185 Sudden Attack!!!

At that moment, Liu Juan weakly opened her eyelids. She did not feel any pain in her body as her body had already become numb. The pain was such a constant thing for her body that now whenever she got hurt, her body didn't feel any pain.

When she opened her eyes, she did not feel any difference between her being conscious or being unconscious. She had a body without a soul.

Just then, she caught sight of the shadow of a man to whom she was familiar with. The man who had changed her peaceful life into chaos. If he had not adopted her from the orphanage then she wouldn't have been in this state. He was the reason for all the mishaps that happened in her life.

Now he was here again. Did that mean, her life would become more miserable than it already was???

Unbeknownst to her, her eyes became moist and tears were rolling down on her cheeks. In a raspy voice she said "It hurts..."

Even though her life had become a hell, this man did not try to hurt her. She knew this deep in her heart.

After being violated by those men several times, Liu Juan's body became numb and her tears had dried out.

However, now seeing someone to whom she knew, all her pain raised up and tears started falling from her eyes.

The man had a dangerous smile on his face. He had finally found the person whom he was searching for from the last few years. Now he would let those people know the consequence of betraying him.

"Take her and this man with us." The man said coldly and went back to the car.

The chauffeur went with his boss back to the car, while other men who had accompanied the boss took Liu Juan and the first man with them.

"Hey...Hey... what are you doing? Leave me....I am not her father...I just wanted some money that's...why I put some act...leave me...I don't want money... leave me...help...help." The first man struggled and shouted at the top of his lungs.

When the bypassers heard him, they were astonished. How could anyone be so shameless? Because of money, they were ready to do anything. They even didn't feel pity for a little girl.

How could somebody be so cruel?

Now, hearing the first man's words, none of the bypassers came to help him when the men dragged him into the car. In a few minutes, all the cars disappeared from the street and the road became clean as if nothing had happened here.

The winter season remained but the days passed as per its time accord. The snow continued to fall down. The bright days shortened their time and the dark nights increased their time. The environment became chilly as the cold breeze brushed the people and it spread down the shiver.

Like the environment on the outside, the inside of the villa was also extremely chilly except for a room where there was warmth. A girl lay down on a bed in a deep sleep. No one knew how long she had been sleeping or how long she would be sleeping.

There was no light in this room, complete darkness enveloped the entire room. However, this room was most secured compared to the chaos happening outside this room in this villa.

Everywhere there were traces of blood. All the antique pieces were shattered into a thousand pieces. The villa was in a mess. The dark shadow of the men were seen here and there from time to time and the sound of gunshots could also be heard.

The men hid in every nook and corner. Drop of sweat fell down from their foreheads to cheeks. They were holding guns in their hands and were alert so that they could handle every unexpected situation.

They were already facing the consequence for being careless. If they had been more cautious, then they would not have been in this situation. Now, they could not blame anyone except themselves.

Nevertheless, whatever be the situation, they had to save their boss and an unknown girl prior to themselves.

However, would they really be efficient to protect their boss or would they require someone's help?

They would know soon...

"Boss, half of our men have been killed. Do you really want to protect the adjacent room?" The leader of the men and loyal subordinate of their boss asked respectfully.

Everything was running smoothly and their days were spent peacefully. However, today an enemy attack them unexpectedly. They did not know the identity of this enemy as to who had shown an extreme level of guts to attack them in their base. They had many enemies, but not everyone had the guts to attack them this way.

This enemy of theirs not only showed guts, but they even had come with proper planning and were prepared. Until now they had killed half of the men and if these continued then, sure enough, they would not be able to save their boss, let alone to themselves.

What more which make them have another huge blow was that they now had to protect an unknown girl. If they didn't require to protect her, then until now they would have come with a plan to let their boss escape from here.

Unfortunately, their boss had not only refused to leave this place, but even wanted them to protect the girl and who knew how long she would be sleeping.

Now that their half of men had died, then they had only an opinion to protect their boss and then themselves. Who would be so stupid to give up on their life just to protect a lifeless girl?
