

VAMPIR LORD: EROTIC RPG

Chapter 25 Goblin Trail

Mira was below me. Her body was squirming until she realised who it was. Her face was bright red. She was about to reach climax. Then goblins entered the tent, causing her to black out. Now Lucian pressed her against the ground. His hand massaged her breasts roughly.

Mira said, "if you wanted me so badly you only needed to ask." She blushed as she turned her head.

"Mmmmm~"

(Lucian POV)

I had finished mulling over my thoughts. Her soft body felt amazing, so I didn't stop despite regaining my focus.

"You're much bigger than I thought. Mira. Do you usually wrap them?" I asked with a straight face.

"Hah!?" she blurted.

The little elf blushed deeply, trying to hit my chest with her fists. It felt like a massage and caused no damage. Her legs kicked as she rolled me onto my back. She now held the mount position, her breath heavy and disordered.

"Hmph!"

'It's likely that something happened during the time before she met Lance in the game and the time I met her. Was she actually violated in the game? They just did not show it. Interesting, was she not a virgin in the game? This add's context about her not feeling pain in the first h-scene with Lance.'

I thought now wasn't the best time to mull over my thoughts. My arms gripped around her hips as I pulled us both up.

"Kya!"

'She's really cute.'

"We should probably continue our journey. Since there was a patrol that large. It's likely there's a bigger goblin settlement close by. Do you want to wipe it out or inform the closest town first, Mira?"

Mira looked up at me with her gleaming eyes. She thought for a moment and gave a nod before she ran off towards the damaged tent and grabbed some of her spare clothes. Her deer like head turned to me. She seemed a little shy seeing me watching her change.

"Do you like it hairy? Or should I shave it?" She said. It seemed she'd used all of her courage to ask that question as smoke appeared to blow from her ears.

Her question had taken me by surprise. I liked my women hairy. There was only one answer. "Keep it like that. It's cute, like a little private elf garden."

She threw a pillow at my face. Her body now fitted with a leather armour and dark green quilted dress. In her hand was a silver Elven spear. Unlike human spears, it had a leaf shaped tip with intricate etchings of Elven spells to improve penetration and durability.

'If I analysed this, it'd be close to a world class item.' I thought as I dodged the pillow she threw at me.

"idiot..."

(Lucian POV end)

We had been tracking the goblin scouts for more than an hour. Since then, we'd killed over 12 of them. They were only armed with rusted weapons or poor makeshift wooden equipment. Mira was extremely fierce during the battle. She would impale them through the throat.

"This goblin horde seem's very large. Two groups and over 20 goblins in total. Mira, should we really not check the town?" Lucian asked her from behind.

"Mmmm. Let's try searching a little more! If we don't locate their settlement, it won't help in the long run." She said to me.

'Hmmm, she's actually really smart! I wouldn't have thought of that.' His eyes were watching the jiggling of her buttocks every time she leapt to another tree branch.

The pair travelled through the forest, ignoring the wolves and other beasts. They wanted to focus on only goblins in their limited time. If they missed the chance to discover them on time. It could be catastrophic for the surrounding Elven villages and towns.

Lucian watched the area around them for any threats. Mira used her Elven eyes to guide the way through the forest. She held her spear like a warrior. It differed completely from the usual nerdy book girl. She seemed close to the battle maiden Mira from before.

'She must really love her people. To go so far to protect them. I can only admire her. The only thing I care about is myself and Carmilla.' Lucian thought.

It filled him with admiration for this cute little girl. His eyes saw a large group of goblins in the distance. The group appeared to be a ruin. It looked like they were dancing around a huge bonfire with two dead bodies cooking over the fire. 'Oh god... I forgot the monsters in this world weren't the nice type. They are violent, lustful and complete evil.' Lucian thought. He decided his women needed to be stronger than him to avoid the annoying events.

'I really cannot deal with villains kidnaping the heroines. Or those stupid borderline cuckold scenes people put into novels to add drama and suspense. If my woman cannot one shot an ogre. I'll just kill her myself.'

The pair were moving closer to the large group of goblins. Since his transformation. Lucian always felt filled with blood lust. He was even more excited to fight under the influence of his skills. The world seemed much more colourful when he executed the blade waltz.

"Did you sense anything, Lucian?" Mira spoke in a soft voice.

'Ah! I can finally ask my favourite quote from that fantasy about the ring!' He thought. Despite him losing his feelings, the things from when he was human still brought a slight enjoyment to him. He never wanted to lose himself completely. He would desperately think about these distant feelings. They became more dull with each day. It made him feel a sense of worry that one day no longer being himself.

"Mira! What do your elf eyes see?!"

She turned her cute face to me with her mouth in the shape of an oval. Her lips were quivering and slight tears came from her eyes.

"They're eating the gnomes from Isaldrith vale! Quick, we have to help the ones still living! Please help me darli-Lucian!"

Desperation filled her voice. The scene was too much for her to take as those vile creatures chewed on the cooked corpses inside her enhanced vision.

Lucian placed his hand on her shoulder to reassure her. She stopped trembling and looked towards him, feeling more at ease. Her hand stroked over his the soft texture and was cold to the touch. 'Strange... His hands are icy like a vampire... Hehe.' She thought. His comfort had eased her mind as she saw the two swords appear in his hand.

[Mira +5 Affection]

"Let's hunt some goblins!" Lucian said. He took the lead and dashed towards the goblin settlement wearing his tightly fitting pants and long battle robe.

"Mmmn!" She nodded. Her eyes watched his firm ass intently as she pursued him closely.

'God. his ass is so perfect! So firm and muscular!'