

My Wife is a Hacker by Summer

Chapter 1200

□ □ □

Chapter 1200

"I'm going to select a few of you now."

Nicole looked around at the engineers.

"The few of you, come over and team up with me. The rest of you can make your own arrangements," Nicole ordered.

"Alright," they said.

Nicole and her team members made their way to the development department with Ike following right behind as he wanted to be

In a team with Nicole.

Nicole turned around and looked at him.

"You have to stay in the development department and contact me if anything happens, alright."

"Okay." Ike said, reluctantly watching her leave as she had made her orders clear.

Nicole took them to an office and said, "Thank you in advance for working with me for the next few days.

Please contact each other whenever they are any developments and be sure to maintain close communication with one another. I hope that we can successfully produce a 4-nanometer chip."

"Yes, Miss Riddle," one of her engineers said.

"Clean the office today and get whatever you need from the equipment department. We shall begin tomorrow." Nicole instructed them and left thereafter.

Once Nicole had returned to her office, Harvey said, "Nicole, are you confident about producing the 4-nanometer chip?"

Nicole turned to him and replied, "Do you think I'm messing around?"

"To create a 4-nanometer chip isn't a walk in the park. I need you to understand that if you've decided to develop one with them, it is going to be far from easy,"

Harvey stated, knowing how difficult it was to create a chip, and that it would be almost impossible to do so without a competent team.

"All of you think that it'd be an arduous task, but I really want to give it a shot."

Nicole stared at him affirmatively. Harvey issued a sigh as he looked her in the eye.

"Fine. You have my support. Just come to me if you need anything."

"That's all I need to hear from you."

Nicole smiled and gave him a glance before sitting down, wondering how she was going to kick the development process off tomorrow.

On the other hand, Jared's plane was on a slow landing. After he had gotten off the plane, he went to the hospital at once.

"I've been gone for quite a while. I wonder how grandpa is doing"

He opened the door and walked in when he saw his grandfather having a meal.

As soon as Mr. Johnston Sr. saw him, he asked, "You're back?"

"Yeah."

Jared nodded and took a seat beside Mr. Johnston Sr.

"Grandpa, you look much better now, as compared to when I left." Jared smiled at him.

"Yeah, I am feeling much stronger too. I've also been eating a lot more than I used to!"

Mr. Johnston Sr. laughed and looked at him.

"Max, did the doctor come in today?" Jared looked at his aide and asked.

"Yes, he said that Mr. Johnston Sr. is progressively getting better," Max reported.

Jared nodded with satisfaction.

Then, Mr. Johnston Sr. looked at Jared and asked,

"Jared, how's the company doing now?"

"Let me assure you that the operations have been running as smoothly as can be," Jared replied.

"Okay. And what has Nicole been doing these days? I haven't seen her in a while now." Mr. Johnston Sr. asked, as he had suddenly thought of her.

"She went abroad."

"Abroad? What is she doing there? Did she leave because you drove her up the wall?" Mr. Johnston Sr. looked at Jared with his brows furrowed.

"No, Mr. Harmon is working on a project there, so he asked her to help him out."

Jared summarized the entire situation and told Mr. Johnston Sr. as he did not want him to worry about it. Mr. Johnston Sr. smiled when he heard that Mr. Harmon had invited Nicole over to help him out.

"Even Mr. Harmon needs her help. It seems that my granddaughter - in-law is no ordinary person." Mr. Johnston Sr. smiled as he spoke highly of Nicole.

"You should get some rest, grandpa. I'm heading back to the office now."

Jared bade him farewell and made a beeline for the exit. But just as he reached the door and was about to go out, Mr.

□ □ □