

Weaponsmith 2013

Chapter 2013: Dai Boqi's medical skills (3)

"Medicine which leads to paralysis? This... how could this be possible?" Huang Yueli's eyes opened wide, "Why is it that I have no recollection at all? Moreover, Brother Liu had never told me about this?"

Dai Boqi stared at her for quite some time as the puzzlement beneath his eyes grew deeper.

"Yan'er didn't mention this to you? This shouldn't be so? If I didn't get it wrong, you should have consumed a kind of liquid concoction that contains Red Aconitum hence leading to you losing your memories. Moreover this concoction's poisonous side effects towards the other body parts are very minimal hence the medicinal effects aren't too strong and needs to take over a long period of time before it takes effect... you must have at least drank it for over a month to have this effect, moreover, it's something within these two days, do you really have no recollection at all?"

When Huang Yueli heard Dai Boqi's words, she couldn't help but opened her mouth wide as she was totally stunned.

Her mind raced quickly because in the past few days, her mind had been swirling with plenty of doubts but at this very moment, she had finally found the answer.

The soup medication.... This period of time, she had indeed been taking a kind of soup medication, and had not stopped drinking it at all..

Speaking of this, it indeed matched up to what Dai Boqi said.

But wasn't this soup medication something which Liu Buyan asked her to drink? Why did it turn out like this? Wasn't Liu Buyan her fiancé? Why did he make her drink this kind of soup medication?

Huang Yueli's shocked expression fell into Dai Boqi's eyes.

Dai Boqi waited for a moment and on seeing that she was still in a dazed state, he butted in to interrupt her, "Young Miss Bai, what's the matter with you? Have you suddenly recalled something? Who's the one who did such things to you? A peerless genius like you, suddenly being turned into trash! If it wasn't for the fact that this old man has great foresight, I will probably miss such a good disciple like you!"

Huang Yueli originally wanted to say the truth but the words were already at the gap of her mouth when she suddenly held it back.

Speaking of this, this Grandpa Dai wasn't really someone evil but he was after all Liu Buyan's Master.

If he knew that Liu Buyan had caused her to lose her memories, she wondered if he would still continue helping her?

After Huang Yueli lost her memories, Liu Buyan became the person who was closest to her, and it was Liu Buyan whom she could trust the most.

At this moment when she suddenly realised that the person closest to her, could possibly be the person who deceived her the deepest, Huang Yueli's inner heart was in a state of terror and turmoil, and due to that, she started to put up a defensive wall between her and the surrounding people.

She thought about it but didn't reply to Dai Boqi's question. Instead she asked him back, "Divine Doctor Dai, after saying so much, aren't you a ninth ranked Pill Master? Then are you able to cure this poison that I've contracted?"

When Dai Boqi heard that, he frowned and a puzzled look appeared on his face.

"This... from the current looks of your symptoms and meridians, it's not too difficult to cure the poison in you and this old man has an exclusive prescription which is specially used to cure these symptoms so theoretically, it should be able to cure you totally....."

Huang Yueli revealed a joyous look, "Really? Can you really cure me?"

When Dai Boqi saw this young lass looking excited, as though she was about to jump for joy, his lips couldn't help but curled into a smile.

Not knowing why, he liked Huang Yueli from the moment he saw her. On one hand, it was because Huang Yueli's innate talent suited his thinking very well while on the other hand, it was purely because he felt that this young lass was very likable.

But moments later, he kept his smile away.

"Don't be so happy so soon! If this poison is so easy to cure, Yan'er would have cured it for you long ago. So this old man suspects that there might be other issues inside, which this old man hasn't discovered yet."

Chapter 2014: Dai Boqi's medical skills (4)

Dai Boqi's face showed that he was in deep thoughts, as he frowned while pondering over this.

He didn't know that the person who laid the poison was his beloved disciple Liu Buyan, so naturally he wasn't able to understand the crux within this entire matter, as he was worried that it would be because of his own negligence which might just cause Huang Yueli to be poisoned to death through his own carelessness.

But Huang Yueli had already started to have her own doubts.

Even though she couldn't be sure if Liu Buyan had done so out of good or evil intentions, but one thing she knew very clearly was that she must immediately regain all her memories!

To someone with amnesia, everyday was a torture.

Moreover, now that she discovered so many doubtful points and so many unexplainable matters, this made her desire even more to find out what happened in the past, and what was the truth really like!

This kind of feeling was simply too pressing!

To the current Huang Yueli, even if she would really die just because she resumed her memories, she would also choose to recollect all of it! Moreover, she might not even die because of this...

So she immediately grabbed Dai Boqi's sleeve as she couldn't wait as she asked, "Divine Doctor Dai, let's not think so much! Since you're able to cure me of the poison, then please hurry and do it now! I really want to know what memory I have lost!"

Dai Boqi hesitated, "But... the risk is really too huge... since Yan'er wasn't able to cure your poison, then he must have his own reasons. To say something shameful, this old man's medical skills indeed can't be compared to his. For the consideration of your safety, it's best that we wait till Yan'er returns and this old man will then have a discussion with him, to think of a way to cure you of the poison together."

When Huang Yueli heard that, she immediately became anxious.

How would this do? It was highly possible that the person who caused her to lose her memories, was Liu Buyan!

If he returned and discovered that what he had done had been exposed, he might even find other ways to conceal his crime.

Now that this poison wasn't that hard to cure, it was probably a slip-up on Liu Buyan's part, that he assumed that she would probably not go look for anyone to do another consultation, especially not possible for her to look for his Master Dai Boqi to check on her illness.

If he knew, Liu Buyan probably would be more careful in concealing the fact that he tried to poison her and that probably wasn't any difficult feat to him.

In this way, there was a likelihood that she would never be able to regain her memories forever!

This kind of matter, just thinking of it made one's blood run cold so for those who had never lost their memories before, found it really hard to imagine just what kind of blank feeling they had....

As though, oneself was like a floating duckweed, which would at any point of time, just disappear within the vast and wide Heaven and Earth...

And, the man in her dreams....

Huang Yueli suddenly thought of that man's dark and gloomy face and her heart suddenly was pierced with bouts of sharp pain!

Her heart wound up tightly and Huang Yueli's hands clenched into fists rightly, as her complexion turned extremely pale.

"Divine Doctor Day, Brother Liu said he might only return after some time for this outing and I can't wait that long! Can you please help me to get rid of the poison immediately!"

However, Dai Boqi still shook his head, "No way! This old man can promise you any other matters but this matter is an absolute no-no! You really think an antidote for the poison is child's play? Yan'er didn't cure you of the poison so there must be a reason for it. If this old man abruptly makes a move, if anything bad happens to you, you will lose your life! This matter absolutely cannot be done! Anyway from the looks of it now, this poison doesn't affect you in any other way, merely unable to recall the past, so just endure for a few more days!"

Huang Yueli was extremely anxious when she was unable to convince him.