

Chapter 38 Interactions

10 minutes later,

at the Graham's House,

Leon Hunter sat there and occasionally checked his cellphone.

Alyssa put the tea on the table in front of Leon Hunter and asked softly, "Busy with work?"

"It's fine." Leon Hunter took a sip of the tea Alyssa Graham brought and thought it was pretty good.

Because of the good taste of tea, Leon naturally thought of the tea that she brought him every day and took a look at Alyssa.

She was dressed casually and her face was full of collagen and youth.

She looked the same as when she was little. No difference!

Because of this little discovery, Leon Hunter's heart felt warmer than the tea in his hand.

"Why don't we skip dinner and just go back?" Alyssa Graham grabbed Leon Hunter's hand and tried to leave together.

However, she didn't succeed!

She turned back and looked at Leon Hunter, "Don't you want to leave? "

"I can work here. Do you have a computer in your room? I need a computer now."

"Oh! Yes! I'll take you. "

Alyssa took Leon to her room.

She took out her old laptop and put it in front of Leon Hunter.

In addition, she got the tea she had made just now. She added water into the tea, which diluted the strong taste, but it was still very good.

Watching him drinking tea, Alyssa said softly, "I haven't used this laptop since we got married. The system might be out of date. Let me fix it. You can work on the messages on your cellphone for now."

She turned around and saw Leon Hunter drinking tea. She knew that it was very important to write down the taste he liked. In the future, she had to be more careful and take care of him.

Leon Hunter saw Alyssa Graham staring at him. He responded, lowered his head and found that the tea in the cup was gone.

While Alyssa Graham was dealing with the computer system, she quickly filled up Leon Hunter's cup.

Leon Hunter saw that Alyssa Graham was good with the computer system. She seemed very familiar with the system, quickly updating it.

"You like to study these things?" Leon Hunter looked into Alyssa's eyes and saw them glowing. He knew that she liked to work with computer systems.

"Yes, I like it." Alyssa answered with a smile, "OK, you can use it now. I'll go peel the shrimps for you. They will be ready in a moment."

Alyssa hurried out of the door, and as soon as she went out, she saw her Grandpa.

Grandpa Graham saw Alyssa coming out and stepped back awkwardly.

"Grandpa, it doesn't seem good to sneak around at your age."

"Who said I sneak around? You are really not good at having conversations."

"Forget about it, anyway, you are my grandpa. My grandpa is always right, whatever he does."

Grandpa Graham was amused, "Look at you, when did you become so cute?"

"You surely taught me how to be cute." Alyssa Graham held her grandpa, "What can I do for you? Are you looking for me or Leon Hunter?"

"I just want to know how you two are doing?"

Alyssa Graham helped her grandpa sit on the couch and gently massaged his shoulders.

Grandpa Graham looked at his lovely granddaughter.

She wasn't like that before,

Though not rebellious either.

There was some kind of pride in her spirit and she used to talk very little.

She used to stay in her room by herself and rarely went out.

But now, she showed a strong breath of life.

Fantastic!

"Grandpa, is it comfortable?" Alyssa Graham massaged her grandpa's shoulders and felt that he seemed thinner. Alyssa laughed at him, "You need more nutrition. Although you are still young, you must get better nutrition. You must have the health care products prescribed by the doctor on time."

"Good, good." Grandpa Graham nodded and took his granddaughter's hand, "Alyssa, how have you been these days?"

"I'm good! Leon Hunter takes care of me, protects me, and never wrongs me. "

She looked at her grandpa gratefully, massaged his back, and didn't want him to see her eyes.

Inexplicably, her nose felt sore.

"That's good. I don't want my little princess to suffer. When are you and Leon going to have children?"

Alyssa Graham stopped the massage.

Her nose was suddenly not sore anymore.

She saw the way Grandpa Graham looked at her, and laughed, "We have never thought about it!"

"Ouch! How could you forget such an important thing? The most important thing for you two now is to think about when to have children and give birth to a dozen little monkeys for me. Then, it would be all perfect. "

Alyssa Graham blushed.

Why did both of their Grandpas think this way?

Monkeys!

She and Leon Hunter really didn't think about it.

Alyssa sat close to his Grandpa.

Seeing that his granddaughter was not so excited about it, Grandpa Graham asked, "Do you not want kids or is it him?"

"I'm still in school! And I'm only 20 years old. Isn't it a little early? If I have children, I can't focus on my study."

"The child will not affect you. There will be nannies and a lot of other people helping. You won't have to worry about it."

"No, if I have children with Leon, I would take care of them because I don't trust others on this."

Alyssa Graham held her Grandpa's arm and smiled at him, "Grandpa, let's not talk about these things. Tell me what you've done these days. Are you tired? Are you still going to the company?"

When she said this, she didn't notice Leon Hunter was standing near her.

Leon Hunter laughed when he heard what Alyssa and her grandpa talked about.

He clearly saw that when they talked about the little monkey thing, her face blushed.

She was obviously shy.

Thinking of her blushed face, he went back to work in satisfaction.

Busy with work, Leon suddenly slowed down. Inexplicably, he thought of Alyssa Graham holding the baby and feeding it.

Bang Bang!

There was a knock on the door.

Leon Hunter woke up from his thoughts.

"Leon Hunter, food is ready. Are you done?"

"Yes!"

Leon Hunter packed up and immediately stood up and went out.

on the dining table,

in front of Leon Hunter was a plate of peeled shrimps.

"Leon, it's all peeled by Alyssa. Eat more."

He looked at Alyssa Graham's hands and found that the gauze on her hands had been changed.

He didn't even move.

Alyssa Graham put a shrimp in his bowl and said, "When I peeled the shrimp for you, I wore food gloves. It's very safe."

Leon Hunter ate the shrimps, seeing fish skin, and got a piece for Alyssa, "You like this, eat more."

Alyssa looked at the fish skin in her bowl and smiled.

Looking at the interactions between the couple, Grandpa Graham smiled.

The interactions between them looked lovely.

He was worried about their relationship before, but his worry seemed totally unnecessary.

Their relationship still looked good.

Not only Grandpa Graham, but Alyssa's parents also felt relieved when they saw how the couple interacted.

Seeing such a good relationship between the two, what else they could say.
