

A Twist Of Fate: Heir To The World's Wealthiest Man
Chapter 112 A Clear Conscience

Summary

At the party, Garry felt very uncomfortable being talked about and stared at by the crowd. "

In contrast to Garry, Helga feels at home in this scene because she used to attend the gatherings. like that before.

He stared at her curvaceous figure highlighted by the dress."

At this point, Helga was a little nervous.

However, Brenden misunderstood her.com both mainstream consciousness and the underworld.

Garry couldn't help but frown.

Arius and Helga are the only ones he knows among the guests at the moment.

"Don't mess around, Brenden.Garry's grandpa is hosting the party tonight.

At the party, Garry felt very uncomfortable being talked about and stared at by the crowd.

After all, he was still a college student.

Arius and Helga were the only people he knew among the guests at present.

Arius left a while later when he received a phone call, making Garry feel even more uneasy.

Garry couldn't do anything but frown.

He hadn't been accustomed to the atmosphere of dinner parties like this.

He looked at Helga and said, `It's too stuffy here.

I'll just go outside and get some fresh air.`In contrast to Garry, Helga felt pretty much at home in this scene because she had attended such gatherings before.

But when she n both official circles and the underworld.

With their influence, he knew that he could have him killed in a minute.

`Don't mess around, Brenden.`By now, Helga was getting a little bit nervous.

Garry's grandfather was the host of tonight's party.

If Brenden caused trouble and messed up the party because of her, it would leave a horrible impression on Garry's grandfather.

She couldn't let this happen.

However, Brenden misunderstood her.

He thought that she was afraid, so he arrogantly laughed at her.

He gazed at her curvaceous figure emphasized by the dress.

His eyes shifted from her breasts to her waist and then to her hips.