Chapter 4 Araceli remembers Alice

“Who are you? Rachel asked again when she saw that Xander wasn’t replying but only looking at her dumbfounded. It wasn’t as if she didn’t recognize him, she recognized him quite well because she already processed all of Araceli’s memory as she knew he was the Xander that betrayed and set Araceli up.

That scum!

“Araceli, What did you mean by “who am I?” I’m your fiance!” Xander replied as he frowned. What’s wrong with her?

Is she playing?

Why is he acting like she didn’t remember him?

Did she remember and play him? He had no choice but to do it so he would be able to break his engagement with her and marry Alice.

His parents would never allow him to dissolve his and Araceli’s engagement because their parents are good friends and they’ve been engaged since they were children.

So the idea about dissolving has to come from Araceli.

That’s why she can not blame him, he was doing this because he wanted to be with his true love. His Alice didn’t agree with this at first because she didn’t want to hurt her best friend until he told her that it’s the only way they can be together.

Even on that day, she was still begging him that they can find another way. so she can’t blame her either.

They were both forced to do this to her.

Rachel frowned when she heard his reply, fiance indeed.

What kind of fiance plot with his fiancee’s best friend and set men up to rape her. That kind of fiancee, she would rather not have!

“I don’t know you,” Rachel said and held her forehead as if she was having a headache as she tried to remember him.

When one of the staff stationed outside heard her reply, he quickly went to call the doctor.

Miss didn't recognize her fiance even when he showed his face. They all thought that perhaps she would recognize him when she saw him, that was why they allowed him to go in.

He quickly rushed to the doctor's office to inform him because Xander has a bad temper and he might start throwing things around.

When the doctor saw him enter, he recognised him as one of the guards that The Garcias left in their daughter's hospital room and was immediately alarmed.

Did something happen to Miss Garcia? Oh shit!

If something happened to her, even tens of him can't pay for it.

"Mr, what is it? What happened?" The doctor immediately stood up and approached the guard anxiously.

"Miss fiance is around and miss didn't remember him, we thought she would remember him when she saw his face so we allowed him in, but she didn't. So I came to call you to explain to him." The guard quickly explained to the doctor.

Instantly relieved that nothing major happened, the doctor heaved a sigh of relief. "The young man that brought her here?" The doctor asked. "He's back?"

"Yes, he is back, and he has a short temper. He can start throwing things." The guard quickly.

"Okay let's go." The doctor replied and took his coat from the peg and ushered the guard out of his office.

"What did you mean by not recognizing me, Araceli? I brought you to this hospital!"

That was the conversation the doctor and the guard heard immediately when they entered, the other guards stationed by the door already entered and were pleading with Xander to leave.

"Mr Xander?" Xander heard a calm voice calling his name and turned around and saw a doctor at his back.

"Yes?" He replied with a frown. Why is a doctor here?

"Mr Xander, the patient is diagnosed with amnesia and your attitude towards her right now is not beneficial to her health, so I will have to ask you to leave this hospital room." The doctor responded.

"Amnesia? Like she didn't remember anything?" Xander asked presumably. Wouldn't that be better?

If she didn't remember anything, that means she didn't remember the setup and how she almost died that day.

That's good!

"Not everything, she remembers the little man here" The doctor gestures to Ace.

Ace then looked up at smirk at Xander as if saying you see she didn't remember you because you are a bad person.

"She didn't remember her parents too, which came as a surprise to them too, so it's not as if she didn't remember only you." The doctor concluded with a smile.

"Did you remember what happened to you? I brought you here when I saw you in a basement not far from your office. Can you explain what happened to me? We have to bring those mean people to justice." Xander said to Rachel in a comforting and caring voice.

Rachel was astonished at this act, she almost shouted omg, this man right here should be awarded Oscar for his performance.

Why wasn't he even an actor rather than a businessman? He would have been a fantastic actor.

No wonder Araceli wasn't aware of his hypocritical attitude.

She wouldn't have noticed too if she didn't receive Araceli's memories.

But no worries, she had received her memories and she will make sure that Xander and Alice got to hell and back.

"I don't remember anything about it." Rachel tried to sound as convincing as she could. Let him believe that she didn't remember anything, so she can deal with them accordingly.

"Do you remember Alice? She's your best friend from childhood. You should remember her." Xander urged.

"Alice?" Rachel stated.

She can't pretend she didn't know Alice at all. She would be suspicious of her. "Yes, Alice. Do you remember her?" Xander asked again.

Seeing her confused face, Ace butted in. "Sister, You don't remember Alice? Alice always buys me toys and plays with me anytime she comes to our house."

Rachel looked at Ace's face and saw him looking at her expectantly, she can't help but groan inwardly.

Why he got to look at her with that puppy face?
