Wang Jingwen was very angry. Watching the changes in the live stream, her mood hit rock bottom.

Originally, she was feeling good when the two families' fans argued with each other. She was watching the scene excitedly, but suddenly, the rhythm was disrupted by two rich people who came out of nowhere, causing the scene to completely lose control. It was completely not something she could control.

As the Siren sang, many of Li Shaoqun's fans, who had been criticizing her just now, had a 180-degree change in attitude. They praised her for her good singing and looked forward to her collaboration with Li Shaoqun on the album.

Wang Jingwen was about to explode from anger. She logged onto Weibo and planned to upload the photos that had been taken during the fight just now. If one position was gone, then another would be created.

"Good! It feels great to be working with the Siren Goddess for the first time. I'm willing to call her the strongest female singer in Xia country. Fans, the new album is coming. Are you ready?" Li Shaoqun updated a Weibo post with a few photos attached.

The corners of Wang Jingwen's mouth twitched, and the veins on her forehead throbbed. She had originally wanted to cause trouble and also wanted to see if there were any trending topics regarding the Siren's live stream. In the end, Li Shaoqun forced her to feed on a basket of lemons. It was too sour!

In reality, when Feng Qing announced that she would be collaborating with Li Shaoqun in the live stream, Li Shaoqun immediately replied on Weibo. They were just cooperating, not having an underground relationship. There was nothing shameful about it, so it was fine for him to admit it in advance.

Li Shaoqun's Weibo comment section had fallen. Unlike the live-stream, his fans were all expressing their support.

"Wow, is my idol going to have a new album? I'm so looking forward to it..."

"I just heard the Siren sing. How should I put it? It's like the sound of nature. I wonder if sparks will fly when Li Shaoqun collaborates with her."

"One of them is the dream of hundreds of millions of young girls in Xia country, and the other is the goddess of hundreds of millions of otakus on the Internet. Her singing is equally outstanding, and her voice is equally charming. I was so excited that I immediately pulled my husband up and beat him up. The new album is on the market. Remember to help me post it to the hospital."

Wang Jingwen felt bad, it was as if she was about to split apart. After manipulating for a long time, not only did she not ruin the Siren's reputation, but she also advertised her collaboration with Li Shaoqun in advance, and the effects were especially good.

She looked at the trending topic and as expected, it occupied the top three trending topics with the words "Siren".

The number one trending topic: "Shocking, the original goddess Siren has broken a new record again!"

The second trending topic: "Which one has the strongest fan reward? The Siren Goddess has broadcasted for two hours and has earned more than 100 million."

The third trending topic: “Everyone is looking forward to it! Siren and top singer Li Shaoqun will be collaborating on an album.”

Wang Jingwen was about to go crazy. Just as she was about to throw her phone out, her manager sent a message. She opened it and her mind instantly went blank.

The manager: “Jingwen, I just received news that your new song has been shelved. It’ll not be released for now.”

After being stunned for a while, Wang Jingwen picked up her phone and replied, “What exactly do you do as a manager? You can’t even do such a simple thing. I put a lot of effort into that single. It was fine initially, so why didn’t you release it?”

The manager was also in a very bad mood. She changed from her usual self and retorted, “Wang Jingwen, I’ve tolerated you for a long time. Who do you think you are? What the heck did you do outside and which god did you offend? Did you know that just now, all the international brands were about to blow up my phone? They were all trying to terminate your contract!”

Bang!

It was as if an atomic bomb had exploded and a huge mushroom cloud appeared in her brain. It destroyed all of Wang Jingwen’s thoughts. The new single had been stopped, and the endorsements of the various brands had been canceled. The series of unforeseen events left her completely dumbfounded.

“Lisa, are you guys mistaken? I’ve been staying in the company and didn’t do anything. I didn’t break the contract. What right do those brands have to cancel our collaboration?” After a while, Wang Jingwen snapped back to her senses and hurriedly asked.

Her manager, Lisa, snorted coldly. “Wang Jingwen, your good days are over. If nothing goes wrong, your next step will be harder than the last.”

With that, Lisa hung up the phone. She did not have the slightest sympathy for Wang Jingwen's encounter. She would never forget how she treated her in the past. Now was the time to settle things with her.

A few days later, Feng Qing and Li Shaoqun finished recording the entire album. She rejected the urging of the higher-ups in the Jia Le Records and took a private jet back to the Capital with Xie Jiuhan.

When they sent her off at the airport, Li Shaoqun, Li Zhao, and the rest went. It was rare that Wang Jingwen appeared. Although she didn't say anything to Feng Qing, it wasn't difficult to tell from her eyes and expression that she wasn't as domineering as before.

Feng Qing had no idea what happened to her, and no one told her. In Jia Le's eyes, Wang Jingwen had lost her ability to make money, which was equivalent to losing her value. After Li Shaoqun's new album was released, the company would then consider whether to terminate their contract with Wang Jingwen.. Even if they didn't terminate the contract, they would probably freeze her.
