

The Three Little Guardian Angels

Chapter 2741

Giselle looked at James. "Isn't your acting really good? Do your best to hide it then."

"That's not up to me. Look at how you're treating me. Is this something a normal couple would go through? I think you're the one who will get us caught."

Giselle paused for a moment "Alright, I'll take note."

James looked at her "Will you do whatever I tell you to?"

"Don't worry, I'll play along."

Giselle treated it as a job. She did it well and did her best.

James looked at her while deep in thought.

When it came to acting, she was more professional about it, but she wasn't into the character. She only followed the rules, but all the actresses he had worked with were better than her

But it was fine because it would just be for a few years.

It was better if she wasn't into the character because if she developed feelings, it would be tough to get rid of her later on.

At 9:30 p.m., Giselle drove James back to the hotel near his filming location.

James unbuckled the seatbelt and looked at her "Hey, do you want..."

Giselle frowned. "What?"

He looked at her serious expression and then suddenly burst out laughing. "I wanted to ask if you want me to pay for the ride. Why are you nervous?"

"Do you think I need the money?"

"You don't, but I'll feel bad if I don't pay. I'm leaving the money here. It's up to you if you want to take it." James smiled, left the money, and got out.

Giselle looked down at the money, then picked it up. "James Tell, you'

Unfortunately, he was already in the hotel.

It was a quarter She chuckled. He did that intentionally.

However, not too far away, the paparazzi managed to get pictures of James and the woman in the car.

The next day...

#James Tell's relationship exposed.#

The news quickly spread, and when all the actors and crew members saw that he was trending, they started gossiping.

"James is in a relationship?"

"I heard a crew member say that they saw a young girl coming to meet him. It looks exactly like this woman."

"So, Tell was in a secret relationship!"

James just finished filming the first scene of the day. When he was stretching, he heard someone mention his name, so he asked his assistant, "What are you talking about?"

The assistant looked at him and hesitated

James frowned. He knew that something was up based on his assistant's expression. "Tell me."

The assistant quietly said, "You're trending Ms. Peterson was caught driving you home by the paparazzi."

James immediately took out his phone. His WhatsApp and Twitter were flooded with messages. He quickly went to the trending page to read.

The assistant sighed. "If the fans find out that you're just pretending to date Ms. Peterson and that you have an agreement... If you're lucky, your image will be ruined, but if you're not, someone will think that you're being paid to date a rich woman."

"Think before you speak." James glared at the assistant.

He then stuffed his phone back into his pocket. "Do I need her money?"

The assistant snapped back. "Everyone knows that your dad is the one with the money. Why else are you acting?"

James had no retort.

The assistant quietly said, "It's not easy for a rich man's kid to come as far as you have."

James smirked. "I'm going to beat you up if you keep talking."

At that moment, the netizens managed to find a lot of information about Giselle. She was a Peterson from Hewston City. She studied overseas and returned, and she was a career-driven woman running her family business. Her family was as wealthy as James'.

Chapter 2742

Everyone online sent their well-wishes, but James' fans were doing things differently.

Not only did they tease that their idol wasn't the brightest tool in the shed-so having a career-driven girlfriend would be tough on him-but they also claimed he would probably be the submissive one.

#Honestly, I kinda want to see him getting whipped by his wife. #

#Is he being paid to date the woman?#

#I heard that the Petersons are very rich. He's punching up. #

A few days after the news got out, neither James nor Giselle responded and seemed to have quietly admitted to it.

Many reporters trying to ride the wave went to the Hewston Resort to try and get an interview with Giselle, but she never accepted the request of any of them.

Some unethical reporters brought up the rumor that Giselle had tried to break Colton and Freyja apart in the past. That sparked a discussion online, and someone close to the source said that Giselle had chosen Blackgold for her internship because of Colton.

Giselle sat in her office and read the comments attacking her online with a cold expression.

Her secretary stood next to her. "Miss Peterson, should I send someone to keep things under control?"

"There's no need to care what they say online." She placed her tablet down. "Let them have their fun."

The secretary hesitated but didn't say what was on her mind. After she left the office, she bumped into Gordon and was stunned. "M-Mr. Peterson."

He nodded, then went into the office.

Giselle slowly got up. "Dad?"

"I saw the news." Gordon sat down on the couch and smiled. "I came to remind you to ignore the comments online. James is handling this."

Giselle was surprised and looked suspicious. "What did he do?"

"He admitted that you're dating and that crushed the rumors. He cleared everything up, so you don't need to worry-

"He admitted to it?" Giselle couldn't believe it

Gordon poured himself a cup of tea and frowned when he saw how agitated she was.

"Isn't that a good thing? He's a responsible person, Giselle. He's a great kid. You should cherish him."

Giselle rubbed her nose bridge.

In the agreement, they were not to make their relationship public so that no one would know, even if they broke up. It wouldn't affect his career or his future. Why did he make it public?

The next day, at the Kong Ports...

After James wrapped up his scenes, he went to get his bags with his assistant from the hotel after saying goodbye to the crew. The assistant heard the doorbell. "Who is it?"

He walked over to open the door and saw Giselle standing there. He was surprised "M-Miss Peterson?"

Giselle walked into the room, and James, packing his bags, looked up. "Yes?"

"Who said you could make it public?"

James smiled because her tone sounded like she was coming to give him grief. He stood up straight. "I helped you distract the media, and not only did you not thank me, but you're also trying to take revenge?"

Giselle walked over "The agreement says-

"I know" James slowly pulled down his sleeves. "Even if I didn't make it public, the paparazzi still caught us. We should just make it realistic. Actors always try to do that."

Giselle was rendered speechless.

"Oh right, you're not an actress." James crossed his arms and continued. "So, I need to teach you how to act like an actor's girlfriend."

Chapter 2743

Giselle snapped back and chuckled. "You think you need to teach me that?"

"No. So, shouldn't you be more self-aware if you're acting as my girlfriend?"

"What do you mean?"

"For example.." James suddenly approached, which made Giselle back away He smiled. "Help me pack my bags."

Giselle had nothing to say.

James squatted next to the luggage and continued packing. "Why are you still standing there? Shouldn't the girlfriend help?"

She was utterly speechless.

After his bags were packed, Giselle helped him with one of the bags. She handed it to the assistant when she saw that he was there. "Hold this."

The assistant paused and looked toward James, who was walking over

James squinted. "Ms. Peterson, do you think my bags are too heavy for you?"

"We'll walk out together? Aren't you afraid-"

"The media already knows that we're in a relationship. There's no point hiding, so why not just be open about it?" James then walked out with his assistant.

Giselle didn't say anything.

After the three of them walked out of the hotel, they encountered a group of reporters, as expected. When James made their relationship public, it shocked the world. Now that they were seen leaving the hotel together, it cemented their status.

James greeted the reporters. He walked to the car and handed his bags to his assistant before turning to look at Giselle, who was walking over Giselle smiled and got into the car.

The reporters all came over “Mr. Tell, when did you start dating Ms. Peterson? How long have you been together?”

“Ms. Peterson, there’s a rumor online that you were in love with Mr Goldman from Bassburgh and even tried to ruin his relationship. Are you sincerely dating Mr. Tell?”

The reporter’s sharp question made Giselle’s face drop.

James caught the change in her emotion and looked toward the reporter “That’s rude. Isn’t Mr Goldmann in a very loving relationship with his wife? I had feelings for Mrs. Goldmann at one point too. Is that considered trying to break them apart too?”

Giselle looked at him in shock. Even his assistant couldn’t believe what had just happened. This man really would say anything!

James confessed to having feelings for Freyja, and all the reporters were stunned.

Giselle was silent the entire way back. She looked at James sitting next to her and wanted to say something but didn’t know where to start.

The assistant who was driving kept nagging at him. “You really will say anything. Aren’t you afraid that the media will blow up this matter?”

It would be fine if it just blew up. If the Goldmanns found out, it would be terrible.

James crossed his arms and leaned back into the seat. “It’s all in the past, so there’s nothing to worry about ”

The assistant grimaced.

Giselle's eyes darted around, and after a long pause, she said, "There's really no need to intentionally explain yourself to the reporters." 1

She knew that James had brought that up to help her.

"I wasn't doing it intentionally. I'm just telling the truth." James waved his hand. "There's no need to thank me. That's what a boyfriend would do."

Giselle smiled sweetly. "You really are a great actor."

"Hey, did you really have feelings for Coleman?" asked James.

She paused, then looked out the window. "Isn't it normal for women to choose a partner who is a good match?"