My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball 1423– What Is She Thinking?

Rosalie did not wear the necklace because it was inconvenient.

When she got to the research institute, she took off the necklace and put it in her coat pocket.

She had a busy morning. When it was lunch hour, Xander called her suddenly, saying something came up that noon and he wanted to change their appointment time to dinner.

Rosalie did not think much about it and agreed.

In the evening, when she got off work, Rosalie saw Xander already waiting outside the research institute.

“Please accept my apology for changing the lunch to dinner. Something came up in the company and I couldn’t leave.”

Xander apologized immediately when he saw her.

Rosalie smiled casually and said, “It’s alright. Work is more important. Are we still going to the restaurant we agreed to meet at for lunch? You can head there in your car first. I’ll follow behind you with mine.”

With that, Rosalie headed to her car straight.

Xander looked at Rosalie’s decisive steps, and he was disappointed.

However, he said nothing and got back into his car.

The two cars drove out of the research institute, one in front of the other.

The restaurant was not far from the institute, and in about ten minutes, they reached their destination.

Xander had booked a place at the restaurant, and they were seated by the window.

Rosalie took off her coat, and the necklace in the pocket fell out as she did it.

It fell right beside Xander’s feet.

Xander bent down and picked it up. Then, he observed the necklace in his hand and looked at the woman before him as he said intentionally, 'This necklace doesn't seem to be the style you would like, Miss Jacobs.'

Rosalie was stunned.

If she had bought the necklace, she would never have chosen such a luxurious style.

However, she did not think Xander needed to know where the necklace came from.

She smiled faintly and did not answer.

Xander had gotten his answer from her expression and smiled understandingly. Then, he handed the necklace back to Rosalie.

'The necklace is too high-profile. We doctors like to keep a low profile. No wonder you put it in your pocket instead of wearing it around your neck.'

Rosalie felt he had some other intention in his words. She looked at the man before her in doubt.

Xander said nothing more. Instead, he changed the topic to the new product he wanted to research. 'The medicine we'll research and develop this time is mostly based on the plants the Lancer family planted. My grandfather wants the medicine to mainly consist of the Lancer family's herbs as ingredients.'

Rosalie's attention was diverted immediately since they were talking about work. She nodded and agreed. 'We can ensure the quality if that's the case.'

However, she was still a little worried. 'However, if our research institute is responsible for the research, the supply of the raw material...'

She was afraid the Lancer family would set a high price for the ingredients.

Xander said calmly. 'All you and your team have to do is focus on the research. The Lancer family will supply you with the items.'

Rosalie was relieved to hear that.

The development of the discussion about the new medicine research got smoother as it went.

She had to admit that as the leading company in the medical field in the nation, the Lancer family was much more advanced in their research and development.

Most of their ideas were just like what Rosalie planned.

The scope of their conversation was not only limited to medical research and development but also gradually expanded to the entire medicine market.

Subconsciously, they forget the time.

Only when Rosalie's phone rang did they stop discussing.

It was Nox calling to ask what time Rosalie would return home.

Rosalie quickly apologized and explained the situation. Then, she excused herself and left the restaurant.

Looking at Rosalie leaving, the displeasure in Xander came gushing out.

He could guess the necklace was from Byron even if she did not tell him about it.

'What the hell is this woman thinking, carrying around the necklace Byron gave her even at work?'

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1424—By the time Rosalie returned home, it was already nine.

When Rosalie got off the car, she felt remorseful and anxious upon thinking the little ones were alone at home. 1

She walked quickly into the villa.

As soon as she entered, she heard noises of the kids having fun and chasing each other.

Rosalie's footsteps paused, and she looked inside in surprise.

At first, she thought it was Mary, but she saw Byron sitting on the sofa.

As if noticing the sound at the door, the man turned around.

Their eyes met, and Rosalie was surprised. "Why are you here?"

Byron said they would meet some other day.

When she came back, the little ones stopped playing and approached her.

“Mommy, you’re so late! Daddy has been waiting so long!”

Rosalie tried to appease the kids by touching their heads, yet her gaze was on Byron.

The man sat on the sofa with his shirt’s buttons slightly open and his long legs folded, looking relaxed.

Seeing him like this, Rosalie could not help herself from imagining him playing with the kids and felt an indescribable feeling rising in her.

Byron got up from the sofa and approached her. He glanced at her neck.

A glint of displeasure flashed across his eyes upon seeing her bare neck.” Didn’t you say you and Xander were meeting at noon?”

Facing the man’s question, Rosalie still felt guilty even though she knew she had done nothing wrong. “Young Master Xander had something on this noon and changed the time.”

A visible glimpse of displeasure flashed across his face again. “Does the Lancer family make a habit out of not being punctual and changing appointment times as they wish? If they don’t even respect their business partners, would any company be willing to cooperate with them?”

Rosalie could not retort and smiled instead. Then, she diverted the topic.” Have you guys had your dinner?”

Nox answered in his cute voice, “We’ve eaten, but Mr. Byron hasn’t seemed to have dinner.”

Linda made dinner before she left.

The little ones were eating their meal when Byron came, seemingly to have dinner with them.

Rosalie looked at Byron to get his confirmation about the matter.

Byron frowned, and it meant he did not have dinner yet.

Rosalie’s forehead puckered, and she sounded helpless. “Why didn’t you call me a little earlier?”

She stroked the little ones' heads, told them to stand aside, and headed to the kitchen. After washing her hands, she prepared something for them to eat.

Byron knew that she had a long dinner with Xander and had no mood to eat.

He wanted to refuse to eat. However, when he saw Rosalie cooking in the kitchen for him, he swallowed the words he was about to say.

Rosalie made a simple fried rice.

Just now, she was too busy discussing medical matters with Xander that she did not eat much.

Since she was making dinner for Byron, she decided to make some for herself too.

Smelling the fragrance, the little ones also approached them and wanted some. Thus, Rosalie had to give them each a little of the rice.

It was nearly ten o'clock when the five ate the hot fried rice at the dining table together,

Suddenly, Rosalie remembered she had not asked what she wanted to ask Byron. "Why did you make a sudden visit? Is there anything wrong?"

Byron looked at her and said, "I came to visit Estie."

Rosalie nodded.

Then, Byron's voice sounded again. "Besides, I said I'll be responsible for what happened. Since you haven't decided, I must try harder to win your heart."

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1425—Recalling what he meant by being responsible, Rosalie's ears flushed red as she looked at the kids guiltily.

The little ones pretended to be deaf and dumb and ate with their heads down.

Rosalie heaved a sigh of relief and glared at Byron with anger. "I do need to think for a while about it!"

Byron smiled and said, "Then I have no choice but to keep up with my pursuing."

The little ones listened to their daddy and mommy's conversation and were delighted.

They wondered if their mommy realized that her attitude toward their daddy had changed.

At this rate, they would soon be a real family!

After dinner, it was already late. Byron did not stay longer in the villa and left.

The smile on Byron's face disappeared once he left Rosalie's house. Only displeasure could be seen on his face.

During dinner, Rosalie told him in brief about their research institute and the subsequent cooperation with the Lancer family.

Rosalie was delighted when she shared the news, but Byron did not feel happy listening to it.

Xander was clearly after his woman.

However, just like what the old lady from the nursing home said, they were not in the same field. Byron could do nothing about it even if he wanted to.

The more he thought about it, the more frustrated he was.

Thus, he simply pulled over by the roadside and dialed Andrius' number.

Andrius had gone to bed. Just as he had fallen asleep, he was awakened by the ringtone of his phone.

Upon seeing it was a call from Byron, Andrius recalled what had happened before.

The last time Byron contacted him late at night was to ask him to take over the Fuller family's business, making him unable to sleep all night.

He was not sure how Byron was going to torture him this time.

Andrius did not want to answer but feared Byron would come to his house. Hence, he could only answer the call in a daze.

"What's the matter, Byron?"

Byron's voice sounded unhappy at the other end of the call, and he could even hear a few honking sounds. "I want to purchase the company under the Lancer family. Do you have any way to do it?"

Shocked, Andrius darted up from the bed, wide awake. "Is Lawrence Corporation marching into the pharmaceutical industry?"

His first reaction was that if Byron wanted to be involved in the pharmaceutical industry, the status of the Quirke family in the pharmaceutical industry would be low again.

Stunned for a few seconds, he realized Byron had just mentioned a key phrase.

Byron wanted to purchase the Lancer family's pharmaceutical company.

Andrius was no longer sleepy. He sat by the bed and pondered.

"Are you doing this because of your wife? You're jealous of Xander, and in anger, so you..."

Byron cut his speculation short. "Do you have any idea to do it? Lawrence Corporation has not had much experience in the medical industry, while the Lancer family's business is rooted in that field. I can only look for your help."

According to the woman, the raw materials for this medicine needed to be provided by the Lancer family.

If he could purchase the Lancer family's herbs supply company, Rosalie would have less contact with Xander.

Moreover, he could provide the herbs when she needed them.

There would be more interaction between them with that.

Byron did not answer Andrius' question, but Andrius knew his guess was correct through his understanding of Byron's personality.

He wanted to help Byron with it, but he could do nothing about it.

"As you said, the Lancer family has a deep-rooted influence in the medical industry. To tell you the truth, I've considered purchasing their family's companies before, but even when I mentioned five times the price and made friends with them, the Lancer family simply refused to compromise."

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1426—Many of the owners of the sub-companies under the Lancer family were run by their people.

Thus, outsiders could only be envious of their success.

Byron fell silent upon hearing that.

Meanwhile, Andrius was in the mood to chat. ‘Why are you asking about this? Is your wife cooperating with the Lancer family again? Do you need me to help with anything?’

Byron could hear the gloating tone in Andrius’ words and sneered.”

Purchase the Lancer family’s herbs supply company if you want to help.”

Andrius rubbed his nose awkwardly. “I can do anything except for this.”

Byron said, “If you can’t do it, goodbye!”

He hung up the call straight away.

Andrius had a bitter look when he heard the line cut off.

It was the second time his best friend woke him up and hung up on him after telling him something shocking.

It took him a long time to finally fall asleep.

Now, he was wide awake and would have a sleepless night.

Andrius lay back in bed, scrolling through his phone and trying to feel sleepy again.

Unexpectedly, the trending post popped out just as he opened the social media app.

[Shocking news! The ex-wife of President Lawrence had a secret date with Young Master Xander from the Lancer family late at night!]

Andrius thought he was seeing things and climbed up from the bed. After staring at the post for a few seconds, he believed what he saw and tapped into the article.

There were only a few photos in the post. Rosalie and Xander were sat face -to-face by the window seats of the restaurant and appeared to be talking happily.

At several angles, he could see the bright smile on Rosalie’s face.

Even Andrius began to doubt what was the relationship between Rosalie and Xander through these few photos.

[Rosalie? Didn't the news before say she and President Lawrence were getting back together?] [Last time, she didn't clarify the affair with Xander. Look! Sure enough, something is going on between them!] [It's good to be pretty. She has two rich men interested in her!]

Countless comments crowded the post.

All were negative comments about Rosalie.

There were also guesses about the relationship between Rosalie and Xander.

The more Andrius read the comments, the more he was shocked.

No wonder Byron had suddenly asked him that question.

If it had been some other young man from another family, they would have perished like the Hudson and Fuller families.

He had to admit his best friend had met a tough love rival to deal with this time.

However, Andrius wondered what Rosalie thought about it.

After seeing this post, Andrius could not bring himself to sleep anymore. He tapped on the post and shared it with Byron.

Meanwhile, Byron had just arrived at Lawrence Manor.

Byron sent him a confused message when he saw the link Andrius sent him. (What is this?)

Andrius only replied: [Make sure you click into the link. Otherwise, you might regret it in the morning.]

Puzzled, Byron frowned and brushed his teeth as he tapped into the link.

His hand froze when he saw the title of the post.

When he tapped into the photos in the post, his face sank.

He admitted Xander and Rosalie were excellent doctors and believed what she told him about them meeting only because of work.

However, he did not expect Rosalie to wear such an expression when she was with Xander.

She had never smiled at him like that before!

Byron took a towel to wipe his face and walked out of the bathroom. He sat on the bed as he read the comments below the article.

His mood sank when the public discussed her relationship.

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 1427—Luther was deep asleep when suddenly, a call woke him up. He glanced at the caller ID and noticed it was Byron.

Luther darted up from his bed and sobered up before he answered the call.

“Sir.”

Byron’s cold voice came from the other end of the call. “Contact the public relations department and publicly post my relationship with Rosalie.”

He was immediately wide awake after hearing Byron’s words. Luther felt it was a shocking order.

He wondered, ‘What’s going on here? Why would Master suddenly announce his relationship with his wife in the middle of the night?’

Luther’s voice sounded shaky when he said, “Sir, the identities of Mrs.

Lawrence’s kids are unknown. Posting about your relationship now won’t benefit Mrs. Lawrence or even the Lawrence family.”

Byron’s mood sank on the other end of the call when he recalled the two kids Rosalie had.

The two little boys had done so much to mend his relationship with Rosalie.

Byron did not mind treating them as his own as long as their birth father did not come looking for them.

Moreover, they were also about the same age as Estelle.

With that in mind, Byron told Luther, ‘Then I’ll give them identities.’

Luther was dumbfounded. "Do you mean...?" "From today on, they're the two young masters Rosalie took away from the Lawrence family when we divorced."

Byron's voice sounded calm like he was saying something unimportant.

Luther was amazed.

He always knew Byron's feelings for his ex-wife but did not expect Byron to take Rosalie's children as his and tell the public they were his.

'What the hell happened?' Luther wondered.

Before Luther could react, Byron gave another order.

"I want everyone to know about this tomorrow morning!"

He hung up the call straight away.

Looking at the phone screen, Luther felt helpless.

It was already late at night. Would he have to wake everyone from the public relations department to work now?

However, that was the best he could do.

Luther called the manager of the public relations team. Then, he tapped on the social media app to look for the rumors about Byron and Rosalie.

Unexpectedly, without needing to search, he saw Rosalie's name once he tapped in.

Luther looked at the content of the post and instantly understood why Byron wanted to tell the public about his relationship with Rosalie.

Since Rosalie returned to her hometown, rumors about her dating Xander had spread twice, and both times, they made it on the hot topics.

The comments were all bad things about Rosalie.

Byron wanted to interfere mainly because he wanted to protect Rosalie.

However, that did not mean Byron had not wanted to do this for a long time.

Realizing this, Luther was even more eager to carry out the order.

There was a shocking turn in the online comments.

Lawrence Corporation issued an announcement overnight.

The post clearly stated that Rosalie gave birth to the little lady of the Lawrence family and that the little boys living with Rosalie were triplets. However, after getting divorced, Rosalie returned the ill daughter to the Lawrence family and took her sons with her.

It caused an uproar on the internet.

[Those boys are Byron's sons! No wonder Rosalie dared to bring them back to the country!] [Sure enough, Rosalie is his wife. Only she can make Lawrence Corporation put out an announcement for her. This is no different from announcing their relationship to the public.]
