

My Wife is a Hacker Chapter 631

Chapter 631 Jared looked at Janus calmly, raising an eyebrow gently as he said in an unemotional voice, "So what do you think? Is she pretty?" Janus was too afraid to say anything as topics relating to Nicole were deadly in front of his boss. He kneeled on one knee and said respectfully, "I'm sorry."

Jared did not look at him. Instead, his eyes were on Nicole, who was still in the ring. After a long while, he looked back and sighed, gently stroking the back of the dagger in his hand. The glinting blade and his shapely fingers looked like a strange yet enchanting combo

Janus did not dare to look up when he heard the calm voice of his boss. "Get up. Don't let me catch you doing it again."

Janus still kept his head low, knowing that his boss was aware of his mistrust toward him and Nicole, and his dissatisfaction with Nicole for influencing his boss's mood.

At last, he opened his mouth and said firmly, "I won't do that again." Jared stopped looking at him and turned his gaze back to Nicole with not much expression on his face. Still keeping his head low, Janus let out a soft sigh of relief. Then, a voice came through the headset. Janus frowned and stood up slowly. When Jared saw this, he seemed to have guessed something and smiled. "Looks like he's not so stupid." 'It looks like he is fleeing quickly because he feels humiliated, but in fact he is up to something else; he is taking two steps forward and one step back.'

Janus looked at Jared's nonchalant face and asked in a whisper, "What should we do, boss?"

Jared had still not taken his eyes off Nicole. He smiled and said, "Nicole has given them a 'gift'; it's time for us to do the same, or else we will be seen as being rude."

'What goes around comes around; we will do unto them what they've done to us. There was an icy light flashing in Jared's eyes at the thought of this. "Tell Bruce to take action."

Janus bowed respectfully. He then turned and walked a dozen feet to the side, gently clicked the headset, and calmly carried out the task.

The battle between Merry and Carlisle had started. Surprisingly, Merry's robot seemed to have gained a sudden boost of strength, which had increased two folds. She dodged all Carl's attacks at extreme speed. The movement of her robot was strange; it moved on all fours, looking strangely contorted. Merry was visibly agitated, her robot roaring incessantly, attacking with the robotic arms wildly, as if she wanted to tear Carl to pieces.

Nicole looked at what had happened and frowned. The sudden doubling of strength was amazing, but she had a bad feeling when she looked at the battle scene.

Elijah also opened his eyes and stared at Merry and Carlisle in the ring. Pando gradually lost ground under the ferocious attack of the opponent's sharp claws, and its rolling speed gradually decreased. Pando had a relatively small mass; it looked much weaker after losing its kinetic momentum.

My Wife is a Hacker Chapter 632

Chapter 632 Because of Pando's powerful defense system, Merry's attack achieved little despite being ferocious. Even if it hurt every time, the progress was slow.

As time passed, patience ran out. Merry's robot started to flash in a sinister red light. She halted her movements, her limbs swelling, becoming a little stouter. The already powerful arms had rebar-like veins popping up, its mouth wide open, looking as if it was charging up something Nicole realized something was wrong. With no time to react, she called out to Carl at once.

"Carl, concede defeat!"

Just the next second, after her voice trailed off, Carl's magnetic voice came from inside the chubby Pando. He disarmed the robot and slowly stepped out from the ring.

"I concede defeat," he said with no hesitation.

Nicole was relieved to see that he was unharmed. Merry's face turned grave because she had not hurt Carl. She looked at Nicole, and the display of her robot turned chaotic.

"It's you again! I will kill you," Merry's hoarse voice was heard saying. She sounded sinisterly violent, as if she really wanted to kill Nicole right away.

Nicole squinted at her and said in a clear and icy voice, "Do you still remember the first principle of creating a robot, Merry?"

Merry had no intention of standing up. Instead, she maintained her current posture with her head slowly rising to its original position, as if she were transforming again. It looked like a

She seemed to be struggling, but was also unusually excited. The evil look in her eyes mixed with the robot, making this otherwise pleasant-looking robot look a little scary. Its red-light eyes dimmed and flickering; its data seemed to have been infected with viruses. It looked as if some kind of program was out of control, like a violent vortex. "What is the principle for? As it stands, I can never be the heir to the Turmann family, even though I'm the most gifted one. According to the principle, I can only have a quarter of the blueprints for the rest of my life, and I can't build a robot that is more powerful than the second-generation models. If that's the case, how would Jared spare a glance at me?" When she had finished, she looked back at Jared shyly, as if expecting some kind of response from him. But Jared's reaction was an utter disappointment to her.

He just glanced at her coldly and disgustedly, his charming face glacial, but the icy look melted away when he turned to look at Nicole.

This was something abnormal. Nicole looked at what happened in predicament. "Why on earth did you want to do this?" Seeing Jared's reaction, Merry was flustered and exasperated. She stared at Nicole with haughty eyes but still seemed to be level headed, just that she was roaring in anger. "Die! Go to hell! All go to hell!"

There was a frosty look in Nicole's eyes as she saw Merry go mad. She jumped into the ring at once. Carl was still standing where he was, and Nicole did not look at him, but Merry.

"Go now. She's beastifying," she said in a whisper to Car. At first, Carl still looked calm, but when he heard what Nicole said, he was shocked. The bright silver body of the hideous robot in front of him turned dull almost completely.

My Wife is a Hacker Chapter 633

Chapter 633

He turned and jumped straight down, leaving plenty of space for Nicole.

The two had been partners for a long time; he had absolute confidence in Nicole that she could perfectly solve the problems she was facing, provided that he did not become a burden as a hostage. After all, Pando had now been proven to be no match for Merry.

looked down at the ring with piercing eyes. "Father, do you know that Aunt Merry is capable Robots' mimesis would only choose anthropomorphism, which was the principle that this weapon should not violate. After all, once an intelligent creature chose the beast's mode of thinking, the entire program would become chaotic, bloodthirsty, and irascible over time.

Elijah looked at what had happened and slowly shook his head with an unconcealable grave look in his eyes.

Carl found the answer when he saw his father's expression. "So she studied it herself and added the genes of some creature to the core chip of her robot, right?"

Elijah glanced at his son and still said nothing. It was Eber who finished the second half of

"If it were really Merry who has conducted this kind of experiment that is strictly forbidden by the family, and has created this violent and uncontrollable robot, she deserves the severest punishment even if she is our sister."

Carl said not a word, and together with Eber, they looked straight at Elijah. Gently rubbing his forehead, Elijah sighed and said, "You don't have to tell me that. I know very well if she is wrong, and would never shield her."

There was a look of satisfaction on Carl's face. Then he looked down at the ring with an imperceptible nervousness and worry in his eyes.

Bestial robots had explosive strength. They may be several times to dozens of times more powerful than robots of the same class but with different characteristics depending on the beast's traits chosen. They were just not sure what beast Merry had chosen.

Vera had stopped quarreling with Olivia under the stage. She looked up at the ring with consternation in her eyes. "Spider Queen?"

Olivia looked back at her abruptly upon hearing that.

"What are you talking about?"

Vera had all kinds of feeling on her face; there was resentment, disbelief, and a hint of irrepressible jealousy.

There was no reason other than the state of Merry's robot, which looked the same as the design she had given to Merry last time, every detail restored to her design ideas that Merry had killed previously.

'What the hell is going on here? Is it true that those help, offers, and kind words were really just the illusions created to steal my drawings?'

Ignoring Olivia's question, Vera stared at the ring, eyes fixated on Merry's robot, appearing somewhat abnormal.

My Wife is a Hacker Chapter 634

Chapter 634 Olivia had noticed Vera's glassy expression. As much as she disliked Vera, she did not want anything to happen to her. As Vera suddenly lunged toward the ring, she quickly reached out and grabbed her. Vera struggled to break free, as if she had something to demand for an answer in the ring. When Olivia could not stop her, she hit Vera in the back of her neck with a backhand, knocking her out. She put her down and looked back at the ring with a graver-than-ever expression.

Merry's robot was so powerful that it had destroyed her Golden Warrior and the seemingly impenetrable Pando. But now, its strength was growing further, so much so that its body had almost doubled in size.

Nicole looked at the robot that was about to go on a rampage and said coldly, "Stop now, Merry, before it goes out of control."

Merry ignored Nicole's advice and broke into a sinister laughter that sounded as if it could pierce through a person's eardrums. "Shut up! A slutty girl like you doesn't deserve to talk to me like that. I will beat you and let everyone see I am the best robotic engineer of the Turmann family, who is most worthy to stand next to that man!" She then charged at Nicole, the movement of the robot causing the entire venue to shake. A frosty look flashed in Nicole's eyes, and then a meteor-like silver-white robot appeared in the ring standing in front of Nicole. "Level-four combat readiness." The Dodge Tomahawk quickly neutralized the opponent's furious attack. Both its arms lit up, looking as if there were flashes of light with a halo shrouding the robot. It looked gorgeous and powerful.

In comparison, Merry's robot looked ugly. The two sides finally clashed. Nicole was not worried about the Dodge Tomahawk's intelligence as she had implanted a core chip that made it be capable in long- and short-range combat, and the best in concentrated firepower.

The Dodge Tomahawk's combat system was unparalleled. Everyone could see its legs flashing and moving, causing confusion to the opponent, who started to attack haphazardly, and because of the increase in strength, almost all the attacks and defenses were done by the arms. Jared stared at the icy cold figure and could faintly see Nicole's shadow in the robot's combat techniques.

Merry's robot might have broken through the limits of second-generation robots and achieved the standard of first-generation robots, but because of the lack of cores in the cockpit, it could not be regarded as a first-generation robot. Its movement was not as agile but a little stiff. As beast-morphism had an innate combat advantage over the anthropomorphic state, and integrating attack and defense, it could hold on to the fight against the Dodge Tomahawk for a minute despite its punches missed its target countless times.

But the combat qualities would apparently determine the outcome of this battle. Nicole stood there, looking at Merry across from her calmly. 1

Merry was apparently aware of this. She just did not expect that despite her strength had grown so much, and she had sacrificed so much, even violated the principles of the Turmann family, she still could not defeat the fake Dodge Tomahawk that Nicole created. The anger vanished from her eyes. She jerked the robotic limbs backwards with its head shuddering, and then it puked out a disgusting green slime. Nicole looked on and furrowed her brows.

The Dodge Tomahawk immediately turned to take Nicole with it, bounced away, and then gently lowered Nicole to the ground before returning to the ring.

Nicole looked at the robot across from her and frowned. "Are you really not going to turn back, Merry?"

Everyone followed her eyes and was shocked to find that the robot had begun to balloon again, as if something was rampaging inside, and Merry's voice sounded extremely miserable and painful with an ear-piercing malice. "I'm going to kill you! I'll kill you!"

'I'm willing to pay whatever price to kill Nicole. Even if my central nervous system is paralyzed, and I may no longer be able to operate the robot, I will not back down!' she said in her mind.

its original human form. There were cysts rising under its ribs, and then something broke out of them with Merry roaring in pain. Everyone fixed their eyes on them, which turned out to be

But they could no longer be called arms, as the ring joints and sharp heels clearly were not that of humans. They should be called chelate limbs-the chelate limbs of spiders.

The blood-red compound eyes opened, and the consciousness of the human in the robot had been possessed, becoming cruel and chaotic. The price of increased strength was that reason was constantly eroded, eventually to the point where it was difficult to turn back.

Spider Queen's speed was extremely fast in movement, which no human could achieve. It was now impossible to tell what exactly controlled the robot inside. Elijah looked at what happened with emotions in his eyes, and then turned to Carl and said, "Go, go, activate Champion, Thunderbolt, and Zapper."

Carl was also aware that the situation was out of control. At first, Elijah did nothing because the beast's genes were so sticky that the robot's owner had to detach herself to preserve her sanity. He had thought that after Nicole defeated it, Merry would get out on her own, not expecting that Merry was so stubborn and putting herself at risk.

So Elijah had to summon the first-generation robots that had been collecting dust in the warehouse and use them to back up Nicole, and if necessary, help her.

Elijah turned to look at Eber and blurted, "Evacuate everyone and keep them as safe as possible."

Eber nodded, quickly got up and left the bench. Elijah then turned to look at Jared again, as if worried about him. But Janus spoke ahead of him.

"Don't worry, Mr. Turmann. We know what we're doing."

Jared watched as the black, spider-like steel monster charged at Nicole. As it was getting closer, it raised a vicious limb to stab at the top of Nicole's head.

As this happened, Jared's pupils contracted, mist rising, as if there was some kind of breathtaking light flashing in his eyes. He slowly got to his feet, as if he were going to lunge out in the next second.

My Wife is a Hacker Chapter 635

Chapter 635

In comparison, Merry's robot looked ugly. The two sides finally clashed. Nicole was not worried about the Dodge Tomahawk's intelligence as she had implanted a core chip that made it be capable in long- and short-range combat, and the best in concentrated firepower.

The Dodge Tomahawk's combat system was unparalleled. Everyone could see its legs flashing and moving, causing confusion to the opponent, who started to attack haphazardly, and because of the increase in strength, almost all the attacks and defenses were done by the arms. Jared stared at the icy cold figure and could faintly see Nicole's shadow in the robot's combat techniques.

Merry's robot might have broken through the limits of second-generation robots and achieved the standard of first-generation robots, but because of the lack of cores in the cockpit, it could not be regarded as a first-generation robot. Its movement was not as agile but a little stiff. As beast-morphism had an innate combat advantage over the anthropomorphic state, and integrating attack and defense, it could hold on to the fight against the Dodge Tomahawk for a minute despite its punches missed its target countless times.

But the combat qualities would apparently determine the outcome of this battle. Nicole stood there, looking at Merry across from her calmly. 1

Merry was apparently aware of this. She just did not expect that despite her strength had grown so much, and she had sacrificed so much, even violated the principles of the Turmann family, she still could not defeat the fake Dodge Tomahawk that Nicole created. The anger vanished from her eyes. She jerked the robotic limbs backwards with its head shuddering, and then it puked out a disgusting green slime. Nicole looked on and furrowed her brows.

The Dodge Tomahawk immediately turned to take Nicole with it, bounced away, and then gently lowered Nicole to the ground before returning to the ring.

Nicole looked at the robot across from her and frowned. "Are you really not going to turn back, Merry?"

Everyone followed her eyes and was shocked to find that the robot had begun to balloon again, as if something was rampaging inside, and Merry's voice sounded extremely miserable and painful with an ear-piercing malice. "I'm going to kill you! I'll kill you!"

'I'm willing to pay whatever price to kill Nicole. Even if my central nervous system is paralyzed, and I may no longer be able to operate the robot, I will not back down!' she said in her mind.

its original human form. There were cysts rising under its ribs, and then something broke out of them with Merry roaring in pain. Everyone fixed their eyes on them, which turned out to be

But they could no longer be called arms, as the ring joints and sharp heels clearly were not that of humans. They should be called chelate limbs-the chelate limbs of spiders.

The blood-red compound eyes opened, and the consciousness of the human in the robot had been possessed, becoming cruel and chaotic. The price of increased strength was that reason was constantly eroded, eventually to the point where it was difficult to turn back.

Spider Queen's speed was extremely fast in movement, which no human could achieve. It was now impossible to tell what exactly controlled the robot inside. Elijah looked at what happened with emotions in his eyes, and then turned to Carl and said, "Go, go, activate Champion, Thunderbolt, and Zapper."

Carl was also aware that the situation was out of control. At first, Elijah did nothing because the beast's genes were so sticky that the robot's owner had to detach herself to preserve her sanity. He had thought that after Nicole defeated it, Merry would get out on her own, not expecting that Merry was so stubborn and putting herself at risk.

So Elijah had to summon the first-generation robots that had been collecting dust in the warehouse and use them to back up Nicole, and if necessary, help her.

Elijah turned to look at Eber and blurted, "Evacuate everyone and keep them as safe as possible."

Eber nodded, quickly got up and left the bench. Elijah then turned to look at Jared again, as if worried about him. But Janus spoke ahead of him.

"Don't worry, Mr. Turmann. We know what we're doing."

Jared watched as the black, spider-like steel monster charged at Nicole. As it was getting closer, it raised a vicious limb to stab at the top of Nicole's head.

As this happened, Jared's pupils contracted, mist rising, as if there was some kind of breathtaking light flashing in his eyes. He slowly got to his feet, as if he were going to lunge out in the next second.

My Wife is a Hacker Chapter 636

Chapter 636

At this moment, Janus came in front of him and stood in his way.

"Boss, Nicole will have a way. Now is not the time for you to take action," he said in a whisper.

In the ring, Nicole looked at what had happened and frowned. She did not take his opponent lightly but said in an icy voice, "Dodge, level-2 combat readiness."

Spider Queen had raised its claws. But as soon as Nicole's voice trailed off, the Dodge Tomahawk had teleported back beside Nicole and quickly transformed back into a motorcycle. As Nicole jumped into the cab at once, transformation started, wrapping Nicole in a shield of light and metal.

The opponent's claws hit the robot's left chest, emitting a harsh steel grating sound. The Dodge Tomahawk grabbed the claw and snapped it with the use of just a paltry force.

Spider Queen screamed and pulled back at once, its four split fearsome scarlet eyes staring at the silver-white robot warily. That was a bestial instinct. But soon, a woman's voice came from inside Spider Queen intermittently. She seemed in pain, but was also extremely excited.

"Power! I could make a second-generation robot more powerful than a first-generation robot. Jared! Jared, look at me! I've successfully fulfilled your expectations. You have to reward me!" She guffawed and coughed, then shouted agonizingly, "Spider Queen, get rid of the girl and her fake robot. They stand in our way to collect our prizes!"

Her will seemed to have passed on to the steel monster successfully; the monster looked restlessly at the silver-white robot with red light flickered in its eyes. Soon, the manic bestiality overwhelmed its intuitive sense of dangerous and sanity. Spider Queen charged at the Dodge Tomahawk like a tiger out of the cage.

Nicole sat in the cab, looking at the live footage transmitted back by the Dodge Tomahawk. She sneered and linked the instrument to her head. The instrument looked like a cute and delicate hat, but it could perfectly create a seamless connection between the nerves of the human brain and the core drive of the robot.

This was also the root cause of the invincibility of first-generation robots.

Indestructible steel could be defeated, but if steel was given a human consciousness, it would become a terrifying existence.

The moment the connection went live, a mysterious feeling passed through Nicole's brain, knocking on her subconscious, as if she were watching the Spider Queen in front of her. At that moment, Nicole could deeply sense her close connection to the robot, as if the robot's body was hers, any judgment she made could be perfectly carried out.

Nicole closed her eyes, and a smile crept across her face.

"Dodge, let's get started."

Before the evacuation could be completed, everyone was rooted to the spot, looking at things

Chapter 636

At this moment, Janus came in front of him and stood in his way.

"Boss, Nicole will have a way. Now is not the time for you to take action," he said in a whisper.

In the ring, Nicole looked at what had happened and frowned. She did not take his opponent lightly but said in an icy voice, "Dodge, level-2 combat readiness."

Spider Queen had raised its claws. But as soon as Nicole's voice trailed off, the Dodge Tomahawk had teleported back beside Nicole and quickly transformed back into a motorcycle. As Nicole jumped into the cab at once, transformation started, wrapping Nicole in a shield of light and metal.

The opponent's claws hit the robot's left chest, emitting a harsh steel grating sound. The Dodge Tomahawk grabbed the claw and snapped it with the use of just a paltry force.

Spider Queen screamed and pulled back at once, its four split fearsome scarlet eyes staring at the silver-white robot warily. That was a bestial instinct. But soon, a woman's voice came from inside Spider Queen intermittently. She seemed in pain, but was also extremely excited.

"Power! I could make a second-generation robot more powerful than a first-generation robot. Jared! Jared, look at me! I've successfully fulfilled your expectations. You have to reward me!" She guffawed and coughed, then shouted agonizingly, "Spider Queen, get rid of the girl and her fake robot. They stand in our way to collect our prizes!"

Her will seemed to have passed on to the steel monster successfully; the monster looked restlessly at the silver-white robot with red light flickered in its eyes. Soon, the manic bestiality overwhelmed its intuitive sense of dangerous and sanity. Spider Queen charged at the Dodge Tomahawk like a tiger out of the cage.

Nicole sat in the cab, looking at the live footage transmitted back by the Dodge Tomahawk. She sneered and linked the instrument to her head. The instrument looked like a cute and delicate hat, but it could perfectly create a seamless connection between the nerves of the human brain and the core drive of the robot.

This was also the root cause of the invincibility of first-generation robots.

Indestructible steel could be defeated, but if steel was given a human consciousness, it would become a terrifying existence.

The moment the connection went live, a mysterious feeling passed through Nicole's brain, knocking on her subconscious, as if she were watching the Spider Queen in front of her. At that moment, Nicole could deeply sense her close connection to the robot, as if the robot's body was hers, any judgment she made could be perfectly carried out.

Nicole closed her eyes, and a smile crept across her face.

"Dodge, let's get started."

Before the evacuation could be completed, everyone was rooted to the spot, looking at things unfolding in front of their eyes.

The silver-white Dodge Tomahawk looked a little petite in front of Spider Queen, but the difference in size did not seem to matter to the Dodge Tomahawk. It lifted Spider Queen and slammed her onto the ring.

Small parts fell off its body, and Merry, who was shielded inside, was violently shaken. She roared as she jumped up and charged at the Dodge Tomahawk again.

If anyone could see it, they would have seen her eyes turning bloodshot, as if she was under extreme pain and pressure.

unfolding in front of their eyes.

The silver-white Dodge Tomahawk looked a little petite in front of Spider Queen, but the difference in size did not seem to matter to the Dodge Tomahawk. It lifted Spider Queen and slammed her onto the ring.

small parts fell off its body, and Merry, who was shielded inside, was violently shaken. She roared as she jumped up and charged at the Dodge Tomahawk again.

If anyone could see it, they would have seen her eyes turning bloodshot, as if she was under extreme pain and pressure.

My Wife is a Hacker Chapter 637

Chapter 637

The bestial impulses and the human intellect were clashing, and the Dodge Tomahawk was fully operational,

'I'm almost to the limit! Is that how I'm going to lose? No, I'm not going to lose. I'm the strongest robotic engineer, willing to dedicate my brain to the robot to get more powerful combat strength!' As if the robot had sensed her will, Spider Queen quickly roared into the air and continued to swell, screaming in a heart-rending voice. Nicole heard Merry's hysterical cry. "You make me so miserable and force me into this! Nicole, I'm going to kill you!"

Nicole's expression remained unchanged. She looked at the mutating Spider Queen and asked slowly, "Are you sure you're going to do this?"

Fusing the spider's genome into the robot's and her nerves meant she was likely to face brain failure and limb abnormalities.

Merry turned a deaf ear to Nicole's warnings. She sneered as she looked at her incredibly swollen body and laughed frenziedly. "Now, let's see how you're going to beat me!" Spider Queen emerged from the black smoke slowly. It had come to its ultimate form, no longer had any trace of human form, but with eight compound eyes that looked viciously at Nicole and the Dodge Tomahawk. The four pairs of claws under its huge and bloated body struggled, and the broken leg that the Dodge Tomahawk tore off just now had regrown. It looked so evil and strange, but its combat strength had reached the peak of that of first generation robots.

This was the benefit of the bestial state, which maximized the combat value of a robot. The price to pay was, however, very high, almost costing the robotic engineer's life.

Everyone looked at the mountain-like Spider Queen, the body of which had completely gotten rid of the original human form and become a terrifying giant spider. Nicole and the Dodge Tomahawk were completely shrouded in its shadow.

The big screen that dutifully displayed the battle data has been torn apart in the fierce battle. Everyone looked at Spider Queen's horrific attack strength and froze in place out of fear.

'W-What kind of monster is this?'

Carl had rushed back at this time. Sitting in Champion's command room, he shouted loudly, "Father, Uncle Eber! Get on the robots!"

Eber could no longer care about those weak-footed indirect descendants and ran back. He looked at the purple robot behind Carl and shouted angrily, "Zapper!" The purple robot quickly squatted down and placed Eber, who was running toward it, in the palm of its hand. Eber entered the cab and the robot quickly walked toward the ring. 'If this is not handled well, the Turmann Family may end here.' Elijah casually gave Jared a heads-up and then flew toward a golden robot. "Thunderbolt!" Seeing that both of them had gotten on the robot, Carl led the way to the ring. The three of them, each standing in a corner, stared at the huge steel monster, ready to deliver blows to it.

My Wife is a Hacker Chapter 638

Chapter 638 Nicole looked at Spider Queen, narrowing her eyes as she called out, "Merry?"

There was no response.

Spider Queen's eyes were scarlet, and it looked at Nicole as if she were a fool. No one could control this robot better than the spider's consciousness. Nicole looked at it, her expression slowly turning grave.

It seemed that the bestial genes had completely suppressed Merry's consciousness. The spider was fierce and cunning, particularly familiar with the robot based on its own body form. The robot under Spider Queen's control was many times stronger than when it was under Merry's. Nicole turned her head to look at the other three and whispered, "Standby."

'Robots will not be equipped with a firepower system before they go to the battlefield. Only the three first-generation robots here have ever fought on the battlefield. With them here, even if the situation is slightly out of control, and I can't handle this spider, the advanced laser guided cannon can most likely blow it into pieces. The thing is, the side effects and damage range of hot weapons are too large. Plus, this spider seems to be the king of spiders; it has an imperious gene and can boost the combat strength multiple folds. Maybe hot weapons will not have much advantage over it.'

A cold look flashed in Nicole's eyes at the thought of this. The black smoke had slowly dispersed, and the spider was looking at Nicole and chomping at the bit, seemingly with the cruel smile of a beast.

'Tear apart this vile and small human being in front of you!'

The spider's consciousness may also have been affected by Merry's. It ignored the other three robots and charged straight at Nicole. It was as massive as a hill, but it moved surprisingly fast, almost to the point of absurdity.

Nicole's expression remained unchanged. The spider was apparently coming from her left, but her fighting instinct was going haywire with warning. Almost instantly, Nicole decided to lean abruptly toward the spider, looking as if she were sacrificing herself.

Everyone watched with bated breath as Nicole's robot had given them so many surprises before that it now seemed that their previous inferences were all wrong. Nicole's robot is clearly a top first-generation model, looking much more badass compared to the other three.

It was as if an illusion; they felt that Carl's Champion and Nicole's robot were somewhat similar.

Nicole did not know what was going on in their minds. The moment she dodged to the left, a white silk was shot out on the right. The silk was so thin but hard enough that it would have penetrated the nerve and pierced through Nicole's brain had Nicole been staying where she was just now.

Meanwhile, the Dodge Tomahawk stretched out its arms and blocked the crushing blow from the spider's body.

There was always a way to defuse the physical attack, but the sharp silk that was shot out silently would no doubt penetrate Nicole and take her life.

My Wife is a Hacker Chapter 639

Chapter 639

Nicole had blocked a chelate-leg attack from Spider Queen. It seemed extremely cunning, after seeing that Nicole had thwarted its attack, Spider Queen quickly raised another chelate leg, lifting its massive body with a look of contempt in its eyes.

As Spider Queen swung its legs and charged at her, Nicole squinted but did not dodge. Standing by with her hands covering her chest, she reached out to grasp the leg that Spider Queen used to attack her and forcefully snapped it at once.

The spider screamed in pain in an instant. It glared at the Dodge Tomahawk, its eight enraged compound eyes flashing with red light. It shrilled, and then its mouth moved, as if something was going to spurt out of it.

she had just stood a second ago, was hit by the white slime-like substance that shot out of the spider's mouth. The ground was corroded and turned black in an instant.

Nicole frowned at seeing what happened.

As if Spider Queen had gathered strength, it continued to spit out a stream of corrosive mucus. Nicole looked at the web-like jets that splashed across the sky, and she cried out, "Champion, Ion Pulse!"

Nicole and Carl worked together seamlessly. As she moved left and right to avoid Spider Queen's cobwebs, an earth-shattering noise came behind her.

The rain of cobwebs stopped, and Nicole had not broken a sweat. She stopped dodging and slowly turned to look at Spider Queen's situation.

Zapper and Thunderbolt wanted to step forward, but were stopped by Nicole. "Wait a second!"

Spider Queen was so quiet. But the quieter it was, the more uneasy Nicole felt.

The Dodge Tomahawk walked slowly towards where Spider Queen was, its footsteps light. But as it came with a certain distance from the spider, it tried to bounce backward but found that it could not

The other three robots wanted to come to Nicole's rescue, but she stopped them by shouting, "Don't come near!"

Right under her feet were thousands of transparent silks, each as sharp as the one that Spider Queen used to attack her just now. These silks would cut almost anything. They were extremely sticky; once caught in them, it would be difficult to get away from it.

The spider set up a cobweb and quietly waited for its prey to run into it, and for this purpose, the spider did not mind sacrificing half of its body. It had such a genetic ability that its body could quickly repair and regrow severed limbs, and within minutes, it would be free to move again.

It waited there silently, its ugly body seemingly having a massive hole with some kind of black substance filling it constantly. It looked indescribably disgusting.

Spider Queen looked at Nicole with an extremely malicious eye. If it had a human physiology, it would have probably burst into laughter at this time. It stared at Nicole, seemingly convinced that she, like a struggling moth, would have no way of breaking free of the cage she had prepared for her.

The cobweb had a strong acidic fluid on it. Anything – including robots – that stayed on it for more than a few seconds would be turned into a lump of pus.

Spider Queen triumphantly danced with her eight legs, seemingly happy with her achievement. There were layers of cobwebs in front of her, so no robots could come close. If any dared enough to try breaking through it, it would not mind seeing them turn into pus.

11

My Wife is a Hacker Chapter 640

Chapter 640 The spider's habits made it start to stay there quietly, waiting for the prey to struggle until it became exhausted, and then it would only grab the prey. This made it happy and feel confident.

Seeing that her body had mostly recovered, Spider Queen moved out, intending to take down the prey from the spider web. It looked at Nicole, who was trapped there motionless, with a mocking light in its eyes. 'No matter how badass this girl is, she has still fallen prey to me and ended up dead.' A hint of a triumphant look appeared on the Spider Queen's face at the thought of this.

It looked at Nicole, who appeared helpless standing there silently and trapped by its shiny spider silk. Everyone thought Nicole had been done for. The three robots over there did not move because they listened to what Nicole said. Spider Queen looked even more triumphant. It moved with difficulty and slowly toward Nicole.

Carl looked on and could not wait to lunge out, but was pulled back by Eber and Elijah. "Don't move."

Elijah whispered in his ear. "This beast is smart. I'm afraid that we will agitate it and put Nicole further in danger if we move."

Carl paused. He did not want to obey, but his father and uncle did not give him the slightest chance.

Jared looked at Nicole below with a calm expression and was about to jump onto the ring.

could not handle the situation.

'Nicole is trapped, unable to move, unless the Dodge Tomahawk grows a pair of wings and flies out.

Just as Janus was thinking about this, he saw his boss suddenly stop moving. Not only that, he had a surprised look in his eyes, seemingly in disbelief and also feeling it was a matter of course.

Janus turned his head to take a look and was shocked to see what unfolded in front of his eyes 'God, it was just my casual thought, not expecting to see something like this!'

The silver – white Dodge Tomahawk silently watched the massive monster approaching, a pair of azure displays showing a series of steady, waveless data. Almost everyone thought it could do nothing and had given up.

After all, even gods could not possibly get away from so many spider silks. Thinking that Nicole must have lost, they all sighed. An inexplicable panic engulfed everyone present, making them quieter than ever.

Perhaps death was falling upon her, Merry's consciousness had been suppressed, and no one knew how bloodthirsty this monster really was.

But in this desperate moment, everyone heard a voice that could not be calmer.