Madam Winters's Fight For Her Children

Chapter 565

Chapter 565

The CEO of Winters Corporation was marrying the daughter of the Daugherty family. A wedding between such rich families was unprecedented.

The wedding was sensational before it even started due to the netizens' discussion. All the headlines of the major news outlets were related to Winters Corporation.

At 9.30 am, a row of black luxury cars drove across the main road in Sea City. The road from the Winters family's to the Xavier family's mansion was full of onlookers.

"Wow! Eighty-eight wedding cars. The Winters family is so rich!"

"These aren't normal wedding cars. I took a look at them. There isn't a single car that costs less than $5,000,000."

"What the heck?! The expenses and ostentation are beyond extraordinary! If we didn't know, we might have thought that Duke was marrying a royal princess."

"Adina's the woman he loves, so she's a princess in his world. Since he can afford it, why can't he give her the best things?"

"I'm jealous. I'm crying because of my poverty."

At 10.00 am, the long line of luxury cars parked in front of the Xavier family's mansion.

All the guests in the Xavier family's mansion were excited.

"The groom is here!"

"Get the gifts ready!"

The crackling of firecrackers reverberated, and fireworks were visible in the sky.

The rumbling never stopped, and it was a lively occasion.

Duke pushed the car door open and got out. He was dressed in a black suit, and his outfit was wrinkle-free from head to toe.

He wore a pink bow tie that softened his fierce aura a little.

A red flower was pinned on his left chest, and the words "The Groom" were written on it.

As soon as he walked into the Xavier family's mansion, countless people surrounded him.

"Uncle Duke, give me a present!"

"Duke, I want a big present!"

"Duke, you can only see the bride after you give us some gifts!"

The members of the Xavier family created the maximum wedding buzz.

Although Duke knew of this custom, he still found it hard to deal with.

He looked to the side and said, "Pass them the gifts."

"Don't rush. Everyone will have a gift." Trent carried a big bag in before he grabbed some presents from the bag and threw them into the air. Those in the courtyard then started to grab the gifts.

Trent took the opportunity to drag Duke forward. "Why are you standing still? Hurry in!"

Based on his experience of being the best man a dozen times, if they did not take this opportunity to run in, the relatives would ask for a second gift later on.

Money was not the problem. They just could not lose their momentum!

Trent and Eilam finally brought Duke into the living room.

But Ethan stopped them at the staircase.

"Duke, if you can answer the following three questions correctly, you can go upstairs and see Addy."

Duke had never been a groom, but he had watched a similar procedure online. He stood in the living room with his slender and tall figure, nodding calmly. "Ask away."

It was Ethan's first time seeing Duke being so pleasant.

He cleared his throat before he asked, "What is Addy's favorite color?"

"White," Duke answered without hesitation.

Ethan took a look at the correct answer. He nodded and continued asking, "What is Addy's favorite dish?"

Duke fell into contemplative silence. "Fish and chips." Ethan nodded. It looked like the answer was correct again.

The guests were slightly dissatisfied. Usually, the groom would experience some trouble on his wedding day.

The questions were too easy.

Then again, the groom was Duke. He was the owner of Winters Corporation. Many people wanted to try challenging him, but they were too afraid to step forth and trouble him.

"Last question. When did you kiss Addy for the first time?"

As soon as Ethan posed that question, the people there became interested.

Nearly fifty pairs of eyes were fixed on Duke at the same time. It seemed that they wanted to witness his answer.

The man frowned. Numerous situations popped up in his mind. He had kissed Addy too many times.

"Hey, you do remember this, don't you?" Trent nudged him on the shoulder. "It'd be normal for me to not remember. After all, i have a lot of women. But you only have her, and you dare to forget such an important thing?"

Duke rolled his eyes at Trent and coldly said, "Who said I forgot?"

He was just recalling if he and Addy had kissed that night five years ago.

He pursed his lips and nonchalantly said, "Five years ago."

Ethan looked at the answer before he moved away from the

The guests instantly felt unhappy.

This was the simplest ceremony that they had ever seen. Would the groom pick the bride up just after some gifts and questions?

While they discussed the situation, they suddenly heard the voices of several children from the upper floor.

Everyone in the city knew that Adina had two kids, but there were four beautiful kids today.

All of the four children and Duke looked like they were made from the same mold. Everyone knew from a glance that the children had to be from the Winters family.

It turned out that Adina and Mr. Winters already had four kids.

What a happy family...

Everyone was envious of Adina right then.

"Dad, you can't go inside just yet. You have to get past us." Harold blocked the room door as he spread his arms.

He was short, so he purposely took a chair over to make himself appear more imposing.

Unfortunately, even after he stood on the chair, he only reached Duke's chest.

He stood up on his tiptoes in defiance, scoffed, and said, "First of all, you need to answer one question from me."

Ethan cleared his throat and said, "Hal, you can't copy me.

Change it."

"Blek! I'm not changing it!" Harold made a face before he seriously said, "If I do something wrong and you want to ground me, but Mommy says you can't, are you going to punish me or will you listen to Mommy?"

Duke was speechless..

This brat was really cunning to ask such a question at this time.

“If your mom stops me, I’ll spare you. But if she thinks my punishment is justified, I’ll double it,” Duke replied sternly.

Harold suddenly felt his hair stand on end.

His mom loved him very much, so she would not watch his dad punish him, right?

He jumped down from the chair and playfully responded, “Okay, you answered correctly. But there are three more gates at that back. Good luck, Dad.”

George walked over with a face that looked 90% similar to Duke’s . “Dad, I want to see if you can protect Mommy. Please do 100 push-ups and 100 sit-ups,” he said indifferently.

As soon as he spoke, there was immediate applause from all around.

The groom had to be troubled on his wedding day as much as possible.

That was the normal way, okay?

“George, aren’t you usually the most obedient one?” Trent rolled up his sleeves. “Fine, I’ll do the push-ups for your dad.”

Eilam quickly lay on the ground as well. “I’ll do the sit-ups for you.”

Duke smiled faintly. “No one said the best men couldn’t do it for me. Does this mean I’ve also passed this round?”

George immediately made way for Duke.

Duke successfully arrived before the bedroom door at long last. Just as he was about to knock on the door, someone pulled it open.

He took a quick glance in the bedroom and spotted four women wearing the same wedding gown. They were sitting on the small bed with their backs facing him.

He raised his eyebrows slightly. This round should be asking him to find out the real bride.

This should not be too difficult.

“Dad, please put this on.”

Alden handed him a black VR headset.

Duke narrowed his eyes. “What is this for?”

“I designed a VR system. You can only experience it when you put this VR headset on,” Alden said. “Dad, please rescue the real bride in the game.”

The moment Duke put on the eye patch, the scene in front of him changed.

He was in a cave with blazing fire, and there were four brides in white gowns being held captive in four prisons.

All the brides looked exactly the same as Addy. Their figures, facial features, and even their eyes and lips were a splitting image.

Duke understood that it was a photorealistic scene that Alden had carefully designed. Their faces had also been copied and pasted, so it was impossible to differentiate them based on appearance alone.

He walked over as the fire before him grew increasingly intense.

However, he knew that it was just a simulation. In reality, he was merely moving around in the room.

He went forth while he heard the voices of a few women from the headset.

“Duke, help me! Help!”

“I’m suffering! I’m in so much pain! Hurry! Help me!”

“Please, help me! I’m burning...”

Their cries of pain echoed as Duke glanced at their faces.

He slowly walked through the fire, and the scene in the simulation changed all of a sudden. Despite that, he was unaffected.

He continued walking until he stopped in front of the fourth prison.

When he swung his hand, golden light was released from his fingers, and the prison door was unlocked. He then rescued the bride.

“Congratulations on passing the level!”

The system’s robotic voice rang in the headset, and the VR scene instantly disappeared.

Duke took off the headset and saw the real Adina in his arms. His gaze was gentle and full of affection.

There were guests around them, and Adina felt a little shy as she asked, “How did you know it was me?”

“You’re the only one who didn’t call for help.” Duke lowered his voice and said, “You’re different from most women. You’re an independent individual. No matter what challenges you encounter, you never ask a man for help. But from today onward, I hope that you can learn to ask me for help because I’m your husband and companion who will spend the rest of my life with you. We’ll get through all the difficulties and obstacles together.”

Adina blushed as she nodded. “Okay, I’ll learn slowly.”

She would learn how to be more vulnerable, how to stand behind him, and how to enjoy being protected, as well as pampered, by her lover.

When Alden saw this, he felt extremely upset.

He had stayed up late for three nights to make the system, but his dad defeated it in just a few minutes.

He pulled Duke’s sleeve, scoffed, and said, “Dad, don’t be too happy just yet. There’s still one more level.”

Duke turned around and saw Melody staring at him with a bright smile. She was his sweetheart, so she would not trouble him.
