

Chapter 62 Small Thinking

"Mrs. Hunter knows a lot." Alyssa looked at Audrey and smiled, "When I was in trouble that day, I notified Leon first. He came over immediately and took me to the hospital. He also knew exactly what happened to me."

At that time, her clothes were stuck in her flesh with glass. Although her clothes were a mess, it was clear that it was caused by the car accident.

If she had really been violated, at least those pieces of glass could not be stuck in so intact ...

After all, the marks couldn't lie.

Leon was not a fool, so he could naturally tell.

Alyssa looked at Audrey calmly. She was wise for a moment and then confused. Her tricks were nothing more than that.

As for Emily, she still underestimated her. She didn't continue to deny, knowing exactly what she should say and what she shouldn't say.

"Leon, you're probably the only one who knows what happened to Miss Graham. I didn't realize that you like Miss Graham so much. Even at this point, you're still defending her. Do you know that you and Miss Graham will bring shame to our family!"

"Shame?" Leon looked at Audrey, "When Alyssa was injured, the wounds on her body were caused by the broken glass. Even the doctor took a long time to treat the wounds on her body. It would be strange if someone had really done something to her!"

Leon's voice was faint. He walked to Alyssa and gently rolled up her sleeves.

Her thin white arm was still wrapped in heavy gauze.

Those bruises were not visible now.

But still, one could see that she should have had many wounds at that time.

Obviously, in that situation, Alyssa could not be violated at all.

Audrey knew she was out of line and lowered her head.

"Audrey, what do you think Alyssa can do when she's hurt like this? If it was you, what could you do? Surely if it was you, it would be a different story."

"What do you mean? I'm an elder to you, how dare you talk to me like that! Dad, did you hear what Leon said to me? I'm George's mother. Why should I suffer this?"

Audrey knew she was in the wrong and quickly burst into tears.

Kevin frowned, "All right, don't cry. Emily, I always believe you. You said you didn't ask them to violate Alyssa, is that true?"

Emily looked at Kevin and immediately nodded.

"Okay, so let's forget about this. Audrey, if you want to say anything in the future, you have to make it clear first. Don't talk about these useless things. Alyssa, Leon, it's getting late. You guys should hurry back! Take these two people away!"

Kevin stood up and turned to leave. Then, he suddenly stopped and turned his head to Emily, "Emily, you are going to graduate, right? Hunter Group has a branch in C City. If you're interested, go work there! You think about it. If you want, I can help you arrange it first."

Emily froze at grandfather's words!

C City was a newly built base of Hunter Group in the last three years, still focusing on real estate.

The development there had just started, and its business was lukewarm.

Its environment was also far less prosperous than A City.

If she went to C City, it would be equivalent to being exiled.

It would be very difficult for her to return.

Emily panicked.

Luckily, she still had time to refuse grandfather.

She turned her head and said, "Grandpa, I still want to pursue postgraduate studies. I haven't thought about working. When I'm in postgraduate school, I'll rent a house near the school."

Hearing Emily's words, Kevin suddenly thought he sounded like he couldn't accept Emily. If outsiders knew about this, they would think he was impersonal.

Two girls were extra sensitive.

One was Emily and the other was Alyssa.

But he obviously preferred Alyssa.

Although he watched Emily grow up, he really did not like Emily's small thinking.

Now with Alyssa as a comparison, he found that Alyssa was really good.

Emily looked at her grandfather and could see that he was not happy with her.

Before Alyssa appeared, grandpa had always liked her. But now that she had appeared, nothing was the same.

She lowered her head and turned to her room.

After Emily left, this thing was considered as a misunderstanding and was left behind.

Leon saw his grandfather's face sink and knew that he didn't want to pursue this.

He didn't want to make him angry. So he looked at Alyssa and said, "It's getting late. let's go back!"

Alyssa originally didn't want to pursue this thing anymore. Seeing Leon testing her, she nodded, "Okay, I'm a little tired these days. I want to go back to sleep."

She was really tired.

For the business English exam.

She didn't sleep more than three hours a day.

Leon heard Alyssa's words and knew that Alyssa didn't want to bother with it. He really liked Alyssa's generosity.

Kevin also liked Alyssa's attitude. People should be silly at times. It might not be good to be so smart at all times.

Because he liked Alyssa, Kevin sent many things to Alyssa.

Audrey was unhappy to learn that Kevin had given Alyssa the most expensive ginseng in the house.

The ginseng was very valuable, but why should it be given to Alyssa?

But she still had to give the ginseng to Alyssa herself.

Half an hour later.

Alyssa returned to the Hunter's House with a lot of gifts.

She was really exhausted and rushed to bed as soon as she got back.

Leon knew she hadn't been sleeping well lately and didn't disturb her rest.

He looked at the pile of gifts on the coffee table and froze a little.

He could see that grandpa liked Alyssa a lot.

In fact, he also liked Alyssa more and more.

The feeling she gave him now was a little different from the weak impression she gave him before.

She was strong and thoughtful.

She did not panic when things went wrong, and she thought big. She wasn't picky and didn't make things difficult for anyone.

Emily and Audrey were clearly united.

Anyone could see that.

But she could see that grandfather did not want to pursue it, so she just let it go.

She was hurt, but she really seemed that she could ignore her injuries.

This really surprised him.

After all, she was spoiled at the Grahams.

At the Grahams, she was like a princess.

She should never have been so aggravated.

On top of that, he recently made sure that Alyssa really didn't want to leave here.

Alyssa had to go to school every day and was also responsible for driving him to and from work. There were so many opportunities for her to escape, but she never wanted to leave.

Besides, she was intent on bringing him to the Grahams and getting him into the Grahams' life.

She made him breakfast.

She also studied well every day.

She lived a rich life and looked full of energy as she worked on her studies every day.
