He whispered to her, "Hurry up and leave.

Feeling the warmth and softness of Frieda's body leaning against him, Garry felt his body stiffen noticeably.

He had never been in a relationship with a girl before so he had no idea what to do in this type of situation at all.

He did not dare to look into Frieda's big eyes full of affection.

He whispered to her, "Let's hurry up and leave.

There are too many people around.

It's not that safe here." Then holding Frieda close to him in order to protect her, he walked with her through the crowd and made his way slowly to a place with fewer people around.
