

Madam Winters's Fight For Her Children Chapter 1016-1019

Chapter 1016

'Mel wouldn't joke about this.'

'Daddy has hired a hypnotherapist for Mommy. She has forgotten what happened four years ago. So far, there are no side effects from the biochip either.' Melody said softly, "So, we shouldn't appear in front of her so frequently. Or else, she might regain her memories."

Harold frowned.

'The side effect from the biochip has subsided , but she tried to slap me earlier...'

However, when George spoke, it interrupted his thoughts.

"Mel, what did Daddy actually say?" George pursed his lips. "I'll go ask him personally."

Melody grabbed his arms. "George, don't. I think he's in a bad mood now..."

'Mommy was right in front of him, but he couldn't get reacquainted with her as his wife. Daddy must be sadder than any of us....

Alden narrowed his eyes. He signaled the bodyguard behind him. "Go and find out who is the woman's older sibling, and what project are they working on?"

The bodyguard instantly turned around and carried out the order.

In less than ten minutes, he returned and said, "Sir, the woman's older sibling is her adoptive elder sister, Adeena Willis. She cooperated with Sea City in dealing with a real estate project..." "So, I guess she's really our mommy," Harold said in a daze.

An average family would not be qualified to cooperate with Winters Corporation on real estate projects. Other than that reason, Harold could not think of any other one.

Melody looked at her brothers. "Daddy will have a way to bring Mommy back. Let Daddy handle this, alright?" Alden nodded. "Okay, we'll wait for Daddy to bring her back, then."

- Melody only then let out a sigh of relief.

She was afraid that her three brothers would ruin Duke's plan. Ruth's gown was stained with red wine, and it was wrinkled after she tried to wash it away.

She was about to head back to the banquet hall, but she changed her mind when she saw how elegant and noble those people were. She could only lift her skirt and leave, feeling regretful.

Just as she reached the entrance and waited for her ride, she heard someone's footsteps approaching her.

"Ms. Willis!"

She turned around and saw a young man in an acid-blue suit hurrying over.

The light at the entrance of the banquet hall was dimly lit as it shone behind the man. He was tall and attractive, like a prince coming out of a painting.

Ruth was stunned and found herself unable to come back to her senses immediately. She only came back to her senses when the man stopped in front of her.

She instantly looked down at her wrinkled skirt. She had not been able to wash off the red wine stains on the gown completely. A sense of inferiority and shame, which she had never felt before, rose from her heart. As the daughter of the Willis family, she was very powerful in Cloud City. She had never felt so inferior before.

But at the moment, when this man suddenly appeared in front of her, she suddenly felt agitated. "Why didn't I change to another gown? I wouldn't have looked like such a mess."

"Are you Ms. Willis?"

Daniel looked at the woman in front of him, wondering why Harold had insisted on him delivering the gown in person.

When he saw her nodding, he lifted the gift box in his hand and handed it over. "This is a new gown for you. You can put it on and stay at the banquet."

Ruth was stunned. "He's giving me a gown?"

Chapter 1017

Ruth took the gift box. Her hands trembled as she opened it. It was a sparkling gown.

It was a new gown that was just released by a luxury brand this month. She never thought that it would appear in her hands.

"This... This is for me?"

Ruth raised his head. Her voice quivered slightly.

Daniel nodded, "If you don't like it, I'll get another one for you."

"I just don't understand why Harold would want to please a woman like her.

"I've never heard of anyone from the Willis family. Could she be related to the Winters family?"

'If that's the case, why didn't he give it to her himself?' "Of course, I love it." Ruth's eyes lit up as she looked at the man in front of him. "Why are you giving me the gown?"

"No, I'm not the one..."

'Harold told me not to bring up the Winters family.'

Daniel paused and changed his mind, "You just got here, and you've already stained your gown. I happened to have an extra gown with me."

"Thank you..."

Ruth finally calmed down. Her eyes lit up and she smiled youthfully. "May I know your name?"

"I'm Jones. Daniel Jones." He reached out his hand. "Nice to meet you, Ms. Willis."

"Nice to meet you too, Mr. Jones.

Ruth took his fair hand and shook it.

It was clean and warm, making her feel a little emotional.

Daniel pulled back his hand. "Ms. Willis, let me bring you to the changing room."

Ruth nodded. Her mind went blank as she followed after him shyly.

She then hurriedly entered the changing room to put on the new gown.

Daniel let out a sigh of relief when the changing room door closed.

That brat has never asked for a favor from me before. This is his first time. I'm afraid I might mess it up.'

"Uncle Daniel!" Harold ran over to him. "Here's a pair of earrings and a bracelet for her. Please pass them to her later."

Daniel took a look at it. He had seen these earrings before. They were worn by the princess of Plois during the finale of the charity dinner a few days ago. There was a big pink diamond and sixty-six small diamonds on each earring. Each of the diamonds was priceless, these pairs of earrings cost more than forty million dollars.

And this bracelet was an antique from the Eosul period. It cost more than thirteen million dollars.

“Why are you willing to give away something so precious?” Daniel asked him.

Harold smiled. “I’ll give her whatever she likes.”

He quickly hid in a corner after he said it.

Daniel was left speechless.

‘This kid is just nine years old.

‘And Ms. Willis is about twenty.

‘That’s... impossible! ‘I must be overthinking it. ‘If he knows what I’m thinking right now, he’ll be extremely mad.’

Ruth walked out of changing up, feeling in a trance. When she saw Daniel waiting for her at the door, she was shocked and became even more coy.

“Mr. Jones. Are you waiting for me?” Daniel coughed a little and said gently, “Your necklace is very beautiful.”

She smiled shyly, “Thanks, I think this Heart of the Ocean is beautiful, too.” ‘Heart of the Ocean?’ Daniel frowned a little.

‘I remember Duke gave the Heart of the Ocean to Adina many years back.

How is it with Ms. Willis?

‘But...’

He took a glance at Ruth’s earrings. They were ordinary pearls, and they cost less than two hundred thousand dollars.

She also wore a bracelet on her wrist. It was made of platinum and was decorated with a diamond, costing more than one hundred fifty thousand dollars.

Chapter 1018

“The Heart of the Ocean cost about a hundred million dollars.

‘Logically, this bracelet and necklace shouldn’t be owned by the same person.

'Is it just an imitation?'

Daniel kept his guesses to himself and showed a warm smile, "These earrings and bracelets will go well with your gown. Take a look. Do you like it?" He handed over the two jewelry boxes in his hand.

Ruth held her breath again.

'He gave me a gown, and now he's giving me jewelry too?'

Did he fall in love with me at first sight?'

She opened the box and her eyes were blinded by the sparkling jewelry. She gulped and said in disbelief, "This pair of earrings look very expensive. It must've cost at least one million dollars."

Daniel remained silent.

'With one million, I can only get a small diamond on the earring.'

He said calmly, "Around there."

"That's way too expensive!" Ruth quickly gave the box back. "Mr. Jones, this gown has cost you a lot of money. I can't take anything from you anymore." 'I might be vain, and I might actually want these two pieces of jewelry... 'But I want to leave a good impression.'

She clutched her chest. Her heart was beating rapidly.

It was her first time feeling this kind of rush.

From the moment he called out to me and walked towards her with light shining behind him, I fell for him.'

"Keep it, it's not that expensive." Daniel said, "It's no use for me to keep them. I can get rid of it if you won't take it."

'It's not that expensive?!'

Ruth was stunned.

'How rich can this man be?'

"Thank you, Mr. Jones."

She put on a full set of jewelry in front of him.

He then nodded, "You look gorgeous, Ms. Willis. They suit you well. Let's head back to the banquet hall."

Then two of them stood in a row and headed back.

At the back of the corridor, Harold poked his head out quietly. He clapped his hands with satisfaction and a long –lost smile.

It was pitch dark when Adeena returned to her apartment. Neither Brady nor Ruth were home yet.

When she went to the bathroom , she looked at her own reflection in the mirror. There was no more lipstick on her lip. Instead, they looked purplish.

That man was so rough. It felt as if he was about to consume her.

She lowered her head and washed her face with cold water. She looked in the mirror and told herself, "Adeena Willis, that man is married. Stay away from him!"

Right after she said that, a little girl popped into her mind.

It was Melody.

Her heart ached for her.

For some reason , she flashed back to the time she met Grapie by the road. As the two little girls popped into her mind, she realized they looked similar to each other.

However, Melody looked melancholic, while Grapie was a lively and lovely little girl.

'One with a mother, and the other without one.

"The two of them were equally pitiful.

Brady only came back after Adeena came out of the shower.

He smelled like alcohol, but was still sober.

"Brady, how're things?" Adeena came and asked.

Brady massaged his temple. "The people at Winters Corporation are very kind, and no one is giving me a hard time. I felt really bad, so I toasted with them a little too much. I'm heading back to my room to get some rest." Just as he stood up, the apartment door opened.

Chapter 1019 Ruth entered the apartment.

She wore a star-studded dress, diamond earrings on her ears, the Heart of the Ocean around her neck, and a bracelet with vivid colors on her wrist, making her look radiant. Her eyes were alight with excitement.

Her face flushed. She pursed her lips and smiled coquettishly from time to time, like a teenage girl.

She then noticed there were people in the living room. She hurriedly wiped off the smile on her face and coughed. "Brady, Deena, what are you guys looking at?"

Adeena frowned, "What are you wearing? Where have you been?"

"No... Nowhere!"

She lowered her head guiltily.

All because she had swiped Adeena's invitation, she had been able to sneak into the banquet hall and meet a perfect man. .

"Ruth, why do you look like that? Where did you go?" Brady had a headache. "What am I supposed to tell Aunt Jada?"

"I didn't do anything. There's nothing to tell her." Ruth snorted, "Well, you are drunk. If Aunt Hailey were to know this, she'll definitely scold you. Mind your own business." She took off her high heels and changed into her house shoes before closing the bedroom door behind her.

She sat at the dresser, admiring herself in the mirror.

'My night must've been much better than Deena's.'

Suddenly, there was a knock on her door. She quickly took off the Heart of the Ocean and hid it in the drawer, and said in a loud voice, "Come in."

Adeena opened the door and walked in. She then said in a cold voice, "If you were to do something that dishonors the Willis family in Sea City, I won't take it for you."

'Even though I don't have much experience in romantic relationships, I can tell that Ruth went to see another man.

'A woman will only smile so sweetly when she has been on a date with a man she likes.

'But this is only our first day in Sea City, and a man has asked her out already. Ruth must've done something in secret...'

"Whatever I do will never embarrass the Willis family!" Ruth snorted. "You're just jealous of me, aren't you?" Adeena smiled, "Why should I be jealous of you?"

"Look at these earrings and bracelets. Someone gave them to me." Ruth could not help but boast. "He loved me at first sight. He gave me a dress and two pieces of jewelry. They cost more than two million dollars..."

"Nothing comes free in this world." Adeena said indifferently, "He gave you something worth two million dollars. I'm sure he wants something more than that from you. Keep your wits about you, okay?"

After she was done speaking, she turned and left the room.

I've given her the advice. It doesn't matter what choice she makes after this.'

"Hmph!"

Ruth sat by her bed, rubbing the bracelet on her wrist over and over again.

'Mr. Jones looks like an elegant young man. He's so gentle, I don't think he'll deliberately deceive me...'
On the next day, Adeena was already up before the sun came out. She dressed up a little and took a cab to Winters Corporation. Other than wanting to have a detailed discussion with the person in charge of the corporation, she also wanted to find a way to change her job position.

'If it's possible, I don't want to be Duke Winters' secretary.

There will be no turning back if I were to throw myself into the lion's den.'

The cab stopped in front of Winters Corporation. Adeena adjusted her clothes before walking in.

She went to the receptionist and asked, "I'm here to discuss a business contract with Mr. Wilson."

"Do you have an appointment...?" The receptionist raised her head. She was stunned before she could finish speaking