

My Wife is a Hacker by Summer

Chapter 918

□ □ □

Chapter 918

“Soon. It will happen soon. Why are you suddenly concerned about that?” Jared looked at her with curiosity.

“As the person closest to you, I want to be the first person to try out that awesome product.”

“You’re looking forward to this product?”

“Sort of. Is the Chloe endorsement contract over when the new product is released?” Nicole beat around the bush and finally asked the question she wanted to ask.

“Chloe? Had Henry not recommended her, I would have replaced her,” Jared said without mincing his words.

“I think with Chloe’s current number of followers, she is the best candidate for the endorsement. Her character is average, but she wouldn’t dare to make trouble under your supervision.” Only if Chloe stayed in Johnston Group could Nicole monitor her better. Once Chloe left, looking for evidence would be much harder.

“When did you get so close to her you would speak up for her?” Jared stopped and looked at Nicole in bafflement.

“I’m not speaking for her. I’m standing up for the company and maximizing its interests.” Nicole’s eyes flashed with shrewdness.

Indeed, this was an ideal way to kill two birds with one stone.

“I will consider your suggestion.” Jared understood what Nicole said. Just that he was worried that Nicole would be jealous. But since she had said so, he would not mind retaining Chloe. But her subsequent performance would decide whether she would get to keep the job or not.

“In a few days, an international tech company is holding a launch event. Would you be interested in coming with me to check it out?” Jared hoped Nicole could attend with him.

“A tech company?”

“Yes. It’s said to be the launch of a state-of-the-art tech product. But we will only know what exactly it is on that day.” Jared knew

Nicole was interested in this kind of stuff, and that was why he told her.

“Sure. I will have time until the exam.” Nicole heard what Jared said and became interested in the tech product.

“Good. I will pick you up then.” Jared took Nicole’s hand and continued to walk forward.

“Have you thought about where you want to go on vacation?” Nicole asked Jared.

“No. Do you have any places that you want to go?” Jared looked over at her.

Nicole thought for a moment. “There are a few places I want to go at the moment, but I’m still weighing which one to choose.”

“If you can’t pick on, then we will visit all of those places.” Jared spoiled her.

“How is that possible?” Nicole laughed, loving how bossy and sweet he was.

“I will do my best to get it done for you as long as you want it.” Jared looked into Nicole’s eyes with strong affection.

Nicole felt awkward after Jared teased her.

“Did you secretly enroll in a pickup line class? You have been giving me surprises now and then.”

“Pickup line class? I’m afraid I’m the teacher.” Jared was confident as ever.

“I really can’t with you.” Nicole shook her head, amusedly and helplessly.

“Are you staying here tonight?” Nicole asked; if he wanted to stay, she would arrange for it.

“By the look on your face, you seem to want me to stay. Well, I’m for your sake,” Jared said.

“You... Great.” Nicole could not find a word to respond.

“Let’s go back.”

“Okay.”

Back in the living room, Nicole had just called out to Tia when Jared stopped her.

“What are you doing? You want to put me in the guest room?”

“If not, then where else?” Jared took a breath.

“Where’s your bedroom?”

“Are you telling me you—”

“Nicole, did you just call me?” Tia asked.

□ □ □