

Winters 1201

Chapter 1202 That night, Ninian received a mysterious call.

Even her assistant and close friend did not know anything about the contents of the mysterious call.

Everett also guessed a part of the content only through some of her words and certain discreet expressions, as well as gestures, while she gossiped.

Just a part was sufficient for him to pity Brooklyn who was in Lusint.

He had guarded his “baby” for many years, yet she had not come to realize it at all. She never guessed it no matter what.

He could see her, but he could not touch, approach, or feel her.

Was there anything else more miserable than that?

Everett did not think so.

His “baby” had met him officially a few times before she was taken by him, and she was devoted to him.

That was the result of a man’s charm and confidence.

Chapter 1203 "Ninian, a handsome guy is looking for you outside!" A staff member walked in and said nosily. "He drives a luxurious car and is dressed in haute couture. He's extremely good-looking! Who is he? Your suitor? Does Everett know about him?"

As the staff spoke, he even carefully looked at the side as if he was afraid that Everett would hear him.

"How does the person look like? Does he have a pair of almond eyes and an unrestrained look?" Ninian asked.

"Yes! You really know him!" the staff said excitedly. "He's so handsome!"

"Lower your voice. If Everett hears you, all of us will be doomed."

"Exactly. The last time a suitor gave Ninian flowers, Everett got so angry. The crew was tense the whole day. Even the director dared not breathe heavily."

"Pfft!" Ninian felt speechless, and she said, "Why are you being so dramatic? Everett is really good-tempered."

Everyone instantly trembled, and they had goosebumps.

Ninian continued. "The person outside is my brother. Everett knows him too, so he won't get jealous. Rest assured."

"Brother? No way!" Someone walked in again and said, "I purposely went out to take a look. He's gorgeous! I've seen him on Twitter before. He's the legendary Young Master Harold of the Winters family! A man who's born in a wealthy family is born to be noble."

"Young Master Harold of the Winters family? Ninian, your family name is also Winters. Are you..." someone said in surprise.

"No!" Ninian quickly waved her hand as she smiled awkwardly and said, "I'm just a distant relative of the Winters family. We're really distantly related. My parents' lineage in the Winters family is collateral. Our family has fallen, so we're a little miserable now. I need to earn money with my talent."

When she said that, all the members of the Winters family, including Duke and Adina who were traveling, sneezed at the same time.

Duke took off his coat and put it over Adina's shoulders before arms.

“I need a partner for a private banquet, so you’ll just act as my partner for the time being.” Harold grinned and answered.

“What?” Ninian pouted unhappily. “You have so many women around you. Why do you need me for this? Besides, you should know that it’s not suitable for me to keep a high profile.”

“It’s not high – profile.” Harold coaxed her as he said, “This is for the sake of your career and Everett’s.”

“Huh?” Ninian instantly became curious. “What do you mean?”

"I didn't expose my identity, so the people at the banquet don't know that I'm a member of the Winters family either," Harold said. "I can see that you're having fun in the entertainment industry, so I plan to invest some money and become the boss of your crew. Once that happens, I can take care of you and Everett too."

When Harold mentioned Everett, he smirked with a cunning look.

Almost everyone was stunned.

Everyone in the banquet hall was fully made up. She was the only one dressed in such a simple and low-key manner.

However, her face was unforgettable. She could not hide even if she wanted to, and although Harold stood next to her, he could mask her beauty,

The experienced seniors of the entertainment industry subconsciously sighed with great emotion. Her face was a gift from God, and she was born to work in entertainment. Harold was very pleased with the people's response.

That was how impressive his little sister should be whenever she showed up.

He had purposely booked a limited-edition gown, which was the latest design from Queen. It was luxurious and noble, a treasure that fitted her the best.

Unfortunately, his sister had refused to wear it. She had insisted on dressing up in a simple manner, so Harold had felt slighted earlier.

"Are you the newcomer who's been trending recently?" A female celebrity walked over. She looked quite pretty, but her makeup was extremely heavy and exaggerated .

Holding a glass of red wine, she glanced at the drink in Ninian's hand and contemptuously said, "This should be your first time attending such a banquet, right? You don't even know that red wine is the standard. Aren't you being disrespectful toward Mr. Winters by just drinking juice?"

“What?” Ninian raised her head and looked at her, puzzled.

Why was it that some ignorant people still came and provoked her despite Harold’s warning?

Ninian forced a smile without paying her any mind. Instead, she held her juice and took a sip indifferently.

When the female celebrity saw Ninian ignoring her, she immediately felt disrespected. Her expression darkened as she asked, “Are you mute? Do you know the rules in the industry? Don’t you know you should respect your seniors?”

Ninian leaned back on the couch and looked up at her. Senior? May I know what you’re planning to guide me in, Senior?”

When the female celebrity heard Ninian’s words, she snorted in satisfaction. She pretended to be reserved as she said, “I heard that you’re very close to ‘the Everett,’ and he even got jealous on set because of you. So, do you treat Mr. Winters as a sugar daddy?”

Ninian chuckled, and her eyes were filled with

The former actor and actress of “In Full Bloom” appeared there at the same time.

It was actually not strange for them to attend such an occasion together. However, it was strange that they looked very close as if they were discussing something .

Ninian was very sensitive toward people's emotions. She could clearly feel that the aura lingering between them was of sorrow and grief.

It was obvious from their profound expressions and coldness that occasionally crossed their faces when they talked.

Ninian's heart sank slightly when she recalled the anxiety that she vaguely felt before she came over.

She took out her phone and called Everett.

After all, these two people held some grudges against Everett and her.

"That person" did not just cause the death of Duncan and Everett's parents, but he even pushed Everett into hell, nearly condemning him to eternal damnation.

Everett's current disease was closely related to that tragedy.

That was why Duncan ordered Everett to go back as soon as he heard the news.

But would Everett listen to Zayn?

Before Zayn could answer, Duncan said, "Pass the phone to him. I'll talk to him myself."

Zayn and the driver at the side instantly sighed in relief.

They really could not do it.

Luckily, Mr. Duncan was willing to do the talking personally.

"Mr. Everett, Mr. Duncan would like to speak with you." Zayn held his phone and reported.

"Tell him to protect himself. He doesn't need to interfere with this," Everett spoke coldly without even looking up.

His tone was light yet ruthless, creeping the others out.

Duncan remained silent for a while and finally stopped opposing.

He said, “Since you want to make a move, feel free to do so. I’ll support you even if the sky is falling down.”

“Okay.” Everett’s gaze turned dark, and his eyes were full of coldness.

After he hung up, the car traveled speedily all the way toward the hotel.

Meanwhile, in the hotel’s banquet hall, when Ninian raised her head after she talked to Zayn, she did not see Agnes and Paul standing in the same spot anymore.

Her expression darkened slightly. She put her drink down and started looking for them by walking to the side.

Ninian was not a selfish person who neglected the safety of others.

After she sent an emergency text to Harold, she observed the movement on the other side.

Once they took any action, she would immediately step out and shout. She was far away from them, so she was confident about getting away.

Besides, in a banquet where famous people in the entertainment industry were gathered, she did not believe that anyone would be bold enough to do something wicked in public.

Indeed, as expected, the drunk man was released not long after.

A bodyguard even helped him to walk back as if he wanted to send the man back to the banquet.

After some thought, Ninian lifted her gown and easily jumped over the railing in the corridor. She found a big tree and hid behind it.

The bodyguard brought the man closer and closer. When they passed by her hiding place, she faintly heard the young man mumbling.
