

The Three Little Guardian Angels Chapter 2353

Chapter 2353

“The crew behind the show can be this ruthless, huh?” Denzel scratched his head, walked back to his seat, and handed the mission card to Hannah.

Hannah took a glance at it and was stunned as well.

Daisie leaned over. “What is it?”

The words “Sugarcane Harvesting” immediately shocked her.

The director said, “So, after everyone has finished eating and drinking, please have a good rest tonight. You’ll then have to get up at 8:00 a.m. tomorrow morning and gather at the doorstep of the inn. You must try to fill up five carts before 1:00 p.m.”

Hannah and Denzel started worrying as soon as they got the task.

‘How are we going to collect five carts of sugarcane?’

Daisie raised her hand and asked, “Do we have to do it ourselves?”

The people in the crew exchanged gazes and did not speak.

The director then explained, “You can’t ask others to help, and the six of you must come up with a way to complete the task.”

Daisie was astonished, and a hint of slyness flashed across her eyes.

Cameron had been eating silently in the corner from start to finish. She then remembered something all of a sudden and raised her head. “Is the soup ready? I seem to smell its aromal already.”

In fact, she had long forgotten that they were still on a live program.

Everyone looked at her dumbfounded.

Waylon clenched his hand slightly into a fist and pressed it against his lips, holding back his laughter.

[LMAO, this lady is never on the same page.]

[When others are discussing how they should harvest the sugarcane tomorrow, she only cares about whether the soup has finished cooking already.]

[Even Mr. Goldman is on the brink of bursting into laughter, isn't he?]

[Trust me, I can live with this lady and be happy for the rest of my life!]

"It should be ready already." Daisy got up. "I'll go take a look."

Among the guests, Zoey was extremely silent. She never understood why her sponsor would want her to participate in this variety show. And the main issue was that Daisy was also there.

"They clearly know that Daisy and I had disputes before this because of a fight over a character, but they still insisted on me participating in this show. This is disgusting.

'As long as the other guests are acting gregariously, I won't fit in and play along. In this way, my fans will think that Daisy is isolating me together with the other guests.'

"The soup is ready." Daisy came out with a pot.

Hannah quickly made room for her. "Be careful."

Cameron fiddled with her silverware, and her fork accidentally slipped out of her hand and fell to the floor. When she bent down to pick it up, she noticed someone's sneaky actions.

When Daisy was about to bring the pot to the table, a leg under the table was stretched out on purpose, trying to trip her.

Cameron picked up a small pebble from the ground and flicked it toward the person's leg.

Zoey's calf suddenly hurt, and she cried out as she abruptly retracted her leg and covered her calf.

Daisy stopped and looked at her in confusion. "Is there anything wrong?"

Everyone else stared at Zoey too.

Zoey gnashed her teeth. "I'm fine."

She raised her head inadvertently and just so happened to meet the smug gaze from Cameron, the person sitting across from her. Cameron raised her eyebrows and deliberately showed her the pebble in between her fingertips.

Zoey's expression slightly changed, and she looked away instantly, not daring to face her directly.

'F*ck, I got busted.'

As the night sky got darker, everyone finished their meal, cleaned up the dining table, did the dishes, and went back to their respective rooms to rest.

Zoey shared a guest room with Hannah, Helios and Denzel shared another guest room, Daisy and Cameron slept in their own room, and Waylon slept alone in his bedroom.

When Cameron was about to fall asleep, she vaguely felt someone standing beside her and instantly opened her eyes. However, her mouth was covered before she could make a sound.

Under the dim light from the courtyard, Cameron clearly saw the person in front of her and took his hand away.

She turned her head and glanced at Daisy, who was sleeping with her back facing her, then glared at Waylon and lowered her voice. "Why aren't you sleeping in the middle of the night? And what the heck are you doing here?"

Wayne shushed her. "I'm here to bring you somewhere. You'll definitely like it."

Chapter 2354

Waylon pulled Cameron up. She grabbed her coat, and the two quietly left the room.

Walking into the backyard, Cameron was sleepy and cold. "Where are you taking me?"

He took her hand and walked in front of her, leading her. "We're almost there." Cameron yawned and followed him. "Dude, we have to get up early tomorrow."

However, when she saw the fireflies in the garden, she woke up in an instant. The fireflies that were gathered in one place looked like the stars in the dark sky, adorning the darkness in the garden.

Cameron walked over. "Why are there so many fireflies?"

He looked back at her. "This isn't something that you see every day, is it?"

Cameron stretched out her hand, intending to touch them, and the fluorescent lights scattered instantly. The lights lingered around her, and she laughed. "This is so pretty."

Waylon stopped beside her. "I didn't lie to you, did I?"

Daisie turned her head around, looked at him, and laughed. "Just how boring can you be? You actually choose not to sleep in the middle of the night and bring me out here to see fireflies." "Watching fireflies is not the point here." After saying that, he tilted his head and fixed his eyes on Cameron.

Cameron was slightly startled and stared at him. Seeing that Waylon was approaching her, she shrugged, and her eyelashes twitched. "You... Don't mess around. We have to get up very early tomorrow."

He chuckled all of a sudden. "What do you think I'll do?"

Cameron lowered her head and did not utter a single word.

Waylon took her into his arms. "You're the one who's been messing around. What did you do today?"

She frowned. "What did I do?"

Waylon's lips got closer to her cheek, to the extent that they were inches away from touching her temple, and his voice sounded hoarse. "I saw everything."

Cameron seemed to understand what he was talking about, but she was confident. "Then you should thank me. If it weren't for me, your sister would've been scalded."

He smiled hoarsely and pressed his warm lips against her forehead. "Uh-huh, then how should I thank my little Cam?"

She murmured, "Who is yours to own?"

Waylon held her cheek in his palm and was about to kiss her. "Your name is on my marriage certificate. If you're not mine, then to whom do you belong?"

His question and tone made her blush.

Cameron licked her lips to moisturize them. "I'm going back to bed already."

12

Waylon brushed her lips with his thumb. "Good night then."

Cameron stood still.

'Did he just bid me good night? Is that it?"

Waylon chuckled. "Are you waiting for me?"

As soon as he said that, a hint of warmth spread across her lips as he pecked her on the lips.

Cameron wrapped her arms around his neck, and Waylon was stunned for a moment. His palms then brushed through the ends of her hair and clung to the back of her head as if he was about to embed his lips into her face.

For a long time, his eyes dimmed. "You're really good at torturing others."

She actually chose to torture him at this time when he could not do anything to her.

Cameron pushed him away with a trace of smugness on her face. "I'll leave you to it. Please, do enjoy."

She then fled the scene quickly.

As for when Cameron left her room last night and when she returned to the room, Daisy did not notice it at all.

At 7:00 a.m., all the guests were woken up by a knock on the door.

At 8:00 a.m., after breakfast, apart from Daisy, all the other guests and the crew members arrived at the sugarcane field on time, while other crew members drove five pickup carts to the side of the field and pulled them over by the roadside.

Hannah looked around. "Where's Daisy?"

Cameron yawned. She was too sleepy.

Zoey looked at the huge sugarcane field, crossed her arms, and asked disdainfully, "Why do we have to do all the hard work while Daisy can just disappear without reason? Is this a special privilege that the crew promised Daisy?"

When everyone heard Zoey's speculation, their expressions turned complicated. After all, it was a live broadcast. From where did she muster the courage to evoke the public's dissatisfaction and badmouth Daisy's name?

Chapter 2355

What was more, Daisy's brother and Helios were also present.

The audience deemed Zoey's behavior unacceptable, and most of them started commenting in the comment section.

[Zoey the clown is really doing all she can to gain popularity, huh?]

The director frowned. He originally planned to suspend the recording, but unexpectedly, the broadcast room suddenly gained countless views.

'Do the netizens love Zoey's drama this much?'

Hannah put on her gloves calmly, turned her head, and said to the people beside her with a smile, "Daisie might've killed someone's father in her previous life. That was awkward."

Denzel smiled awkwardly.

Everyone present was his senior in the industry, so he did not dare to say anything.

Helios and Waylon had really good control over their temper, so they did not let their emotions surface. They obviously did not plan to respond to any of Zoey's comments and would only focus on the task at hand.

The audience was mocking Zoey at the moment.

After waiting for a while, Daisie arrived in a hurry and brought everyone at the scene coffee, including all the program crew members. This scene was praised by many netizens, saying that it was very heart-warming to see.

Naturally, Zoey's fans started complaining about Daisie's actions in order to protect their idol.

[Isn't what she's doing a form of bribery? It's obvious that Ms. Vanderbilt doesn't want to work!]

[Zoey has been wronged. She was telling the truth, but all she got in return were the complaints that came from Daisie's brainless fans. I feel you, Zoey!]

Denzel brought a cup of coffee to Zoey out of kindness, but Zoey did not accept it and exclaimed loudly, "We're here to work, not to travel. It's already 10:00 a.m.! When will the five carts be filled with sugarcane?"

Daisie looked at Zoey and wondered. "It's just five carts of sugarcane. It can't get any simpler. It won't take more than two hours."

At this time, all the netizens lost their cool, questioning and mocking Daisie.

[Princess Vanderbilt must've never harvested sugarcane. The target that she just set for the group is ridiculous.]

[Five carts of sugarcane! If the seven of them can fill it up in under 2 hours, I'll eat my keyboard!]

[As expected of Princess Vanderbilt. All she does is speak without thinking.)

Zoey laughed out loud when she saw Daisy set such an unrealistic target for the group of seven. "What a joke, Daisy Vanderbilt. Do you think we can finish harvesting all the sugarcane in under two hours? We only have seven people here. Who else do you think will help us with the task?"

Daisy smiled. "We don't need help from anyone else."

After saying that, she turned around and glanced at the director. "Sir, you're the one who claimed yesterday that we only need to collect five carts of sugarcane. As for how we plan to accomplish the task, you won't limit our method and creativity, right?"

The director regained his senses and replied, "Yes, that's up to you to find a way."

Zoey crossed her arms. "Who in the world can come up with a way to fill up five carts with sugarcane in under two hours? Daisy Vanderbilt, you're the only naive one here."

Daisy raised her eyebrows. "Okay, I'll prove it to you today."

She waved and motioned for the villagers to drive the five pickup carts into the field.

Just when everyone did not know what was happening, Daisy walked up to an automatic harvester, picked up its operation panel, and started controlling it.

After a series of button pressing, the harvester's engine ignited, and it slowly moved toward the sugarcane field.

Everyone gathered around.

Cameron and Hannah exclaimed, "Holy moly! This is an unmanned harvester! This is awesome!"

Helios turned to look at Waylon. "When did Daisy learn how to control something like that?"

Waylon laughed. "Don't ask me. I don't even know that."

Daisy used the operation panel to control the harvester. It pushed to lift the slanted sugarcane into an upright position, cut them, gathered them, and placed them onto the conveyor belt located at the back of the harvester.

O

The conveying device would then peel off the leaves on the surface of the sugarcane, which was extremely practical.

A large acre worth of sugarcane was neatly harvested and gathered in a matter of minutes, which was more efficient than a group of people pulling and cutting the plants by hand. It improved the efficiency of the process too.

As for Daisy, she did not even need to be in the sugarcane field. All she needed to do was stand on the side of the road, and everything else could be achieved remotely through the operation panel.

Chapter 2356

Even the director and the entire crew were shocked.

One of the crew members suddenly handed a tablet to him. "You need to see this!"

There were over 1,000,000 viewers on the live broadcast, and it was still climbing. It was very popular. The viewers kept liking the video and applauding the improvement and use of technology in agriculture.

After half an hour, the sugar canes were all harvested. Using human labor to harvest was less efficient and labor intensive. It was obvious that technology was able to fulfill the need to replace that.

After the harvest, the people of the village applauded and praised Daisy. "She's a fast learner." Daisy bowed toward them humbly. "These are all from your hard work. Thank you for giving us a chance to see how well agricultural machinery has advanced. There's a lot more that we need to learn."

Cameron leaned close to Waylon and whispered, "Your sister is unbelievable."

Daisy increased the productivity of agriculture with the help of technology and was able to promote both technology and the agriculture industry during the live broadcast. It definitely helped improve everyone's knowledge about them.

Waylon looked at her and smiled. "She has always been smart."

Cameron agreed. "Anyone would love a hardworking sister."

Waylon leaned in close to her. "She's your sister too."

Cameron elbowed him..

He didn't feel anything but gave a broad smile.

Everyone was enjoying the happy mood, but an unhappy voice spoke up. "She broke the rules!"

Everyone looked toward Zoey.

Hannah scratched her ears and said, "Why is she everywhere?"

Zoey pointed at Daisy. "You used a machine, so it doesn't count as experiencing hard labor. You're just finding an excuse for your laziness. How many farmers would have lost their jobs. if they all relied on machinery like you? How much does a machine cost? Would any farmer be able to afford it?"

The place was silent, not because she made sense but because they were rendered speechless.

Even the crew members almost burst out laughing. Who was the naive one?

Daisy looked at her and broke the silence after a short pause. "Zoey, are you looking down on technology?"

She stammered. "I'm not looking down.

"Sugarcane is found in tropical or warm regions and is the raw material for sucrose. Ethanol can be extracted as an energy substitute too. Previously, harvesting sugarcane was done by labor and used a primitive chopping method. The shipment and process consume a huge amount of labor. Especially with the rapid development of the economy in recent years, labor costs have increased continuously."

She then smiled and asked, "Do you know that this has caused the continuous decline of earnings for the industry?"

Zoey's face dropped, and she couldn't answer.

"You never paid attention to the development of agriculture, so you think that everything requires labor, but that was all before the economy and tech matured. Agricultural development is no longer like it was in the past, especially regarding technology.

"Technology plays a fundamental role in promoting agriculture, effectively improving labor efficiency and resource utilization while reducing production costs. If technology is advancing, why is your brain degenerating?"

Zoey was so badly called out she tossed her gloves away and ran away crying. The director immediately sent someone to go after her

Chapter 2357

However, they couldn't stop the live broadcast.

When they go back to the old mansion, Hannah and Cameron were having a great time chatting. They had gotten close when Cameron asked her, "What's going on between Zoey and Daisie?"

Hannah clicked her tongue and replied, "What else? They were fighting for the same role, but she didn't get it because the director preferred Daisie."

Going after the same character was very common in the industry.

Many artists had 'feuds' because of this, but they weren't doing it as obviously as Zoey. They would just do it on the down low.

Cameron held her chin. "She's so salty. It's just a role."

"Fighting for a role in the industry meant they were fighting for a job. It's as if you worked hard to get a role, and everyone thought that it would go to you, but not only did you not end up with it, but you were also demoted to a supporting role.

"Everyone in the industry wants their next role to propel them to stardom and rake in money. No one would be happy if they lost the role."

Cameron turned to see Daisie, who was standing next to Helios. "She's pretty lucky, then.

"She's the princess of the Goldmann family. The family would be willing to provide her with any resources she needs. Everyone else might need to work for decades to get their break, so she really is quite lucky when it comes to this."

Hannah smiled after lamenting. "I used to think the same way, but after working with her for the past few years, I realized that the Goldmanns never got involved with her career. If Daisie wanted to be famous, she could have worked with Royal Crown. She would have been at the top even sooner if she had worked with her own company."

Daisie wasn't considered the best in the industry, but she had a stable standing as an A-lister with her title of Best Actress.

To the elites, she was just the daughter of an investor.

A lot of celebrities wanted to be actors and stars at the same time, but all Daisie wanted was to act.

One thing that Hannah knew that others didn't was that she wasn't paid as well as the top actors.

Helios was paid almost $15,000,000 when he was her age and was the highest-paid actor. Daisy was paid at most $700,000. That was a huge difference.

That was why Hannah didn't mind too much about Daisy asking her to apologize in public in the past. She felt that it was the right thing to do.

Soon after that, the director and the crew members got back. Helios went to ask about Zoey.

The director said, "Zoey pulled out from the show, but it was my fault. I didn't know that she was so extreme."

Helios smiled. "She's still young. Once she gains more experience, she will understand the industry's rules better."

The filming lasted a week before it finally came to an end.

Zoey was criticized badly because of her performance on the show.

At the same time, the unmanned automatic sugarcane harvester that Daisy promoted also became so popular they were sold out. Even the posters were switched to those with Daisy's endorsement.

All the other guests on the show had a surge of new fans, especially Cameron and Waylon. People started requesting for them to go on talk shows.

When they returned to Bassburgh, it was Charm's one-month birthday celebration.

Charm's party was held at the Goldmann mansion. It was an open-air party with adorable decorations in pastel colors. The attendees were clients and close friends of the Goldmanns.

Chapter 2358

Nolan, Maisie, and Nicholas were greeting the guests. Titus cradled Charm while Yael and Christina were playing with her.

“Look at that. The second son started the baby training.”

Thomas Clifford walked down the stairs along with Jackie and Violet.

Titus smirked. “Because he’s my great-grandson.”

Thomas sighed. “Time flies. I’m actually surprised that you’re still around.”

Titus glared at him. “Are you cursing me, you old fart?”

Thomas was used to the bickering. “Even Hernandez is still around. I guess it’s not your turn. yet.”

Maisie and Nolan walked over. “Jackie, Violet.”

Violet smiled and walked to Maisie. “It’s been a while.”

Maisie and Violet started catching up while Nolan and Jackie stood where they were. “Your son isn’t here?”

Jackie chuckled. “Not worried that he might ruin your party?”

The youngest Clifford was very cheeky because Thomas spoiled him. When children his age were still being protected and playing with toys, he was already on trees poking at bee hives.

Jackie had once brought him to a classmate’s party, and that kid made the birthday boy cry over a cake. The present he had brought was a trick box.

Jackie almost never brought him to parties after that to avoid embarrassment.

Nolan slowly sipped on his wine while looking over at Titus. “You can try letting my grandfather take care of your kid.”

Jackie smirked. “Forget it. I’m afraid that I might lose my son...’

Meanwhile, Maisie, Barbara, and Violet chatted until Colton walked in with Freyja.

Barbara suddenly smiled. “I’m so jealous of you, Maisie.”

Maisie asked, “Why?”

Barbara and Violet looked at each other. “Because you’re a mother-in-law at a young age, and now you’re a grandmother too. I think we’re only going to be mothers-in-law in our 50s or 60s and grandmothers when we turn 70.”

Maisie chuckled. "I guess it's because I met Nolan too soon."

Violet looked around. "Is Ryleigh not here yet?"

Barbara swirled her wine around. "She's living in Slokova with Louis, so I don't think she's coming back. Even if she misses this party, there are weddings."

There were three children that hadn't had their weddings yet.

At the mention of weddings, Violet looked at Maisie. "Have all your three children registered for their marriage?"

Maisie sighed. "Only Daisie and Nolly are sealed. Waylon and Cameron are registered, but I'm not sure what's going on with them. Colton proposed to Freyja, but they're not officially married yet."

Violet and Barbara were shocked. "What?"

Freyja stood next to Colton. She wasn't used to a big party like this, having to meet guests of the Goldmanns who came to congratulate them.

Colton put his arm around her waist. "Are you tired?"

She shook her head and smiled.

"Is your family not attending?" asked someone.

When Freyja heard it, she wrapped her hand tightly around the wineglass and didn't speak.

Both sides of the family should have been at the party, but only the Goldmanns were there.

The man who asked was an owner of a building material distribution company, Mr. Weatherby. He probably never met anyone from Freyja's side and was saying that there was nothing special about her. She was only able to marry a Goldmann because of her beauty.

Chapter 2359

The Goldmanns were more than any other affluent family in Bassburgh. Everyone would be curious about the person who married into the family if they were somebody. How could Freyja's family be absent?

Everyone's expressions changed.

Anyone who paid attention to the news would know why. Those who didn't might talk about it.

Mr. Weatherby didn't notice how the atmosphere changed and pressed on upon seeing how Freyja didn't reply. "Did something important come up, and your family couldn't come because of that? How could they miss a party so important? Even if your relatives were busy, your parents should be here."

Freyja pressed her lips together and was going to speak when Colton held her hand and calmly said, "I'm glad everyone is able to attend my daughter's party. My wife is married to me and is now a Goldmann. If you can't even respect her, we shouldn't have any more dealings in the future. Don't you think so, Mr. Weatherby?"

Mr. Weatherby wasn't expecting Colton to be so protective of his wife. He was from a famous family and had to be careful with what he said. He only thought the woman was marrying up and wasn't respected in the family.

Even when he was given a warning in public, he had to let it go because it was against a Goldmann.

Colton guided Freyja away.

Freyja turned to look at him. Her heart warmed when she remembered how he protected her. Thank you."

"There's no need. I just don't like the way they are."

They would always find the person they thought was weak and step on them. He looked down. on people like that.

Nicholas asked Colton to go over, so he said to Freyja, "Wait here. I'll be back."

She nodded and stood alone among the crowd as he walked away.

The more Mr. Weatherby thought about it, the angrier he got, so he drank a glass too many. When he saw Freyja standing alone and that Colton wasn't around, he had to confront her.

She was a woman who gave birth before even getting married. He wouldn't believe that the Goldmanns, aside from Colton, would respect a woman with no background.

Freyja looked at her watch and thought that Daisy and the rest would be there soon.

"Mrs. Goldmann?"

Freyja turned around, and it was Mr. Weatherby again.

She didn't want to make it a big issue because it was an important occasion, so she nodded politely. "Yes, Mr. Weatherby?"

He smiled. "I shouldn't have said that just now. I hope you forgive me."

1/2

Freyja thought he was apologizing, so she said, "Don't worry, I didn't take it to heart."

"Good then. But you look really young, around 23 or 24?" Mr. Weatherby looked at her from head to toe with bad intentions. "That's how you kept your figure after giving birth."

Freyja was offended, so she narrowed her eyes. "I'm going to walk away if there's nothing important, Mr. Weatherby."

She was going to leave when he stood in front of her. "Where's the fire? I'm here to apologize."

After that, he poured Freyja a glass of wine. "I'm showing respect, so you should show some too. Drink with me?" a Freyja thought it was just a drink, so she nodded and took the glass from him.

The Three Little Guardian Angels Chapter 2354

Chapter 2354

Waylon pulled Cameron up. She grabbed her coat, and the two quietly left the room.

Walking into the backyard, Cameron was sleepy and cold. "Where are you taking me?"

He took her hand and walked in front of her, leading her. "We're almost there." Cameron yawned and followed him. "Dude, we have to get up early tomorrow."

However, when she saw the fireflies in the garden, she woke up in an instant. The fireflies that were gathered in one place looked like the stars in the dark sky, adorning the darkness in the garden.

Cameron walked over. "Why are there so many fireflies?"

He looked back at her. "This isn't something that you see every day, is it?"

Cameron stretched out her hand, intending to touch them, and the fluorescent lights scattered instantly. The lights lingered around her, and she laughed. "This is so pretty."

Waylon stopped beside her. "I didn't lie to you, did I?"

Daisie turned her head around, looked at him, and laughed. "Just how boring can you be? You actually choose not to sleep in the middle of the night and bring me out here to see fireflies." "Watching fireflies is not the point here." After saying that, he tilted his head and fixed his eyes on Cameron.

Cameron was slightly startled and stared at him. Seeing that Waylon was approaching her, she shrugged, and her eyelashes twitched. "You... Don't mess around. We have to get up very early tomorrow."

He chuckled all of a sudden. "What do you think I'll do?"

Cameron lowered her head and did not utter a single word.

Waylon took her into his arms. "You're the one who's been messing around. What did you do today?"

She frowned. "What did I do?"

Waylon's lips got closer to her cheek, to the extent that they were inches away from touching her temple, and his voice sounded hoarse. "I saw everything."

Cameron seemed to understand what he was talking about, but she was confident. "Then you should thank me. If it weren't for me, your sister would've been scalded."

He smiled hoarsely and pressed his warm lips against her forehead. "Uh-huh, then how should I thank my little Cam?"

She murmured, "Who is yours to own?"

Waylon held her cheek in his palm and was about to kiss her. "Your name is on my marriage certificate. If you're not mine, then to whom do you belong?"

His question and tone made her blush.

Cameron licked her lips to moisturize them. "I'm going back to bed already."

12

Waylon brushed her lips with his thumb. "Good night then."

Cameron stood still.

'Did he just bid me good night? Is that it?'

Waylon chuckled. "Are you waiting for me?"

As soon as he said that, a hint of warmth spread across her lips as he pecked her on the lips.

Cameron wrapped her arms around his neck, and Waylon was stunned for a moment. His palms then brushed through the ends of her hair and clung to the back of her head as if he was about to embed his lips into her face.

For a long time, his eyes dimmed. "You're really good at torturing others."

She actually chose to torture him at this time when he could not do anything to her.

Cameron pushed him away with a trace of smugness on her face. "I'll leave you to it. Please, do enjoy."

She then fled the scene quickly.

As for when Cameron left her room last night and when she returned to the room, Daisy did not notice it at all.

At 7:00 a.m., all the guests were woken up by a knock on the door.

At 8:00 a.m., after breakfast, apart from Daisy, all the other guests and the crew members arrived at the sugarcane field on time, while other crew members drove five pickup carts to the side of the field and pulled them over by the roadside.

Hannah looked around. "Where's Daisy?"

Cameron yawned. She was too sleepy.

Zoey looked at the huge sugarcane field, crossed her arms, and asked disdainfully, "Why do we have to do all the hard work while Daisy can just disappear without reason? Is this a special privilege that the crew promised Daisy?"

When everyone heard Zoey's speculation, their expressions turned complicated. After all, it was a live broadcast. From where did she muster the courage to evoke the public's dissatisfaction and badmouth Daisy's name?

Chapter 2355

What was more, Daisy's brother and Helios were also present.

The audience deemed Zoey's behavior unacceptable, and most of them started commenting in the comment section.

[Zoey the clown is really doing all she can to gain popularity, huh?]

The director frowned. He originally planned to suspend the recording, but unexpectedly, the broadcast room suddenly gained countless views.

‘Do the netizens love Zoey’s drama this much?’

Hannah put on her gloves calmly, turned her head, and said to the people beside her with a smile, “Daisie might’ve killed someone’s father in her previous life. That was awkward.”

Denzel smiled awkwardly.

Everyone present was his senior in the industry, so he did not dare to say anything.

Helios and Waylon had really good control over their temper, so they did not let their emotions surface. They obviously did not plan to respond to any of Zoey’s comments and would only focus on the task at hand.

The audience was mocking Zoey at the moment.

After waiting for a while, Daisie arrived in a hurry and brought everyone at the scene coffee, including all the program crew members. This scene was praised by many netizens, saying that it was very heart-warming to see.

Naturally, Zoey’s fans started complaining about Daisie’s actions in order to protect their idol.

[Isn’t what she’s doing a form of bribery? It’s obvious that Ms. Vanderbilt doesn’t want to work!]

[Zoey has been wronged. She was telling the truth, but all she got in return were the complaints that came from Daisie’s brainless fans. I feel you, Zoey!]

Denzel brought a cup of coffee to Zoey out of kindness, but Zoey did not accept it and exclaimed loudly, “We’re here to work, not to travel. It’s already 10:00 a.m.! When will the five carts be filled with sugarcane?”

Daisie looked at Zoey and wondered. “It’s just five carts of sugarcane. It can’t get any simpler. It won’t take more than two hours.”

At this time, all the netizens lost their cool, questioning and mocking Daisie.

[Princess Vanderbilt must’ve never harvested sugarcane. The target that she just set for the group is ridiculous.]

[Five carts of sugarcane! If the seven of them can fill it up in under 2 hours, I'll eat my keyboard!]

[As expected of Princess Vanderbilt. All she does is speak without thinking.)

Zoey laughed out loud when she saw Daisy set such an unrealistic target for the group of seven. "What a joke, Daisy Vanderbilt. Do you think we can finish harvesting all the sugarcane in under two hours? We only have seven people here. Who else do you think will help us with the task?"

Daisy smiled. "We don't need help from anyone else."

After saying that, she turned around and glanced at the director. "Sir, you're the one who claimed yesterday that we only need to collect five carts of sugarcane. As for how we plan to accomplish the task, you won't limit our method and creativity, right?"

The director regained his senses and replied, "Yes, that's up to you to find a way."

Zoey crossed her arms. "Who in the world can come up with a way to fill up five carts with sugarcane in under two hours? Daisy Vanderbilt, you're the only naive one here."

Daisy raised her eyebrows. "Okay, I'll prove it to you today."

She waved and motioned for the villagers to drive the five pickup carts into the field.

Just when everyone did not know what was happening, Daisy walked up to an automatic harvester, picked up its operation panel, and started controlling it.

After a series of button pressing, the harvester's engine ignited, and it slowly moved toward the sugarcane field.

Everyone gathered around.

Cameron and Hannah exclaimed, "Holy moly! This is an unmanned harvester! This is awesome!"

Helios turned to look at Waylon. "When did Daisy learn how to control something like that?"

Waylon laughed. "Don't ask me. I don't even know that."

Daisy used the operation panel to control the harvester. It pushed to lift the slanted sugarcane into an upright position, cut them, gathered them, and placed them onto the conveyor belt located at the back of the harvester.

O

The conveying device would then peel off the leaves on the surface of the sugarcane, which was extremely practical.

A large acre worth of sugarcane was neatly harvested and gathered in a matter of minutes, which was more efficient than a group of people pulling and cutting the plants by hand. It improved the efficiency of the process too.

As for Daisy, she did not even need to be in the sugarcane field. All she needed to do was stand on the side of the road, and everything else could be achieved remotely through the operation panel.

Chapter 2356

Even the director and the entire crew were shocked.

One of the crew members suddenly handed a tablet to him. "You need to see this!"

There were over 1,000,000 viewers on the live broadcast, and it was still climbing. It was very popular. The viewers kept liking the video and applauding the improvement and use of technology in agriculture.

After half an hour, the sugar canes were all harvested. Using human labor to harvest was less efficient and labor intensive. It was obvious that technology was able to fulfill the need to replace that.

After the harvest, the people of the village applauded and praised Daisy. "She's a fast learner." Daisy bowed toward them humbly. "These are all from your hard work. Thank you for giving us a chance to see how well agricultural machinery has advanced. There's a lot more that we need to learn."

Cameron leaned close to Waylon and whispered, "Your sister is unbelievable."

Daisy increased the productivity of agriculture with the help of technology and was able to promote both technology and the agriculture industry during the live broadcast. It definitely helped improve everyone's knowledge about them.

Waylon looked at her and smiled. "She has always been smart."

Cameron agreed. "Anyone would love a hardworking sister."

Waylon leaned in close to her. "She's your sister too."

Cameron elbowed him..

He didn't feel anything but gave a broad smile.

Everyone was enjoying the happy mood, but an unhappy voice spoke up. "She broke the rules!"

Everyone looked toward Zoey.

Hannah scratched her ears and said, "Why is she everywhere?"

Zoey pointed at Daisy. "You used a machine, so it doesn't count as experiencing hard labor. You're just finding an excuse for your laziness. How many farmers would have lost their jobs. if they all relied on machinery like you? How much does a machine cost? Would any farmer be able to afford it?"

The place was silent, not because she made sense but because they were rendered speechless.

Even the crew members almost burst out laughing. Who was the naive one?

Daisy looked at her and broke the silence after a short pause. "Zoey, are you looking down on technology?"

She stammered. "I'm not looking down.

"Sugarcane is found in tropical or warm regions and is the raw material for sucrose. Ethanol can be extracted as an energy substitute too. Previously, harvesting sugarcane was done by labor and used a primitive chopping method. The shipment and process consume a huge amount of labor. Especially with the rapid development of the economy in recent years, labor costs have increased continuously."

She then smiled and asked, "Do you know that this has caused the continuous decline of earnings for the industry?"

Zoey's face dropped, and she couldn't answer.

"You never paid attention to the development of agriculture, so you think that everything requires labor, but that was all before the economy and tech matured. Agricultural development is no longer like it was in the past, especially regarding technology.

"Technology plays a fundamental role in promoting agriculture, effectively improving labor efficiency and resource utilization while reducing production costs. If technology is advancing, why is your brain degenerating?"

Zoey was so badly called out she tossed her gloves away and ran away crying. The director immediately sent someone to go after her

Chapter 2357

However, they couldn't stop the live broadcast.

When they go back to the old mansion, Hannah and Cameron were having a great time chatting. They had gotten close when Cameron asked her, "What's going on between Zoey and Daisy?"

Hannah clicked her tongue and replied, "What else? They were fighting for the same role, but she didn't get it because the director preferred Daisy."

Going after the same character was very common in the industry.

Many artists had 'feuds' because of this, but they weren't doing it as obviously as Zoey. They would just do it on the down low.

Cameron held her chin. "She's so salty. It's just a role."

"Fighting for a role in the industry meant they were fighting for a job. It's as if you worked hard to get a role, and everyone thought that it would go to you, but not only did you not end up with it, but you were also demoted to a supporting role.

"Everyone in the industry wants their next role to propel them to stardom and rake in money. No one would be happy if they lost the role."

Cameron turned to see Daisy, who was standing next to Helios. "She's pretty lucky, then.

"She's the princess of the Goldmann family. The family would be willing to provide her with any resources she needs. Everyone else might need to work for decades to get their break, so she really is quite lucky when it comes to this."

Hannah smiled after lamenting. "I used to think the same way, but after working with her for the past few years, I realized that the Goldmanns never got involved with her career. If Daisy wanted to be famous, she could have worked with Royal Crown. She would have been at the top even sooner if she had worked with her own company."

Daisy wasn't considered the best in the industry, but she had a stable standing as an A-lister with her title of Best Actress.

To the elites, she was just the daughter of an investor.

A lot of celebrities wanted to be actors and stars at the same time, but all Daisie wanted was to act.

One thing that Hannah knew that others didn't was that she wasn't paid as well as the top actors.

Helios was paid almost $15,000,000 when he was her age and was the highest-paid actor. Daisie was paid at most $700,000. That was a huge difference.

That was why Hannah didn't mind too much about Daisie asking her to apologize in public in the past. She felt that it was the right thing to do.

Soon after that, the director and the crew members got back. Helios went to ask about Zoey.

The director said, "Zoey pulled out from the show, but it was my fault. I didn't know that she was so extreme."

Helios smiled. "She's still young. Once she gains more experience, she will understand the industry's rules better."

The filming lasted a week before it finally came to an end.

Zoey was criticized badly because of her performance on the show.

At the same time, the unmanned automatic sugarcane harvester that Daisie promoted also became so popular they were sold out. Even the posters were switched to those with Daisie's endorsement.

All the other guests on the show had a surge of new fans, especially Cameron and Waylon. People started requesting for them to go on talk shows.

When they returned to Bassburgh, it was Charm's one-month birthday celebration.

Charm's party was held at the Goldmann mansion. It was an open-air party with adorable decorations in pastel colors. The attendees were clients and close friends of the Goldmanns.

Chapter 2358

Nolan, Maisie, and Nicholas were greeting the guests. Titus cradled Charm while Yael and Christina were playing with her.

“Look at that. The second son started the baby training.”

Thomas Clifford walked down the stairs along with Jackie and Violet.

Titus smirked. “Because he’s my great-grandson.”

Thomas sighed. “Time flies. I’m actually surprised that you’re still around.”

Titus glared at him. “Are you cursing me, you old fart?”

Thomas was used to the bickering. “Even Hernandez is still around. I guess it’s not your turn. yet.”

Maisie and Nolan walked over. “Jackie, Violet.”

Violet smiled and walked to Maisie. “It’s been a while.”

Maisie and Violet started catching up while Nolan and Jackie stood where they were. “Your son isn’t here?”

Jackie chuckled. “Not worried that he might ruin your party?”

The youngest Clifford was very cheeky because Thomas spoiled him. When children his age were still being protected and playing with toys, he was already on trees poking at bee hives.

Jackie had once brought him to a classmate’s party, and that kid made the birthday boy cry over a cake. The present he had brought was a trick box.

Jackie almost never brought him to parties after that to avoid embarrassment.

Nolan slowly sipped on his wine while looking over at Titus. “You can try letting my grandfather take care of your kid.”

Jackie smirked. “Forget it. I’m afraid that I might lose my son...’

Meanwhile, Maisie, Barbara, and Violet chatted until Colton walked in with Freyja.

Barbara suddenly smiled. “I’m so jealous of you, Maisie.”

Maisie asked, “Why?”

Barbara and Violet looked at each other. "Because you're a mother-in-law at a young age, and now you're a grandmother too. I think we're only going to be mothers-in-law in our 50s or 60s and grandmothers when we turn 70."

Maisie chuckled. "I guess it's because I met Nolan too soon."

Violet looked around. "Is Ryleigh not here yet?"

Barbara swirled her wine around. "She's living in Slokova with Louis, so I don't think she's coming back. Even if she misses this party, there are weddings."

There were three children that hadn't had their weddings yet.

At the mention of weddings, Violet looked at Maisie. "Have all your three children registered

for their marriage?"

Maisie sighed. "Only Daisy and Nolly are sealed. Waylon and Cameron are registered, but I'm not sure what's going on with them. Colton proposed to Freyja, but they're not officially married yet."

Violet and Barbara were shocked. "What?"

Freyja stood next to Colton. She wasn't used to a big party like this, having to meet guests of the Goldmanns who came to congratulate them.

Colton put his arm around her waist. "Are you tired?"

She shook her head and smiled.

"Is your family not attending?" asked someone.

When Freyja heard it, she wrapped her hand tightly around the wineglass and didn't speak.

Both sides of the family should have been at the party, but only the Goldmanns were there.

The man who asked was an owner of a building material distribution company, Mr. Weatherby. He probably never met anyone from Freyja's side and was saying that there was nothing special about her. She was only able to marry a Goldmann because of her beauty.

Chapter 2359

The Goldmanns were more than any other affluent family in Bassburgh. Everyone would be curious about the person who married into the family if they were somebody. How could Freyja's family be absent?

Everyone's expressions changed.

Anyone who paid attention to the news would know why. Those who didn't might talk about it.

Mr. Weatherby didn't notice how the atmosphere changed and pressed on upon seeing how Freyja didn't reply. "Did something important come up, and your family couldn't come because of that? How could they miss a party so important? Even if your relatives were busy, your parents should be here."

Freyja pressed her lips together and was going to speak when Colton held her hand and calmly said, "I'm glad everyone is able to attend my daughter's party. My wife is married to me and is now a Goldmann. If you can't even respect her, we shouldn't have any more dealings in the future. Don't you think so, Mr. Weatherby?"

Mr. Weatherby wasn't expecting Colton to be so protective of his wife. He was from a famous family and had to be careful with what he said. He only thought the woman was marrying up and wasn't respected in the family.

Even when he was given a warning in public, he had to let it go because it was against a Goldmann.

Colton guided Freyja away.

Freyja turned to look at him. Her heart warmed when she remembered how he protected her. Thank you."

"There's no need. I just don't like the way they are."

They would always find the person they thought was weak and step on them. He looked down. on people like that.

Nicholas asked Colton to go over, so he said to Freyja, "Wait here. I'll be back."

She nodded and stood alone among the crowd as he walked away.

The more Mr. Weatherby thought about it, the angrier he got, so he drank a glass too many. When he saw Freyja standing alone and that Colton wasn't around, he had to confront her.

She was a woman who gave birth before even getting married. He wouldn't believe that the Goldmanns, aside from Colton, would respect a woman with no background.

Freyja looked at her watch and thought that Daisie and the rest would be there soon.

“Mrs. Goldmann?”

Freyja turned around, and it was Mr. Weatherby again.

She didn't want to make it a big issue because it was an important occasion, so she nodded politely. “Yes, Mr. Weatherby?”

He smiled. “I shouldn't have said that just now. I hope you forgive me.”

1/2

Freyja thought he was apologizing, so she said, “Don't worry, I didn't take it to heart.”

“Good then. But you look really young, around 23 or 24?” Mr. Weatherby looked at her from head to toe with bad intentions. “That's how you kept your figure after giving birth.”

Freyja was offended, so she narrowed her eyes. “I'm going to walk away if there's nothing important, Mr. Weatherby.”

She was going to leave when he stood in front of her. “Where's the fire? I'm here to apologize.”

After that, he poured Freyja a glass of wine. “I'm showing respect, so you should show some too. Drink with me?” a Freyja thought it was just a drink, so she nodded and took the glass from him.

The Three Little Guardian Angels Chapter 2355

Chapter 2355

What was more, Daisie's brother and Helios were also present.

The audience deemed Zoey's behavior unacceptable, and most of them started commenting in the comment section.

[Zoey the clown is really doing all she can to gain popularity, huh?]

The director frowned. He originally planned to suspend the recording, but unexpectedly, the broadcast room suddenly gained countless views.

‘Do the netizens love Zoey's drama this much?’

Hannah put on her gloves calmly, turned her head, and said to the people beside her with a smile, "Daisie might've killed someone's father in her previous life. That was awkward."

Denzel smiled awkwardly.

Everyone present was his senior in the industry, so he did not dare to say anything.

Helios and Waylon had really good control over their temper, so they did not let their emotions surface. They obviously did not plan to respond to any of Zoey's comments and would only focus on the task at hand.

The audience was mocking Zoey at the moment.

After waiting for a while, Daisie arrived in a hurry and brought everyone at the scene coffee, including all the program crew members. This scene was praised by many netizens, saying that it was very heart-warming to see.

Naturally, Zoey's fans started complaining about Daisie's actions in order to protect their idol.

[Isn't what she's doing a form of bribery? It's obvious that Ms. Vanderbilt doesn't want to work!]

[Zoey has been wronged. She was telling the truth, but all she got in return were the complaints that came from Daisie's brainless fans. I feel you, Zoey!]

Denzel brought a cup of coffee to Zoey out of kindness, but Zoey did not accept it and exclaimed loudly, "We're here to work, not to travel. It's already 10:00 a.m.! When will the five carts be filled with sugarcane?"

Daisie looked at Zoey and wondered. "It's just five carts of sugarcane. It can't get any simpler. It won't take more than two hours."

At this time, all the netizens lost their cool, questioning and mocking Daisie.

[Princess Vanderbilt must've never harvested sugarcane. The target that she just set for the group is ridiculous.]

[Five carts of sugarcane! If the seven of them can fill it up in under 2 hours, I'll eat my keyboard!]

[As expected of Princess Vanderbilt. All she does is speak without thinking.]

Zoey laughed out loud when she saw Daisy set such an unrealistic target for the group of seven. "What a joke, Daisy Vanderbilt. Do you think we can finish harvesting all the sugarcane in under two hours? We only have seven people here. Who else do you think will help us with the task?"

Daisy smiled. "We don't need help from anyone else."

After saying that, she turned around and glanced at the director. "Sir, you're the one who claimed yesterday that we only need to collect five carts of sugarcane. As for how we plan to accomplish the task, you won't limit our method and creativity, right?"

The director regained his senses and replied, "Yes, that's up to you to find a way."

Zoey crossed her arms. "Who in the world can come up with a way to fill up five carts with sugarcane in under two hours? Daisy Vanderbilt, you're the only naive one here."

Daisy raised her eyebrows. "Okay, I'll prove it to you today."

She waved and motioned for the villagers to drive the five pickup carts into the field.

Just when everyone did not know what was happening, Daisy walked up to an automatic harvester, picked up its operation panel, and started controlling it.

After a series of button pressing, the harvester's engine ignited, and it slowly moved toward the sugarcane field.

Everyone gathered around.

Cameron and Hannah exclaimed, "Holy moly! This is an unmanned harvester! This is awesome!"

Helios turned to look at Waylon. "When did Daisy learn how to control something like that?"

Waylon laughed. "Don't ask me. I don't even know that."

Daisy used the operation panel to control the harvester. It pushed to lift the slanted sugarcane into an upright position, cut them, gathered them, and placed them onto the conveyor belt located at the back of the harvester.

O

The conveying device would then peel off the leaves on the surface of the sugarcane, which was extremely practical.

A large acre worth of sugarcane was neatly harvested and gathered in a matter of minutes, which was more efficient than a group of people pulling and cutting the plants by hand. It improved the efficiency of the process too.

As for Daisie, she did not even need to be in the sugarcane field. All she needed to do was stand on the side of the road, and everything else could be achieved remotely through the operation panel.

Chapter 2356

Even the director and the entire crew were shocked.

One of the crew members suddenly handed a tablet to him. "You need to see this!"

There were over 1,000,000 viewers on the live broadcast, and it was still climbing. It was very popular. The viewers kept liking the video and applauding the improvement and use of technology in agriculture.

After half an hour, the sugar canes were all harvested. Using human labor to harvest was less efficient and labor intensive. It was obvious that technology was able to fulfill the need to replace that.

After the harvest, the people of the village applauded and praised Daisie. "She's a fast learner." Daisie bowed toward them humbly. "These are all from your hard work. Thank you for giving us a chance to see how well agricultural machinery has advanced. There's a lot more that we need to learn."

Cameron leaned close to Waylon and whispered, "Your sister is unbelievable."

Daisie increased the productivity of agriculture with the help of technology and was able to promote both technology and the agriculture industry during the live broadcast. It definitely helped improve everyone's knowledge about them.

Waylon looked at her and smiled. "She has always been smart."

Cameron agreed. "Anyone would love a hardworking sister."

Waylon leaned in close to her. "She's your sister too."

Cameron elbowed him..

He didn't feel anything but gave a broad smile.

Everyone was enjoying the happy mood, but an unhappy voice spoke up. "She broke the rules!"

Everyone looked toward Zoey.

Hannah scratched her ears and said, "Why is she everywhere?"

Zoey pointed at Daisy. "You used a machine, so it doesn't count as experiencing hard labor. You're just finding an excuse for your laziness. How many farmers would have lost their jobs, if they all relied on machinery like you? How much does a machine cost? Would any farmer be able to afford it?"

The place was silent, not because she made sense but because they were rendered speechless.

Even the crew members almost burst out laughing. Who was the naive one?

Daisy looked at her and broke the silence after a short pause. "Zoey, are you looking down on technology?"

She stammered. "I'm not looking down.

"Sugarcane is found in tropical or warm regions and is the raw material for sucrose. Ethanol can be extracted as an energy substitute too. Previously, harvesting sugarcane was done by labor and used a primitive chopping method. The shipment and process consume a huge amount of labor. Especially with the rapid development of the economy in recent years, labor costs have increased continuously."

She then smiled and asked, "Do you know that this has caused the continuous decline of earnings for the industry?"

Zoey's face dropped, and she couldn't answer.

"You never paid attention to the development of agriculture, so you think that everything requires labor, but that was all before the economy and tech matured. Agricultural development is no longer like it was in the past, especially regarding technology.

"Technology plays a fundamental role in promoting agriculture, effectively improving labor efficiency and resource utilization while reducing production costs. If technology is advancing, why is your brain degenerating?"

Zoey was so badly called out she tossed her gloves away and ran away crying. The director immediately sent someone to go after her

Chapter 2357

However, they couldn't stop the live broadcast.

When they go back to the old mansion, Hannah and Cameron were having a great time chatting. They had gotten close when Cameron asked her, "What's going on between Zoey and Daisy?"

Hannah clicked her tongue and replied, "What else? They were fighting for the same role, but she didn't get it because the director preferred Daisy."

Going after the same character was very common in the industry.

Many artists had 'feuds' because of this, but they weren't doing it as obviously as Zoey. They would just do it on the down low.

Cameron held her chin. "She's so salty. It's just a role."

"Fighting for a role in the industry meant they were fighting for a job. It's as if you worked hard to get a role, and everyone thought that it would go to you, but not only did you not end up with it, but you were also demoted to a supporting role.

"Everyone in the industry wants their next role to propel them to stardom and rake in money. No one would be happy if they lost the role."

Cameron turned to see Daisy, who was standing next to Helios. "She's pretty lucky, then.

"She's the princess of the Goldmann family. The family would be willing to provide her with any resources she needs. Everyone else might need to work for decades to get their break, so she really is quite lucky when it comes to this."

Hannah smiled after lamenting. "I used to think the same way, but after working with her for the past few years, I realized that the Goldmanns never got involved with her career. If Daisy wanted to be famous, she could have worked with Royal Crown. She would have been at the top even sooner if she had worked with her own company."

Daisy wasn't considered the best in the industry, but she had a stable standing as an A-lister with her title of Best Actress.

To the elites, she was just the daughter of an investor.

A lot of celebrities wanted to be actors and stars at the same time, but all Daisy wanted was to act.

One thing that Hannah knew that others didn't was that she wasn't paid as well as the top actors.

Helios was paid almost $15,000,000 when he was her age and was the highest-paid actor. Daisy was paid at most $700,000. That was a huge difference.

That was why Hannah didn't mind too much about Daisy asking her to apologize in public in the past. She felt that it was the right thing to do.

Soon after that, the director and the crew members got back. Helios went to ask about Zoey.

The director said, "Zoey pulled out from the show, but it was my fault. I didn't know that she was so extreme."

Helios smiled. "She's still young. Once she gains more experience, she will understand the industry's rules better."

The filming lasted a week before it finally came to an end.

Zoey was criticized badly because of her performance on the show.

At the same time, the unmanned automatic sugarcane harvester that Daisy promoted also became so popular they were sold out. Even the posters were switched to those with Daisy's endorsement.

All the other guests on the show had a surge of new fans, especially Cameron and Waylon. People started requesting for them to go on talk shows.

When they returned to Bassburgh, it was Charm's one-month birthday celebration.

Charm's party was held at the Goldmann mansion. It was an open-air party with adorable decorations in pastel colors. The attendees were clients and close friends of the Goldmanns.

Chapter 2358

Nolan, Maisie, and Nicholas were greeting the guests. Titus cradled Charm while Yael and Christina were playing with her.

"Look at that. The second son started the baby training."

Thomas Clifford walked down the stairs along with Jackie and Violet.

Titus smirked. "Because he's my great-grandson."

Thomas sighed. "Time flies. I'm actually surprised that you're still around."

Titus glared at him. "Are you cursing me, you old fart?"

Thomas was used to the bickering. "Even Hernandez is still around. I guess it's not your turn. yet."

Maisie and Nolan walked over. "Jackie, Violet."

Violet smiled and walked to Maisie. "It's been a while."

Maisie and Violet started catching up while Nolan and Jackie stood where they were. "Your son isn't here?"

Jackie chuckled. "Not worried that he might ruin your party?"

The youngest Clifford was very cheeky because Thomas spoiled him. When children his age were still being protected and playing with toys, he was already on trees poking at bee hives.

Jackie had once brought him to a classmate's party, and that kid made the birthday boy cry over a cake. The present he had brought was a trick box.

Jackie almost never brought him to parties after that to avoid embarrassment.

Nolan slowly sipped on his wine while looking over at Titus. "You can try letting my grandfather take care of your kid."

Jackie smirked. "Forget it. I'm afraid that I might lose my son...'

Meanwhile, Maisie, Barbara, and Violet chatted until Colton walked in with Freyja.

Barbara suddenly smiled. "I'm so jealous of you, Maisie."

Maisie asked, "Why?"

Barbara and Violet looked at each other. "Because you're a mother-in-law at a young age, and now you're a grandmother too. I think we're only going to be mothers-in-law in our 50s or 60s and grandmothers when we turn 70."

Maisie chuckled. "I guess it's because I met Nolan too soon."

Violet looked around. "Is Ryleigh not here yet?"

Barbara swirled her wine around. "She's living in Slokova with Louis, so I don't think she's coming back. Even if she misses this party, there are weddings."

There were three children that hadn't had their weddings yet.

At the mention of weddings, Violet looked at Maisie. "Have all your three children registered

for their marriage?"

Maisie sighed. "Only Daisy and Nolly are sealed. Waylon and Cameron are registered, but I'm not sure what's going on with them. Colton proposed to Freyja, but they're not officially married yet."

Violet and Barbara were shocked. "What?"

Freyja stood next to Colton. She wasn't used to a big party like this, having to meet guests of the Goldmanns who came to congratulate them.

Colton put his arm around her waist. "Are you tired?"

She shook her head and smiled.

"Is your family not attending?" asked someone.

When Freyja heard it, she wrapped her hand tightly around the wineglass and didn't speak.

Both sides of the family should have been at the party, but only the Goldmanns were there.

The man who asked was an owner of a building material distribution company, Mr. Weatherby. He probably never met anyone from Freyja's side and was saying that there was nothing special about her. She was only able to marry a Goldmann because of her beauty.

Chapter 2359

The Goldmanns were more than any other affluent family in Bassburgh. Everyone would be curious about the person who married into the family if they were somebody. How could Freyja's family be absent?

Everyone's expressions changed.

Anyone who paid attention to the news would know why. Those who didn't might talk about it.

Mr. Weatherby didn't notice how the atmosphere changed and pressed on upon seeing how Freyja didn't reply. "Did something important come up, and your family couldn't come because of that? How could they miss a party so important? Even if your relatives were busy, your parents should be here.”

Freyja pressed her lips together and was going to speak when Colton held her hand and calmly said, “I’m glad everyone is able to attend my daughter’s party. My wife is married to me and is now a Goldmann. If you can’t even respect her, we shouldn’t have any more dealings in the future. Don’t you think so, Mr. Weatherby?”

Mr. Weatherby wasn’t expecting Colton to be so protective of his wife. He was from a famous family and had to be careful with what he said. He only thought the woman was marrying up and wasn’t respected in the family.

Even when he was given a warning in public, he had to let it go because it was against a Goldmann.

Colton guided Freyja away.

Freyja turned to look at him. Her heart warmed when she remembered how he protected her. Thank you.”

“There’s no need. I just don’t like the way they are.”

They would always find the person they thought was weak and step on them. He looked down. on people like that.

Nicholas asked Colton to go over, so he said to Freyja, “Wait here. I’ll be back.”

She nodded and stood alone among the crowd as he walked away.

The more Mr. Weatherby thought about it, the angrier he got, so he drank a glass too many. When he saw Freyja standing alone and that Colton wasn’t around, he had to confront her.

She was a woman who gave birth before even getting married. He wouldn’t believe that the Goldmanns, aside from Colton, would respect a woman with no background.

Freyja looked at her watch and thought that Daisy and the rest would be there soon.

“Mrs. Goldmann?”

Freyja turned around, and it was Mr. Weatherby again.

She didn’t want to make it a big issue because it was an important occasion, so she nodded politely. “Yes, Mr. Weatherby?”

He smiled. “I shouldn’t have said that just now. I hope you forgive me.”

1/2

Freyja thought he was apologizing, so she said, "Don't worry, I didn't take it to heart."

"Good then. But you look really young, around 23 or 24?" Mr. Weatherby looked at her from head to toe with bad intentions. "That's how you kept your figure after giving birth."

Freyja was offended, so she narrowed her eyes. "I'm going to walk away if there's nothing important, Mr. Weatherby."

She was going to leave when he stood in front of her. "Where's the fire? I'm here to apologize."

After that, he poured Freyja a glass of wine. "I'm showing respect, so you should show some too. Drink with me?" a Freyja thought it was just a drink, so she nodded and took the glass from him.