

The Pinnacle of Life – Chapter 0924

James was enraged and yelled, “Darven Mikail, you are so bold. So you really were the one who stole the Heaven Defying Dragon Bone Needles back then. You rascal, how could you let our academy down? How could you let Master down?”

Darven smiled nonchalantly. “Tsk, stole? Don’t say such a ugly word, I borrowed this from Master. He promised to lend it to me for a hundred years.”

James yelled, “Bullsh*t! Back then, Master didn’t have the Heaven Defying Dragon Bone Needles to be used when his wife was terminally ill, just because you stole them. She ended up dying and Master bore the regret and hatred for the rest of his life. You brute! You deserve to die!”

By this time, everyone could tell what kind of a person Darven was. Each of them gesticulated and gossiped about him with scornful stares.

On the other hand, Alex’s eyes were brimming with delight.

When Darven took the box out, he could tell that the object within was special. He could sense a unique energy flowing within it.

The object in the box was uncommon.

Just then, Darven laughed and said, “James Coney, stop the idle chattes. How about it? Do you dare to make the bet?”

“Alright, I’ll bet it.”

Cheryl started panicking when James said that.

Although Ganoderma was a sign from the legacy of James's master, it only formed a word-of-mouth effect in the people's minds after several decades of hard work in California.

It could be said that Ganoderma of California was single-handedly built up by James.

“Grandpa, Ganoderma in California is your life! How could the broken needles whatsoever in his hand be compared to your Ganoderma? It's not even of the same value at all! If he can't make a fair bet, then we shouldn't play along!” Cheryl said.

However, a cold smirk was plastered on Darven's face.

James's expression darkened, he seemed to have set his mind on this.

However, the old lady next to them spoke up, “I heard that the Heaven Defying Dragon Bone Needles were actually made out of dragon ribs. It's a holy tool for medics with endless uses. Back then, this set of Heaven Defying Dragon Bone Needles fell into the hands of the Immortal Doctor, Guilherme Extraordinaire. He used them to save no less than a hundred thousand people. They're truly sacred items!”

“Dragon ribs?” Everyone present was shocked. “Could it be that dragons really existed in the world?”

The old lady replied, “Even if it wasn't made of dragon ribs, it shouldn't be far away from that... But, the one in this box of his might not be the real deal.”

Hence, everyone turned to look at the box, hoping to see what was inside. Even Alex craned his neck.

“Alright, I'll let all of you witness this eye-opener!” Darven said as he opened the box

Thirty-six bone needles could be seen inside. Each of them were as clear as glass, as if they were transparent. Alex was utterly stunned after seeing those needles.

He knew this set of needles.

In other words, they were not called bone needles at all, but they were called bone swords with the full name, the Dragon's Bane of Thirty-Six.

There was a record about them in the Ultimate Book of Medicine. It was made of refined inverse bones of dragons after his ancestors worked hard to collect thirty six dragons back then. They could be used to cure diseases or kill people!

However, one must possess the cultivation of Divine Transcendence or above to control this set of dragon bone swords.

Alex's eyes were widened, with his mouth agape.

He thought, 'Are these really something refined by my ancestors? If they were, I have to win this treasure by myself.'
