the start of the meeting.

When it was Hathaway's turn to speak, she sincerely apologized for her leaving before the meeting was finished the last time, and then she talked about her insights and unique analysis about the project seriously. From her words, everyone could feel that she was quite dedicated to this project and she had put a lot of effort into this project.

After Hathaway finished her speech, a 50-year-old vice president of the Project Department took the lead to applaud Hathaway diligently, "Hathee's speech is great! Let's give her a pat on her back."

Except for Barry, Hathaway was the youngest in the entire project team, so everyone called her Hathee.

There was nothing wrong with the vice president's words here, but the vice president looked at Hathaway in a very ambiguous smile, "Hathee, if you don't understand anything about the project in the future, please feel free to contact me."

Barry couldn't help wailing for the vice president. He dared to tease Hathaway in front of Leon.

The vice president of the Davis Group was extremely lustful, but Barry and Hathaway did not expect him to be so unscrupulous. After all, Leon was also there, as are some seniors of the Davis Group and other cooperative companies.

Obviously, this vice president always regarded himself as a veteran of the Davis Group, so he didn't give a care about others in the company. In addition to Hathaway's bad reputation, some casual men would subconsciously despise her and flirt with her.

Hathaway responded with a smile, "Okay, please take care of me in the future."

She couldn't just say bad language with a cold face, although she really wanted to say that.

The meeting lasted all morning. At noon, the people in the meeting simply took a working meal, and then they continued the meeting. Because the project would be officially launched after the meeting, so they needed to arrange all things.

Hathaway was so sleepy. She rushed back by plane in the early morning, and she had no time to have a rest until now. If anyone could give her a bed now, she would go to sleep all the time.

But she had to keep going no matter how tired she was. During lunch, Hathaway asked Barry to buy her an extra-large cup of coffee. Hathaway did not dare to relax at all, because she afraid that Leon would kicked her out if she made a mistake this time.

After the meeting was officially concluded at three o'clock in the afternoon, Hathaway walked out with the crowd in a daze leaning on Barry's arm, and she almost fell asleep.

Leon was not far behind them. Barry almost froze because Hathaway was intimately leaning on him, but he did not dare to push her away. If he pushed away, Hathaway would lie down on the ground.

When they got out of the meeting room, Leon left with his assistant. Barry finally let out a long sigh of relief. When someone else was an assistant, he might just work hard. But Barry almost lose his life. He felt that his life would be taken away by Leon a few times just now.

Because of the excessive shock, Barry went to the bathroom first, and Hathaway continued to lean against the wall. When Barry came back, there was no one next to the elevator.

When Leon and Warren planned to leave by elevator, Warren came over and said politely to Hathaway, "President Taylor, Mr. Davis would like to invite you to his office."

Hathaway struggled to raise her eyes and looked at Warren. She asked sleepily, "Can I go there another day? I want to go home and sleep now."

Warren, "..."

"It might be impossible, President Taylor, please." As the confidant of Leon, Warren could clearly feel the various anger suppressed in Leon's heart, and he knew that his anger was all from the charming and touching girl in front of him.

Warren was also very curious about Hathaway. He was curious about the way she used to deeply attract his boss who was cold and always kept his nose clean before.

In fact, Hathaway knew that she couldn't escape. She teased Leon and ran away a week ago, so Leon must give her a lesson according to his personality.

After letting Barry go back first, she followed Warren to Leon's office, yawning while walking, and of course, she raised her hand over her mouth and kept her image.

Warren couldn't help laughing, and said indifferently, "You looks so tired this week, Miss Taylor."

Hathaway covered her mouth and yawned again, then she said, "I'm really tired. After a week of trip in the mountains, I feel that my waist will be broken."

Warren, "..."

So, his boss was angry for a week, but she spent a week out for a tour?

Warren thought that even if he helped his boss to find out where she went, but he did not dare to tell him.

Warren felt a headache after talking to her twice. What kind of feelings did his boss get in contact with her so frequently? Warren would like to interview Leon.

Finally, he sent Hathaway to Leon's office, and he felt relieved.

Hathaway stood at the door without speaking after entering his office, and Leon was sitting in an office chair, staring at her dumbly without saying a word.

The two remained deadlocked silently.

Hathaway didn't want to speak first, because she knew he was in a bad mood when she looked at his face, so she simply waited for him to speak. If he didn't speak again, she would fall into asleep.

After a while, it was Leon who spoke first, and his tone was fairly mild, "Do you have anything to say?"

Hathaway nodded hard, "Yes."

Leon gestured to her to continue, Hathaway mumbled, "I want to sleep..."

Leon raised a cold sneer, "Are you very sleepy?"

Hathaway continued to nod, and Leon gestured to her kindly, "My lounge is there, you can go to sleep first."

CHAPTER 46 ARE YOU GOING TO CONTINUE TO LIE TO ME

Hathaway was very surprised, then she glanced at the door not far from him with her pink lips open slightly, "Really?"

Leon sat there and said gently, "Of course, the lounge is for rest, isn't it?"

"Thank you..." Hathaway was so sleepy, so she yawned and walked to the lounge where Leon said. She couldn't care about anything, and she just wanted to get a good sleep no matter where she was.

After pushing the door in, Hathaway had to admit that the lounge was really designed to be luxurious and upscale, comparable to the rooms of a five-star hotel, which made her impressed especially that big bed.

When she kicked off the high heels and walked barefoot on the soft carpet, the lounge door was suddenly pushed open. Hathaway looked puzzled at the incoming Leon and his action of locking the lounge door with his backhand, "What's the matter?"

"What do you say?" Leon walked over to her and unbuttoned his shirt. Hathaway regained consciousness from blank mind because of being too sleepy. And she instantly realized what Leon was going to do.

She was anxiously retreating to protect herself, and she was speechless because she was so angry, "You, you, you--"

Leon came over and pushed her down into the big bed behind her before she had finished speaking. Leon kissed her fiercely and overbearingly, instantly swallowing all her breath.

When Hathaway was bullied by Leon on the bed, she had more regrets. She thought Leon was really so kind. But it turned out that he was a big-headed wolf with deep wits. Now what he is doing was his real purpose.

That's absolutely beastly of him.

After being left for a week, she could imagine how much anger Leon had, and all his anger had vented to her on the bed. Hathaway didn't even have the strength to ask for mercy, and the voice in her mouth was swallowed up by him.

After the first time ended, Hathaway didn't even have the strength to move her toes, but the man was still pressing beside her, "What did you do in Shanxi Province?"

Hathaway buried herself in the quilt angrily and stiffly answered, "Just for fun!"

It was the man's hand that came over to warn her, "Tell me the truth!"

Hathaway snapped his hand and raised her head to shout at him, "I was angry and jealous, so I deliberately ran out to have a trip. You and Bella were flirting. Why couldn't I lose my temper?"

Leon squinted at her for a while, then opened his mouth coolly, "Are you going to continue to lie to me?"

Could she be jealous and angry?

He didn't believe her at all.

After being seen through by Leon mercilessly, Hathaway had to honestly explain, "I went there to redeem a vow to the god..."

Hathaway actually didn't want Leon to know that she went for redeeming a vow to the god, because she felt that Leon was definitely a proper atheist, and he would laugh at her with such superstition.

After Kenny and Ashley successively had an accident, Hathaway, an atheist, turned to worship Buddha. She heard that the temple in Wutai Mountain, Shanxi Province was very efficacious, so she flew to Wutai Mountain without a rest on the first day of her return home. She knelt in front of the Buddha, and just asked the Buddha to bless them all safe, especially Ashley.

Now that Ashley woke up and recovered smoothly, so Hathaway went there to redeem a vow to the god.

Everyone said that the first day of the month was to vow, and the fifteen day of the month was to redeem a vow to the god.

The second day of meeting Leon that night was exactly the fifteen day of this month. So Hathaway went to Shanxi Province overnight, and went to the temple to redeem the vow the next day.

In fact, Hathaway didn't want to go there suddenly, but she want to make Leon angry that day. He always tossed her if there was a man next to her with all kinds of ways, but he had dinner with Bella.

Couldn't she feel angry with him?

She didn't know if she was jealous. Anyway, she felt uncomfortable in her heart, so she had to use this way to vent.

It was precisely because Ashley wanted to sue Barbara, and she avoided being caught by Andrew to threaten Ashley. Various reasons were added together, so she disappeared.

After listening to her words, Leon felt inexplicably a little lost in his heart. He knew that she said she was jealous was just a rhetoric, but he felt uncomfortable when she truly admitted that she was actually going to redeem the vow rather than be jealous.

However, he did not continue to express this emotion, but to ask her, "Did spend a week to redeem a vow?"

Hathaway retracted herself into the quilt again and whispered, "I, I was sick of gastroenteritis and I had been put on a drip in the hospital for several days. It was very difficult for me to come back today."

At first, Hathaway planned to come back after two days of redeeming the vow, but she became very sick and almost collapsed. After arriving the hospital, the doctor said that she was acclimatized, so she spent a week in the hospital.

God knew how she spent there these days. Because there was a meeting of the Davis Group today, she had some drip and forced herself to eat something, and then finally had the strength to catch the plane. But she never expected that the plane was several hours late, so she couldn't come back until early in the morning.

She had wanted to go home quickly after the meeting and have a good sleep, but she was tossed to the exhaustion by Leon, and now she felt that she was about to fall apart.

Leon turned to look at her in amazement, no wonder he felt that she had lost a lot of weight in a week. It turned out that she was sick.

He asked with mixed feelings, "Why not tell me?"

"There is nothing to say. Who hasn't gotten sick yet?" Hathaway didn't think she should find someone to cry and tell her weakness if she had gastroenteritis. She would recover after putting on a drip for a few days.

Perhaps due to her strong character, Hathaway had always been the kind of person who didn't spill out her trouble to others. Although she looked charming and delicate, and most people thought that a lady like her couldn't do anything, in fact, she was much stronger than others.

Leon stared at her, not knowing what to say for a while.

When she should be hypocritical, she wouldn't be hypocritical, and when she shouldn't be hypocritical, she would be so delicate. What the hell was she thinking?

Especially she was still a place where she was not familiar...

Leon felt that sometimes Hathaway made him very angry, but sometimes he was very distressed her.

In fact, it wasn't that Hathaway didn't want to tell Leon that she was sick, but Hathaway felt that she didn't need to tell Leon. He had no relationship with her, so he wouldn't care about her even if she told him.

Hathaway clearly knew that they just made good use of each other now. He was a little addicted to her beauty and young body, and she needed his project. Why did she have to tell him everything?

CHAPTER 47 THAT'S TOO RIDICULOUS!

"Have a good rest." After a while, Leon raised his hands, hugged Hathaway and pressed her in his arms, then he arrogantly ordered. Hathaway knew that he wouldn't ask her question, so she finally was able to sleep peacefully, leaning in Leon's arms like a lazy cat, comfortable and cozy, unaware of the intimacy between them.

Leon was dressed and ready to go out to work after Hathaway slept, and the phone in Hathaway's bag rang, then Leon walked over and hung up the phone.

It was Andrew who called Hathaway, and he called a second time after being hung up.

Leon frowned slightly and then answered the phone call, with the alienation in his indifferent voice as usual, "Vice-president Taylor, Hathaway is sleeping. If anything happens, just wait for her to wake up and talk."

Then Andrew kept silent on the phone, and Leon felt a little weird, then his black eyes fell on Hathaway on the bed.

"She is sleeping?" Andrew almost said the words with his teeth clenched.

When Barry came back, Andrew was already waiting in Hathaway's office. He wanted to blame Hathaway for her missing this week, and he also wanted to tell Hathaway how much he missed her this week. However, he only saw Barry back, then he asked Barry with a cold face, "What about Hathaway?"

After thinking a lot, Barry still told the truth, "President Davis invited her to talk about something..."

At that time, Andrew felt that something was wrong, and now Leon said that Hathaway was sleeping. So Andrew had known what Hathaway and Leon did without thinking about it.

Endless anger and jealousy made Andrew out of control, so he hung up the phone without saying a word.

Leon turned the phone off and left it aside. The expression on his face was complicated, then he looked at Hathaway on the bed again and walked out of the lounge.

Andrew?

Andrew.

Ten minutes later, Warren came in to report work after knocking on the door to get his permission. Leon had made an internal call to tell Warren that he wouldn't see anyone before entering the lounge. They were all adult men, so Warren knew what he meant.

But Warren was surprised in his heart. His boss did this thing for the first time in so many years.

After reporting the work, Warren asked Leon again, "Do I need to go to the security department to tell them? Manager Taylor has been in your office for so long, and the monitoring will be taken if you two leave together later. So do I need to ask them delete anything you don't want others know?"

As the confidant of Leon, Warren considered everything based on Leon's interests.

Because Hathaway joined this project, there were already rumors. He calmed down the gossip with the excuse that Hathaway was the sister of his friend according to Leon's instructions. If they knew Hathaway stayed in Leon's office for a long time, Warren was afraid there will be bad rumors again.

Due to the bad reputation of Hathaway, Warren believed that it doesn't matter if Leon has physical entanglement with Hathaway, but their relationship couldn't be disclosed at all. In that case, Leon's image would plummet, and Davis Group would be affected. Therefore, Warren had such a proposal.

But Leon refused lightly, "No."

Warren was surprised to look at Leon. Leon arranged to use the excuse to quell those rumors last time, which meant that he did not want any rumors between him and Hathaway. But didn't Leon care about it now?

Leon knew what Warren's expression meant, "I know what I am doing."

Hearing that, Warren couldn't say anything.

Leon really knew what he should do. He hasn't done anything and made any decision that deviated from his status. He managed the business of Davis Group very well and kept his image very well.

Then Warren left, and Leon concentrated on his work.

He had always been very decent and handled everything well, but some people always acted differently, which made him upset.

Hathaway slept for a long time. When she woke up, there was already full of darkness. Hathaway buried her head in the pillow for a long time before thinking of where she was now: Leon's office.

Thinking of the lingering with Leon before falling asleep, Hathaway couldn't help but chuckled, Leon always saved face, but he took an active part in making love as soon as she came back this time. Did he lack of sex life now?

And it still happened in the office during the day time.

After laughing at Leon in her heart for a long time, Hathaway sat up happily and raised her hand to turn on the bedside lamp. However, she suddenly felt that her legs were sore and the waist was very tired, and the most important thing was that she was so hungry.

After a few days of gastroenteritis, she didn't feel hungry anymore. But she felt hungry at this time. It seemed that she was all right now. Maybe she was exhausted too much physical energy.

The door of the lounge was opened at this time, and Hathaway looked at Leon, who was pushing the door in, and said coquettishly, "My legs are sore, so can you take me to the bathroom?"

Leon walked over to stand at the end of the bed and directly returned to her with a sneer, "You have gone through the tough gastroenteritis. Why do you want me to hold you at this time?"

Did she want to make him angry again? Leon remembered that she had survived gastroenteritis, and he felt that she was nothing like a woman. He should regard her as a strong woman.

Hathaway stared angrily at his indifferent look, "You are too unromantic! No wonder--"

Leon didn't want to listen to her next sentence, which was that no wonder he didn't have a girlfriend at the age, so he just stepped forward and hugged her up to the bathroom.

He felt he had to take the time to talk to her about his age. He seemed to hear her despise his age more than once. Was there something wrong with his age? He was at his golden age with physical strength and successful career. She should be proud of it! Why did she use the words of old age to describe him every time.

Leon's sudden compromise shocked Hathaway who was suddenly hugged by him, and she forgot to tease him. Hathaway didn't wear any clothes, so she felt so embarrassed that she quickly tightened herself in his arms and tried to ignore the burning sight of Leon falling on her.

This was the consequence of hitting on him casually, which embarrassed herself.

"You asked for it." Leon laughed mercilessly at her blushing face, put her at the door of the bathroom, turned around and then went away. He could not continue to watch her any more.

It was already nine o'clock in the night. If he went in with her, he was afraid they would spend the night in his office.

That's too ridiculous!

CHAPTER 48 WATCHING THE SHOW

Wrapping herself in a bath towel after she took a shower, Hathaway stared at the scattered clothes which were ripped and barely able to wear, and protested against Leon, "Leon, I will ask you to pay for my clothes if you still ripped them again next time!"

Her clothes were basically tailor-made by herself when she started the design company. Although they were not expensive, they would cost a lot of money if her company closed down, which were also very precious. Moreover, these clothes were made by her own hands, which was very commemorative for her. After all, she didn't know if she could have the opportunity to do those things she liked in her life.

Looking at her white, delicate and angry face, Leon suppressed the urge to pull out his wallet and give her a bank card.

If he really gave her a card, the relationship between them would change.

Now, he could say that the relationship between them was to use each other, but if he gave her money, then it was not just so easy to get along with each other.

He was astonished that he had such an urge to her. At the same time, his eyes fell on the embroidered word of "Hathee" on the collar of her white suit, then he asked lightly, "Was it designed by yourself?"

"Yeah, they are priceless." Hathaway said with a pretended lightness and didn't look at Leon. Then she walked over to take the clothes and put them on silently, saying nothing more.

When referring to her small company, Hathaway felt a little regretful, and distressed.

All of her pretense was just an illusion, because she didn't want Leon to see through her regrets and sadness.

It was not early, and they left the office side by side.

After sitting in the car, Leon turned and asked Hathaway, "What would you like to eat?"

He meant he wanted to take her to eat something, but Hathaway shook her head, "No, just take me home. My father must be very worried about me at this late hour."

There was a housekeeper at home, so she could simply prepare some food for her.

In the morning, she came home and came out for the meeting in a hurry. She could see that Paul was very worried about her. Paul knew about her gastroenteritis because he asked her the reason why she didn't come back as planned before when she used the phone of the hotel to contact him every day, so she had to say that she got gastroenteritis.

Paul worried about her very much, but he couldn't rush to Shanxi Province to take care of her because he was in poor health.

Leon looked at Hathaway with no emotion in his deep black eyes. "Andrew called you."

"Oh..." Hathaway looked down to play with her cell phone. "I saw a missed call after turning on the phone."

Leon looked at her and suddenly felt agitated.

Andrew had an unusual feeling for her. What about her?

As blood-related cousins, the two of them--

Leon couldn't think about it any longer. He pulled the safety belt and drove her home.

Hathaway, with her head down, breathed a long sigh of relief. When Leon mentioned Andrew, she didn't dare to look him up. She could feel Leon noticed that there was something between her and Andrew. And she was hesitating whether to confess to Leon.

However, she thought that she didn't need to confess or feel guilty because she was not in a proper relationship with Leon. Therefore, it was normal for her to have an admirer around her. Wasn't there a woman named Bella who loved him beside him?

After arriving home, Hathaway said goodbye to Leon, and then she got off. After that, Leon drove off with a thud on the throttle, and Hathaway look back at the rear of his car in surprise. What happened to him? She thought.

Leon received a call from his mother Adeline on the way home, "Bella called me and said she came back and you have dinner with her together, right, Leon?"

Leon responded lightly, "Yeah."

Adeline was very happy, "Oh, it's great! I thought you didn't contact each other after she went abroad to study."

Bella was once the most perfect daughter-in-law in Adeline's eyes with her family and personal temperament. She also tried to set Bella up with her son a few times. But then Bella went abroad to study, so she thought they wouldn't be together, because Bella would like to stay with her son if she really liked him so much. How can she be willing to go abroad for half a year?

Unexpectedly, they got in touch with each other after Bella returned home again. Adeline was really happy.

She warmly invited Leon on the phone. "That's it. She gave me a few tickets for their dance group performance on Saturday night today. Will you accompany me to see it then?"

Leon didn't say a word.

Bella must know that if she directly invited him, maybe he wouldn't go, but if his mother invited him, he wouldn't refuse directly.

Leon felt annoyed and lowered the window glass to let the outside air in.

He didn't know what's wrong. Obviously, Bella and Hathaway both played tricks in front of him. Hathaway made him feel funny and angry, but Bella made him... bored.

"Let's talk about it later, and I'll see if I have time." Finally, Leon said to Adeline that he was busy and hung up the phone first.

Knowing that Hathaway got gastroenteritis, Paul specifically asked the nanny to boil the light and digestible porridge in advance. After going back home, Hathaway drank two bowls. She felt warm in her heart while drinking. It was still the best at home, which was the warmest and most comfortable place in this world.

Paul asked her with concern, "Is there anything else uncomfortable?"

Hathaway smiled, "No, I feel much better as soon as I come back to see you."

Paul laughed, "You always get clever with me."

Paul was accustomed to his little daughter's words. She had grown up being so sweet-mouthed and coquettish, and she always made the whole family laugh.

Paul looked at his daughter who was apparently thinner and felt guiltier in his heart, "I'm sorry for you, Hathee. I am so sorry for the three of you..."

Hathaway was very helpless, "Dad, don't say that again in the future, otherwise I will be angry."

Paul had been guilty since she came back after her brother Kenny was in prison and sister Ashley had a car accident. Hathaway felt that if Paul went on like this, he would have mental problems with pain and sadness in his heart.

Paul sighed and finally said nothing.

Hathaway saw Andrew who had been waiting there as soon as she arrived at the office the next day. Hathaway ignored the deep feelings in Andrew's eyes and turned to him with a smile. "Is anything wrong, vice-president Taylor?"

Hathaway thought that Andrew would go crazy again, but he just took out a ticket from his pocket, "Go to the show with me on the weekend."

Hathaway was surprised. When she looked it down, she saw Bella who was dancing gracefully on the ticket.

CHAPTER 49 SHE DIDN'T CARE ABOUT IT AT ALL.

Hathaway laughed, "You really spared no effort to make me angry, vice-president Taylor."

Even Barry knew that Bella loved Leon, so Andrew must know it.

Andrew also knew that she was entangled with Leon. But he took the ticket to invite her to watch the performance of Bella. Was he going to make trouble for her?

Andrew's expression was very solemn, "No, I just want to show you how far away you are from Leon."

He wanted Hathaway to know that she would never be with Leon. Bella had a powerful family, and Leon enjoyed a high status, but she just got a bad reputation.

Hathaway looked at the ticket silently for a while, and finally she smiled and raised her hands to take over the ticket, and she responded with a smile, "Well, I will go with you. Anyway, I have nothing to do on the weekend."

She would see how excellent and perfect Bella was.

There was a trace of surprise in Andrew's eyes after he saw that Hathaway took it so happily.

Ordinary people were very reluctant to face their love rivals, let alone look at the elegant and perfect side of love rivals, which just like he didn't want to face Leon, but she was so calm. Andrew didn't know what she was thinking about.

"I have accepted the ticket, vice-president Taylor. If there is nothing, I'm going to start my work." After taking the ticket, Hathaway wanted to ask Andrew leave, but Andrew stopped her again. He said with hesitation, "If you can make Ashley withdraw—"

Hathaway interrupted his words with cold tone, "Vice-president Taylor, the killer must pay for their crimes even it was an attempted murder, or we can solve it privately. How about finding someone to drive a big truck to hit your mother?"

Hathaway knew that Andrew would come to her for the prosecution, just like Leon had reminded her. After all, Barbara was Andrew's mother, so he couldn't stand by. Once Barbara was found guilty, she would be put into prison.

Hathaway, Ashley and Paul had discussed this matter and decided to sue Barbara unanimously, because her behavior really hurt them.

In particular, Paul firmly believed that Barbara should be brought to justice even if they couldn't take charge of the company. Both Hathaway and Ashley found that Paul had become more and more decadent recently, and he had become less and less hopeful for the Taylor Group. It was Paul who originally called Hathaway back to take over the company, but now he couldn't stand it and wanted to give it up.

Hathaway and Ashley didn't know how to comfort Paul. Maybe what happened recently hit him so much that he had no fighting spirit.

Andrew was unable to say anything else after hearing her cold words, and her attitude was already obvious.

He looked at Hathaway with a scowl, "So, are you going to lose the Taylor Group?"

Hathaway also counterattacked him without fear, "Are you threatening me, vice-president Taylor?"

Andrew stared at her fearless expression at this moment, and asked coldly, "Who gave you such confidence? Was it Leon?"

Hathaway didn't say anything, but Andrew said aggressively again, "Do you think you can control everything after getting the project that Leon gave you?"

Andrew's hostility toward Leon was obvious. Hathaway knew why he was so hostile to Leon, but she didn't want to mention Leon in front of Andrew any more. She just turned around and sat down at her desk without raising her head, and then said lightly, "I am going to work if there is nothing important."

Andrew glanced at her look, tightened his jaw and turned to walk out.

After Andrew left, Hathaway angrily threw the ticket, bit her lip and stared at the photo of Bella on the ticket who was dancing gracefully like a proud white swan with the slender and perfect figure in a black dance suit.

On Saturday night, Hathaway went on time to see Bella's performance, wearing a self-improved slim velvet cheongsam. The pure black color and elegant style made her more dignified.

Andrew picked her up at Taylor family. When she came out, Andrew was quite amazed and he finally persuaded himself to move his eyes away from her.

She had been dressing up since she was a child, and every time she had a banquet, she would choose a dress that suits her best. Every time she was very outstanding, which made Abby cry with anger, and he couldn't move his eyes away from her again and again.

Because of the famous performance, a bunch of reporters gathered outside the door. When Hathaway and Andrew appeared side by side, they began to press the shutter and take photos as quickly as possible. During this time, there were rumors that Andrew would take his people from the company. But now the two CEOs of the Taylor Group were watching the show together, which seemed that they had a very harmonious relationship. How could there be any signs of falling apart?

Leon appeared with Adeline after Andrew and Hathaway. Leon showed more filial piety to his mother Adeline, which was very consistent with Leon's image.

People such as Leon were dazzling no matter where they appeared, and they were also the targets of reporters and photographers. However, Leon had never answered any questions on such occasions. He just entered the theater with Adeline indifferently.

Raising his eyes inadvertently, Leon noticed the girl with black dress who had just turned into the hall not far away.

He could recognize her figure at a glance. Was it because he had sex with her several times?

Leon frowned a little bit and thought if she knew it was Bella's performance today.

Maybe she didn't care what relationship between Bella and him, so she came to watch the show like this.

Thinking of this, Leon felt unhappy for a moment, and even he didn't hear what Adeline said to him. Adeline called him again, "What's wrong with you, Leon? You didn't answer even I called you a few times."

Leon responded to Adeline, "What's the matter?"

Adeline said with a smile, "I said that the show hasn't started yet. Let's go backstage to see Bella. I heard that her parents and Vice Mayor Wilson also came to see the show tonight."

Leon rejected instinctively, "You can go yourself, and I will go to the bathroom."

Then he left, and then took out his phone to send Hathaway a message, "Where are you?"

Hathaway had nothing to hide, "I am watching the show."

Leon continued to ask, "Who are you with?"

Hathaway sent back slowly, "My cousin."

Andrew.

Leon didn't like Andrew, but he still sent back to her, "I'm here too."

Looking at the three words from Leon on the phone, Hathaway wanted to laugh.

Leon sometimes was really sullen, Because he always waited for others to take the initiative to ask him even with a lot of emotions in his heart. But Hathaway just didn't get used to his temper, so she sent back, "Then let's enjoy the beautiful dance of Miss Wilson together."

Leon didn't reply any more, and Hathaway was also at ease.

She wondered whether Leon was extremely angry because of her.

CHAPTER 50 COOPERATING WITH THEIR PERFORMANCES

Hathaway and Andrew were sitting together. When Hathaway looked up from the phone, she found Andrew staring at her, so Hathaway stopped smirking and pretended to be calm.

But Andrew had already seen her delicate expressions in her eyes, "Is Leon here too?"

Hathaway smiled delicately, "Yeah, isn't it your plan? If Leon didn't come, it would be boring to watch Bella's performance alone."

Hathaway said with a vague mocking of Andrew's thoughts, Andrew wanted to explain but he didn't say anything.

When did he become so hateful instead of elegant in her mind?

Everything was changing.

They sat side by side without any talk for a while.

Before the performance started, Leon went to the theatre with Adeline and others with high status. Their tickets were in the best position, so they could enjoy Bella's beautiful dance. In addition to Leon and Adeline, there were Bella's parents and her brother, Jason Wilson, who was the current deputy mayor of South City.

Of course, the location of the tickets Andrew bought was not bad, just behind them. Leon was seated right in front of Hathaway, so Hathaway can clearly see ... the back of the head and the stiff shoulders of Leon....

After they sat down, Jason suddenly turned his head and looked at Hathaway. At that time, Hathaway was staring at Leon's perfect hairstyle. When Jason looked over quietly, Hathaway stared at him for a second, then turned her eyes slightly with guilt.

For Jason, an official of the South City, Hathaway had lots of words to say.

The performance began soon, and the stage lighted up after the lights dimmed. After the host introduced it, Bella came on stage. First, she performed a beautiful and moving solo, then she performed with the dance group, but she was still the most outstanding and the most eye-catching lead dancer.

As Hathaway knew, Bella was actually not young, and she should be 30 years old, which was beyond the best age for a dancer, so this was her farewell performance on stag. After going abroad for more than half a year, she was about to enter the university campus as a professor of arts, and it was precisely because she left the stage and joined the university, so she began to consider her marriage.

The ideal match Bella was searching for was Leon.

Bella's family was in politics, and Leon's family was in business, and the marriage between business and politics had been the most perfect and strongest combination since ancient times. Once they had successfully married, the Davis family and Wilson family would be united and powerful, and no family could shake their statuses in South City.

Hathaway didn't know what other people were thinking when watching the dance. Anyway, she was full of thoughts about Leon and Bella's strong union and their sweet and happy life.

Thinking about it, she raised her lips and smiled. There was nothing wrong with it. She felt very happy that Leon could live well.

Seeing her smiling face, Andrew asked in a low voice, "Why are you laughing?"

Hathaway continued to smile, "It's nothing. I'm just in a good mood."

Andrew glared fiercely at her and said nothing more.

Andrew felt that he couldn't understand Hathaway more and more. He took her to see Bella's performance, because he wanted to make her angry, but she told him that she was in a good mood.

Maybe he never knew Hathaway.

Hathaway knew nothing about dancing. When she was a child, Paul and her mother asked her and Ashley to learn dance, but she gave up because dancing was too hard for her, and she also didn't like dancing. She liked to paint, because she felt that she could paint all the scenery and all the joys and sorrows in this world with a brush in her hand.

And she also had a gift for painting, so in the end she concentrated on painting.

After the one-and-a-half-hour performance, the people who watched the performance began to leave.

Hathaway and Andrew got up after others were almost gone, and then saw Bella coming out of the backstage with flowing dress, who was like a fairy.

Leon gave her a bunch of flowers. Because Hathaway was close to them, so she could hear Leon saying quietly, "Congratulations."

There was nothing ambiguous and amusing, but Bella suddenly raised herself on tiptoe and kissed Leon quickly on his handsome side face, "Thank you. The flowers are beautiful, and I like them very much."

A few young people didn't feel anything, but Bella's parents and Leon's mother were a little embarrassed by Bella's behavior. Bella's mother deliberately blamed her daughter, "Now young people are too unpretentious."

Leon's mother Adeline cleverly smiled, and Bella's father glared at his daughter. Although he was a little unpleasant, he acquiesced the intimacy between his daughter with Leon.

It seemed that the Wilson family was very satisfied with Leon.

Jason also prepared a bunch of flowers. At this time, he said to Bella quite a bit jealously, "Bella, I also prepared flowers for you. Do you want to give me a kiss?"

Bella took the flowers and hummed at her brother, "No way."

The implication was that only Leon could get her kiss. Several people laughed there, but Leon didn't laugh and no one could see any emotion on his face.

After Bella received Jason's flowers, she saw Andrew and Hathaway standing side by side and looking at them in the upper row with smiles on their faces.

Bella took the initiative to say hello to them, "I didn't expect you to be here too, President Taylor."

The two went down the stairs. Hathaway was wearing high heels, and Andrew held her waist gently to prevent her from falling down.

After standing firmly, Andrew exaggerated Bella, "Miss Wilson is such an excellent dancer. It will be our loss if we don't come to watch your performance. Do you think so, Hathaway?"

"Yeah, Miss Wilson danced so well. She was so amazing that I couldn't look away at all." Hathaway also praised Bella from the bottom of her heart and she also saw the lip print on Leon's face.

It was time to cooperate with their performance, and Hathaway did it.

Andrew invited her to watch the performance unintentionally, and he deliberately waited to leave behind, then Bella kissed Leon just now, and she really praised Bella.

Hathaway knew that no matter who they were, they just wanted to explore what kind of relationship she had with Leon and how close their relationship was. Then she would cooperate with them.