

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 292

After some time, Byron pursed his lower lip and looked at the two little boys. "You're right, since this is the case, I shouldn't continue to bother you."

Regarding his marriage with Wendy, he had only given the notice unilaterally and had not publicized it yet. Hence, Byron did not plan to tell them now.

Seeing that the man agreed so easily, they were a little surprised and felt a sense of loss in their hearts.

'So, Daddy is really going to marry another woman. He truly doesn't want US anymore...'

Thinking of this, the two little boys looked at Byron with slight resentment. They waved him off with just a sentence. "Goodbye, Mr. Byron."

Byron was confused by the boys' attitude. Besides his marriage to Wendy, he did not know what else he had done wrong. He could not understand why their attitudes and demeanors just flipped without notice.

They had kept a distance from him just now, but when he agreed to leave, the two little boys seemed to be reluctant.

No matter how he scrambled his mind, he could not come up with an answer.

Byron put away his thoughts, leaned over, and wanted to hold Estie's hand.

Estie has been listening to the conversation between Daddy and the brothers, she knew that Daddy is going to take her away. She immediately frowned, jumped off the sofa, and avoided her father's hands.

Byron's outstretched hand was empty as he looked at the little one who ran three feet away from him. This was giving him a headache.

He should have expected this. This little one was so dependent on Rosalie. Coupled with the previous shock that she experienced, Estie would naturally be more inseparable from the woman.

The purpose of the little girl coming here today was not to deliver medicine at all, or to put it in another way, delivering medicine was only one of the reasons she came here.

Most importantly, she wanted to stay with Rosalie. "Estie, my sweetie, you can come and visit Aunt another day. Now, let's go home." Byron stood there and looked at the little one from a distance.

What had happened yesterday not only scared the little girl but it had also given him a lesson. He dared not push her too hard, for fear that she would do something impulsive again.

Although his tone was as gentle as possible, the little one shook her head, her face full of defiance. "No!"

'I want to be with Aunt! Aunt is the best for me!'

When she was alone in the deep pit and her voice was hoarse from crying, it was Aunt who came to save her!

Estie felt that if she had to have a mommy, she only wanted the beautiful aunt. She did not want anyone else!

The little girl could speak again and it was because of Rosalie.

Byron deeply sighed. Ever since the little girl met Rosalie, she kept showing him how important Rosalie was in her heart.

Even her father, who had taken care of her for many years, could not compare to Rosalie.

Looking at the little sister, the two boys thought about what had happened yesterday. They could not bear to let her leave either.

However, Mommy did not look like she wanted the little girl to stay.

The two little guys had to keep quiet while feeling a little regretful, why did they insist on driving away Bad Daddy just now? If they had not done that, he would not have to take the little girl away.

For a while, no one in the living room said a thing. Only Byron and Estie were in a deadlock.

Byron pressed his eyebrows with a deep headache. " Estie, please. I have to go back to work. I'll send you to Grandma and Grandpa's house, okay?"

The little girl still stubbornly refused, she ran over and grabbed Rosalie's hand, using actions to show her Daddy that she wanted to be with this aunt.

Rosalie's heart softened as the little girl hugged her.

However, seeing Byron in front of her, she had to be cruel to the little girl.

After all, what Lucian and Nox said was right. Byron was about to get married to another woman. They should not be too involved.
