

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 260

Reminded Her Again When they returned to their room, it was already later than nine o'clock at night.

Lucian and Nox had sweated up a storm after running around playing hide and seek just now. After coming back, Rosalie immediately took them to go shower. The sound of Rosalie roughhousing with the two boys sounded from the bathroom from time to time.

Estie sat on the bed, staring at the bathroom door with eyes full of envy.

When she lived in Aunt's house back then, she often bathed her. After Daddy took her back, it was Grandma Zora who had been bathing her.

She still remembered how gentle Aunt had been when she bathed her. The shower gel she used also smelled so nice.

Byron looked at the expectation on the little girl's face and felt complicated.

No matter how one looked at it, this little girl was too dependent on Rosalie.

Perhaps the bond between mother and daughter was too strong?

Rosalie came out of the bathroom with the boys after a while. Their hair was wet, and they were still horsing around.

Rosalie grabbed the hair dryer and prepared to blow the boys' hair dry.

Byron's deep voice rang out from the side. "I wonder if it'll be convenient for you to bathe Estie, Miss Jacobs?"

Hearing this, Rosalie could not help but be stunned.

"Aunt!" Estie looked at her expectantly. Byron explained in a deep voice, "I'm a man. It really wouldn't be convenient for me to bathe her. Sorry to trouble you, Miss Jacobs." When Rosalie saw the little girl's small face, her eyes softened. Then, she finally agreed.

However, the boys' hair was still wet,

"Wait a minute I'll blow dry their hair." with that, Rosalie turned on the hair dryer to dry the little boys' hair.

However, a big hand reached out from beside her and took the hair dryer from her hand,

When Rosalie looked back, the man had already walked to her

"If you don't mind this small matter, I can do it for you. Estelle is sweaty all over. I'm afraid she'll catch a cold again." Byron turned on the hair dryer and calmly walked behind the two boys

When the two boys saw him drying their hair behind them, they both quieted down

Nox lowered his head and played with her fingers, trying to resist the impulse to look back at his daddy

On the other hand, Lucian was sitting upright. His small face was taut, and he was looking straight ahead.

At first, Rosalie was worried that the boys would resist Byron, but seeing the little ones cooperating, she said nothing and took Estie into the bathroom. The little girl got what she wanted. Having the beautiful aunt help her take a bath, she was lively during her bath.

Rosalie could not help recalling the time when the little girl was living in her home before. She had also helped her take a bath like this.

In the blink of an eye, she recalled the reason why Byron took Estie away. Her heart was filled with so many emotions.

The words of the woman from before had served to remind her once again. No matter how much Estie depended on her, she would be Wendy's daughter in the future. She could not let Byron come closer to her again just because of Estie. After she was done bathing the girl, they came out of the bathroom. Lucian's and Nox's hair was already blown dry. They were lying on the bed with their laptops to their chest as they typed away at something.

Rosalie did not disturb them. She just picked up the hairdryer and dried Estie's hair.

Byron was standing to the side. Seeing the woman's colder expression from before she went into the bathroom, he knew the woman had no intention of speaking to him.

Byron frowned when he realized this. In the end, he did not force her. He just stood by the window in silence. For a moment, the atmosphere in the room was very depressing.
