

My Wife is a Hacker by Summer

Chapter 906

□ □ □

Chapter 906

Karen was clueless about the situation and thought Snow was just going out for a bit. She impatiently said, "What is all the fuss about? She is just going out."

"No, I feel that something is wrong with her expression." Raine was worried about Snow.

"She is a pain in the neck. What is she doing out there instead of getting to know the VIP gentlemen? You go and get her back," Karen said.

"Okay." Raine went in a hurry.

Nicole saw several of them left in tandem but did not give it a second thought. She continued to entertain guests with Jared.

Just when everyone was chatting with each other, there was a sudden commotion, and the guests in the ballroom looked toward the entrance.

A beautiful woman with a hot body walked in.

Nicole looked at her and it turned out that it was Chloe.

"You're late, superstar," A guest who knew Chloe teased her.

"I'm really sorry because I was tied up at work.

I'll drink a toast to all of you." She picked up a glass of red wine and raised it in the air, then bottom it up.

"Why is she here? Did you invite her?" Nicole looked at Jared at her side.

"Nope." Damien saw that Chloe just came in and drank a whole glass of red wine, and looked at Miley with displeasure.

"Why don't you pull her over? What a disgrace." Miley hurried over to Chloe and said with a smile, "Your father is waiting for you. Let's go over there."

"You go over first. I have to talk to the bosses about work." Chloe glanced in Damien's direction, where there were mostly older men. Going there would be too boring. As there were bigwigs around, Miley could not just drag her away. So she could only say a few more words to hurry her before she left.

"You didn't bring her here?" Damien questioned Miley. "Chloe said she had to talk to the bosses about her work and would come over later." Miley covered up for her. She was hoping her daughter could get to know more people in the upper echelons.

That way, it would also help her career development.

"Congratulations, Nicole, Jared." Chloe clinked her wine glass with Nicole and then gave Jared a meaningful glance.

Nicole did not get the meaning of her look and glanced at Jared as if to say, "what does she mean by that?"

Jared blinked

innocently as if to say, "I know nothing."

"Thanks." Nicole smiled faintly, but she did not drink.

"Mr. Johnston and Ms. Riddle are really a match made in heaven, the envy of others," One bigwig next to them said.

Jared turned around and talked to them.

Chloe took the opportunity to bring Nicole to a less crowded area and looked around to make sure no one was around, then got a fresh glass of wine and took a sip." Have you delivered the diamond?" At first, Nicole was pissed with Chloe when she saw her, but she fought back her anger and did not question her because there were other people around.

She least expected that Chloe would take a rise out of her first. So she looked at Chloe with icy eyes.

"You still have the nerve to ask? Why did you frame me?"

"What are you talking about? I framed you?" Chloe did not get what Nicole meant.

She looked at Nicole with a dumbfounded expression.

"Still pretending? You swapped the diamond, didn't you?" Nicole said, staring her in the eyes.

"What do you mean? The diamond has been swapped? Tell me clearly!" Chloe was as unrelenting as if she had caught a thief.

"Do I need to explain to you? You know very well what you have done." Nicole looked intimidating, putting a lot of pressure on Chloe.

□ □ □