

The Pinnacle of Life – Chapter 1168

“The triangular one.”

“...”

Alex looked at her blankly for quite a while before he nodded. He walked over to the red box and opened it. The box had been left in the inn previously and had not been taken with them to the rainforest.

“Where is it?”

“Drag it over here. I’ll have a look.”

Alex dragged the box over so that Cheryl could see the box’s contents, but when he turned his head, he was momentarily stunned. He could see quite the scenery from the door’s opening.

That beautiful, snowy white hand seemed to be calling out to him.

“In the zipper bag on the top.” Cheryl stretched out her hand and pointed at it.

Thud!

When Alex pulled open the zipper, a box fell out from it. Alex took a closer look at it, and holy crap, it turned out to be a box of Durex!

“This..?”

“Why do you have something like this?”

Alex was stunned.

Cheryl's face was red, but her eyes glinted with coyness and seductiveness.

It was such an obvious hint. Couldn't he comprehend it?

Idiot!

Her heart thumped wildly in her chest, and she couldn't calm it down, but she said, "Girls need to know how to protect themselves. If a certain man can't help himself and am not strong enough to resist, preparing this would be a form of protection. Don't you think so?"

Alex nodded solemnly. "That sounds reasonable."

Then, he shoved the small box back into the bag.

Cheryl was speechless.

'Are you a pig-head?!'

Did he expect her to take it out from the packet and peel it open for him?!

"Alex, I want to ask you a question?"

"Go ahead!"

His hands were still groping around the bag, but he couldn't find anything else. There was nothing in the bag except the box of Durex.

“Are you still a child?”

“Huh?” Alex was stunned, and he looked at Cheryl with wide eyes and jaw slack.

“Do you know how to use the item in the box?”

A sullen look appeared upon Alex’s face. “Do you think I’m stupid?”

Cheryl was annoyed and retorted, “Because you are stupid!”

In the next second, she opened the bathroom door wider and bent her legs, her hands coming up to cover her front as she asked, “Do you want me to teach you how to use it?”

Boom!

Alex’s head felt like it was about to explode.

He took out the box and tore open the pack. Just as he pulled one out, his phone rang.

“D*mn it!”

What a timing for a phone call!

“You can take the call first I’ll be waiting inside!” Cheryl said.

If Anna and the others had returned, then not picking up this call would be a big problem and would end up an embarrassing situation if they decided to break into the room directly.

Alex hurriedly pulled out his phone.

At first glance, the caller ID showed that it was his mother, Brittany. He still picked it up anyway.

“Hello, Mom?”

Unexpectedly, an extremely silvery voice came from the other end, “Your mother is in my hands. I’ll be waiting for you at Moonlight Lake.”

“What? Who are you?!”