

My Wife is a Hacker by Summer

Chapter 808

□ □ □

Chapter 808

“Thanks for waiting Let’s go.” Martin walked up and carefully helped Nicole to walk.

At the restaurant, Martin gentlemanly pulled the chair for Nicole

“The ambiance of this restaurant is pretty good; the food is delicious too. I heard that stars would often come here to eat,’ said

Martin.

Nicole looked around. “It’s pretty good, but more importantly, it’s very quiet. It’s very nice to watch the scenery from here.”

“Martin, you must’ve come here a lot to view the scenery, right? Nicole looked outside and praised the scenery

“That sure did not escape your eyes. You’re right. I’ll order a glass of red wine to enjoy the view here every time I’m stressed out, and I’ll sit here for the whole day.” As he said that, he took a sip of his wine.

“This is indeed a good place to relax i’ll make it a point to come here often to relax,’ said Nicole

‘Sure We can come here together next time, then Martin smiled gently at her.

Nicole continued to watch the scenery without responding. She liked this place, but she did not say that she wanted to be together with him here.

The waiter came over with the dishes, and a sharp gaze looked at the table Nicole was seated at.

“Nicole? Martin?”

“Why are the two of them together?” Chloe immediately took out a phone and took a couple of pictures before sending it over to

Jared

Grinning widely, Chloe put on her sunglasses as she glanced in Nicole’s direction before leaving Jared was in the midst of work when his phone suddenly rang. His gaze swept across the screen. A surprise.

Jared frowned a little and wondered who was playing a prank that got sent to him as he irritably turned off the screen and continued to work

An assistant came in to confirm his schedule, and it only then did Jared pick up his phone to look at his calendar. After his assistant had left, the unread message kept flashing on his screen, and he could not help but press on it.

The moment he saw the pictures, Jared’s eyes darkened as he picked up his jacket and left the office.

The car stopped at the entrance of the building, and the valet came over to open his door. Jared tossed his car keys over and walked straight to the elevator.

Nicole and Martin were chatting on and off when a tall figure walked out of the door towards her position.

“Your leg has healed?”

As she suddenly heard a familiar voice, Nicole turned back to look at the person speaking. ‘Jared? Why are ‘Aren’t you working now?’ Nicole had not seen him for a few days now and was quite pleased to see him out of the blue.

“Mr. Johnston.” Martin stood up and greeted him.

Jared nodded before continuing to speak to Nicole. “I am working, but I got a little hungry, so I came over to have something to eat...”

“The two of you are?” He then looked at the two of them.

“Martin’s experiment was a success, and we are celebrating here.” Nicole could sense Jared’s jealousy and quickly explained.

She knew that his office was quite a distance away from there.

“Let’s sit down together?” Before Jared could respond, Nicole pulled his arm to get him to sit.

Martin looked awkwardly at the two. He felt a bit uncomfortable, but he could not say anything about chasing Jared away. He knew that doing that would just make Nicole hate him. Originally, he hoped to get closer to Nicole through this meal, but Jared's appearance completely turned that on its head. Looking at the two talking and laughing, he picked up his wine glass and enjoyed the scene outside as he sipped on it.

□ □ □