

My Wife is a Hacker by Summer

Chapter 947

□ □ □

Chapter 947

“Are you happy that I’m not leaving?” Nicole sat down next to him and looked him straight in the eye.

“It’s okay. Come, have your meal.” Jared did not want to admit it and delivered the spoon to her mouth.

“Pig head.” Nicole opened her mouth and ate it.

After the two finished eating. Jared held Nicole’s hand.

Let’s go back. After all that has happened today, it is no longer safe here.”

Jared knew The Raven; judging by their modus operandi, they would search everywhere for Nicole.

“Max, book the next available flight back home.”

“Aye.”

“Zane, how is Nicole doing over there?” Carl knew Nicole was with Jared, but he was still concerned about Nicole.

“Nicole is fine. Don’t worry about her.”

“The Raven might not have gotten Brave, but judging by their style, they won’t give up”

“Zane, are you worried that The Raven will come after us?” Carl asked.

“No. I’m not worried that they will get to me. But if The Raven takes control of the manufacturing plant, that’s a huge problem.

The most terrible thing about high-tech inventions like Brave is that good people use it for honorable causes, and evil people use it for evil causes. So we have to get ahead of ‘The Raven and take control of that company.’ Zane looked into the distance.

“Give the order, and I promise I will take control of that company before The Raven does,” Carl assured him.

“We need to strategize carefully. This isn’t a trivial matter.”

“You may leave now and let me think about it.”

“Okay.” Carl understood Zane’s concerns; such an internationally influential company would not just be left to the control of others.

The bodyguard reported back the situation to the director, who dropped into his chair in disappointment. He did not expect that on the day of the launch event, his products would be snatched away from him. It was a huge embarrassment for him.

“Find out who the two groups of people are. I will let them see who they are messing with.” The director banged hard on the table with his hand.

On the plane, Jared carefully took care of Nicole. “Take a rest. I will alert you when we get to the destination.”

“I’m not tired. I want to look at you like this.” Nicole leaned sideways in her seat and looked at Jared.

“Lie down. This position is not good for your injured arm., ” Jared made the seat level out so she could lie down and rest.

“Alright.”

A few hours later, Jared tapped Nicole next to him.

“We’re about to land. Wake up.”

Nicole opened her eyes and found that she could actually sleep well next to Jared. “That is quick. I haven’t slept enough.”

“Someone has said she wasn’t tired, but she slept like a log.” Jared teased her.

“I can’t help it. Your energy field is so strong that I will soon fall asleep as soon as I lie down next to you.”

Nicole blamed it all on him.

Jared looked at her with amusement. It was the first time he had heard such irrefutable reasoning.

When we got off the plane, there was a car waiting in the VIP passage. Jared took Nicole’s hand and walked straight into the VIP passage.

The car drove toward Jared’s villa.

On The Raven's side, the leader was extremely upset to see the men returning empty-handed.

"How come not a single product was grabbed? Is their security so good this year?" The leader looked at those who returned from the launch event in disbelief.

"Two people appeared out of nowhere today and snatched our target from us."

"Who are they? How dare they take things from me?" The leader slapped his hand on the table.

"I'm not sure, but they were all very skilled. We were about to capture the woman when a man came out of nowhere and saved her."

"A man and a woman?" The leader slowly sat down and pondered. 'Could it be someone from Zane's organization?

□ □ □