

Chapter 84 Because Of You

She thought Leon would take a long time to finish his work.

She didn't expect him to take care of it so quickly!

Just as she and Leon were heading out the door, his assistant walked in.

"Mr. Hunter, I just got word that Jones Group has admitted that there was a problem with their design. Their internal staff leaked the design, and they will take all the responsibility. According to the previous contractual agreement, Jones Group will not only be liable for the compensation to our company, but also the legal responsibility. Do I need to notify the legal department to intervene now?"

"Not for now. I've negotiated with Mr. Jones of Jones Group. Their company is still responsible for the design. We don't need to push them out of business. That's enough for today. The rest is up to you. Keep me informed of any changes."

"Yes."

The assistant nodded and put the papers in his hands away.

Leon took Alyssa's hand and walked forward.

A few minutes later.

In the quiet car, Leon saw Alyssa was going to drive and immediately stopped her, "It's too late now. I'll drive, you sit in the back and rest."

"No, you just finished working. You must be very tired! I'll drive! We agreed that I would be your driver."

Alyssa was going to step forward but was still stopped by Leon.

She took a step forward, tripped by Leon, lost her focus, and crashed into Leon's arms.

Leon lowered his head, looked at Alyssa's pale face, simply confined her in his arms, and whispered in her ear, "You sit in the back and rest. Driving at night requires the driver to be in good spirits. What if something happens to you if you're in bad spirits?"

He was not blaming her.

In fact, he was concerned about her.

Alyssa looked up at Leon and saw the concern in his eyes. She couldn't help but agree, nodding dumbly at Leon.

Leon smiled.

Looking at his smile, Alyssa kept nodding as if she was under a spell.

He just gave her a concerned look. Yet she felt that at this moment even if he said he was going to sell her, she might still nod seriously.

So, she was carried by Leon to the passenger seat. He personally helped her put on her seat belt and started the car.

"What just happened to your company? I heard your assistant mention Jones Group, which seems to be a very powerful design company. That company is also related to Hunter Group?" Alyssa started asking about Leon's company after she calmed down.

"We did have connections. Jones Group is a design firm that has an agreement with Hunter Group to design some of the model homes for Hunter Group's new East Lake Community. We just got the design yesterday, and someone posted it today."

"I see. It was Jones Group that leaked the design."

"I don't know exactly who leaked it, but I know this matter may not be as simple as I thought. I still have to investigate this carefully, but there is no hurry. We have been working with Jones Group for a long time, and I have some information about Jones Group. They don't have the ability to bring down Hunter Group yet."

"Oh! I see."

Alyssa understood what Leon meant. Since Leon was able to be the president of Hunter Group, he was naturally very capable. He could certainly handle this matter quickly.

She looked up at Leon with admiration in her eyes.

Leon noticed the admiration in Alyssa's eyes and felt as if warm water had been injected into his heart. Even in this dark night, he didn't feel dark and cold.

At the same time, he drove more steadily.

After the speed stabilized, the temperature in the car also got warmer.

Alyssa was suddenly a little tired and she yawned.

Soon, she closed her eyes and fell asleep.

Leon heard the sound of her steady breathing. Seeing Alyssa asleep, he bent down and kissed her face while looking at the road in front of him.

She was really exhausted. He kissed her and she didn't even feel it.

She remained quietly asleep.

The villa was just around the corner, but Leon didn't stop but drove forward.

He slowed down, hoping she could sleep a little longer in the car.

He almost circled the whole city, but Alyssa slept more and more soundly.

Leon had to go around the city again.

Leon's phone suddenly rang.

He answered the phone and woke up Alyssa at the same time.

Leon said a few words and hung up the phone.

Alyssa, who sat next to him, looked out a bit dazed and wondered where it was.

It was dark all around. Although she couldn't see much, the neighborhood was really unfamiliar to her.

"Where am I?" Alyssa looked at the car window, "This seems to be the southern part of town."

"Um, I drove here."

Alyssa looked at the beach in the distance, and then at Leon, faintly hearing the sound of waves lapping against the rocks. She suddenly relaxed and smiled softly.

"What are you laughing at?" Leon was curious, "What's wrong?"

"Nothing. You're not lost, are you?"

Leon glanced at Alyssa and suddenly didn't want to contradict her. If she thought he was lost, then he was lost. He nodded, "You had a nice sleep!"

After sleeping for a while, Alyssa was in a significantly better state, "I slept very well."

"Then let's go home now."

"So you didn't get lost! If you know the way home, then why did you drive here?" Alyssa thought Leon was so funny.

Leon looked at Alyssa and smiled, "Because of you."

Because of her?

Alyssa remembered that she fell asleep. She put away her smile and sincerely thanked Leon, "Thank you."

"You're welcome." Leon finished and drove off into the distance.

Alyssa's heart was warmed by the knowledge that Leon had gone around the city for her. The night scene outside was just beautiful. She was in a much better mood.

Leon drove a little faster. The trees on the side of the road seemed to be running. Watching the faint lights and the beach, and occasionally hearing the sound of the waves, Alyssa felt good.

Just as Alyssa watched this, a car suddenly rushed in front of her. Alyssa saw Leon turn the wheel slightly and quickly dodge the car.

Leon drove steadily. Alyssa suddenly felt very relieved. The way he just dodged that car with ease was so handsome!

She couldn't help but look at him.

So she lifted her head and looked at him sincerely.

Leon noticed that Alyssa had been looking at him and felt very proud.

He suddenly felt a sense of accomplishment being looked at by the person he liked. Now he was happier than before he had just made a deal.