

Twin Tormentors By RARE Chapter 11

Chapter 11

LEIGH-A*I

The day rolled by quickly and at some point, I had to drag myself out of bed and begin with the affairs of the day! When I checked the clock, it was well after 3pm and I casually shrugged. So far there have been no calls from work and I was highly thankful! There was nothing that made me want to crawl into the earth than being woken up from a very restful sleep and being told you have to go to OR; then spend yet another 6 or more hours on feet sewing someone close.

It was good to save lives yes; but good heavens was it tiresome!

Laura called in to check up on me and filled me in with what had happened with her boyfriend. She sounded so down and I knew I had to be a knight in a shining armor and cheer her up. I cleaned up quickly and did a few house chores, placed things accordingly and bathed up well. By the time I was done, it was right after 5 and Laura was about to leave work.

The plan was to go spoil her at some bar and get a few drinks, and then we'll see what to do after that. I put on a fresh pair of jeans, some low rise sneakers and a pink tunic on top. I bundled my hair in a messy bun and took my sling bag. I was about to open my door when an alarm went off. I opened to find Valerie standing there with a smile.

"Are those hickies?" That was the first thing I blurted out as soon as my eyes fell on her. She laughed and shook her head before pushing me back inside the house.

"Leave my hickies alone. And where are you going without me?" she asked referring to my attire. She had changed into some lounge wear but still managed to rock the attire.

"I am going to pick Laura from work and then go out for drinks with her!"

“Without me? That’s so rude. I thought you guys liked me?” she made a small pout causing me to laugh. I had planned to go with Laura alone since we were going to talk about sensitive stuff. So I didn’t just want to invite anyone...

“Let me call and inform her you are tagging along, how about that?” I replied gesturing to my phone. Her face lit up and she excitedly waited for me as I talked with Laura who didn’t have a problem with her tagging along.

‘The more the merrier!’ were her words. After cutting the call, I laid the news to her. Upon hearing this, Valerie went ran off to put fresh clothes and when she came out, she was dashing. She was wearing a very short pant with a long trench coat. She complemented her look with the thigh high boots and just let her long black hair to cascade down her back!

We left the apartments and drove to the hospital. We found Laura already waiting. but I asked them to wait a little longer as I needed to get some files from my office. Valerie asked to come with me and we went inside together.

“Good Evening Dr. Montreal” my subordinates paid me respect as we delved deeper into the hospital towards my office. I greeted them with smiles and when we arrived into my office Valerie went wild:

“Girl, I didn’t know you were like, a big shot in this hospital!” she gushed clapping her hands excitedly.

“Not a big shot as such. I am a general surgeon, so I work with every department!” I replied casually and opened the drawer in search for the files.

“But girl look how those guys were treating you with respect. They were literally worshipping you.” She gushed walking around to stand beside me.

“You are just imagining things! Let’s go have some fun!” I pulled her with the hand and off we went!

“Dr Montreal, the plans for the annual gathering has been together. There will be five guest doctors; and you will be in charge of them, their stay and everything!

You are okay with that right?" My HOD, Dr Erick announced after peeking into my office. I was busy analysing the reports of our very recent patients. I closed the file tab on my computer and looked up to him!

"Yes Doc. It's my pleasure to help!" I said with a profession smile. He nodded before leaving me to my business. This guy, he was hot yes! Matter of fact; he was insanely hot. Hot to an extend that every female i n this hospital wanted to have a piece of him. Those kind of guys were trouble with capital T. There was just too much traffic surrounding them and I couldn't be there; competing!

I focused my attention back on my computer and continued the analysis. My thoughts drifted back to yesterday when we went out with the girls. Valerie had gotten a little over drunk and she decided to give u san ounce of her relationship with her bosses!

Apparently, they were two guys. It took me off guard that he was working for a gay couple. And she mentioned how the bosses loved to "share" their employees. Although she didn't go into details, she kind o f gave us the clear picture of what transpired in Dark Woods Castle.

After getting our asses drunk, we had piled back into my car and drove back home. I wasn't very drunk, since I was the driver for the night. We had dropped Laura off and then went straight home. Valerie mentioned that she'd be leaving at sunrise, and that; her boss was finally here.

I had frowned upon the realization that they'd be spending the night together! But after what she had told me, I wasn't surprised. Just that it felt rather; disturbing. It didn't disturb her so I guess it was cool with her. It was me who found it unsettling to be involved with the boss "that way"! But then again, who was It o question her?

A sad 28 year old with no boyfriend or anyone to pump my lady bids out? Nope! Definetly not me!