

Triplets on SM 391

Chapter 391

“Good luck! Uncle Brycen wishes you nothing but the best if you can win the calligraphy contest, I’ll give each of you a present!”

The triplets were even more excited when they heard about the prizes

“Don’t go back on your words, Uncle Brycen!”

“Dont worry. Uncle Brycen. We’ll do our best

“You’re the best, Uncle Brycen!* The triplets were cheering together with Brycen

On the day of the competition, the triplets were very excited, so they woke up early in the morning to get themselves ready

After eating their breakfast Molly and the triplets got in Sean’s car and went over to the competition venue

Many children had also joined the competition, but not all of them were as excited as the triplets Most of them looked like they were forced to be there by their parents or were nervous about the competition All in all, they did not look too good

When Molly walked in with her kids, many eyes were on them

“Those three kids look so cute!”

“They’re gorgeous is that their mother? She looks good too. The people complimented them softly, but Molly and the kids heard everything

Ben was very extroverted when he heard them praising his mother, he immediately blew a kiss on the ladies

“Hi there, pretty ladies. My mommy is really pretty isnt she? But you’re pretty tool” Ben did not forget to give them a wink, which melted many of the girls’ hearts

“Oh my God, why don’t have a cutie pie like him?!”

“This kid is a natural. Good luck, darling!”

The ladies were all swept off their feet by Ben’s flying kiss and wink, clutching their hearts if stealing a child was not illegal, they might have taken Ben back home Molly was already used to situations like this, so she thanked the people who complimented ihem with a smile before walking further into the venue with the kids

After signing their attendance and walking them to the competition venue, Molly waited for them with Sean

Sean could not help but smile when he saw Molly looking relieved “Aren’t you worried about them?” he asked with a smile

Molly answered with a smile too, "What's there to worry about? I don't expect them to win, and neither do I want to pressure them. Just as Mr Forbes said, taking them to events like this will only give them more exposure. This is more helpful for their growth, compared to winning the competition."

Molly was chatting away with Sean under the stage, and the emcee started his speech on the stage. The competition started shortly after.

When the competition officially started, the whole place turned dead silent.

There were not many requirements for the children's competition, so the kids could let their minds flow freely.

Sitting next to Molly was a wealthy woman who was dressed luxuriously.

The person next to her was probably another contestant's parent who might be her friend. Ever since the competition started, she had not stopped complimenting the woman's son.

"The way your son holds his brush only shows how skilled he is. From the looks of it, he is definitely winning the competition, no doubt."

The wealthy woman smiled humbly. "Not really. There are many other contestants today. My son doesn't put effort into learning calligraphy. He only practices for 3-4 hours per day, so I'm really worried about him. I asked him to read more, but he refuses to listen. When he has nothing else to do, he would just go to art galleries. If he can perform well for this competition today, I won't have to worry anymore."

Although the wealthy woman acted humble, her words showed otherwise.

Chapter 392

However, not everyone would lick her boots.

"The way I see it, the beautiful triplets on stage looked really competent. You'll never know who's the dark horse."

That person was referring to Alex, Ben, and Claudia.

The wealthy woman immediately looked disdainful as she sneered, "This is a calligraphy contest, not a beauty pageant. What's so good about looking pretty? Don't just be a pretty and useless shell!"

Molly laughed as she thought, "How pretentious and narcissistic must one be to say such a thing?"

She did not put the wealthy woman's words at heart, but Sean frowned.

The competition ended and the results would be announced in an hour. The emcee had already started to announce the winners of the competition, and the wealthy woman looked as prideful as ever. It was as if her "average son had already won the competition."

"The winner of this competition is Claudia May, and the runners-up are Ben May, followed by Alex May. These kids have a bright future ahead of them." * After the emcee finished announcing the winners, he started to praise them.

Molly smiled faintly when she heard the results.

However, the wealthy woman next to her was in disbelief

The emcee's words were like a giant slap to her face if she did not boast earlier on, she would not be this embarrassed

Molly watched as her kids took their prizes on the stage and said to Sean, "Let's go backstage and get the kids Sean felt a sense of closeness to Molly when she said that, so he responded, "Sure

Molly and Sean walked backstage, but they did not expect the wealthy woman had gotten there a step ahead of them and started a scene with the staff

"Don't stop me! Who's the organizer of this competition? There must be something going on under the tables My son is a student of Mr Rederick Brown' He is re-elected

The wealthy woman did not care about her image and started to argue with the staff, but they were afraid to go against her, which only made the wealthy woman more aggressive and overbearing

She blocked the triplets' exit, so they were stuck inside

The wealthy woman saw that it was pointless to argue with the staff, so she immediately took it out on the triplets as soon as she saw them

"You three! You're so young You probably don't even know how to hold a pen! Why are they even the winners? You're all cheaters! You're all so corrupted at such a young age!" She was even pointing at the triplet's noses when she yelled her last few words

The triplets were initially very happy as they purely wanted to show their parents their trophies. None of them expected this to happen, so they felt wronged when the wealthy woman scolded them

Alex defended his siblings and was about to talk it out with the wealthy woman, but Molly had heard what The wealthy woman said

She looked utterly upset and immediately pushed the people away to step in front of her kids

*This is a contest of calligraphy, not ridiculousness. There's nothing fake about competitions like this. If you suspect that my kids are cheating, please show your proof"

Molly had never yelled at her kids, so she could not watch them being accused like that

Sean had also stood before the triplets with a dark expression

The wealthy woman saw that they were the beautiful couple that she saw just now, so she got even more upset and said to Molly. "This is not my son's first competition He had won other calligraphy contests, both state and regional level. A small competition like this is nothing to him. You people must have done something behind closed doors!"

Chapter 393

Molly was mad at the accusation that came out of nowhere

“How could you say something like that? I’m going to sue you for defamation if you can’t show any evidence to back up what you just said!” She stood tall and upright in front of the wealthy woman looking furious and cold, and the wealthy woman took a step back instinctively

They confronted each other and things escalated quickly, which also attracted the staff and parents who were standing in the front, including some reporters too

Mr Brown, who was mentioned by the wealthy woman was there too

He came over immediately right after he heard that his student’s parent was causing a scene

As soon as the wealthy woman saw him, she grabbed him and made him stand in front of Molly before she yelled, “I think somebody is cheating in this competition!”

Then she pointed at the person standing beside her Her expression changed as she proudly and arrogantly said, “Do you know who this is? He’s a famous calligrapher in Norton, Mr Redenck Brown’ My son is his studenti

When the people saw Mr Brown, who did not deny whatever the wealthy woman said, they immediately took her side

“Mr Brown’ I know him We wanted him to tutor our daughter but he was just too busy I didn’t expect your son to be his student” A beautiful woman said regretfully

“Mr Brown’s calligraphy skill is really outstanding! I guess his student’s work wouldn’t be too bad either. right?

“Yeah it’s just impossible that Mr Brown’s student couldn’t get into the top three level heard that the top three were all that woman’s kids” Somebody else chimed in

“Are you serious? That’s just outrageous! I cant believe that this competition is actually rigged”

Sean was very displeased by what the people said He responded coldly. “Is Mr Brown that impressive Oh, I’m so ignorant i haven’t even heard of this name before Molly pulled the triplets closer to her They were very moved after seeing how Sean stepped forward to defend them

Claudia stared at him with her huge and watery eyes She felt mistreated but she was also happy at the same time, so she did not know if she wanted to cry or smile

Sean did not speak too loud or too soft However, it made people around him feel like he had taken full control of the situation as soon as he spoke Everybody shifted their gaze onto him subconsciously as if they were compelled to listen to him

Sean’s words sounded extra harsh after how everybody praised Mr Brown

Mr Brown felt like he was humiliated!

“Mr You’re quite the arrogant person aren’t you?” He looked at Sean from head to toes with a displeased and stern face

“Right can you even afford to ture Mr Rederich? Its not a surprise if you haven’t heard of tuin when you’re

“What’s going on?” A middle-aged man that stood in front of them asked the person beside him. That person was the triplets’ mentor, Mr. Forbes

Arden saw Molly and the triplets that were looking sad beside her. He asked, “What’s wrong?”

He sounded as if he was asking about what happened, but in fact, he was asking why the triplets looked so sad.

Mr. Brown switched his arrogant expression immediately when he saw Arden in an instant, the only thing that could be seen on his face was admiration

Sean looked at him from the corner of his eyes before turning to his mentor and briefly telling Mr. Forbes about what happened just now

Chapter 394

His words were very straightforward. He directly exposed Ms Lawson and that woman’s evil deeds.

“Cheating?”

Arden was shocked, and he felt like he was choking on something

He was so overwhelmed by his emotions that he did not know if he was angry or disgustedi

Arden liked the triplets very much. He felt extremely happy when they got first second, and third place respectively He was bragging about it to his friends, and his friends were very jealous of him!

However, he encountered something like this all of a sudden and it just had to happen at the worst possible time

Mr Forbes got furious as he approached Rederick and the nich woman to question them “What’s wrong? Are you saying that my students are not good enough to win?”

Everybody was stunned by what he said.

Arden Forbes was a very influential person

He was so famous in the calligraphy field that Rederick could never be compared to him

There were countless people that wanted to learn from Arden Unfortunately, everybody knew that he would only pick those who he wanted to teach to be his students Otherwise, his house would have been filled with students!

However, did he just say that the three kids were his students

To date, Arden had taught only a handful of students

He also had a student that was very famous, and he was from the Anderson Cooperation

The place became quiet for whatever reason. Then, a sharp reporter broke the silence. "Hold up! I remember correctly, this should be Mr. Anderson, right?"

This reporter worked in the financial department, and he could recognize people like Sean.

His professional intuition told him that Sean was familiar when he saw how imposing Sean looked. However, he just could not remember who exactly Sean was.

Everything only clicked for him when he saw Arden.

Many people were surprised after the reporter recognized Sean.

"What? The CEO of the Anderson Cooperation?" The rich woman's heart dropped. She looked at Sean subconsciously and was shocked. Then, she looked away, and she did not know what to do.

Sean looked directly at her and coldly said, "You accused my kids of cheating in front of so many people. I'm going to get my lawyer involved to hold you accountable. Besides, you're free to ask a professional to inspect their work to check if they cheated or not!"

Everybody could not help but shiver after hearing what he said.

They would never expect to see Sean, who could rarely be seen in the Anderson Cooperation show up at such a small and insignificant calligraphy competition.

Obviously, that rich woman did not expect the triplets to have someone as powerful as Sean looking back at them up!

She was just a woman who would urge her children to study when she was free. She was that kind of person who would hang out with other rich women and patronize the beauty salons in Northfolk. She had never encountered a person like Sean before.

She shivered a little. Sean's cold and indifferent gaze froze her in place. She looked like an ice sculpture, and her arrogance from just now was nowhere to be found.

Roderick, who was standing beside her, realized that they messed with the wrong person. So, he stepped forward to apologize, "I didn't know that you got yourself three new students. We had a misunderstanding, and we offended Mr. and Mrs. Anderson and the kids unintentionally. Please forget what we said."

"There's no need to stir things up. We apologize for what we said. We're so sorry for what we've done." Roderick said with a smile.

Chapter 395

Roderick bowed to them in front of Arden to express his apologies.

The rich woman panicked. She followed behind Roderick and apologized to the triplets. "I'm so sorry I'm such an ignorant person. I should've never accused you."

Then, the staff from the competition came forward to make a clarification. The competition is fair and equitable. The calligraphy of the three winners was exceptional, and they deserve to win more than all the other participants! There are no signs of cheating at all!

*Also, all their calligraphy works will be published to the public a while later, and you can judge them for yourself! So, we hope that this lady over here would be responsible for what she just said

The staff threw shade at the rich woman without holding back

How could she accuse the triplets of cheating?

She even tried to tarnish the organizer's name after accusing the triplets just because her child was not good enough to win the organizer had enough of her

Everybody would know the truth very soon!

The rich woman's face turned red after hearing what they said to her Everybody else was also disgusted by her after remembering how she looked when she was causing a scene

Arden criticized Rederick without holding back "You better stop teaching if you can't even tell what good calligraphy looks like. Don't miseducate others and give calligraphy a bad name!"

He scolded Rederick in his face fiercely

Everybody else also looked at Rederick and the rich woman in disdain

After everything was over, the triplets followed Molly and Sean to leave with their trophies Arden also left with them since he was the reason why the triplets won

After getting into the car. Molly looked at Sean and Arden before she said, "Thank you for standing up for my children"

Sean shook his head. "Don't mention it."

He turned around to look at the triplets He was worried that the triplets might be traumatized after being accused just now

However, the triplets looked very excited as though they forgot about everything that had happened Uncle Sean, You were so cool back there! You looked just like a hero! It felt like you were our daddy. So that was what being protected by a daddy feels like!"

"Hey, hey What are you talking about?" Molly could not help but interrupt them. Why would they say that? However, the triplets explained, "It's true Mommy. It felt just like that. Ask Mr. Forbes if you don't believe

The triplets knew that Sean was their father a long time ago. So, they did not think that it was weird for them to say that.

Molly was not that silly to really ask Arden So, she held her forehead with her hand helplessly, and let the triplets continue

"Uncle Sean, you were very impressive! You were like a savior!" Ben could not stop praising Sean by using every word that came up in his mind

"Yeah, we feel so safe around you. Uncle Sean." Claudia smiled at Sean fondly while holding her cheeks with her hands

Only a little kid like them could say things like that without feeling embarrassed.

Molly ranted to herself I'm going to be the one feeling embarrassed if they don't stop talking." "That's enough Give Uncle Sean and Mr. Forbes some time to rest.

On the other hand, Sean was feeling pretty good He was very relieved after seeing how well the triplets took the accusation

It was important for a child to have good physical health, but their psychological health could not be neglected too. A happy childhood was very important for a child's future development

Arden saw everything as he happily said, "The five of you make a really good family

Arden was not only smart, but he was also a wise man. Determining a person's character was no different from judging one's calligraphy style to him Even though Molly and the triplets had very different temperaments, they complimented each other very well, so he thought that they would get along very well

Chapter 396

Molly panicked for a moment, then she pretended to be fine. "Mr Forbes, please don't make fun of us." she said

She glanced at Sean after she said that. Their eyes met and her heart started to beat faster again

The atmosphere in the car felt strangely flirtatious

They took Arden home first. He got off the car quickly as he was going to have a discussion with his friend at home He just could not let those amoral people stay in the calligraphy scene

He was named Mr Calligraphy, and he took his virtues and ethics as a calligrapher very seriously!

What they did was simply insulting to calligraphy

Molly, Sean, and the triplets only went home after that

Brycen was waiting for their return. He felt very proud because the triplets won

Even Sawyer had a favorable look on his face He knew that the triplets were smart, but he did not expect them to be so outstanding

"Uncle, an aunty said that we cheated! We got really angry!" Ben said while pouting

Tell me more about it! Brycen looked at them, looking worried about the triplets getting mistreated

He got furious after hearing everything that the triplets told him "That's outrageous!"

He moved his electric wheelchair and he wanted to avenge the triplets. "How dare they do that to my nephews and niece? They're going to regret doing that

"Sawyer, Russell, let's go!"

Sawyer and Russell were shocked Both of them pretended like they did not hear what he said.

They did not dare to imagine if Brycen would still be under control after his legs were recovered...

Molly could not help but roll her eyes She got up and switched off his wheelchair before standing at the door Sean took care of it There's no need for you to do anything." she said

"Really?" The raging fire that was just set off in Brycen was immediately put out by Molly

*That man can't possibly be so kind-hearted.'

"Of course." Molly replied before she pushed him back to the living room I don't care what he wants to do in this house, but I would never want him to embarrass me out there

"Oh Okay. then. I guess he's kind of capable, huh?" Brycen only gave up that idea after saying that grudgingly.

Suddenly, his impression of Sean became a little better. However, he thought to himself in the next second

'Why does he always get to be the hero?!

Sean went back to the office after sending Molly and the triplets back to their house

He needed to get something done He spent his entire morning at the calligraphy competition, and he went to take care of those things as soon as he had the time

The phone in his office rang when he went into his room

"Sean, come to my office."

He still looked the same and he did not look tired at all. Throughout these years, he had been working most of the time without slacking

Sean put down the phone and said to Tony, who was going out of his room, 'Let's go upstairs.'

Tony turned around and went to his back to push him out of the office Then, he skillfully maneuvered the wheelchair to get Sean to the chairman's office

Ricky had a proposal in his hands. He got up from his comfortable chair to sit on the sofa after seeing Sean. However, his gaze had never left the proposal

"What project is that?"

Sean lifted his brows. He threw a glance at the file in Ricky's hands after he saw Ricky sitting down

"Look at this." Ricky handed him the proposal. "I think this project is pretty good it emphasizes sustainability and it's exactly the future development trend

Sean held the corner of the paper as he scanned through it. Overall, he thought that the proposal was decent. "Which enterprise gave this to us?" He asked

"It's the Newman family"

Sean's face slightly darkened. He closed the proposal as he lifted his chin to look at Ricky

“The Newman family?”

Chapter 397

Ricky knew that Sean would have a problem with this. He reminded Sean sternly, “Business is business. I guess you probably know that I’m very optimistic about this project. I need you to work with the Newman family.

“The project can be worth more than a hundred billion if everything goes well! The Newman Group alone will never be able to manage such a huge project. I’m sure that they’ll look for partners. The Newman family is organizing a banquet tonight. Let’s go there to check things out.”

Ricky was very confident in that project. After all, the Anderson Cooperation was the richest enterprise in the entire Northfolk.

Sean was still very cold as he said, “I’ll work with them based on the situation.”

He could not make sure that he can help Ricky even if things went wrong during this time.

Ricky stood up while holding his knees. He took the proposal back from Sean before walking back to his desk. “Okay, carry on with your work, then. I’ll talk to you again at night.”

“Sure.” Sean left Ricky’s office in his wheelchair. Then, Tony, who was waiting outside the door, took over the wheelchair and pushed Sean back down to his office.

He made himself busy for the whole day. However, he texted Molly when he was working. He told her that he had a business dinner to attend, and he could not go back home for dinner. He only started to work again after getting Molly’s reply.

When he got off work in the evening, Ricky asked him to go to the Newman family’s banquet together.

The sky was shrouded in darkness. It was already seven at night when Sean and Ricky arrived at the banquet.

A lot of people were there, including a few remarkable entrepreneurs. Sean knew who they were.

It seemed like the project the Newman family had was very attractive, and many people were trying to work with them.

Sean was following behind Ricky. They attracted most of the people’s attraction when they arrived.

“Mr. Anderson, good evening. I didn’t expect you to be here.”

A partner that the Anderson Cooperation worked with came to greet them with a glass of wine in his hand.

“Ricky, you even brought Sean along. Sean, it’s been so long.” Ricky’s friend came to say hello too.

The Anderson family did need the host to introduce them to the guests on purpose. They would always become the center of an upper-class social event like that for whatever reason.

The Anderson Family of Northfolk was very influential.

However, the hosts usually would not be jealous of them even though they might be getting more attention than the host themselves.

Everyone knew that a banquet attended by the Andersons would attract more people to come. No matter whether the host was trying to get closer to the Anderson family or to work with them, the presence of the Andersons would only do good to the host, who was trying to expand his connections.

Mr. Newman went to Sean and Ricky with his daughter, Sharon. They greeted them pleasantly, "Welcome, Mr. Anderson."

As usual, Sharon dressed elegantly and decorously. She said softly after her father, "Hello, Mr. Anderson.

Hello, Sean."

She was rather surprised when she saw Sean just now.

After what had happened previously, she went back here right away. Both of them did not cut each other any slack, so Sharon thought that he would be here today.

She smiled slightly as she looked at Sean's handsome and aloof complexion. She lifted her eyebrows and she felt kind of happy.

"Sean is still so young, yet he is very calm and composed. Not bad."

Mr. Newman praised Sean. That was his first-time meeting Sean at such a close distance.

For people as capable as Sean, one could only feel how imposing and powerful they were. Their presence was just different from an average person!

He figured that there was no need to compliment Sean's business capabilities because everyone that greeted them before him already said the same thing.

Everyone else left after they saw Mr. Newman. However, Ricky's friend pulled Ricky to the side to discuss something.<

Chapter 398

Sean took his compliments without overreacting as he coldly replied, "You're too kind.

"Ms. Sharon is not bad too. I heard that she participated in this project too." He said to Mr. Newman politely

Mr. Newman said again after they exchanged pleasantries. "Sharon, you've got to make sure that Sean feels comfortable here." Then, he turned to Sean and said, "You can ask Sharon to tell you more about the details of the project."

"I should go talk to your father now." Mr. Newman went in Ricky's direction after he said that.

Sean could tell that they did this on purpose to make him spend some alone time with Sharon.

He could not very well refuse to do that because they were in a public place, after all. So, he let them walk away, leaving Sharon alone with him.

He closed his eyes for a second as he felt a slight headache, but he recollected himself very soon after. He stopped overthinking, and he was ready to roll with the punches.

However, Sharon did not feel anything odd as she asked Tony with a smile, "Do you mind if I push Mr. Sean?"

Tony smiled as he said courteously and distantly, "Ms. Newman, that won't be necessary. It's my job to take care of my boss."

'Did she just ask me that?

'I'm not trying to lose my job here.'

"I only asked because I thought you might be tired after taking care of Mr. Sean for so long. Besides, I'm the host of tonight's banquet. It's my duty to take care of my guests too. I don't have other intentions." Sharon nodded as she explained in a gentle tone with a smile on her face.

Sean kept quiet as if he did not hear anything she said.

Tony noticed that Sean did not respond, and he knew that Sharon was not going to give up on that. So, he said, "Ms. Newman, you're a very kind and thoughtful person.

However, we just don't want to trouble you in any way. I don't have other intentions too."

He repeated what she said word by word, but his hands had never left the wheelchair.

Sharon choked. She felt a little displeased after seeing how unyielding he was, but she had no choice but to hide her emotions while she followed them.

After less than just two minutes, she approached Sean again to ask him, "Mr. Sean, you haven't had dinner yet, right? Do you want to eat something now?"

She was a little eager to get closer to Sean. This was a good opportunity for them to mend their relationship since Molly was finally not around.

Sean did not even look at her. "I'm good."

He felt like he needed to stop letting things progress like that after rejecting her. So, he jumped right into business as he said with a serious look on his face, "I've looked at the proposal of the Newman Group. It is very good in general, but there are a few unrealistic concepts."

He listed them out before telling Sharon their problems. He was very sharp with it.

If only other people knew that Sean could precisely list out all the issues in the proposal when he only scanned through it once, all of them would probably say the same thing.

What a madman!

"You're right. I'll make some changes to it later," Sharon thought for a moment and said after listening to Sean concentratedly.

Even though Sean spoke very quickly, she still managed to keep up with him. She felt a hint of admiration in her heart, and she realized that Sean was just an outstanding businessman that she could never surpass.

There were a lot of guests watching them as they were discussing the proposal. All of them were eager to be a part of the conversation.

The Newman family was going to work with the Anderson family despite just returning to Norlon not long ago. It would be great for the Newman family if they could really become partners with the Anderson family

It was just impossible for the bystanders to not be jealous.

After a while, several people approached them passionately to make a toast to Sharon. Interests were the only thing businessmen ever cared about.

They did not have the opportunity to work with the Anderson family, but they thought that the Newman family would be a good partner to work with in the future if they could associate themselves with the Anderson Cooperation.

Chapter 399

Sean noticed that, and he swept his glance across his surroundings. He felt uncomfortable and thought that it was getting a little too noisy. So, when he saw other people approaching Sharon, he said to her flatly, "Ms. Newman, I'll leave now since you're getting busy."

Sharon was surrounded by people that were trying to please her. All of them pretended to be very close to her with a smile on their faces. She could not reject them, and it was hard for her to entertain all of them. So, she could only look at Tony pushing Sean away helplessly.

Suddenly, she fell into a bad mood.

'These people ruined my plan! They're so annoying!

The banquet was crowded. Sean went past a lot of people after he left Sharon. Tony only stopped pushing him when they were beside Ricky.

"Dad, I've briefly talked to Ms. Newman. She's a little busy right now. I'll take my leave if there's nothing else." Sean said to the man, who was standing tall and upright.

Mr. Newman looked at him and asked, "Are you going to leave so soon? Don't you want to spend more time here? I would love to have a chat with you."

"Another time, perhaps. I'm a little tired today." Sean looked cold. He was clearly not in the mood.

Mr. Newman knew that he had not fully recovered yet, so he did not want to force him to stay. He nodded and said, "Rest well, then."

Ricky did not ask him too much either because he understood his son's temper. He was already glad that Sean would attend the banquet, so he did not stop him from leaving.

Tony helped his boss to get into the car after leaving the banquet. He sat in the driver's seat, and he was ready to go back home. He shifted the gear, but he heard Sean asking him suddenly.

"Tony, do you smell any perfume on me?"

Tony paused as he could not catch what Sean said. He only realized that Sean was asking about Sharon's scent a few seconds later.

Tony guessed that Sean was probably worried that Molly would smell women's perfume on him again like last time

He turned around, and he stuck his nose toward Sean before he looked at him and said, "A little."

Sean's face darkened. He took off his blazer immediately and put it very far away from him.

Tony sat back in his seat as he applauded Molly to himself. 'Ms. May is so powerful!'

Sean and Tony arrived home very shortly after.

: "Go tell the chef to cook something. Our boss hasn't eaten anything yet." Tony told the butler as soon as he got into the house.

Gott" The butler went in the kitchen's direction quickly to do as Tony said.

from the mansion next door.

Holly was strolling her phone on the living room sofa downstairs the whole time. She heard something outside the house, and she saw Sean's car coming back

She removed her blanket and got up before going next door'.

She figured that Sean did not eat anything for dinner as soon as she went into the house. She frowned subconsciously, looking unhappy as she was about to say something.

Sean noticed her coming in. He knew what she was going to say, so he quickly explained to her, "I've been eating on time, but I had something to do today. It won't happen again."

Molly could not help but laugh after seeing how fast Sean admitted his mistake. "I wasn't going to scold you. You didn't have to do that," she said.

"But you really have to be more careful next time. You can't afford to have any other illness with your condition right now."

Molly was worried that there would be problems with his stomach if he did not eat on time since his health was already in a bad condition.

It would not only affect the treatment progress but also the time he would take to recover.

Sean nodded unhesitatingly.

The chef was already done preparing Sean's food. It smelled so good that it could make a person with a full stomach feel hungry.

Molly got up and pushed Sean to the dining table.

Sean looked at the warm noodles on the table before turning around to ask Molly."

o you want to eat

together?"

Chapter 400

"I'm not hungry." Molly shook her head. She adjusted Sean's wheelchair to the right place, and she sat down beside him.

Sean picked up the fork and started eating alone. The noodle was not cooked with a lot of spices, but it was very delicious.

He could not help but took a few more forkfuls. His empty stomach was finally filled. The food lightened his mood as he asked Molly.

"Where are the triplets?"

"Brushing their teeth. I guess they're probably going to bed soon." Molly told him. They went upstairs together after Sean was done eating.

They were already used to the daily treatment routine, and the time they spent in the treatment did not feel as rough as before anymore. To Sean, the treatment would always end before he even knew it.

-Molly was already removing the needles.

He looked at Molly silently. His eyes were like a magnet that was stuck on Molly.

He even thought that quiet time the two of them shared together like this slipped away too fast.

However, Molly had no idea that Sean felt that way.

She said to Sean after she found out that Sean was doing fine in his recovery progress, "The training you did is paying off. Try adding one or two more exercises if you can. Also, you can try standing up with some help.

"Hm... like getting someone to hold you, or you can try using a rail too. However, you've got to be very careful. You must stop once you reach your limit. Don't push yourself too hard." It was undoubtedly a surprise to Sean. It had been so long since he last stood up. He was surrounded by genuine joy, and he could not help but look forward to that.

Sean, who was always calm, got excited too. He took a deep breath and eagerly asked, "Can we try that now? Would you help me?"

Molly smiled faintly. "Of course."

She regretted what she said a second ago when she tried to help Sean up.

'This man is really... heavy!'

The look on Molly's face changed. She was grinding her teeth as she tried to support Sean's body with both of her arms.

However, she overestimated herself.

Molly started waddling after Sean got on his feet for less than half a minute.

Sean's body fell onto her before she could put him back in his wheelchair. So, Molly fell on her back.

"Watch out!"

Sean put his hand behind Molly's head to protect her before she hit the floor. Thump' They fell on the floor.

Molly's back was on Sean's carpet. However, she did not feel much pain because the carpet in Sean's room was kind of thick.

She just felt dizzy suddenly at that moment. It took her a few seconds to realize what happened.

Her mind became clear. She could feel Sean's long and dense fan-shaped lashes sweeping on her face.

The weight she felt on her body became a lot lighter after Sean lifted himself up with his hands. However, his face was still very close to hers. His deep eyes were like a blackhole sucking her in.

'No way!

Molly's body was still in pain. And, her body felt very hot after getting so close to Sean. The sound of Sean's breathing was inexplicably seductive to her too...

Molly did not know where to look, so she pushed his face away subconsciously. "I'm sorry!"

She wanted to help him get back up. She had no choice but to wiggle when she was trying to get her legs, which were trapped under Sean, out from there.

The look on Sean's face changed slightly.

Their limbs rubbed against each other, and it made him feel uncontrollably uncomfortable and awkward. He took a deep breath and deeply said, "Don't move."

Molly stopped moving as she looked at Sean with a suspicious look on her face.
