

My Wife is a Hacker by Summer

Chapter 822

□ □ □

Chapter 822

No one dared to speak.

“Why does no one speak? Or do you all want me to do the roll call? Vivian, Tony, Caleb...” Nicole mentioned several names in a row, getting no response. “Very good. There are already people skipping the training right after the morning session. As I said bef ore, if there is a single person absent, everyone will be punished.”

“Don’t do it, please.” Someone in the group wailed.

“Blame those who didn’t come.”

“A few of you go to the sports room to look for Mr. Antolovic and take some sandbags and other weight bearing gear.” After a while, they returned with the gear.

“Everybody, tie a sandbag on your body and run circling the sports field.” This time, Nicole led the group in front. After ten laps, some people began to fall behind.

“Keep going. There are only nine more laps left.” This was actually another form of training in the disguise of punishment.

“Huh? Nine more laps?”

By the last few laps, some people really could not keep on and lay on the sports field. Those who were not involved in the sports day ran over and helped them up and brought them to rest on one side of the field. Gary caught up with Nicole. "There are still two laps left. Do you want to go for a match?"

Nicole looked into his defiant eyes. "Why not?" "Whoever finishes last gives the winner a leg massage. How about that?" Gary wanted to enjoy a leg massage by Nicole.

"I dare you to up the ante. Whoever finishes last gives everyone a leg massage." Nicole cast a cold look at him. "Challenge accepted." Gary looked at Nicole confidently, thinking he would not lose to her because he worked out regularly.

"I will give a ten-second handicap to you." Nicole did not want to bully him.

Gary was not too happy at hearing that. He thought Nicole was insulting him. "I should be the one giving you the handicap. I don't want to bully girls."

"That won't be necessary. Are you ready?" Nicole glanced at Gary.

"Ready."

"Let's get started."

Gary quickly increased his speed. After running for a while without seeing Nicole, he smiled, thinking he had left Nicole far behind. As he just looked back, he saw Nicole right on his heels.

“Not bad. I’m going to speed up again. Keep up with me.” Gary teased, and he picked up his speed again. Now he thought he must have smoked Nicole, not expecting that she had already leveled with him.

“What the, you can still catch up?” Gary was surprised. “Why aren’t you going faster? Come on.” Nicole taunted him.

Gary had never been ridiculed like this before. He increased his speed again with all his strength.

The two of them ran past the main group like a gust of wind. Jack was amazed. “Boss is fast. This is the first time I’ve seen him ru “Come on, Boss,” Jack shouted.

“See, Nicole is side-by-side with Gary. The two are on par.”

“I think Boss is holding back. Otherwise, he would have left her far behind.”

“I don’t think so. Nicole doesn’t seem to break a sweat compared to Gary; he is sweating like a pig.”

□ □ □