

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 291

Estie carefully put the medicine on Rosalie.

Byron said from the side, "I changed her bandage dressing last night, and she was thinking about delivering the medicine to you. We would've come here last night if I hadn't stopped her."

Looking at the little one who was carefully bandaging her, she said softly, "Thank you, Estie."

Little Estie raised her head and smiled lightly at her.

On the side, the two little boys watched eagerly as the little sister applied medicine for Mommy. Just as they were about to speak to the little girl, they heard Byron's voice. Their little faces tensed up again.

Yesterday, because of the little girl's disappearance, they were worried about her, so they did not show any emotions to the man.

Now that they had found the little sister, upon reflection, the two little boys thought that it was the man's fault that Estie got lost in that situation.

'He knew that she doesn't like the bad woman, but he allowed the bad woman to get close to her.

'Mommy also didn't agree to bring the little sister along because she was worried about that bad woman.)

'Moreover, that bad woman has bullied Mommy!

'It's all his fault!'

Thinking of this, the two little boys did not think well of Byron.

Byron only felt that the surrounding atmosphere seemed a little strange. He looked down and met the fierce expressions of the two little boys as if he was some kind of monster.

Seeing Byron looking over, the two little guys pouted. "Since you came to deliver the medicine with Estie and the medicine is delivered now, there's nothing else, right? Little Sister has also applied the medicine for Mommy herself."

Byron frowned slightly and answered noncommittally, "Yeah."

"Then please go back!" The little boys looked at the man who is much taller than them defiantly. Despite their young age, their tone was strong.

This was the first time Byron was ordered to be dismissed by such young kids. His brows twitched. He frowned and did not answer.

He did not know if it was his delusion. Although these two little guys had always been hostile to him, today, their hostility seemed to be particularly heavy.

Rosalie also noticed that the little boys were impolite, so she turned around to look at them. "Lucian, Nox, be polite."

The two little guys scoffed. "We're very polite. We said please."

Unexpectedly, the two little guys talked back to her. Rosalie could not help but feel a headache.

Byron said in a deep voice, "Are you driving me away? "

The two little guys nodded confidently.

Byron was not annoyed. Instead, he asked patiently, " There should be a reason, right? Can you tell me why? "

When he responded in that manner, the two little boys were stunned for a moment.

The two looked at each other and replied with sullen faces, "Because you're going to marry another woman, and you being around Mommy for a long time will cause unnecessary misunderstandings. We don't want to see Mommy suffer because of these misunderstandings."

The living room fell into silence.

Byron's eyes swept over the two little boys before finally landing on the woman by the sofa.

Based on what these two little boys said, there must be something that had happened behind his knowledge.

Had Wendy come to trouble her?

Also, the two little boys seem to have overreacted to his marriage.

Aware of the man's gaze, Rosalie lowered her eyes to hide the unease in her eyes.

She does not know why these two boys had a big prejudice against Byron. Moreover, the two little boys ' reaction to Byron's marriage to Wendy was bigger than hers.

'Or is this the bond between father and son? Did it make them take this man so seriously?'
