

My Wife is a Hacker by Summer

Chapter 848

□ □ □

Chapter 848

Nicole was still sitting at the usual spot, and Claus brought her a cup of coffee she usually ordered.

"I haven't seen you in days, Miss Riddle. How are you?"

"I'm doing great. Is Jared still busy?"

"Yeah, Mr. Johnston has been busy with the Turmann family. Please don't get mad at him if you feel slighted. He doesn't mean it."

Claus put in a good word for Jared.

"No, I won't. Please get me a quiet private lounge in a minute." Suddenly, someone familiar walked in.

"Zeke, over here." Nicole beckoned to him.

"Nicole, isn't there a private lounge here?"

Zeke walked over to Nicole and glanced at the people coming in and out. Nicole got the hint.

"Come with me."

Upstairs in the private lounge, each of them stared at a computer.

"Zeke, what happened to your decryptor?" Nicole asked worriedly.

"I have made improvements on it. You may try it."

Zeke was confident in his skills.

Nicole was confident that she could beat those elite hackers with Zeke's help this time. She told Zeke about her experience with the last attack, and the two discussed tactics together. "Everything is set to go. Let's do it."

Nicole launched the intrusion program, ready to breach The Hunters' database. Her constant attacks created chaos and kept the other side busy while Zeke decrypted the layers of the database's firewall.

Soon, they penetrated the first layer of the firewall and could clearly feel the other side's anti intrusion system was resisting and fixing the breach.

It took Nicole some effort to paralyze The Hunters 'anti - intrusion system, and Zeke took this opportunity to speed up the decryption, his fingers flying over the keyboard, his eyes fixating on the computer screen.

"That's not good; someone is restoring the firewall." Nicole tensed up.

"Give me a little more time. I'm about to decrypt it." Zeke tapped the keyboard even more rapidly, with lines after lines of code appearing on the screen, beads of sweat covering his forehead. Nicole upped the attack intensity, slowing down the restoration on the other side.

"I got it. Go find what you want-quick!" Zeke said hurriedly.

Nicole unleashed an automatic attack and carefully searched for White's personal information.

The keyboard continued to crackle, and the messages flashed across the screen.

At this moment, the firewall of The Hunters system had been upgraded by the opponent, and its attack resistance ability was now several times stronger than before, and those vulnerabilities had also been patched.

Zeke anxiously operated his newly developed attack program, hoping to buy Nicole some more time.

Afraid of missing any important piece of information, Nicole stared intently at the screen.

Suddenly, a long awaited message appeared in front of her eyes. She glanced at it and immediately copied it to her own storage.

There was still a minute to go; Nicole's heart pounded to the ticking of the second hand on the clock as the progress bar had not reached 100% completion yet.

Ten seconds left.

"Hurry up."

Nicole clenched her fists anxiously.

Beep!

[Export is complete.]

At the same time, the vulnerabilities of The Hunters site were patched, and the anti - intrusion system formed a new defense mechanism. Its firewall capability doubled. Looking at the flash drive in her hand, Nicole breathed a sigh of relief. Zeke slumped back in his chair and looked at Nicole.

"Did you get it?"

□ □ □