

Chapter 57 She's Not Afraid Of Emily

"Oooh, it hurts."

"I'll take you to the hospital. Can you walk?"

"No, I can't walk because of the pain."

She looked at Leon and shook her head in aggravation.

Leon carefully approached her, picked her up, and quickly carried her into the car.

Alyssa looked at Leon's worried face with satisfaction and smiled softly as if she was comforted.

Although she was hurt and aggravated, she was now in a good mood. It made her happy to be cared for by Leon.

Ten minutes later.

Hospital.

After treating Alyssa's wounds, the doctor said, "There is nothing wrong with your wounds. However, there are a few wounds that are still quite deep. Fortunately, you have not moved after the injury, or your injury will be more serious. Mrs. Hunter, you can not get water on the wound, and you should not do strenuous exercise. You have to take care of yourself."

Alyssa was just about to speak when Leon said coldly, "Is she really okay?"

"Yes." The doctor nodded.

"Let's go!" Leon took Alyssa's hand. Seeing her frown, he asked, "Does it hurt?"

Alyssa nodded, "You grabbed my wounds."

Leon hurriedly released his hand and frowned at the wounds on her hands.

He didn't know exactly how many wounds she had on her body. Those wounds were caused by pieces of glass sticking in through her clothes. The clothes she wore before were already red with blood. Now, she wore a hospital gown, so he couldn't see anything.

He told her to sit aside and turned to make a phone call.

Alyssa sat and watched Leon go out to make the call. She was a little curious about who he was calling at this time.

She sat quietly and waited for Emily to come after her next.

After Emily received a reply from those two people, she would surely tell Leon that she had cheated on him. Leon couldn't tolerate her no matter how much he liked her.

Emily had been resentful. This time, she got the opportunity, so naturally, she wouldn't give up.

It was okay. She was ready. She was not afraid of Emily.

A few minutes later.

Leon finished the call.

"The car is outside. Let's go home!"

Alyssa nodded. They couldn't enhance their relationship by walking back, and it was better for him to carry her back.

She saw him walk forward and followed him unhurriedly.

"Ouch!"

Alyssa let out a cry.

Leon quickly turned his head and watched as Alyssa stopped in place with a frown.

"What's wrong?"

"My feet hurt. I don't know what happened. I have pain in my feet."

"What a nuisance."

Leon walked to her coldly, picked her up, and headed for the door.

Alyssa snickered inwardly. He clearly indulged her and knew that her feet couldn't possibly hurt after all the injuries on her body were taken care of.

An hour later, Leon carried Alyssa home.

Before they could get out of the car, unexpected guests arrived.

To Alyssa's surprise, the unexpected guests were reporters, not Emily.

"Mr. Hunter, what do you think about Mrs. Hunter's cheating? You and Mrs. Hunter are together, and it seems like you don't know about it yet."

"Mr. Hunter, don't you know that Mrs. Hunter cheated on you? Now the Internet is full of videos of Mrs. Hunter and two men together. You haven't seen them?"

The reporter said while taking out his phone and opened the web page. Soon a video appeared on the phone.

The video was full of unpleasant images.

Leon watched the video and turned his head to look at Alyssa, who was calm.

At this time, she could still be calm?

Alyssa saw Leon's bad face and worried that Leon would believe what was in the video, so she hurriedly came to his ear, "This is fake. Look at it carefully. This video is post-edited. I can restore it when I get back. Trust me."

Leon felt warmth in his heart. Even if he didn't understand the computer, his eyes were still bright.

He could discern the real from the fake.

He had figured out this thing when he was at the hospital and made the call earlier.

He saw that video before those reporters did.

The fact that she didn't panic and told him it was fake only made him think she was mature and steady.

He had to admit that he liked Alyssa even more.

Leon didn't say anything and ignored those reporters.

He went back to the villa with Alyssa in his arms.

The reporters rushed to stop Leon and Alyssa, "Mr. Hunter, do you really not care that you've been cheated on?"

"Mrs. Hunter, can I ask you is it true that Mr. Hunter has a physical problem that causes you to go outside for excitement?"

Excitement ...

Alyssa glared at the reporter and secretly remembered that reporter's name.

She leaned into Leon's arms and said delicately, "Honey, I'm in pain!"

Leon couldn't help but laugh. Her pouting voice was quite sweet. Suddenly he didn't want to send the reporters away so quickly.

If the reporters didn't leave, she would still be like this.

He didn't move, and those reporters didn't move either.

"Mrs. Hunter, may I ask you who is the person in the video?"

"Mrs. Hunter, when are you going to divorce Mr. Hunter? Are you going to apply for divorce tomorrow?"

Divorce?

Why would she want a divorce?

She gave a mocking smile.

Emily was too bad. She always tried to harm her in any way she could every time, but never showed up personally.

This time was the same. She thought Emily would appear, but she didn't expect that she still used her old trick.

She always managed to keep herself out of it, as if all the bad things had nothing to do with her.

Since Leon wouldn't leave, she must make it clear now.

Alyssa thought carefully for a moment and smiled directly at the reporter who had just said the divorce.

The reporter watched Alyssa smiling at him and somehow felt that Alyssa's smile was a bit creepy.

"Since you're all here, don't stand outside. Why don't you guys come inside! My tea is delicious, you guys can try it!"

Just as she finished speaking, she felt Leon's hands stiffen as he hugged her.

This was what she wanted!

She knew Leon didn't like strangers entering his house. She originally thought Leon would send those reporters away.

Now he got what he deserved!

Leon still didn't move.

But those reporters were already restless. They walked to the door and waited to go in.

When Alyssa saw that Leon didn't move, she simply jumped off him and limped to the inside.

She opened the door and let the reporters in.

Then, she ignored him and jumped inside.

Leon watched Alyssa jump in and couldn't help but smile.

Now he wanted to see Alyssa's reaction later. She was getting even funnier than he thought she would be.

A few minutes later, he walked into the villa and saw the reporters with tea in their hands, sitting in their chairs.

Alyssa had her laptop out and was standing to adjust the computer. She looked so busy as she took out her phone one moment and turned on the TV the next.