

UNEXPECTED TEMPTATION: BILLIONAIRE LOVE STORIES CHAPTER 317

Valentine Regens

"I will kill him!" I swear as I looked at my locker.

"Wow Val, we don't know if this is Joey's doing." Leah said and I rolled my eyes.

"It must be him! Who else, Leah? Raymond?" I asked and turned my head to her.

"Okay okay calm down, Val." I turned my body and walked my way to his class. I bet he has Math first today, how I want to kill him every single day. Why can't he just leave me alone? As I walk into his class, he's currently making out with a random girl and I think her name is Lorraine. I walked towards him and pulled the girl away from him.

"Hey!" The girl protested but I don't care.

"Valentine, I'm so honoured to see you here." Joey smirked and I smacked the table angrily.

"Are you mentally sick?" I bursted my anger out.

"I think yes, why beautiful?" He asked.

"Don't call me that jerk, I want you to fix my locker!"

"I can't"

"I can fix your locker." I turned to see Raymond come into the class, I smiled at him.

"Really?" I asked.

"Sure.. let's go." He put his bag and gestured to me to follow him outside. Leah smiled at me widely and I smirked. I turned to Joey and gave him my middle finger. I walked out and found Raymond already leaning to the wall outside his class.

"Joey's doing again huh?" He asked as we walked together towards my locker.

"Who else?" I sighed.

This morning when I got to school, I immediately needed my notes because I forgot to re-write my homework into it. I ran into my locker and found my locker door was on the ground. Everyone literally can see what's inside my locker freely. Not only that but all my books are everywhere on the floor.. How annoying is that?

Raymond took the door and asked me to hold it. I held it and he took something from his wallet and it's a small screw, knife, scissors and things that a man always has in their pockets. I looked at him and couldn't stop admiring. Raymond often helps me like this and I find it so sexy. I might fall in love..

"Can you push more again, Val? I can't reach the screw." He said and I do as he said.

"I hate him." I mumbled.

"I don't get it why you and him always fight like this?" Raymond asked.

"Nature I guess." I said and he turned to me, giving me his cute smile.

"Why?" I asked.

"Nothing, I just find you're cute when you're angry." Oh my gosh, God help me!

"I look ugly when I'm angry, I felt like a hell boy when I got angry." I said and he chuckled.

"Done.. you're cute, Val" He said and patted my head.

"Thankyou Ray, I really don't know if you didn't help me." I said and he smiled.

"It's fine, Val."

"See you at Biology?" I said awkwardly and he nodded.

"Bye, Val." He walked away and I took a deep breath because my heart is getting weird now.

"Oh my gosh!" Leah squealed, we both jumped up and down. We walked to the class and I almost forgot my note again. Taking my note and ran to class. First class.. English

"Class.. we have an announcement to make." I looked up from my notes to my teacher Ms. Slonter. The class turned silent, Leah turned to me and then back to Ms. Slonter.

"We're going camping!" She announced and the class cheered crazily. I looked at Leah and squealed.

"We're so rocking this." She said and I agree with her.

"It will be next week and we will have 5 days of fun there, so are you excited?" She asked and we cheered louder than before.

"I can't wait!" I said to Leah and she nodded.

"Let's start english people!" Ms. Slonter said.

I wasn't paying attention to the lesson because I'm excited to go camping. Since I was a kid, my dad used to take me camping and since dad got busy lately he rarely takes me camping again. So this news gets me hard and I'm excited to spend 5 days and 4 nights camping. I missed seeing the star and went for a walk at night alone with my iPod. I always do that with my dad every camping because he always said the best moment to enjoy camping is to take a walk and see the stars at night. I agree with my dad right away and talking about camping makes me miss my dad. He's in New York with mom now, checking his new restaurant there.

"So how's my favorite, Valentine?" I pushed Joey's arm off my shoulder, he put there again.

"Go away, Joey," Leah said.

"So are you excited for the camp? I'm excited to bother you alright" He said and I glared at him.

"Go bother someone else, aren't you tired bothering me for almost 3 years Joey?" I asked annoyed and he shrugged.

"Val!" Leah squealed and I turned to her immediately, she pointed at my shirt. My eyes widen and I turned to Joey but he ran away immediately.

He did not just stain my white shirt.. I wanted to kill him so bad.

"Take this" I gave my books to Leah and ran to catch Joey, he ran quite fast and the hallway is starting to fill with people and is not helping me to catch him. I ran 2 times faster but he sped up making me out of breath.

I need to get him back after this.. I need to get him back big time!

Argh!! I hate you Joey Harris.