

25: I Love You

STEVAN'S POV

I was smiling widely looking at Joy and my son while cooking.

Steve and Ivan are both in the Island counter sitting while looking at Joy who is making a dough.

"What are you baking?" I ask her while slowly hugging her from behind.

"Nah. This two kiddos of years wants some doughnuts, I told them just to buy since they really wanted it now but they requested me to cook for them. So, here I am" She explained and I just laugh a little before swiping her a little flour on her face.

"Stevan!" I laugh again before I walk towards my son.

"Make it fast, Wife were hungry" I jokingly demand at her while hugging my kids.

"How thick face you are? Why not help me here huh?" I shake my head smiling at him.

"You know that I'm not good in kitchen wife" I explained to her and we both laugh to what happened three days ago.

Its time for snacks now but Joy and Mom were both out while me and the kids were le in the house. It was good at first until they both want me to cook something for them.

"Cookies!" They shouted in unison.

Ad as a father who tried to cope up for all the days that I weren't with them.

I agreeded to them and tried my very best to cook one with the guide of youtube tutorial.

"Daddy is this really a cooky?" Ivan said while pointing at the black bread infront of them.

"hmm, yeah?" I embarassly look at them before I turn and cook again but long story short I ended up destroying the oven.
