

A Twist Of Fate: Heir To The World's Wealthiest Man
Chapter 93 Calming Down The Irritated Elin

Summary

Why are you here? "Why!

Afternoon had just arrived.

Bright sunlight came through the windows, which was bringing in waves of heat into the room.

However, at this moment, Garry felt the atmosphere had chilled somewhat.

The girls fiercely glared at each other with anger and contempt in their eyes.

The only sound in the room was the purring of the air conditioner.

“Miss Brooks, right? Why are you here?

Aren't you supposed to be watching your family restaurant?” Elin was the first to speak.

With a gentle smile on her face, she spoke in an intimate voice as if she was conversing with a friend she had known for years.

“Be careful, or else you will lose your only remaining customers,” she added.

Elin's voice was thick with stinging sarcasm.

Shelly was e Read full chapter come no problem for Elin to take over the place.

But the boss wanted to give the location to someone else.

At a loss for words, Arius snuck a glance at Garry.

Garry was also giving him a helpless look.

They each exchanged a wry smile.

Garry swallowed his saliva hard and knew he should try to calm down the irritated Elin.

He said in a cautious voice, “The owner of the square decided this.

There was nothing Arius could do about it.” And you too, Garry!” Elin's face grew stormy with anger.

She turned her eyes to Garry right away and snorted.

“Why! You don't look surprised by the news at all.

You already knew about this, didn't you?” Garry took one step back and avoided eye contact with her.

He secretly groaned in his heart.
