

A Twist Of Fate: Heir To The World's Wealthiest Man
Chapter 120 Kill Them All

Summary

Although his tone was gentle, his words put a lot of pressure on Ruben.

He sighed and continued, "Forget about it, dad.

Garry was taken aback by his father's words, wondering what kind of family his father was.

So please spare their lives

The corner of his mouth curled up in a mocking smile, then he softly said:
"There's an old saying, 'If a son is uneducated, his father is to blame.

How can Rafael talk murder in such a blunt voice?

Rafael was not surprised at all to witness antics between Ruben and Brenden.

I'm just annoyed that Hammonds always uses his power to oppress people other.com this world is not as simple as you think", Rafael said indifferently, raising his eyes. ebrows.

They don't value human life.

Rafael was not surprised at all when he saw the farce between Ruben and Brenden.

The corners of his mouth rose into a mocking smile, then he said gently,
'There is an old saying, 'If a son is uneducated, his father is to blame.' Brenden is so arrogant and ill-bred because you spoil him all the time and connive at his misbehavior, right?' Although his tone was light, his words had brought so much pressure on Ruben.

Cold sweat had already soaked the clothes on his back.

'Yes, it's my fault.

I fail to teach my son well.

Please forgive me, Mr.

Smith,' Ruben stammered in a trembling voice.

this world is not as simple as you think,' Rafael said indifferently, raising his eyebrows.

Garry was taken aback by his father's words, wondering what kind of family he was in.

How could Rafael talk about killing in such a flat voice? It was as if he was only talking about the weather.

He sighed and continued, 'Forget it, Dad.

I'm not that cruel.

I'm just annoyed that the Hammonds always use their power to oppress others.

They are going too far.

They don't value human lives at all.

If I do the same, then I'm no different from them.

So please, Dad, spare their lives.' .