

My Wife is a Hacker by Summer

Chapter 916

□ □ □

Chapter 916

“Okay Grandpa, we will come to see you together someday.”

Back at the sea view villa, Nicole wanted to see Mrs. Wallace Sr. in her room, but Tia told her that Mr. Wallace Sr. had gone to bed.

Nicole came to the dining room looking for something to eat, and Tia quickly cooked a bowl of ground beef pasta for Nicole.

“Awesome, Tia. I didn’t know you could cook.” Nicole complimented her as she looked at the luscious pasta made with red wine.

“Just don’t make fun of me. Try it.” Tia accompanied her.

“Yum, thanks for this.” After a few bites, she thought about Jared, who she thought should still be at the office at this hour and not off work.

After sending him a message and waiting a while , Jared called her back. Tia had good sense; she went to watch TV on the couch.

“Hey, have you had your dinner yet?” Nicole was concerned about him.

“Not yet. I’m still in the office. There’s some paperwork to deal with. Have you eaten?” Jared was also concerned about her.

“I’m eating now.”

“What are you eating?”

“Tia made ground beef pasta. It is super good.”

“Someone doesn’t seem to have made me pasta for a long time. I’m craving it.” Jared teased Nicole as he dealt with the paperwork.

“If you can show up in forty minutes or less, I will make you a sizzling bowl of ground beef pasta.” Nicole took a satisfying chew of the beef to tease him.

“If you want to tease me with a bowl of ground beef pasta, do you think I will be tempted?” Jared had finished dealing with the paperwork. He got up, put on his coat, and headed for the parking lot.

“A bowl of ground beef pasta can’t tempt you, but the key is, who makes it.” Nicole’s words smacked of teasing.

Tia, who was watching TV on the couch, was being force fed with their lovey-dovey conversation. .

After hanging up the phone, Nicole came to the couch and watched TV with Tia.

“Do you think Mr. Johnston will be here later?” Tia had a hunch that Jared would show up.

Nicole turned to her and pondered for a while. “He still has some paperwork to do and could only finish in ten minutes at the earliest, and the drive from the office is about half an hour. So the chances of him coming over are fifty-fifty.”

“Do you really want Mr. Johnston to show up here later?” Tia came close to her and gossiped.

“I...” Nicole suddenly came to her senses. “Why are you so gossipy? I almost fell for it.”

Tia giggled. “Just admit it. I can see it.”

“How dare you talk crap like this? Beware, I will fix you good and proper.” With that, Nicole poked Tia in the waist.

“I’m sorry. Please forgive me.” Tia laughed, with tears bursting from her eyes.

Nicole punished her for a long while before letting her go. “If you talk crap like that again, I will punish you with this method.”

“I won’t do that again.” Tia waved her hands frantically. The living room gradually returned to its previous silence. Suddenly, the roar of an engine sounded outside. Tia went to the window to take a gander. “An unfamiliar car is pulling into the garage.”

Nicole hurriedly got up and went to the window to take a look. Sure enough, a supercar that she had never seen before had pulled up outside. She instantly kept her guard up.

“Stay inside and protect Grandma. I will go check it out.”

She pushed open the main door and stepped outside, her eyes staring straight at the car, and the next second, she saw a tall figure step out of the car.

“Looks like you missed me a lot.” Jared smiled playfully, having just watched Nicole run out of the house.

“No, I didn’t. How come I have never seen you drive this car before?” Nicole asked with curiosity.

□ □ □