7 years later..

Moving my hands around but I felt nothing. I opened my eyes to see the empty spot beside me. I quickly got off my bed and went to the bathroom.

I walked out from our room and walked into the room across mine. Looking at my little princess still sleeping curling herself like a panda. I walked to her and kissed her forehead.

She suddenly move and opened her eyes slowly. Revealing those beautiful blue eyes and she smiled at me.

"Daddy." She slowly got up and I sat on her bed. She attacked me with hugs and kisses. Her physics might be a copy paste of her mom but she acts like me.

"Come on let's see what is your mom doing?" I said and she nodded. She circled her small arms to my neck and I carried her downstairs.

I saw her cooking and giving our 3 years old son food. I walked to her and kissed her cheek.

"Morning love." I said and she smiled.

She's still beautiful as ever and I just can't get enough of her everyday. After having 2 kids she's still looking so beautiful as ever.

"Morning mommy." My 4 years old daughter said cheerfully.

"Morning Sky and Cailey." Janet kissed us both and I put Cailey on the chair.

"How's my boy doing?" I hugged my 3 years old boy.

"Goodgood." He answered.

"Sky can you grab Aiden's milk on the fridge and put it on the small cup for him to drink?" Janet said as she cracked an egg putting in on the pan.

"Sure." I carried Aiden and opened the fridge, taking out his milk and put it in a small glass. As for Aiden, he's a little me. He really is but his calm like Janet while Cailey on the other hand really active.

"Here you go boy." I gave him the milk and he started to drink slowly.

"Daddy." Cailey called me and I looked at her raising my eyebrows.

"Can we go to the beach today?" She asked with her puppy eyes. She does know how to make her dad fall on her feet just like her mom. I smiled.

"That's a great idea princess."

"Sky you have a meeting in 4 hours, why do you-" I stopped her by backhugging her while she's cooking.

"Cancel it." I whispered to her ear.

"Again?" She asked.

"Yes again, The princess wants to go to the beach." I said.

"You spoil her too much Sky." Janet shook her head but she's right. I spoiled my daughter too much but I love her so much. She's a little ball of sunshine. She's a little mini of Janet but thank God she's quite feisty because when she grow up she can shove guys with her feistiness.

"What can I say? I love her." I said.

"She will be a spoil girl when she's grown up." Janet said worried.

"Relax." I kissed her cheek before taking a mug to make my coffee.

"Mommy where is Zeus?" Aiden asked her mom and I can't help but laugh, Janet must have put that dog outside because I can't see him anywhere inside the house.

We got a Golden Retriever and Aiden want to named him Zeus, he's quite handfull but he's a good dog. Janet hates him because he likes to lick her while she doesn't like that.

"I gave him away." Janet stated and we all three looked at her in horror.

"Mommy!!" Cailey squealed annoyed.

"You can't give Zeus away!" Aiden said angrily.

"Why can I?" She said carelessly while her children glared at her. I walked to the garden to see Zeus laying down scratching his body. I laughed.

"Since mommy throw Zeus away., let's buy a new dog" I said and Janet's eyes widen.

"Don't you dare!" She glared at me.

"Yesyes!" Aiden said excitedly.

"You're the best!" Cailey said.

I laughed so hard to see my wife's reaction, she glared and gestured to kill me. I walked to the door that connects to the garden. Whistle to call that Zeus, he quickly ran to the door and walked inside.

"Zeus!" Aiden walked down from his chair and that dog walked to him. Aiden hugged him and Zeus just licked him.

"You didn't give it away mom." Cailey said while looking at Zeus.

"I was planning to and maybe in the future." Janet said and I walked to her.

"I hate that dog." She said to me and I chuckled. I circled my arms around her slim waist and took that opportunity to kiss her pink lips. She cupped my face and kissing me back hungrily.

"I love you Sky Locason." She smiled.
