

《The Mysterious CEO》

Chapter 242 - Join the hands (Part-2)

Mo Jiang immediately shot at the source from where the bullet came and killed the man but he didn't notice that it was a trap because, at the exact moment, another bullet came towards him from the other direction.

Fortuitously, Liu Juan noticed it but it was too late and she didn't delay further and pushed him away.

"Ahhh!"

The bullet came and hit her right arm. Immediately, her gun fell down but she didn't budge and shot in the direction from where the bullet came and instantly, she killed another man.

Hearing her scream, Mo Jiang looked at her and was shocked to see that she took the shot and saved him rather than herself when she knew that he would kill her sooner or later.

'Big fool!' These were the only words which he could think of for her.

The blood dripped down her hand as the pain and loss of blood were making her woozy but she still tried her best to fight back. Mo Jiang saw her condition and in the next instant, he threw her on his shoulder while continuing to fire and moved towards the door.

Soon he was out of the room but as he expected, the situation outside wasn't good enough.

The entire hotel was in chaos. When the other guests heard the gunshot sounds, they left their room but who would have expected that they would be shot down to death in the next moment. It seemed that whosoever attacked them, had a plan to turn the entire hotel into a graveyard.

"Boss!" The leader of Mo Jiang's men, Xiao Tao, rushed towards Mo Jiang who put down Liu Juan on her feet.

"They have killed all the guests of this hotel and the blame for this incident will be on us as the attackers have come for us. The police are also coming." Xiao Tao said in worry.

American people were different from European people. Americans knew that the people roaming around them could be from the Underworld so they always varied from each other. Thus, this attack had happened on this hotel because of Mo Jiang so the next time, whenever Mo Jiang would come back to America, he wouldn't be welcome in any hotel as the word would spread around that Mo Jiang was the reason behind this attack rather than blaming the attackers.

Moreover, these American always wanted to besmirch the Europeans, it wasn't that American and Europeans were enemies but letting each other down had become a custom which had been followed since not only decades but from centuries.

It wasn't that Mo Jiang gave importance to these Americans but still, he had to run his business, Mo Corporation, for which he had to make deals with Americans.

Now a dilemma had arisen in front of him. If Mo Jiang would leave from here, the people would think that he was a coward but if he would stay here, then the police would catch him as it was earlier said, the people here had already assumed that Mo Jiang was behind this attack. So whatever be the situation, it was Mo Jiang's loss.

"You should leave now. I will stay here and handle the situation. Just let my sister and Bo Xiao go. They did nothing." Liu Juan said in an undertone voice while the pain in her hand was making her think perhaps, she would lose her hand as well.

'How ironic!' Liu Juan thought in a self-deprecation tone..

"I have never met someone so foolish as you. Do you really think if I let your sister go, they won't come after her?" Mo Jiang scowled.

"Tell her to run away!" Liu Juan hushed. Now she seemed to be very tired and didn't want to continue with her life further as things always moved in a way as if everything just wanted something completely contradictory to her expectations. Now she was tired of following the things as life wanted.

"And you expect her to run for a lifetime! As far as I know, your boss would never stop until he successfully hunts your sister down. It seems you want your sister to lead a life which you had in your childhood."

"No! I never want that! You tell, what do you want me to do apart from running away?" Liu Juan, suddenly feeling exasperated from her life.

"Join my hand and kill your boss. After that my enemy will vanish and you all will be free." Mo Jiang extended his hand to her.

"What if you went back on your words?" Liu Juan had enough of betrayal. Even her own biological sister had betrayed her. Trust had become a word in which she didn't have trust anymore.

"I don't have time to prove my integrity to you. If you want your freedom then work with me, otherwise, I need you to rush." Obviously, Mo Jiang didn't have much time, so he didn't pursue her further. He had put the option in front of her; which one she wanted to choose was her choice.

Besides, looking at the situation did she even have any option except trusting Mo Jiang because she knew that whatever Mo Jiang was saying was true. Her boss would never leave her big sister. Moreover, if she stayed here, he would definitely torture her tremendously.

Thus, now it seemed that she needed to take a risk again to have trust in Mo Jiang's words and raise her hope for her and her big sister's freedom.

As if she even had any other option apart from that!

"Fine. I will work with you." Liu Juan placed her hand into his and lost her last bit of consciousness because of excess loss of blood.

Again, Mo Jiang caught her in his arms before she could fall down.

He immediately held her up and left the hotel with a promise that he would be back soon to take revenge for his men's lives which he had lost this time.
