

Madam Winters's Fight For Her Children Chapter 1059-1063

Chapter 1059

The person walking in was Adeline.

She was holding a breakfast set and was a little taken aback when she saw the people in the ward.

"Adeline, you're here."

Adeena sat up with a smile and greeted her.

Adeline dared not walk inside. The tallest man in the ward was emanating a cold aura, and the children did not seem easy to deal with either.

She stroked her nose awkwardly and said, "I made some chicken soup last night that will replenish your blood levels. I brought this over just for you. Please drink it while it's warm."

Adeline took out the chicken soup and put it on the table.

Adeena had only eaten a bowl of oatmeal in the morning, so she did feel slightly hungry. She lowered her head and drank some of it. "Thank you, Adeline," she said with a smile.

She paused for a while before she resumed. "How's Grapie?"

At the mention of the child, Adeline became extremely excited. "The doctor said that if she could regain consciousness in twenty-four hours, she would be officially out of danger. Unexpectedly, she regained consciousness early in the morning. Her father is keeping her company in the ward now. Ms. Willis, thank you very much. We don't know how to repay you."

Adeena put down the chicken soup and got up. "Is Grapie awake? Can I go and visit her too?"

Adeline nodded. "You're Grapie's savior. I was even thinking of asking you to be her godmother, but I was afraid of seeking a connection with you due to your high social status. Let me help you to Grapie's ward."

Adeena got up, put on her slippers, and said to the other children, "Wait for me here. I'll be back in a while."

After she spoke, she immediately stepped out.

Although she knew that Grapie was out of danger, she could not rest assured without seeing her in person.

The group of five in the ward looked at each other at a loss.

Harold widened his eyes. "Grapie's the kid who caused Mommy to be admitted because of the blood donation, right?"

Alden nodded. "It's her. I wonder why Mommy keeps thinking about another person's child?"

"Let's go and take a look." George walked outside first.

Melody quickly caught up. "Grapie's a girl. Mommy wouldn't like someone else's daughter more, would she?"

The four children left the ward together.

Duke frowned. He hesitated for a few seconds before he followed them as well.

He was not interested in Grapie. He was just afraid that Addy would suddenly get excited and donate blood without caring about her body again!

Grapie had just woken up after surgery, so visitation hours were limited to half an hour.

Candon was sitting by her side while telling her a story. Grapie could only move her eyes, so her black pupils kept darting around. If there were no infusion tubes on her body, no one would have expected such an active girl to lie down in bed without moving.

"Grapie, Aunt Deena is here," Adeline said softly. "Aunt Deena saved you this time. Once you recover, you have to thank Aunt Deena. When you grow up, you should also be obedient to Aunt Deena, understand?"

Grapie looked at Adeena.

She did not speak, but Adeena could understand her gaze.

The little girl was saying thank you.

She was also saying that she missed her.

She seemed reluctant to let her leave.

Outside the ward, the five Winters family members looked at the little girl on the bed through the glass window.

The little girl was wearing an oxygen mask, and there was also a gastric tube in her mouth. Only her black eyes were visible.

“Mel, her eyes look like yours,” Harold said in surprise.

Melody wanted to deny it, but she was stunned too.

Their eyes were really alike.

Duke looked at her eyes and could not help but slowly walk inside.

When he got closer, he was able to see the features under the oxygen mask.

This little girl resembled Melody when she was little.

Was this the reason for Addy’s willingness to risk her life and save the girl? Visitation time soon ended, and the doctor chased the group of people out. They stood outside the ward and could still see that the little girl’s black eyes were full of reluctance.

Chapter 1060

When they returned to the ward, Pete had already arrived.

The moment he saw Adeena, his eyes opened wide. “It’s really you! I thought you died...”

Halfway through his sentence, he could feel Duke’s cold gaze.

His words died in his throat, and he impatiently said, “Let me hypnotize you and recall your memories.”

Adeena had waited for this day for a long time.

She had always wanted to know who she was over the past few years in Cloud City.

She did not know where she came from, so she had no idea where to go.

“I

Adeena was very cooperative with Pete, so he successfully hypnotized her in less than ten minutes.

If someone had purposely suppressed her memories, it would be very difficult to recall them.

However, if her memory loss had been caused by physical factors, hypnosis could help.

Since Adeena was totally open, the whole process was unbelievably smooth.

The hypnosis ended in less than an hour.

Adeena slowly opened her eyes, and there were five faces in front of her.

Duke Winters.

George Winters.

Harold Winter.

Alden Daugherty.

Melody Daugherty.

No, they should be Alden Winters and Melody Winters too.

Broken scenes flashed in Adeena... no, Adina's head like a slideshow.

She remembered a lot, starting from her childhood.

Her life before eighteen was worry-free, but everything was ruined the day she turned into an adult.

Her sister set her up. Then, she got pregnant and imprisoned in a warehouse for eight months. In the end, she gave birth to four babies.

She took Alden and Melody overseas that night and only returned after four years.

Later, she met Harold and George.

Then, she had a big wedding with Duke.

Everything related to her past and her life slowly connected in her mind.

Suddenly, she sat up.

"I have a baby!" Adina widened her eyes.

That memory was too deeply entrenched in her mind.

She had fallen into the sea and washed up to the shore. The Willis family saved her after that.

She lay in the hospital for half a month and regained consciousness on the day she gave birth.

She never delivered the baby naturally. It was forcefully taken out of her belly after the Willis family cut her open!

Her baby was still so small, but it was taken away right after she was born.

The Willis family had killed her daughter to save their own.

After she gave birth, the Willis family arranged for a blood transfusion surgery a few days later. She could not resist as they pinned her down on the bed.

Then, she lost her memories.

Duke pressed her arm. "Addy, don't rush it. Take your time and speak slowly."

Kendry told him that the baby had died prematurely.

It was a huge pain in his heart, so it was probably the same for Addy.

"The baby didn't die!" Adina widened her eyes. "The baby cried when she was born, and the doctor took her away. After I gave birth, I was so weak that I couldn't even leave the ward. I didn't know where they took my baby. Before I was able to go and look for her, I was forced into a blood transfusion surgery, after which I lost all my memories."

Duke's expression turned cold and dark.

It looked like the Willis family had not been honest.

He pressed Adina's hand and softly said, "Don't work yourself up. I'll investigate this properly. Before the sun goes down, I'll give you an answer."

Adina knew how capable he was.

She took a deep breath and continued to lie in bed.

Chapter 1061

Only then did the four children snap out of their daze.

"Mommy, do we have a younger brother or sister?" he asked in disbelief.

Adina tried to recall; it should be a girl. "A sister," she said softly. "I'm becoming an elder sister!" Melody chuckled happily. "This is great! I'm finally not the youngest!" She was the same age as her three brothers, but people always thought of her as the youngest.

Being the youngest had its advantages, but there was also a disadvantage. No matter what happened, she would always be sheltered.

But Adina could not feel happy..

When she got along with the Willis family over the past few years, she felt that they were very protective of their shortcomings.

To cover up this crime, perhaps they had given the baby away... Adina closed her eyes. She did not want the children to worry.

Knock, knock!

Someone suddenly knocked on the ward door.

Daniel pushed it open and entered. He looked at the bedridden woman and tried to ask her something.
"Ms. Willis..."

"She's Mommy!" Harold grinned and said, "Uncle Daniel, Mommy remembers the past. She remembers everything!"

Daniel looked surprised. "So, do you remember me?"

"You're more mature than you were four years ago." Adina looked at him and asked, "Are you the CEO of Jones Corporation now?"

Daniel became so worked up that his eyes turned red. "Addy, I've grown. I'm good enough to manage Jones Corporation well, and I can protect you too."

He would not let his sister go missing again.

He would also not let anyone hurt his sister again.

Adina felt warm.

Her family never gave up searching for her.

That was a person's biggest wealth. Adina's condition improved, and she was discharged after half a day's rest.

On her way out, she stopped by Grapie's ward and took a look.

The little girl's eyes were closed, and she was sleeping soundly.

Adeline and Candon stood guard outside her ward, refusing to leave at all.

Having such foster parents was pretty much Grapie's biggest fortune.

Adina did not go back to Sea City.

Instead, she went to Cloud City.

Her four children and Duke wanted to follow her, but she turned them down.

She wanted to solve her problems with the Willis family on her own.

Kendry and his family were not in their home. They had all gone to the Willis family's old mansion.

After experiencing last night's nightmare, the Willis family members had been feeling anxious and worried.

Mdm. Willis gathered everyone in the living room for a meeting.

Although the crisis was over, the Willis family members thought that this thing would not end so easily.

Kendry finally blurted everything out after Mdm. Willis pressured him.

"What did you say?" Mdm. Willis could not hold back. She just threw the teacup that she was holding.

"Insane brat! How could you even kill a baby?"

Mdm. Willis' voice was shaky.

She vaguely knew that her second son and his wife had almost used up Adeena's blood to save her granddaughter. However, she did not expect a human life to be involved.

The Winters family nearly made Willis Corporation bankrupt before they even discovered the nonsense that the Willis family had done.

If they knew that the Willis family had killed their baby, the Willis family would need to pay with their life.

"We did nothing to the baby!" Jada spoke with a pale face. "The premature baby cried and stopped breathing after she was born, so we handed the stillborn to the nurse..."

"If you hadn't cut her belly open and taken out the baby, would it have died?" Mdm. Willis asked angrily. "She had been unconscious for seven months, and she was malnourished. The baby wouldn't have survived even without our intervention!" Kendry spoke in a deep voice. "Besides, Adeena lost her memories. As long as no one in the Willis family tells her, she'll never know about the baby!"

Children Chapter 1062

"None of you are allowed to talk about this!" Mdm. Willis said coldly as she was seated in the main chair.

“This is our family’s biggest secret. Whoever says a word about this will be kicked out of the family!”

Everyone on the spot nodded with a serious look.

Right then, an indifferent voice came from the entrance.

“Oh, the family’s secret. Am I not a member of the Willis family? Why can’t I learn about it?”

A skinny figure slowly walked inside as the voice echoed.

She was dressed in a casual white outfit, and her hair casually fell on her shoulders. Her gaze was indifferent, and she flashed a faint smile. She looked extremely normal, but she frightened all the family members.

Mdm. Willis glanced back. When she saw that Adeena had come alone, she sighed in relief and said, “Deena, I heard from your father that your family has found you?”

Adina pulled out a chair and sat down.

She had never been that capricious and presumptuous in the Willis family before.

Everyone in the house knew that things would not go over her head so easily today.

Kendry even broke out in cold sweat.

He had lied to Duke.

“Duke Winters is my husband,” Adina answered with a faint smile.

Right after she spoke, everyone’s face turned pale. There was a difference between hearing about it and seeing proof.

Nobody had expected a foster daughter to have such a noble identity and be unapproachable.

“Dad, you told my husband that you replaced my blood because I experienced massive bleeding from giving birth? “You even said that my baby was born prematurely, so she died as soon as she was born, hence the Willis family had nothing to do with it?”

She curled her lips widely, and her smile was inexplicably sharp like a glinting knife that attacked fiercely. Kendry’s head was drenched in more cold sweat. He stammered, “Th–That’s what happened...”

Clink!

Adina immediately slammed a glass onto the table.

“Did you just make up such a ridiculous story because I lost my memories?” Her voice was extremely cold. “Kendry Willis, do you really think that the Willis family can cover everything up? Do you really think that the Winters family won’t be able to dig it all up?” “Deena, we’re telling the truth!” Jada shielded Kendry and spoke in a trembling voice. “Your foster father and I saved you from the seaside at that time. We sent you to the hospital and took good care of you for one whole year. Think about it. The Willis family is quite rich, yet we spent a lot of money taking care of you. If you were found by ordinary people, you would have died in the hospital. No matter what, the Willis family saved you. You can’t be ungrateful...”

Adina nearly chuckled out of anger.

Jada had treated her quite well over the past three years, but she did all that just to atone for her sin.

However, the life of Adina’s daughter could not be repaid with an atonement!

“Stop making up stories! I remember everything!” Adina said with hostility. “Before my baby was even seven months old in my belly, you bribed the doctor to cut my belly open and take her out. Tell me! Where did you take my baby?!”

She suddenly moved forward and pushed Kendry against the wall.

Kendry was an adult man, but he could not put up a fight at all.

“It doesn’t matter whether she’s dead or alive. She should be somewhere !” Adina questioned him without mercy.

The thought of the incident three years ago made her want to strangle Kendry to death.

To save Ruth, he actually ignored her and her baby’s lives. If she had not been fortunate enough, she probably would have died too.

“Deena, it’s my fault!” Ruth rushed over and grabbed Adina’s wrist. “If I wasn’t severely sick, Dad and Mom wouldn’t have come up with this solution! Please don’t blame my parents. If you’re angry, please let it out on me. I’ll bear anything...”

“You’re the precious daughter whom your parents have protected, and so am I!” Adina’s words were filled with heartbreak. “I was separated from my biological father for twenty years, and we finally reunited...”

Her voice traveled out from the living room.

Two tall men were standing in the mansion’s courtyard.

Daniel was slightly anxious. “I better go in. I’m afraid that Addy won’t be able to handle it.”

Chapter 1063

“Let her vent,” Duke said indifferently. “She has muddled through the past three years. She needs to let it out.”

Four years ago, she had gone to the seaside and boarded the cruise because she wanted to be alone.

Then, she accidentally fell into the sea and got separated from her family for four years.

Could anyone afford to lose four years?

The Willis family saved her, but they also killed their daughter and made her lose all her past memories.

Such kindness and grudges could not be solved clearly.

But some anger had to be vented.

About thirty minutes later, Adina walked out of the Willis family’s mansion with a cold demeanor.

When she saw the two men in the courtyard, she was slightly surprised. “Why are you both here?”

“Duke was worried about you, so he dragged me along.” Daniel scratched the back of his head. “Addy, are you alright?”

Adina’s eyes were a little red. “The last person who handled the baby was a nurse whose last name was Lawson. I’ll go to the hospital and ask around.”

The Willis family insisted that the baby was dead.

The Willis family had been backed into a corner, so they would not lie to her again.

Even so, she wanted to find her baby’s body and bury her properly.

But she heard that stillborn babies would be handled like medical waste.

Adina’s heart seized, and she felt so much pain that it almost suffocated her.

Duke cast a glance at Daniel. “Go ahead and find Ms. Lawson. Addy and I will be there in a minute.”

Daniel did not want to be a third wheel either, so he left immediately.

Duke held Adina’s waist naturally. “Just take these last few years as a nightmare. Now that you’re awake, everything will be over.”

Adina's eyes were teary.

Yes, it was just a dream.

In her dream, she was pregnant, and she lost the baby.

In real life, she had four children. She had sons and a daughter, and the family of six was very happy.

On the way, Adina remained silent, but she slowly came to terms with her situation.

Even if she had not fallen into the sea four years ago, her condition would not have allowed her to give birth to the baby smoothly either.

Back then, she nearly harmed Harold. What other terrible things had she been capable of?

They arrived at the hospital very soon.

Daniel was extremely efficient. He had forced a nurse in her fifties or so to sit with him in the office.

"What are you doing? What are you trying to do? There are laws in society. You're committing a crime!"

Ms. Lawson struggled, but Duke cast a cold glance at her.

"You know the Willis family in Cloud City, don't you?"

Ms. Lawson suddenly trembled.

They were related to something that happened in recent years. How could she not know?

"The Willis family asked you to take care of a baby three years ago. Where's the baby?"

Adina grabbed Ms. Lawson by the collar and gave her a firm questioning.

She did not want to waste any more time. She wanted to know everything now!

Ms. Lawson's face instantly turned pale.

She had also participated in the surgery three years ago, and the Willis family had paid her $300,000 to shut her
