

The Pinnacle of Life –

Chapter 0602

“Stoermer family of Michigan? Is your family really powerful?” Bunty had no idea about Zendaya’s true identity.”

Autumn said, “The Stoermer family is a family of martial artists. Back in ancient times, they were royalty. Even now, they’re as powerful as the families in Alaska.”

Bunty’s eyes widened in shock.

Just then, Zendaya received a call. It was a call from her father, Kazim Stoermer.

After answering, Kazim sounded very stern. “Where are you? Send your location, your mom and I are in California now.”

At the same time, Beatrice woke up and found that her world had changed completely. Her group chat was filled with messages of Zendaya being a homewrecker. She immediately searched online and found the footage.

“Alex?!”

“Oh my god!”

Claire noticed that her younger daughter was freaking out and rushed over. “Beatrice, what on earth? Why are you screaming for Alex?”

Beatrice immediately hid her phone away. “No, no, you misheard me, Mom. I was talking about a Korean celebrity whose nickname is Alex!”

Claire immediately huffed. “What in god’s name? You’re going back to school tomorrow! Don’t focus on the wrong things like your idols. Look at your sister, her business is doing great! You have to learn from her, maybe help her out too! From now on, we’re going to become rich!”

Claire then left the room as soon as she was done lecturing her.

Beatrice let out a deep sigh.

She had hoped that Alex and Zendaya would get together back at the concert. She had also seen what Alex could do, proving that he wasn’t a loser. Without the influence of the mental power, she was definitely on her sister’s side.

“Alex, you’re playing with fire here!”

She looked up, realizing that her sister wasn’t out of her room yet. She wondered if Dorothy had found out about this and was upset.

She called Alex secretly only to find that Alex had switched his phone off.

Beatrice rushed up to see Dorothy and saw her lying on the bed. She seemed stressed out as tears streamed down her face.

“Sis...”

“Alex, he... He’s crossed the line. How could he kiss Zendaya in public?”

Dorothy raised her head, shocked. “How... how did you know?”

Beatrice’s eyes widened. “I think every American would know about this by now. It’s all over the news!”

Dorothy felt her ears ringing and fell in a daze. She turned on her phone and saw the scandals and rumors about the two. More importantly, she found the video as well.

Her heart dropped to her stomach once more.

Beatrice asked, “Sis, what are you going to do?”

“Does Mom know about this?”

“Not yet...”

Just then, Claire barged into Dorothy’s room, seemingly pissed off. She was holding her phone, calling Adrianna at the same time.

Adrianna said in mockery. “What did I tell you? How could that Rockefeller be a good husband? First he was your daughter’s sugar baby, and now he has the money, he’s screwing other women...”

The two Assex sisters felt their blood run cold.

Claire yelled. “Divorce, you must divorce him! Dorothy, you have to listen to me this time. Believe me, I’ll find someone better for you! Thank god I was right to not let you two sleep together! Do you see how wise I am now?”

“Now that we have taken over Assex Constructions, it’s better to get a divorce. Well, you know, your husband is dead to you once you’re rich! You don’t need him! Since he cheated, you can divorce him and take everything he has too! Ah, how nice would that be?”

Claire then dragged Dorothy and Beatrice out of their house and headed towards Maple Villa.