Mo Jiang entered the house and what greeted him was the sound of the melodic music flowing through the house. Subconsciously, his feet walked toward the room from where this sound was coming from and he found Liu Juan in front of the piano.

Liu Juan's fingers were seamlessly moving on the keys and a beautiful, as well as sad melody, was pouring out.

It was the same music that Mo Jiang had played before, his mother's music, which she had taught him and then he had then taught Liu Juan.

Liu Juan was a good learner, thus, she had learned this music very fast and other difficult notes as well.

Mo Jiang continued to stand near the door and was looking at the fairy. Now Liu Juan was looking nothing less than a fairy. Her beautiful skin gleamed more under the sparkling light, her hair was untied but tucked behind her ears, still, a few wayward strands were falling on her face. The white homely clothes that she had donned on for the evening completed the image of an untouched angel.

Liu Juan was so immersed in the music that she didn't notice Mo Jiang's presence in the room as now she wasn't in a high alert mood. She started to let her guard now, knowing there was a person who would protect her.

Soon, the hardest part of notes came which made Liu Juan's fingers hesitate until a pair of fingers came and guided her fingers.

A familiar fragrance came near her and overlapped her senses. She raised her hand and her eyes which met with a pair of deep black eyes staring back at her. She smiled at him and they didn't say a word but continued to play till it ended.

"Why did you come late today? Was there so much work to do?" Liu Juan asked casually; now it had become a common thing for her to wait for him.

"No. Jinnan came to meet me, he wanted to go for a drink with me and Li." Mo Jiang's hand automatically tucked her hair behind her ears.

"Why didn't you go with them?" Liu Juan didn't mind his action as now she was getting used to his closeness.

Although they were not married and having s.e.x, they were behaving like a husband and wife.

"If I would have gone with them, then who would have cooked for you, milady?" Mo Jiang asked and Liu Juan gave him a cheeky smile knowing how horrible of a cook she was.

"What will you cook tonight?" Liu Juan asked as she started placing the notes back inside the folder.

Mo Jiang also stood up to walk towards the kitchen as he asked, "What do you want to eat?"

"Spicy Noodles!" Liu Juan promptly replied as she followed after him.

"Did we not eat it the day before yesterday? It's not good to eat so much spicy food. Let's eat some vegetables today."

"But..."

"No buts!" Mo Jiang gave her a stern look, and she shut her mouth immediately, knowing he was the in-charge of the cook and for their health.

Afterward, Liu Juan helped him to wash the vegetables while Mo Jiang was cooking.

Soon, with mutual cooperation, four dishes and a soup were ready.

As expected, Liu Juan wiped out everything in dinner and Mo Jiang could only shake his head upon seeing her.

Tentatively, Mo Jiang went to shower and Liu Juan did the dishes as this was what they had decided beforehand.

Mo Jiang walked towards his study to complete some more work and Liu Juan boiled the water to get some tea for Mo Jiang.

Everything seemed to be a daily routine for them.

After giving him his tea, Liu Juan walked towards the backyard. Apart from being lazy and playing piano, she liked gardening. In fact, she had changed the structure of the garden in the backyard by planting many flower plants.

Now the fresh fragrance of these flowers lightened up the atmosphere of the entire mansion.

"You brought new plants. What kind of flower is this?" Mo Jiang asked as he bent down beside Liu Juan to help her in planting the new saplings.

"These are white lilies. They smell nice." Liu Juan replied and used the backside of her hand to tuck her short hair behind her ears which were falling on her face now and then, and in the process, was leaving behind a streak of wet soil on her cheek.

"Hahaha..." Seeing her face, Mo Jiang couldn't help but laugh at her.

"What?" Liu Juan looked at him, perplexed.

"Such a clumsy girl you are." Mo Jiang used his hand to clean her cheek and felt how soft her skin was.

Her black sparkling eyes twinkled in this night view, her small baby nose and pink rosy lips amplifying her beauty. Mo Jiang didn't want to hurt her but it was hard to not admire her beauty especially when she was so close to him.

Liu Juan stopped talking as Mo Jiang's intense gaze captured her twinkling eyes. His eyes were so deep that she found herself drowning in them.

And the closeness between them left no gap as Mo Jiang moved and captured her lips into his.

This action of Mo Jiang was unanticipated to her but she didn't know why she felt frozen under his kiss.

Liu Juan's lips were soft like the petals of a rose. He had noticed them every day and had the thoughts to capture them but he disregarded those thoughts as he was afraid to hurt her.

But now, he didn't know what happened but he couldn't stop himself today.

Mo Jiang continued to lick her lips but soon his greed increased and now he wanted to taste her sweet mouth but Liu Juan's lips were tightly closed. Hence, he bit on her lips to allow him to enter her mouth.

And soon, his tongue devoured her sweet mouth. He had a fear that she would run away so he encircled his hand on her waist and continued to taste her.
